4-H News

The Grygla go-getters 4-H club met Feb. 6 in the Grace Lutheran church parish hall with the president Gwen Stanley presiding. The recreation which consisted of games was led by the 5th grade members, Lenay Verbout, Sandra Kujanson, and Julie Santl.

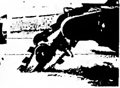
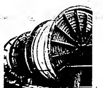
Cold cable. Hot crew.

Down under goes the new cable, to depths of up to 90 ft. Out of the way and more trouble-free.



The big blades cut through the 20 inches of ice at about 22 ft. per minute.



Chalk up another 2½ miles of new telephone cable for 1971. Last year the Minnesota total was 2,900 miles.

Foreman Chuck Andersen ran the Leech Lake job. He's in his 28th year with Northwestern Bell.

At 20 below zero, just going back to bed makes a lot of sense. But there were foreman Chuck Anderson and his special line crew pulling a big new long distance telephone cable across Leech Lake.

That was good news for Walker, Minnesota, and the other 15 communities around Leech Lake that the new cable will serve.

It took three days for the men to lay the cable across the lake, to cut a 2½ mile trench through the ice, and to drop the cable to the bottom.

More and more cabling is going on all over Minnesota to stay ahead of your growing telephone needs. And last year, 93% of it went underground or underwater. Out of sight for a better view. Out of the way of damaging storms for better service.

At 20 below, it wasn't much fun out there. But the sooner it's in and working, the better. People like Chuck Anderson and his crew think that's pretty important.

PERFECT WEATHER and spirited competition made snowmobile racing enjoyable Sunday for fans attending the States-Dominion races in Thief River Falls. Bleachers were filled to overflowing and the crowd stretched out around the turns to watch the speedy machines navigate the banked oval track. Temperatures hovered around the freezing mark—highest reading in many a day—and only after the races were completed did a very few flakes of snow begin to fall. An estimated 5,000 people attended the cross-country and oval races with snow and wind hampering Saturday's action. Additional photos will be published in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

STEVE PARENTEAU of Brooks, who finished second in A Stock Saturday and won the A Stock class Sunday on a Ski-Doo, switched to an Arctic Cat to take third place in the Class II Modified race Sunday. He was beaten in the race by LeRoy Lindblad of Roseau, total points champion for the two-day event, and Ed Monsueto of Roseau who posted a first and three second place finishes in the four events he was allowed to enter.

Work Incentive Program Saves Welfare Payments

An estimated $300,000 in public welfare funds will be saved in Minnesota this year as a result of people employed through the work incentive (WIN) program, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services said today.

Commissioner Cushing said the estimate was based on the first 18 months of the program, in which members of families receiving aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) are trained for employment.

Cushing indicated that the future savings will exceed the present estimate as more of the individuals now being trained find jobs and as additional areas of the state are included in the program. So far the program has been confined to 17 counties, three of which were added in December of 1970.

Cushing reported that more than 400 AFDC recipients were placed in employment during the 18-month period. For the 218 who completed WIN training, the average reduction in AFDC grants was $113 a month. At an average beginning pay of $2.23 an hour, this group will earn more than $1 million a year.

WIN invests about $900 in each person who completes the program. The taxes they pay in the first two or three years they are employed will more than repay the training costs, Cushing said. Thus, WIN effects a two-fold benefit through grant reductions and increased tax payments.

WIN job-training placement is available to AFDC mothers, school dropouts 16 to 18 years old and, since July 1, 1970, unemployed male heads of such households.

Cushing said that about 1,500 of the 2,300 persons who received WIN services since the program was launched in Minnesota in July of 1969, were still enrolled on Dec. 31, 1970.

More than 200 unemployed fathers (AFDC-UF) have been enrolled and between 300 and 500 more will be enrolled by the end of June, 1971, he said.

A total of 2,075 persons is expected to be enrolled in the program by that time. Although WIN expects to serve 2,700 persons during 1971, it will fall short of meeting the growing need, Commissioner Cushing pointed out.

He said the Minnesota department of public welfare—with which the state department of manpower services works closely in this program—reported 29,887 AFDC cases in Minnesota on Nov. 30, 1970, an increase of approximately 7,000 over the previous year. The number of individuals eligible for WIN is estimated to be approximately 20 per cent of the persons receiving AFDC.

Eighty per cent of the cost of WIN is paid from federal funds, 20 per cent from state fund.

The 14 counties included in the report are Hennepin, Ramsey, St. Louis, Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Clearwater, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Mahnomen, Morrison, Ottertail, Todd and Wadena.

In December, three counties in the Mankato area—Nicollet, Blue Earth and LeSueur—were added to the program, Cushing said.

Bergland Writes Hardin About Change In Ratio

In a joint letter released to the public today, Minnesota's 7th District Congressman Bob Bergland and North Dakota's West District Congressman Arthur Link accused Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin with "attempting to hide official parity prices for farm products by substituting figures that are much more favorable toward the administration."

According to Link and Bergland, the Secretary of Agriculture is "attempting to publicize a high parity ratio based on 1967 figures while burying the parity prices based on the official 1910-1914 period."

The Congressmen said that by doing so "a 81 per cent parity ratio is shown rather than the true ratio of 68 per cent." Parity is a price index for farm prices which compares the prices farmers receive for their produce with the prices they must pay for the products they purchase.

Bergland and Link noted that since President Nixon took office the parity ratio has "slipped" from 74 to 68 per cent "contrary to campaign promises made by the President. We cannot help but believe," they continued, "that their attempts to hide the true ratio and publicise an inflated ratio is politically motivated."

Only federal law, which requires the publication of official parity prices, prevents the administration from totally distorting the sad state of our agricultural economy," Link and Bergland added.

Concluding their letter, Bergland and Link urged the secretary to "administer from programs in a manner which will lessen the cost-price squeeze on family farmers and improve the parity ratio."

Snowmobiling Becomes Winter Accident Hazard

With an estimated one million snowmobiles across the U.S. landscape this season, this relatively new winter craze is snowballing into an accident hazard of alarming proportions, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Snowmobiling accident tolls have mounted steadily since the sport caught the American fancy a few years ago.

During the 1969-70 winter season, more than 70 persons were killed as the result of snowmobiling accidents and hundreds of others were injured.

As is the case with automobiles, human error is responsible for most snowmobiling accidents. Lack of experience, excessive speed, alcohol and poor visibility are common causes.

Most of the accidents involve collisions with other vehicles and fixed objects and drownings after breakthroughs and spills on ice.

To reduce accidents, the institute advises snowmobilers to follow some simple safety measures.

Drivers should never travel unfamiliar trails without a map and whenever possible should be accompanied by a passenger or—better yet—another snowmobiler.

Since snowmobiling often is done in remote areas, survival kits are a good idea. These should include snowshoes, an axe, extra gas, spare engine parts, tools, waterproof matches, first aid kit, compass and map.

Ice is a special hazard and should be at least from 15 to 36 inches thick—depending on the weight of the machine, driver, passenger and gear—for snowmobiling safety.

TRF Grade School Basketball Teams Begin Play-offs

Washington's two entries in the grade school basketball program are seeded number one and two going into this week's play-off's after both teams finished the regular season with perfect 6-0 records.

The Knox Celtics and Mark Twain Bucks finished their season with 3-3 records while the Northrop Kings and Mark Twain Panthers were 2-4. The Knox Spartans and Northrop Supersonics finished the regular season in the cellar with 1-5 records.

The first round of the play-off's will pit the Lakers against the Supersonics, followed by the Celtics—Panthers battle. All games are scheduled for the Washington gym, except for the final round, which is set for the Lincoln high school gym.

Games scheduled for Wednesday, February 17, will send the Knicks against the Spartans in the first game and the Bucks and Kings will play the second contest of the afternoon. The first game each afternoon will begin at 4 p.m.

The second round games are set for Friday, February 19, at Washington, with the consolation games beginning on February 22.

The final day's action will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, February 27, with the seventh place game. There will be a fifth and third place contest also on Saturday before the championship tilt.

Season standings

Knicks	6	0

LHS Icemen Squeeze By Crookston Pirates 2-1

Bob Tuff's Prowler hockey team regained its winning touch Friday night at Crookston as they came back in the third period for a 2-1 region eight triumph over the Pirates.

The Prowlers had won just one of their last seven games before Friday night, although two ties were included among those games. The Prowler skaters are now 10-5-3 on the year with two games remaining on their schedule before tournament action starts next Tuesday, February 23, at Roseau and Bemidji.

The Prowlers will be back in action in the city arena tonight (Monday) as they host Baudette in a make-up contest and the Lincoln sextet will close their regular season tomorrow night in the city arena against Warroad. Both nights' activities will begin at 6:15 with the B squad contests.

In the preliminary contest Friday night, the Prowler Bee's extended their winning streak to 24 games over a two year period with a 3-0 win over Crookston. The Lincoln B squad stretched their season record to 16-0 with Don Brown picking up a pair of [illegible] single score.

Neither team did any damage in the first period of the A squad game Friday night. The two teams were saddled with five penalties, two against Crookston and three called against the Prowlers, in the opening period.

Crookston was called for having [illegible] with 9:23 remaining and played two men short for 13 seconds after Kyle Pearson was called for slashing with 8:06 remaining. The Prowlers also skated two men short, but just for 11 seconds, in the first period.

Junior center Mike Hamilton scored his third goal of the year to put the Prowlers ahead 1-0 with 10:57 remaining in the second period. Junior wing Rory Anderson shot from twenty feet and Hamilton deflected the puck into the net from the left side. Anderson and Jon Jensen were credited with assists on the Prowler score.

Crookston missed a scoring opportunity with 9:57 remaining as converted wing, Tom Wurst, now a defenseman, broke up a two on one break at the Prowler blue line.

[illegible] missed an open net on a breakaway shot from the left side for the Prowlers with 2:24 remaining in the second period. The Prowlers had one more scoring threat in the final stages of the second period as Jon Markstrom shot wide while standing alone in front of the Pirate net with three seconds remaining.

Crookston tied the contest 1-1 when junior center Jim Clauson fired the puck under Prowler goalie Brian Peterson from 15 feet with 11:15 remaining in the third period.

The game's final score came off the stick of sophomore Tom Goddard with 8:29 remaining in the game. Jeff Bottem carried the puck, along with the defenseman, with him down the right side and passed to Goddard who skated in on Pirate goalie Dale Normandin all alone for his eleventh goal of the season.

Crookston kept the pressure on the Prowlers in the final moments of the game as they pulled their goalie with 19 seconds remaining but Peterson came up with some nice saves to preserve the Prowler win.

Prowler captain Jerry Muzzy broke the Indian winning streak at three with an 8-6 win over Tom Roy at 138 pounds. Muzzy led 4-2 at the end of the first period on a takedown and a reversal with Roy scoring on a reversal. The two grapplers exchanged second and third period reversals for the final 9-6 margin.

Prowlers Handle Dilworth Behind Hanson And Smith

Led by the two-pronged attack of Dale Hanson with 31 points and Rande Smith with 27, the Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team won its third straight game Saturday night, 88-57 over Dilworth.

The Prowler quint is now 9-6 for the season with five wins in their last six games. The Prowlers will be back in action Friday night in the Lincoln gym when they will host high flying East Grand Forks.

The Prowlers trailed 15-13 at the end of the first quarter against Dilworth but held the Locomotives to just six points in the second quarter as Thief River Falls took a 35-21 halftime lead and increased that margin to 64-35 going into the final quarter of action.

The Prowlers hit an amazing 55 per cent of their shots from the field as they connected on 22 of 58 attempts. Thief River Falls cashed in on 22 of 22 free throw attempts for 88 per cent while Dilworth made just 7 of 18 for 39 per cent from the gift line and 22 of 84 attempts from the field for 30 per cent.

The teams exchanged the lead several times in the first quarter with Kelly Anderson tieing the contest 11-11 with 1:14 remaining and Dilworth followed with a lay-up after a Prowler turnover for a 13-11 lead. Rande Smith tied the contest 13-13 with 21 seconds remaining in the first quarter but Swanson put in a driving lay-up with five seconds remaining for a 15-13 first quarter lead for the Locomotives.

Mark Thyren tied the contest 15-13 with two free throws to open up the second quarter and Rande Smith gave the Prowlers the lead for keeps with a jump shot from the free throw line with 7:01 remaining in the half. The Prowlers held Dilworth scoreless until Enger scored with 2:41 remaining in the second quarter with the Prowlers in front 29-15. Prowler coach Whitey Olson said he wanted to speed up his attack and expected a few turnovers as the local quint commited 18 miscues in the first half with Dilworth turning the ball over 10 times.

The Prowlers did not let up in the second half as they pounded out 29 points in the third quarter enroute to a 29 point lead at the end of three quarters, 64-35.

Dale Hanson scored 17 points in the third period with seven field goals and three free throws. For the night, Hanson hit on nine of ten free throw attempts to go with his 11 field goals. Prowler center Rande Smith also scored on 11 field goals while adding five of 6 free throw attempts.

The Prowlers enjoyed a 33 point lead, 66-33, with Hanson's lay-up from the tip-off opening the final quarter. Thief River Falls went in front by 39 points, 80-41, on Randy Carlson's two baskets with 4:41 remaining in the game before the Prowler reserves took over.

The Prowlers were playing without the services of starting guard Kent Smith who did not make the trip to Dilworth because of a bout with the flu. Also missing from the line-up was junior guard Mark Liden who underwent a knee operation Friday.

The Prowlers out-rebounded the Dilworth quint, which is now 7-8 for the year, 59-26 with Smith leading the way with 19 caroms. Hanson and Pat Hamilton added 12 rebounds each to the Prowler total.

The Prowler B squad was also a come from behind winner for the night as they dumped the Dilworth Bee's 63-55 in the preliminary game.

Salaries Set For Elected Officials By County Board

Salary increases approximating five per cent were granted to elected county officials and department heads recently by the Pennington county board of commissioners. Commissioners themselves received no increase in the action which followed several meetings on the salary question.

Current salaries upon which the increase will be based include the following: Auditor, $10,640; assessor, $8,140; clerk of court, $8,000; engineer, $12,600; attorney, $6,000; register of deeds, $8,040; sheriff, $9,040; and treasurer, $9,440.

Jobs, Incorporated Sets Meet On Taxes

"The Tax Situation in Thief River Falls" will be the general topic of the annual meeting of Jobs, Incorporated, to be held Tuesday, February 23, at the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls. The meeting is being opened to the public due to the amount of interest shown in local tax questions.

Since the Elks club rooms can accommodate only 250 persons for the buffet type dinner to be served, that number of tickets is being placed on sale at the Union and Northern state banks. When these tickets are sold, no more will be available.

Notification of the ticket sale has been sent to members of Jobs, Incorporated, and they were advised to get their tickets early due to the expected demand. Persons who are not members of Jobs, Incorporated, but who would like to attend the meeting, are also advised to get their tickets as soon as possible.

Representatives of the city council, county commissioners and board of education for School District 564 will be in attendance at the meeting to provide the program. They have been invited to explain the present tax situation, the reasons why more funds are necessary, what the funds will be spent for and to "candidly and frankly explain their own position".

A slate of candidates for directorship in the organization will be presented by the nominating committee and nominations will be accepted from the floor. Following completion of nominations, balloting will be held on directors for the 1971 year. Only those in attendance who are members of Jobs, Incorporated, will be entitled to vote, but all 1970 members are eligible.

"This is to be the regular annual meeting of Jobs, Incorporated, and it gives everyone a chance to be brought up to date on what Jobs, Incorporated has been doing during the past year," states Donald M. Olson, president.

"In view of the subject of this meeting [illegible]," he added. "If you do not secure your ticket early enough, you might miss a very important meeting. The price of the dinner ticket is $2; get yours early."

Mylo Carlson Has Top DHIA Herd

Pennington DHIA members Mylo Carlson and Earl Erickson were recognized at the annual meeting of the association Wednesday, February 10. Mylo had the top producing herd for the second year in a row with an average of 569 pounds of fat and 14,020 pounds of milk. Earl Erickson had the high increase in butterfat over the previous year's production.

Donald Erickson and Mark Bruggeman were reelected as directors for a three-year period. Other directors whose terms continue are Darrow Lundeen, Mylo Carlson and Myron Erickson. Darrow Lundeen was reelected president of the association and Mylo Carlson secretary-treasurer.

The annual report presented by Jerry Hamre, association supervisor, showed favorable progress in all areas of economic importance as far as member production is concerned. The report reflected the business affairs to be in excellent condition, reports Terry Cournryo, county agricultural agent. Membership continues to be filled for herds on standard test with room for only a limited number of additional herds on owner sampler.

An association ruling that prevents a member from receiving the award for top herd average two years in succession qualified Martin Augustine, with the second place herd, to receive the desk pen set. His herd averaged 546 pounds of fat and 15,368 pounds of milk.

Top 10 herds for the year included the following:

State Taxpayers Ass'n. Sends Out Book On Taxes

The second yearly edition of "How Does Minnesota Compare?", a pocket-size 12-page folder presenting pertinent statistics on taxes and expenditures, was mailed to its members this week by the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Gathered from federal government and other authoritative sources, the statistics show Minnesota's relative position among the 50 states in matters of personal income, taxation and spending by state and local governments.

"In the main, the statistics cover the 12 months ended June 30, 1969, most recent fiscal year for which such official compilations are available," said Charles P. Stone, executive director of the association. "In some respects the figures reflect improvement in our competitive or relative position among the states.

"Personal income in Minnesota, for example, amounted to $3,635 per capita. While this was slightly below the national average of $3,687 per capita, we were in 19th place among all states and the District of Columbia compared to 20th place for the preceding year.

"Although state and local taxes collected in Minnesota in fiscal 1969 amounted to $400.15 per capita, up $14.45 from the preceding year, we dropped from 7th highest to 12th highest place. Nationally, state and local taxes per capita climbed $41.85 to average $379.94 per capita—$26.21 less than in Minnesota.

"The statistics show that Minnesota recorded an actual drop in property tax collections in fiscal 1969, to $156.02 per capita from 1968's $173.13. We dropped from 11th highest in 1968 to 22nd highest in 1969. Property tax relief stemming from the 1967 tax reforms brought about this improvement in relative position," Stone said.

"In per capita state and local expenditures, however, we climbed from 14th to 11th highest among all states and the District of Columbia. Minnesota's per capita total in fiscal 1969 amounted to $639.95—up $69.18 from the preceding year—and $62.01 higher than the national average for fiscal 1969."

Dream Trip Is True Canoeing In Canada;

Introduction

Every outdoorsman has at some time or another dreamed of making a canoe or camping trip in a remote area where the footprints of man are seldom made. That dream came true for Hilary Stoltman of Thief River Falls and three companions last summer in the barrens of Canada's Northwest Territories.

The trip by canoe down the Thelon river started at the fork of the Hanbury and Thelon rivers, 330 miles northeast of Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, on July 4. The four men and two canoes faced rigors of the frozen North for a full month, with two finishing the 400-mile voyage on August 4 at Baker Lake, Northwest Territories, about 500 miles north of Churchill, Man., Canada.

Because of the uniqueness of the trip and the allure which it has for all persons interested in the out-of-doors, Stoltman's diary of the trip is being published in serial form in the Times. Accompanying the segments of the diary will be photos taken by Bob O'Hara of Minneapolis. Others with O'Hara and Stoltman on the trip were Einer Anderson of Brainerd and Duane Monson of Mentor.

Following is Part 1 of the Stoltman diary:

July 4—Drove pickup from Thief River Falls to Winnipeg called up Andy de Jarlis for 30 minutes. They wanted $2.00 per day to park pickup at airport. Got a place about 2 miles down for $10, till we get back. Left Winnipeg at 7:30. Stopped at Thompson, also at Churchill for gas. Hudson Bay was full of ice. Big sheets. arrived at Yellowknife at 3 a.m.

July 5—Spent day walking around, had a few beers in the afternoon and evening. A lot of Indians uptown. All Dogrib or Yellowknife. We also had our rifles sealed by game warden, then checked in at the R.C.M.P. and gave them our itinerary of our trip and also the time we expected to arrive at Baker (July 28) If not there at that time, they will send a plane looking for us on August 1. Weather at Yellowknife 70 degrees. Also sent some postcards home in the evening.

July 6—Was raining when we awoke in the morning. Called up Ptarmigan Airway. They said they would let us know at noon if the trip out was to be called off. I am very anxious to start as I'd hate to be stranded in town when we could be in the Barrens. They called at 11:45 a.m. and said for us to be ready in 15 minutes which we did as all our Duluth packs and canoes were at the float landing already and we had only ourselves to get ready.

We were on our way at 1:10 p.m. Three of us and 200 pounds of gear were to fly to the junction of the Hanbury and the Thelon Rivers. Duane and the other plane were to take 600 pounds plus both canoes which they figure 600 pounds against. They had to refuel at Fort Reliance as with that load the plane could only go 85 miles per hour.

The 300-mile plane trip sure changed the landscape as at Yellowknife the trees were very scattered but they were still all around. The further N.E. we flew, the smaller and more scattered they were until at the landing site only about 5 per cent of land area has any trees and most of them are between 10 and 15 feet tall.

A lot of ice on lakes the last 100 miles. Also ice piled up to ten feet high on the banks in spots along the Thelon. Had to wait 3½ hours for second plane as they had trouble with ice at Fort Reliance and had to push a lot to side in order to get off. Saw a big bull Caribou swim across river 500 yards down from us. Also saw geese, Harris sparrow, Arctic tern, Herring gull, timber wolf tracks, etc. Temperature at landing site, 65 degrees F., South wind. Very few mosquitos as the water's too cold yet.

All the hardwood shrubs are just budding now. Some tiny flowers. Every indication that there has been very little rain this spring. The river is low and moss and grass is very dry. Most of the time the tundra gets very little rainfall. River from 400 yards to one mile wide. Current is about six miles per hour. Am taking notes at 1:15 a.m. outside and watching the wildlife at the same time. It doesn't get any darker than the sun just dipping below the horizon.

Rest of the canoe brigade in the sack by midnight, but I had a nap on a flat rock this afternoon and am not tired yet. Very beautiful scenery. Rolling hills and some swamp tundra. Rivers very clear and cold. Beach mostly sandstone the size of your fist and bigger. Some sand bars and beaches. Hills rising to about 300 feet a mile distant.

Bob and Einer doing the cooking to start with. Duane and I will set up tents and bags and do dishes. Had cold lunch with pilot of second plane. He also tried to fish some. So far, no fish. I see one jump just now and also awhile ago. Will have to try different lures until we succeed.

Had soup and spaghetti, tea for supper. Can hear ice falling all along the river banks as it melts. You can hear this for at least a mile as the chunks are three feet thick.

We had an experience that could have been disastrous had the canoe been closer to the ice where we parked on beach for the evening. A huge piece of ice fell down along my canoe and in just settling after falling, it bent in the side. Just pushed it out with a good shove. I hope we have luck like this all the way through.

July 7—This morning, while eating breakfast, I spied a herd of caribou a mile north of camp in a tundra meadow. Bob and Einer took off to within 100 yards. They hope for good pictures.

At 12 p.m., we were to paddle upstream and go up the Hanbury river to the Helen Falls but the river was too swift on the Hanbury so we decided to take a six mile field trip overland. Ran into two more herds of caribou. We sat down after spooking the last herd and they doubled back to within 150 yards.

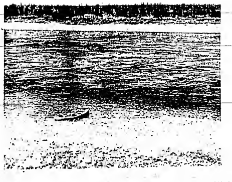
We took a wrong ridge parallel to the Hanbury and ended up two miles north. It being as late as it was—4 p.m.—and carrying cameras, etc., we decided to turn back. Walking tough as either hills or tundra. Saw a bumble bee and a robin today. At the mouth of the Hanbury, I did a little fishing. Caught a four pound and a three pound lake trout.

While I was fishing, a small herd of caribou crossed the river 100 yards from us. While eating back at camp two more tried to swim right to our side of the river from an island but we made a lot of motion and the doe swam to the main land and the calf stayed on the bar the rest of the evening.

Cleaned the trout and placed them on an ice berg. Will cook them up for breakfast. Wind rolled our tent over. Temperature was 60 degrees F.

Next Issue: Floating Down the River

FROM HERE ON it was paddle instead of pontoons for members of the Hilary Stoltman canoe brigade. Float planes flew Hilary and his three companions to the fork of the Thelon and Hanbury rivers 330 miles northeast of Yellowknife, Northwest Territories. Stoltman, shown standing on the pontoon, is now making preliminary plans for another wilderness trip. —Photo by Bob O'Hara



SWIFT AND SHALLOW is the Thelon river in Canada's Northwest Territories. Viewed from high on the river bank is one of the two canoes used by Hilary Stoltman of Thief River Falls and his three companions on a 400-mile float trip down the river and its lakes. Note the rocky shoreline and the dwarf timber. —Photo by Bob O'Hara

ORNATE ICE-BOX is this patch of candle ice along the Thelon river in Canada's Northwest Territories. Members of the canoe brigade were never without natural ice when they wanted it, although the canoe trip down the river was made during July. In fact, they had more ice than they wanted, as further installments of the Stoltman Diary will reveal. —Photo by Bob O'Hara

Doings of Week at Rosewood

Mrs. Bert Kron, Rt. 1,
Newfolden, [illegible]

The news column this week is a summary of some of the community activities since the last part of January.

Mrs. John Bauer was the hostess at her home to the regular meeting of the Rosewood Homemakers the last Tuesday of January. At that time Mrs. Adeline Kutz of Grand Forks gave an interesting and informative demonstration on the art of tube painting. Guests attending were Mrs. Helmer Kalbakdalen and Mrs. Emil Hellquist. The afternoon closed with lunch served by Mrs. Bauer.

Danny Sabo of Glyndon spent two weeks visiting with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sabo while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sabo went on a trip to Chicago and into Tennessee where they spent some time touring Nashville and where they were able to attend the Grand Old Opry, the world center of country western music.

One afternoon Mrs. Calvin Peterson spent a social afternoon with Mrs. Larry Kron.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Johnson and Lyle spent a Sunday afternoon visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Gulsvig at Crookston.

Sadness was felt by many community members with the recent death of Emil Mellem of Thief River Falls and former farmer of our area whose funeral was held at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls; the passing of Mrs. Knute Nelson of Holt and the mother of Mrs. Wallace Anderson, with the funeral held at the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt and the death at Bowman, N. D. of Peter Langlie with funeral services held at Bowman. Sympathy is extended to the many grieving relatives and friends.

Mrs. Roy Holmstrom, Mrs. Arne Turra of Middle River and Albin Langlie accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Howard Langlie of Thief River Falls to Glyndon, Minn., where they picked up Hans Langlie and then continued to Bowman, N. D. to attend the funeral of Peter Langlie. They were guests for two nights at the [illegible].

University Prexy Expresses Views On Several Matters

by Bill Huntzicker

The man who coined the term "military-industrial complex" says the phrase is more relevant today than when it was first used 10 years ago last month.

Malcolm Moos was one of the architects of President Dwight Eisenhower's farewell address to the nation on Jan. 17, 1961.

Eisenhower said: "This conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience. The total influence—economic, political, even spiritual—is felt in every city, every statehouse, every office of the federal government."

The nationwide televised address warned further, "In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist."

Moos, now president of the University of Minnesota, was interviewed recently about the current status of the military-industrial complex.

"While I think some people have bandied the term about carelessly and loosely without knowing the implications of it, I'm firmly convinced that the problem is a deep one and a continuous one for our society.

"We see constant examples of how all-pervasive the problem is because it's so difficult to exhume all the information we need to keep the society well informed," Moos said.

"The larger the military-industrial complex becomes, the more difficult it becomes to exert the proper controls," he said. "At the heart of the problem is the importance of the most rigorous scrutiny of military expenditures of this scope."

Eisenhower's speech also touched on the relation between the federal government and the nation's universities. "The free university," Eisenhower told the nation, "historically the fountainhead of free ideas and scientific discovery, has experienced a revolution in the conduct of research. Partly because of the huge cost involved, a government contract becomes virtually a substitute for intellectual curiosity."

Moos does not feel, however, that the University of Minnesota is a factor in the military-industrial complex. He said the University was never seriously threatened because its federal support never reached the magnitude it did at many other large universities.

"And we have banned classified research at the University. This is one of the first matters that I took a strong stand on."

Moos made that recommendation at his first Board of Regents meeting in September 1967.

ROTC IMPORTANT

Moos said he does not oppose ROTC on campus because "the civilian input into our officer cadre in the armed forces is a very important factor in reducing the threat of a complex professional military establishment."

He said he favors the military draft for a similar reason, but adds "there are some needed reforms in the draft program to take out some of the inequities that have led to greater proportions of draftees being drawn from groups that are worse off economically."

"Students recognized both this inequity and other inequities such as the special advantages given students over non-students," he said.

DRAGON SLAYER

Before he came to the University, Moos had been an executive in the Ford Foundation and was a speech writer for former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton when he sought the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Earlier Moos was an associate editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun with the well-known iconoclast, H. L. Mencken, whom Moos described as a "dragon slayer who would tear you apart in his columns. Actually he was a man of a gentle, courtly and highly whimsical disposition."

Moos, his wife, Tracy, and their five children live at the University-owned presidential mansion at 176 N. Mississippi River blvd. in St. Paul.

Eighteen year-old Malcolm Jr. is a freshman this year at Stanford University in California. Moos was asked whether his son has provided him with any new perspectives on student feelings.

"Not only Malcolm, but his sister, Kathy, 10, and brother, Grant, 15, have kept me very close to a young age group and how it relates to the college age group the last few years."

The father admits, however, that he has not yet "fully shared" experiences with his eldest son, who has been away from home most of the time since school started last fall. "My impression is that he is engaged very intensely in his studies and two extracurricular activities—varsity wrestling and the Stanford Band."

Malcolm Jr., however, is not following completely in the footsteps of his father, who as a student played in the University of Minnesota Band. "He plays the French horn and I played the trumpet. My son Grant plays the trumpet."

The Moos' two youngest children are Ann, 12, and Margaret, 10. Moos, who taught political science for 20 years at Johns Hopkins University, said he doesn't feel hemmed in by conflicts among various University groups, but admits that "there are differences in viewpoints and judgments that move across the spectrum."

He said he agrees with recent press reports that the nation's universities have been quieter this year. He is obviously proud that "the University of Minnesota has never become embroiled in violence. Even at the height of passions felt last spring, the greater bulk of students and faculty acted constructively."

One of the reasons for the calm this year, Moos said, is that the "very militant groups across the nation have become highly factionalized as to tactics, even as to priorities and goals.

"Another element is that the confrontation tactic is being questioned and has been rejected by some groups as not being the answer for achieving their activist ends.

"Still another element is that, I think, many students have concluded that the idea of a strike itself is not an effective means of accomplishing the ends they seek.

"Over all of these specific factors may be the element of exhaustion and something you might call a turning inward of students into a kind of reflecting mood," Moos said.

Moos was asked whether having been a speech writer made it difficult for him to have others write his speeches. "It presents something of the problem of a bad marriage in a small boat on a heavy sea," he replied.

Wildlife Week March 21 to 27

Observance of Wildlife Week in Minnesota will be directed by Roger Preuss, Twin Cities wildlife artist who has been named State Chairman by the Minnesota Conservation Federation and the National Wildlife Federation.

He will head statewide efforts to emphasize the theme of the observance, the largest of its kind, March 21-27.

Preuss said the theme will be "Wildlife - Who Needs It?". The [illegible] the public's attention to the fact that everybody benefits by the existance of wildlife. A strong effort will be made to encourage citizens to help improve wildlife habitat.

The chairman lauded the achievements of the state and federal wetland programs and cited the need for greater citizen support of these and other habitat programs.

By being man's "miners' canaries" the condition and abundance of wildlife indicate the condition of man's environment. These points will be amplified in educational material distributed throughout the campaign.

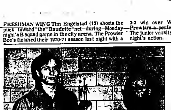
FRESHMAN WING Tim Engelstad (13) shoots the puck toward the Baudette net during Monday night's B squad game in the city arena. The Prowler Bee's finished their 1970-71 season last night with a 3-2 win over Warroad which gave the young Prowlers a perfect 18-0 record for the campaign. The junior varsity defeated Baudette 5-0 in Monday night's action.



WINNER of the Valentine's day free throw shooting contest for the Lincoln high school basketball team was Pat Hamilton (left) shown here receiving the traveling trophy from Phil Hess, sponsor of the event. Members of the Prowler cage team took part in this first annual event as each player shot 100 free throws in groups of ten. Hamilton, Lee Sorensen and Mark Thyren all made 85 of 100 and attempled 50 more to break the tie. Thyren and Hamilton connected on 40 of the next 50 to tie once again so the two seniors attempted 50 more and the winner made 44 of the 50 while Thyren was on target on 42 of the final shots.

A study showed that about three-fourths of all sharp tailed grouse die between their third and fourth winters.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought an $18,000 home in 1963—today it's worth about $24,200. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth . . . and keep it that way with automatic inflation Coverage.

Annual Staff

The annual staff has been working steadily putting out their annual next spring. We have met two of our deadlines already and are working on our third and final one which is March 15th. The annual itself is due to arrive at the school around the 15th of May.

School Newspaper

The Plummer paper staff is busy for the paper deadline which is March 5. The paper will come out March 26. We've increased the length of the paper from five pages to about 12 pages. It has really been improved by adding more articles such as Happiness is, love is, and articles on drugs and fashions. We have also started using three columns instead of the usual two. The paper costs only five cents and we feel it has really improved. We hope you enjoy it.

Aviation Mechanics

Aviation Mechanics is held out at the Thief River Falls airport. There is a special building for the vocational students at the airport. This is the first year that they have had high school boys out there. Right now we are disassembling airplane engines and putting them back together. As we've been going along on these engines we have been going to class and studying the different parts, such as pistons and cylinders.

We have had three different instructors so far. The first one taught us what makes an airplane fly, navigation, planning your flight course and airplane structure. The second one taught us jet engines. The one we have now is teaching us how to take engines apart and precision measuring on crankshafts and cylinders. We should have a couple more instructors before the year is over.

Auto Body

A few students from Plummer high school are going to Thief River Falls vocational. The course that they are taking is auto body. The four boys taking this are Fred Bernier, Duane Boucher, Bruce Eskell and John Laniel. They seem to enjoy it very much. It is required every day and the students also have to attend two full hours of the course every day.

Boys' Home Ec Class

During the third nine weeks period the boys in the senior and some boys in the junior class are taking Home Ec. They started out by sewing but now have advanced to baking. So far the class has been a great success.

Art Department

We are doing a lot and have been very busy in art this last nine weeks. We have just finished making five prints in water-colors. Then we picked the best one out and matted it. Our next venture is to make frames and stretch canvas.

Mr. Irresistible Day

In honor of Valentine's Day, a Mr. Irresistible Day was held at the Plummer high school on February 12. This event was sponsored by the F.H.A. chapter in Plummer. At the beginning of the day all girls that belong to F.H.A. received a heart and the first guy that got the girl to talk to him got the heart. PROWLER GOALIE Brian Peterson stretched to block this shot by Warroad's John Taylor but the senior wing managed to slip the puck (still on his stick in the photo) by Peterson in the last night's game at 1-1 with 3:54 remaining in the first period. Warroad went on to defeat the Prowlers 3-2 in the last regular season game for the Lincoln icemen. The Prowlers will be back in action Tuesday night when they travel to Roseau to meet Indus in subregion eight action.

Prowlers Lose To Warroad 3-2 But Blast Bears 11-0

MERV ERIKSSON (foreground) watches for the puck as it drops between Baudette goalie Roy Wiskow and Roger Lee during the third period of Monday night's region eight game in the city arena. Eriksson managed to get his stick on the puck before Wiskow covered up and scored with 7:01 remaining in the game. The Prowlers blitzed the Bears 11-0 in the game which found three Prowler skaters scoring two goals each.

Lincoln high school Prowler hockey team ended its regular season on a sour note last night in the city arena with a narrow 3-2 loss at the hands of the Warroad Warriors. The loss left the Prowler skaters with an 11-6-3 season record after an 11-0 rout of the Baudette Bears Monday night.

The Prowlers will open their tournament action next Tuesday night at Roseau when they will take on Indus in the second game of the night at 7 p.m.

John Schmitz' B squad put the finishing touches to a fine season last night as they edged Warroad 3-2 after a 5-0 blanking of Baudette for a perfect 18-0 season.

The Prowlers carried the play in the opening stages against Warroad and they just missed scoring on several opportunities. Tom Goddard missed the corner of the net by inches on a tip in attempt with 14:33 remaining and Roger Lee's backhand with 12:39 remaining missed an open corner.

Sophomore Jeff Bottem put the Prowlers on top 1-0 with his unassisted goal from the left side with 10:57 remaining.

Warroad's John Taylor tied the contest 1-1 as he flashed the lights with 3:54 remaining in the first period. Alan Hangsleben and Tony Stukel were credited with assists on the play.

Pete Roberts put Warroad in front 2-1 with his shot into the high right corner of the Prowler net while the Warriors were skating with six attackers on a delayed penalty to the Prowlers with 3:19 remaining in the first period.

Warroad was charged with four penalties in the second period but the Prowlers could not cash in on the opportunities on their power plays.

Senior Jerry Hodgson's shot from close range gave Warroad a 3-1 lead with 14:28 remaining in the second period. Steve Helmstetter was given an assist on the Warroad score as Hodgson shot with a Prowler defender hanging on his back.

The Prowlers came back to trim the Warrior lead to 3-2 when captain Roger Lee's rebound shot from the right side flashed the lights when 4:10 remaining in the second period. Sophomore Jon Markstrom and Paul Johnson were credited with assists on Lee's score.

The Prowlers almost got the equalizer with 14:40 remaining in the final period as John Wangberg broke into the clear on a breakaway but the sophomore wing held onto the puck a split second too long as Warroad goalie Jeff Hallett came out of his net to smother the puck. The Prowlers pulled goalie Brian Peterson with 18 seconds remaining and kept the pressure on the Warriors with the six skaters but Tom Wurst's slap shot from the point sailed wide and the Warriors managed to knock the puck away from the front of their net in the final flurry.

The Prowlers had a field day against Baudette the previous night in the city arena as Jon Markstrom, Merv Eriksson and Jeff Bottem all scored two goals as part of the Prowlers' 11-0 blanking of the Bears.

Prowler goalie Tom Nepper was called on to make just one stop in the third period as the Prowlers exploded for seven goals in the final stanza. For the game the Prowlers out-shot the Bears 37-9.

Junior Rob Swenson opened the scoring parade for the Prowlers with his hard slap shot from the right side with 11:19 remaining in the first period on an assist from Mike Protz.

The Prowlers led just 1-0 after the first period of action but increased that margin to 4-0 at the end of two periods. Jon Markstrom scored the Prowlers' second goal on a power play with 12:45 remaining. Merv Erikson and Paul Johnson were credited with assists on the score.

Sophomore center Jeff Bottem slid in a rebound with 10:03 remaining for a 3-0 Prowler lead with linemates John Wangberg and Tom Goddard getting assists on the play. The Prowlers' third second period goal was scored by defenseman Paul Johnson on the backhand with Roger Lee getting an assist while the Prowlers were a man short with 4:28 remaining.

Markstrom made it 5-0 for the Prowlers with his third period score on assists from Lee and Johnson with 12:32 remaining. Jon Jensen knocked in a rebound from the right side with 9:24 remaining for a 6-0 lead with Mike Protz and Mike Hamilton getting assists.

Bottem scored the Prowlers' seventh goal of the night with a man short as he carried the puck in alone for an unassisted goal with 8:27 remaining in the game. Eriksson slipped the puck under Bear goalie Roy Wiskow after a pile-up in front of the net for an 8-0 lead with 7:01 remaining. Rory Harger and Lee were credited with assists on the play.

Eriksson had his second goal of the night with 2:54 remaining on his shot from ten feet with Harger getting an assist on the score. Roger Lee scored 18 seconds after Eriksson as he flipped in a backhand from close range for a 10-0 Prowler lead.

The Prowlers' 11th goal came with 11 seconds remaining in the game as Goddard scored on a breakaway with a fine pass from Bottem.

Don Brown picked up two goals for the Prowler Bee's in their game against Warroad and wing Tim Votava added the other Prowler score. Defenseman Brent Olson tallied twice against Baudette while Mike Drury, Mike Fitzgerald and Kent Gibson scored once.

Wrestlers End Regular Season With 22-16 Defeat

Ed Krystosek's Lincoln high school wrestling team closed out their 1970-71 dual meet season last night with a 22-16 loss to the Crookston Pirates, the team coach Krystosek tabbed as the favorite for district-31 honors.

The district wrestling tournament will be held at Warren Saturday, beginning at 4 p.m. with semi-final matches. The consolation round will start at 6:30 and the finals will begin at 8 p.m.

Commission Favors Tax Formula Change

A new state school aid formula, possibly based on per capita income rather than property value, is needed, the Lake of the Woods-Rainy Lake commission told the Minnesota legislature.

The commission was appointed by the legislature in 1967 to concern itself with the long term economic outlook of the Lake of the Woods-Rainy Lake area, which includes northern Minnesota's Lake of the Woods, Koochiching and Roseau counties.

Legislators received a 16-page report from the commission containing recommendations on housing, redevelopment, school financing, agriculture, industry, fishing, tourism, sewer system planning and forestry. Several of the recommendations have significant statewide implications.

The present school aid formula not only doesn't fully compensate for differences in property values, but doesn't go far enough in equalizing educational opportunities for all pupils, the report said.

The commission recommended that a new school aid formula be enacted, "perhaps based on per capita income."

The public school financing burden has shifted from the state government to local sources from 1960 to 1969 in Lake of the Woods, Koochiching and Roseau counties with school districts providing 41 per cent in 1960 and in 1969 46 per cent of the revenue, the commission said.

The continually widening gap between state aid and median maintenance cost per pupil has forced low valuation districts, such as those in the Lake of the Woods-Rainy Lake area, to place a disproportionate tax levy on local property because the aid formula doesn't compensate fully for the inequity, the commission said.

"The region needs help with already existing educational programs—it needs no vast new schemes. The educational needs of the region have been shown to be considerable, but neither foundation aid nor the entire collection of special aids has prevented the educational burden from being shifted significantly back to the local property tax in the last 10 years," the commission said.

Some other commission recommendations included:

—Fishing practices now in existence on Lake of the Woods should be altered to control fishing of game species while continuing to harvest non-game species. Sport fishing pressure on walleyes should be reduced by allowing the angler only one limit from the lake regardless of any Canadian license he may hold. Commercial fishing pressure should also be reduced.

—A recommendation for $10,500 from the legislature to study the impact of the proposed Voyageurs National park on nearby communities in northern Minnesota. The study should include possible demands on land use and the needs for public services such as roads and waysides and private services such as food, lodging and recreational activities.

—Legislation is needed to authorize countywide housing and redevelopment authorities (HRAs) for more of the less densely settled counties in the state. HRAs are the only public bodies given power by the state to undertake urban renewal, public housing and housing for the elderly. In the three-county region, Greenbush, International Falls, Roseau and Warroad have housing authorities and others are in the process of being formed.

—Additional research is needed on bluegrass and timothy seed production. Present funding of about $60,000 a year for grass seed production research at the Minnesota agricultural experiment station should be continued.

—The experiment station should be funded to conduct research on paddy production of wild rice.

—The possibility of locating a small potato wash plant in the area should be investigated.

—The International Joint commission should make an extra effort to achieve Rainy Lake elevations of 1,107 feet or more during the first two weeks in May.

Commission members included chairman J. Kimball Whitney, commissioner of the Minnesota department of economic development; Jarle Leirfallom, commissioner of the Minnesota department of conservation (natural resources); and Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the Institute of agriculture, University of Minnesota.

Asks Stricter Safety Standard Test For Brakes

Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Haaglund has recommended to the national highway safety bureau stricter standards for brakes on new passenger cars.

Pointing out that present tests are conducted and performance standards established at speeds "below the speeds used on most of the rural roads of the United States," Haaglund wrote, "we believe it is time to raise the test speed."

He argued that raising the standards in line with prevailing speeds on the highways will "leave some capability to avoid accidents which now may be due to either hot brakes or to speed."

To accomplish this he urged that test speeds for brake fade and brake effectiveness be increased from 60 miles per hour as at present to 70 miles per hour, and that all cars be required to meet a specified number of tests.

Minnesota law, which follows the uniform vehicle code, requires a deceleration capability of 17 feet per second. From 60 miles per hour, the average car "cannot panic stop at 26 feet per second safely," he said.

Other recommendations:

. Require determination of the maximum speed from which a vehicle can meet the uniform vehicle code deceleration requirements with starting brake temperatures of 150 to 360 degrees.

. Require publication of maximum brake lining temperatures for all braking tests.

. Require that the buyer be provided with information about the quality rating of the car's brake lining, and the dimensions (wear) at which linings should be replaced.

. Limit deviation of pedal force required in traffic to 20 per cent.

. Establish brake lining area standards based on vehicle weight.

Deadline For Display Of 1971 Plates Extended

State of Minnesota has extended the deadline for display of 1971 motor vehicle license plates and stickers from March 1 through March 22, 1971, Commissioner of Public Safety W. R. Haaglund announced today. That is the final date on which plates validated with 1970 stickers can be used.

Extension of the deadline, he said, does not affect the penalty for late payment, which is now $2.50.

"The extension became necessary in order to allow the St. Cloud reformatory more time to manufacture plates to fill mail applications for passenger cars," he explained. Although the shortage has developed only with respect to mail orders, the deadline extension will apply to all vehicles.

Haaglund urged owners to withhold all further mail applications in order to ease the problem, and to use the over-the-counter services of the deputy registrars and the registration office in the highway building instead. "These offices have adequate supplies of plates and can take care of any demand. They are also adequately supplied with validation stickers for trucks and trailers."

He said an order covering the extension has been filed with the secretary of state.

Mondale Gives Support To Bill For Rural Areas

Senator Walter F. Mondale has offered his support to legislation aimed at encouraging industry to locate in job-starved rural communities.

Mondale said the measure, Republican Senator James B. Pearson's rural job development act, would "help revitalize the nation's small rural communities while taking a burden off our cities.

"Because we have not effectively used rural America's excellent human and natural resources, we have forced rural Americans to migrate to metropolitan centers in their search for economic opportunity," Mondale asserted. "The cities are busting at the seams, while much of rural America becomes more and more economically depressed.

"This measure would help solve both problems and thus contribute to the nation's overall health."

The bill would make a series of tax incentives available to new job-creating enterprises that locate in rural development areas. Its provisions would be administered by the secretary of agriculture.

These are the incentives:

—A seven per cent tax credit on personal and real property. The credit would be increased to 10 per cent in areas having a population density of 25 persons per square mile.

—An accelerated depreciation of two-thirds the normal, useful or class life of machinery, equipment and buildings.

—A tax deduction equal to 50 per cent of the wages paid to workers for whom the enterprise must provide on-the-job training—an encouragement to hire and train local people who lack required skills.

Buying, Renting Dilemma Faces Young Couples

Young couples are often in a quandary about whether it's to their advantage to rent or to buy housing.

If that is your problem, the first step is to decide what is important to you in housing, says Mrs. Edna Jordahl, extension home management specialist at the University of Minnesota. Do you need three bedrooms, a two-car garage, housing that's near work or school? You may not find all you are looking for—for example, the choice of housing may be limited in the areas you like—but it's a point at which to begin.

Next, compare your present family situation with what it is likely to be in the years ahead. Does this situation call for buying rather than renting, or vice versa?

Be sure you know how your family feels about the extra chores and care needed in owning a home. Generally it takes more time and money to care for a house. Often, too, young couples may not have enough money for a down payment in buying a home.

Mrs. Jordahl lists some advantages in renting:

. Living expenses are often less.

. Repairs and decorating are often kept to a minimum.

. If a move is necessary, it's easier to give up rented housing than to sell housing.

. It gives you a chance to analyze an area without investing heavily.

. You can take advantage of the opportunity to save or invest in some way the money you would otherwise have had to pay for buying a house.

. When you are out of town, you can often shift the responsibility for your apartment to the landlord.

. Your way of life may lend itself better to renting.

But there are also decided advantages to owning your own home, Mrs. Jordahl says:

. The investment in housing is usually considered safe.

. Such investment is a hedge against inflation.

. There will likely be an income tax advantage in buying a home.

. The mortgage acts as an incentive to save.

. The environment is often more desirable for children than would be the case if you rented housing.

. Investment in a house can be used as security for necessary loans.

. Credit rating is improved by home ownership.

. Changes in the home environment can be made as you desire them.

. Owning a home may have psychological benefits, such as a feeling of security and sense of achievement.

A family discussion of advantages of owning or renting can be valuable in making the decision, Mrs. Jordahl says.

Courage Center Fund Drive Past Half-Way Point

Fund drive to build Courage center, hub for services for Minnesota's physically handicapped, has reached 53 per cent of its $2.8 million goal, according to the first progress report issued by its co-chairmen.

Gifts and pledges at year-end totalled $1,641,043.44, according to A. W. Clapp Jr., St. Paul, and Henry W. Haverstock Jr., Minneapolis.

Courage center is the comprehensive rehabilitation facility that will be built by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc (MISCCA), on a seven-acre site in Golden Valley.

"We're pleased with initial response to the fund drive from foundations, organizations and individuals," said W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director of MISCCA. "If 75 per cent of the building cost is raised in contributions and pledges by April 1, we will be able to break ground this spring and have Courage center operating by the fall of 1972," Schoenbohm said.

Courage center will provide year-round diagnostic, treatment and educational services for children, as well as specialized training, employment and recreational opportunities for adults. A later stage, to be built when funds and approval are available, will add residential opportunities for seriously handicapped adults and add a swimming pool to the recreational facilities.

The building fund drive is approved by major United Funds, which are major supporters of MISCCA's operating funds. MISCCA also operates Camp courage at Maple Lake, Minnesota's only residential camp serving the physically handicapped, the blind, and youngsters with speech and hearing problems.

Putting Things In Order

In this age of medicare, social security and homes for the aged, sometimes people forget an important part of growing old—tranquility!

Yes, tranquility and peace are just as important in growing old gracefully as a sufficient insurance or all the other means with which we show our concern for the elderly.

Have you ever noticed that old people have a knack of putting things in order? In fact, they need everything tidy, neat and sure. Certainly their greatest need is for peace and security—but this can come only when they are at peace with God!

If we want to reap the harvest of friendship with God in our old age, then we must cultivate our relation with Him—when we are young and able. Regular church attendance and worship is your assurance of peace and tranquility during your own gentle lengthening years. It will be a heaven-sent reward and one which you cannot, will not, want to miss.

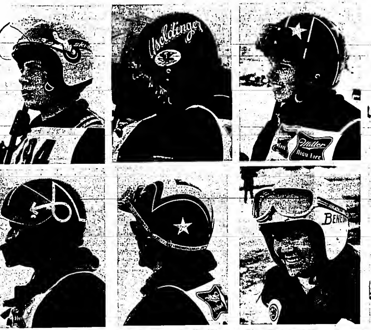
Colorful Helmets Provide Design Variety At Snowmobile Races



QUEEN OF THE RACES Sunday was Gayle Nepper, Miss Thief River Falls. A bale of straw was her royal throne atop a pile of snow near the finish line, but weather was warm and the queen was comfortable. Gayle also appeared with her chaperone, Mrs. Neil McEwen, to greet people attending the Cub Pack 109 bean feed Saturday evening in the National Guard armory. Trophies for Sunday's races were on display there.

SKIS LIFT OFF the ground as Class II modified snowmobiles leap forward to start one heat of oval lap racing Sunday. LeRoy Lindblad, total points champion, is shown on machine number 33 in the center of the photo. This race was one of his three first place finishes in two days of racing.

COMING AT YOU is Ed Mansueto as he rounds a turn in Sunday's snowmobile races here. Mansueto placed second in Class I and Class II modified on Saturday and first in Class I and second in Class II on Sunday.

UNSCHEDULED STOP was made by LaVern Hagen of the Polaris racing team Sunday when his machine threw a belt in the oval lap races. Hagen captured first place in the Class III modified race, however, edging total points champion LeRoy Lindblad.

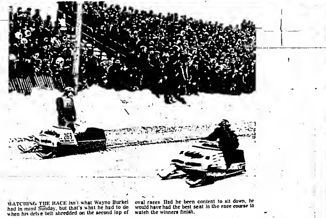
TOTAL POINTS CHAMP at the States-Dominion snowmobile races Saturday and Sunday was LeRoy Lindblad of Roseau, shown receiving his trophies from Gayle Nepper, Miss Thief River Falls.

SNOW, DIRT and engine exhaust almost obscure the racers leaving the starting line in oval lap racing Sunday.

ONE WAY to avoid mishaps in the first turn is to beat the crowd to the corner. Racers often rode high-up the banked corner, causing gasps from the crowd as the drivers struggled to hold their machines on the track.

TOM PARENTEAU of Brooks hangs out around snowmobiles. Here he is hanging out around the number one turn enroute to a first place in class B stock during oval races on Sunday.



WATCHING THE RACE isn't what Wayne Burkel had in mind Sunday, but that's what he had to do when his drive belt shredded on the second lap of oval races. Had he been content to sit down, he would have had the best seat in the race course to watch the winners finish.

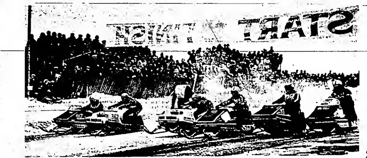
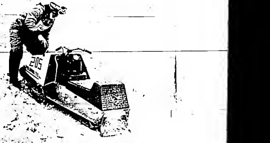
Colorful Helmets Provide Design Variety At Snowmobile Races

QUEEN OF THE RACES Sunday was Gayle Neppur, Miss Thief River Falls. A bale of straw was her royal throne atop a pile of snow near the finish line, but weather was warm and the queen was comfortable. Gayle also appeared with her chaperone, Mrs. Neil McEwen, to greet people attending the Cub Pack 59 booth [illegible] Saturday evening in the National Guard armory. Trophies for Sunday's races were on display there.



SKIS LIFT OFF the ground as Class H modified snowmobiles leap forward to start one heat of oval lap racing Sunday. LeRoy Lindblad, total points champion, is shown on machine number 33 in the center of the photo. This race was one of his three first place finishes in two days of racing.

COMING AT YOU is Ed Mansueto as he rounds a turn in Sunday's snowmobile races here. Mansueto placed second in Class I and Class II modified on Saturday and first in Class I and second in Class II on Sunday.



UNSCHEDULED STOP was made by LaVern Hagen of the Polaris racing team Sunday when his machine threw a belt in the oval lap races. Hagen captured first place in the Class III modified race, however, edging total points champion LeRoy Lindblad.

TOTAL POINTS CHAMP at the States-Dominion snowmobile races Saturday and Sunday was LeRoy Lindblad of Roseau, shown receiving his trophies from Gayle Nepper, Miss Thief River Falls.

SNOW, DIRT and engine exhaust almost obscure the racers leaving the starting line in oval lap racing Sunday.

ONE WAY to avoid mishaps in the first turn is to beat the crowd to the corner. Racers often rode high up the banked corner, causing gasps from the crowd as the drivers struggled to hold their machines on the track.

TOM PARENTEAU of Brooks hangs out around snowmobiles. Here he is hanging out around the number one turn enroute to a first place in class B stock during oval races on Sunday.

WATCHING THE RACE isn't what Wayne Burket had in mind Sunday, but that's what he had to do when his drive belt shredded on the second lap of oval races. Had he been content to sit down, he would have had the best seat in the race course to watch the winners finish.

What Do You Want?

Now that cigarette commercials have been banned from television, the question of whether a person wants good grammar or good taste may become a little more academic.

A column in the Minnesota Press, published by the Minnesota Newspaper association, contains comments on some of the carelessness which is shown toward the English language. It is evident in newspapers, on billboards, on signs in public places, in everyday speech and in correspondence which we receive every day.

A couple of years ago this writer received several calls after using the term "irregardless"—which is an erroneous use of the word "regardless". The stupidity of such an error was duly noted by the callers, and we fully accept the validity of that criticism.

But the point in question here is that carelessness with spelling and grammar is becoming more and more common and that objection to such careless use is almost never heard.

For instance, a recent release from the Minnesota School Boards association described the formation of a group of school "attornies". Our dictionary shows that the plural of attorney is spelled "attorneys", and we would suspect that the MSBA dictionary would contain the same spelling if it was opened to see.

News releases from colleges and universities frequently contain poor grammar and wrong spelling—and they don't always come from the athletic departments. Signs erected by students in school hallways often have errors, but we also remember a large sign prepared by a former Lincoln high school coach which referred to the coming "schedual" of games. There is a local minister whose church bulletins often refer to the "sponsers" in baptisms.

In fact, the initial salary proposal presented by the local faculty to the school board last Monday suggests that: "Each teacher will have their choice ...."

In all honesty, we must admit that the wrong spelling of the plural of attorney passed our editing desk and was caught by a questioning proof reader. "After all," we had reasoned, "if the state school boards association doesn't know how to spell the plural of attarney, who should know?" We were too careless to look it up and find out for sure until the proof reader questioned the spelling and checked for herself.

What we're saying, I guess, is that proper English demands an extra bit of care. Persons who want to write and speak the language correctly must be alert and aware and constantly on guard.

To the general public, however, it probably don't make no diffrence.

Military Hardware

When one hears the term "military hardware" he generally thinks of planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and other battle area materials. The Des Moines Register talks about other military hardware in the following editorial which it heads, "Cheapening Military Awards":

Among the hardest-working troops in Vietnam must be the soldiers who pass out medals. Since 1961 they have gone through the routine 2,143,364 times. This figures out to be nearly a medal for every one of the 2,741,857 Americans who have served in Vietnam.

The unusually high proportion of awards to servicemen, suggests either that soldiers in Vietnam are more heroic than soldiers in other wars or that the people who issue the medals are a zealous if careless lot. The latter suspicion is heightened by the revelation that in at least one instance the Silver Star was awarded a brigadier general on the basis of a fabricated citation.

In any case, the dispensing of medals in carload lots can't help but lessen their value to the recipients. The award of the Good Conduct Medal is considered meaningless by most GIs, because it is given with such lack of discrimination. The medal does not signify that the soldier did anything positive, only that he did not have a record showing bad conduct. Anyone who stays out of trouble gets a Good Conduct Medal.

If the military passes out Bronze Stars, Air Medals and other awards with the same bandon that it bestows the Good Conduct Medal, the result will be a nation of decorated veterans who couldn't care less about their military honors. The awards could degenerate, if they haven't already, to the point where the absence of overt cowardice justifies an award for bravery.

Many men have served with valor and distinction in Vietnam and richly deserve the recognition they received. But when one medal gets passed out for every 1.3 servicemen it's evident that the military is getting mighty permissive with medals.

Time Is Running Out

The following editorial is from the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock:

Remember the presidential election campaign of '68. Richard Nixon was elected to office on his platform of stopping the war in Southeast Asia and curtailing inflation by reduced government spending.

It appears he may be successful in stopping the war. Not by peace negotiations as he stated then, but by withdrawal. Certainly not the most honorable method, but one we believe has the support of the majority of Americans.

Insofar as his other promise of reduced spending to halt runaway inflation he has failed. His first two years in office, by his own admission, resulted in spending far beyond his expections. The D.F.L. controlled Congress chopped millions off of his spending proposals and in other cases the bills he proposed never got out of committee.

Now we have his program for the new Congress. He wants 5 billion dollars of new tax money for revenue sharing with the states.

Where will this money come from? Can industry afford another increase in taxes? Absolutely not. Spiraling wages have already driven "Made in America" into the history books.

Can the wage earner afford a bigger tax bite? A definite no! Millions of Americans in the past year or two have given up trying to meet the mortgage payments. Many were laid off of jobs where their industry, defense and construction, was hit the hardest by the economic slowdown. Overtime is almost posse. Millions of these same Americans are now on our welfare rolls.

So what have we gained? Here we have our local, state and federal government not curtailing spending like American industry and American people, but finding new ways to spend money they do not have.

The President's plan for an economic slowdown was a good one. But if it is to work he must cut spending in Washington. Instead of offering states new money in revenue sharing he must urge our states to cut spending and so on down the line.

At no time since the end of World War II has so many Americans and so many industries been faced with the hard cold fact that they must live within their income until this inflation is harnessed. The president had better get on the band wagon.

Living on borrowed money can be just as fatal as living on borrowed time. President Nixon has run out of money and has less than two years in time.

A Bit Hypocritical

Following is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

The broadcast media has felt the heavy, and sometimes tyrannical, hand of the federal establishment. No longer can radio and television carry cigarette advertising.

This we greet with mixed emotions. For years the broadcasters, under control of the Federal Communications Commission, have been able to advertise products, promotions and events that the printed media, under the watchful eye of the postal department, could not carry. It would have been in violation of the postmaster's "Bible," the super-sacred book called Postal Laws and Regulations (PL&R).

Now, however, the shoe is on the other foot. Newspapers and magazines distributed through the mail can carry tobacco and cigarette advertising, but the broadcasters cannot.

We do not question the health hazard involved in smoking cigarettes. In fact, it would be a better world from both a physical and mental point of view if everyone would kick the habit. But apparently the health hazards involved have not been substantiated to a great enough extent to impress the nation's lawmakers. Even the reports of the surgeon general have failed to bring any action on this front.

Our point is quite simple. As long as it is legal to manufacture and sell cigarettes, it should be permissable to advertise them—and we mean through whatever media the industry chooses, electronic or printed. Instead we find the federal government continuing to permit the production and sale of these "cancer sticks," and even more hypocritical we find ourselves (the federal government) subsidizing the production of tobacco. Trying to achieve parity prices for the production of corn and soybeans is like trying to swim the Pacific—but the doors of the treasury are open to the producers of tobacco.

Ban them or permit their promotion in the media, whichever it might be. And this applies to bingo parties and the postal department as well as to cigarettes and the FCC.

—Samuel Johnson

What Do You Want?

Now that cigarette commercials have been banned from television, the question of whether a person wants good grammar or good taste may become a little more academic.

A column in the Minnesota Press, published by the Minnesota Newspaper association, contains comments on some of the carelessness which is shown toward the English language. It is evident in newspapers, on billboards, on signs in public places, in everyday speech and in correspondence which we receive every day.

A couple of years ago this writer received several calls after using the term "irregardless"—which is an erroneous use of the word "regardless". The stupidity of such an error was duly noted by the callers, and we fully accept the validity of that criticism.

But the point in question here is that carelessness with spelling and grammar is becoming more and more common and that objection to such careless use is almost never heard.

For instance, a recent release from the Minnesota School Boards association described the formation of a group of school "attornies". Our dictionary shows that the plural of attorney is spelled "attorneys", and we would suspect that the MSBA dictionary would contain the same spelling if it was opened to see.

News releases from colleges and universities frequently contain poor grammar and wrong spelling—and they don't always come from the athletic departments. Signs erected by students in school hallways often have errors, but we also remember a large sign prepared by a former Lincoln high school coach which referred to the coming "schedual" of games. There is a local minister whose church bulletins often refer to the "sponsers" in baptisms.

In fact, the initial salary proposal presented by the local faculty to the school board last Monday suggests that:, "Each teacher will have their choice .."

In all honesty, we must admit that the wrong spelling of the plural of attorney passed our editing desk and was caught by a questioning proof reader. "After all," we had reasoned, "if the state school boards association doesn't know how to spell the plural of attorney, who should know?" We were too careless to look it up and find out for sure until the proof reader questioned the spelling and checked for herself.

What we're saying, I guess, is that proper English demands an extra bit of care. Persons who want to write and speak the language correctly must be alert and aware and constantly on guard.

To the general public, however, it probably don't make no diffrence.

Military Hardware

When one hears the term "military hardware" he generally thinks of planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and other battle area materials. The Des Moines Register talks about other military hardware in the following editorial which it heads, "Cheapening Military Awards":

Among the hardest-working troops in Vietnam must be the soldiers who pass out medals. Since 1961 they have gone through the routine 2,143,364 times. This figures out to be nearly a medal for every one of the 2,741,857 Americans who have served in Vietnam.

The unusually high proportion of awards to servicemen suggests either that soldiers in Vietnam are more heroic than soldiers in other wars or that the people who issue the medals are a zealous if careless lot. The latter suspicion is heightened by the revelation that in at least one instance the Silver Star was awarded a brigadier general on the basis of a fabricated citation.

In any case, the dispensing of medals in carload lots can't help but lessen their value to the recipients. The award of the Good Conduct Medal is considered meaningless by most GIs, because it is given with such lack of discrimination. The medal does not signify that the soldier did anything positive, only that he did not have a record showing bad conduct. Anyone who stays out of trouble gets a Good Conduct Medal.

If the military passes out Bronze Stars, Air Medals and other awards with the same bandon that it bestows the Good Canduct Medal, the result will be a nation of decorated veterans who couldn't care less about their military honors. The awards could degenerate, if they haven't already, to the point where the absence of overt cowardice justifies an award for bravery.

Many men have served with valor and distinction in Vietnam and richly deserve the recognition they received. But when one medal gets passed out for every 1.3 servicemen it's evident that the military is getting mighty permissive with medals.

Time Is Running Out

The following editorial is from the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock:

Remember the presidential election campaign of '68. Richard Nixon was elected to office on his platform of stopping the war in Southeast Asia and curtailing inflation by reduced government spending.

It appears he may be successful in stopping the war. Not by peace negotiations as he stated then, but by withdrawal. Certainly not the most honorable method, but one we believe has the support of the majority of Americans.

Insofar as his other promise of reduced spending to halt runaway inflation he has failed. His first two years in office, by his own admission, resulted in spending far beyond his expections. The D.F.L. controlled Congress chopped millions off of his spending proposals and in other cases the bills he proposed never got out of committee.

Now we have his program for the new Congress. He wants 5 billion dollars of new tax money for revenue sharing with the states.

Where will this money come from? Can industry afford another increase in taxes? Absolutely not. Spiraling wages have already driven "Made in America" into the history books.

Can the wage earner afford a bigger tax bite? A definite no! Millions of Americans in the past year or two have given up trying to meet the mortgage payments. Many were laid off of jobs where their industry, defense and construction, was hit the hardest by the economic slowdown. Overtime is almost passe. Millions of these same Americans are now on our welfare rolls.

So what have we gained? Here we have our local, state and federal government not curtailing spending like American industry and American people, but finding new ways to spend money they do not have.

The President's plan for an economic slowdown was a good one. But if it is to work he must cut spending in Washington. Instead of offering states new money in revenue sharing he must urge our states to cut spending and so on down the line.

At no time since the end of World War II has so many Americans and so many industries been faced with the hard cold fact that they must live within their income until this inflation is harnessed. The president had better get on the band wagon.

Living on borrowed money can be just as fatal as living on borrowed time. President Nixon has run out of money and has less than two years in time.

A Bit Hypocritical

Following is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

The broadcast media has felt the heavy, and sometimes tyrannical, hand of the federal establishment. No longer can radio and television carry cigarette advertising.

This we greet with mixed emotions. For years the broadcasters, under control of the Federal Communications Commission, have been able to advertise products, promotions and events that the printed media, under the watchful eye of the postal department, could not carry. It would have been in violation of the postmaster's "Bible," the super-sacred book called Postal Laws and Regulations (PL&R).

Now, however, the shoe is on the other foot. Newspapers and magazines distributed through the mail can carry tobacco and cigarette advertising, but the broadcasters cannot.

We do not question the health hazard involved in smoking cigarettes. In fact, it would be a better world from both a physical and mental point of view if everyone would kick the habit. But apparently the health hazards involved have not been substantiated to a great enough extent to impress the nation's lawmakers. Even the reports of the surgeon general have failed to bring any action on this front.

Our point is quite simple. As long as it is legal to manufacture and sell cigarettes, it should be permissable to advertise them—and we mean through whatever media the industry chooses, electronic or printed. Instead we find the federal government continuing to permit the production and sale of these "cancer sticks," and even more hypocritical we find ourselves (the federal government) subsidizing the production of tobacco. Trying to achieve parity prices for the production of corn and soybeans is like trying to swim the Pacific—but the doors of the treasury are open to the producers of tobacco.

Ban them or permit their promotion in the media, whichever it might be. And this applies to bingo parties and the postal department as well as to cigarettes and the FCC.

Legislature Uses New Computer Idea

The most sophisticated text editing system ever devised is assisting Minnesota legislators in accomplishing their work with dispatch. Employing 14 cathode ray tube (CRT) terminals and a line printer linked by dataphone with an IBM 360 computer, the system eliminates much of the time-consuming drudgery often associated with bill drafting, reproduction and recording.

The text of Minnesota Statutes 1969 has been stored in its entirety in the computer. When preparing bills, it becomes a simple matter for the CRT terminal operator to withdraw the section of the statutes affected, insert the new language, strike the old, print out the proposed legislation with all the required markings at 2,000 words per minute, and insert the proposal in the computer for future retrieval and reference.

Amendments to proposed legislation, offered in committee reports or floor sessions, are easily inserted in their proper places and can be ready for printout and reproduction in a matter of minutes.

The installation, by Aspen Systems corporation of Pittsburgh, was three years in design. It then underwent seven to eight months refining for the Minnesota situation and has been in operation at the State Capitol in St. Paul since Dec. 1, 1970.

While installation of the system has not yet allowed a reduction in staff, it's estimated the number can be cut in half as the kinks are worked out and employees become more familiar with the operation. In the meantime the legislature is enjoying other benefits such as shortened bill preparation time, increased accuracy and near-instant reference.

The system is particularly valuable in Minnesota where legislators are notably prolific in writing and introducing bills. Nearly 3,100 bills were introduced in the House of Representatives, almost 2,700 in the Senate during the 1969 session. Some 1,200 of them were adopted and signed into law. And Revisor of Statutes Joe Bright says preparation of bills is now running ahead of last session although some 500 more bills have been requested than at a corresponding time in the 1969 session.

The system holds other potential as well. Experiments are now underway to determine the economic feasibility of using the computer tapes for automatic preparation of texts for the offset press used in the publication of Minnesota Session Laws and updating of the Minnesota Statutes at the conclusion of each legislative session.

In addition, all bills introduced, but not adopted, this session will be stored in the computer ready for instant retrieval in the event a legislator wants to reintroduce any in future sessions.

The system is the only one of its kind in operation and has been examined by parliamentary personnel from as far away as Sweden.

Public School Attorneys Form New Organization

An organization of attorneys for public school districts in Minnesota has been announced by W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary of the Minnesota School Boards association (MSBA).

The organization, which will operate within the framework of MSBA, is officially the Minnesota School Boards Association Council of School Attorneys.

Raymond Dndov, Austin, was elected chairman of the council and Michael McGuire of Montgomery was selected as vice chairman.

Membership in the council is open to any school board attorney of any public school district in Minnesota. The purpose of the organization is to develop, strengthen and correlate the work of attorneys for public school boards and to work with and assist the Minnesota School Boards association and its district members with legal and related matters.

Directors appointed to the council in addition to Dndov and McGuire are Donald Also[illegible], New Ulm; [illegible] Brink, Hallock; George Kerr, Rochester; DeForest Spencer, Minneapolis; and Bernard Friel, St. Paul.

Peter S. Popovich, St. Paul attorney and counsel to the MSBA board of directors, along with Willard Baker, MSBA administrative assistant, will serve as ex officio members of the new council.

1970 Farm Crop Total Estimated Over 1 Billion

A record value of $1,110,785,000 has been estimated for Minnesota's 1970 farm crop production, announces Acting Agriculture Commissioner Roy D. Carlson. The old record was $999,704,000 estimated value for the record 1968 crop.

The estimate compiled by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture represents an increase of nearly 12 per cent over the value of the 1969 crops.

Record corn and soybean crops contributed most heavily to the $117,840,000 gain in 1970 crop value over 1969.

Corn crop value is estimated at $472,493,600, an increase of $103,087,000. Soybean crop value is estimated at $228,027,000, up by $49,884,000.

Higher average season prices also figured importantly in the record valuation, up 16 cents a bushel for corn and up 38 cents a bushel for soybeans, over the 1969 average prices.

One significant income figure is still missing from the 1970 crop valuation estimate, for sugarbeets, a $32,793,000 crop in 1969. Production this past year was down 544,000 tons, and the average season price has not been established. Last year sugarbeets yielded $13.90 per ton.

Corn and soybeans headed the list of 13 crops that chalked up average price gains in 1970. Price gains also were reported for oats, all wheat, barley, apples, dry beans, potatoes, sunflower seed and carrots.

Eleven crops reflected losses in average prices. Heaviest loser was red clover seed, down $4.40 per pound. Other losers include rye, flax, dry field peas, sweet clover seed, hay, timothy seed, cabbage, onions, sweet corn and green peas.

Commissioner Carlson emphasized that the figures released are only estimated values and do not represent cash farm income. He noted that in 1969, cash receipts from the crop estimated at a value of $992,945,000 amounted to only $500,000,000, because of the heavy amount of grain that is used for livestock and poultry feed.

Estimated valuations released by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service for 1970 Minnesota crops are:

Corn $472,493,000; soybeans $228,027,000, oats $102,297,000; all wheat $37,731,000, barley $19,596,000, rye $2,538,000, dry field peas $277,000; flax $10,969,000, all hay $159,023,000; all potatoes $23,342,000; apples $2,043,000;

Red clover seed $1,220,000; sweet clover seed $193,000; alfalfa seed $209,000; timothy seed $1,007,000; dry beans $1,498,000; sunflower seed $3,423,000; cabbage $541,000, carrots $695,000; onions $428,000, sweet corn $10,375,000; green peas $7,865,000.

Local FFA Chapter Activity Summarized

(Editor's Note: Since this is Future Farmers of America week across the nation, the following summary of activities for the local FFA chapter was written for publication by Darrell Hursman, chapter reporter.)

Regional FFA leadership rallies were held in Thief River Falls with members from 13 chapters participating in the competitive events. Dale Miller won first place in the creed contest and Darrell Hursman took second place in extemporaneous speaking. During the rallies, a check for $100 was presented to Camp Courage by the Thief River Falls FFA chapter.

The chapter carried on various fund-raising activities. One project given particular attention this fall was selling Christmas decorations. This was done with a goal in mind that the profit be used to initiate a loan program for members.

Students interested in starting a productive enterprise such as raising livestock or crops, may secure a loan from the chapter through the local Production Credit association (PCA). Through this loan, boys that would not be able to start a supervised agricultural experience program in production agriculture would be given a start.

The FFA essentially is concerned with the building of its members leadership, cooperation, character, citizenship, thrift, service, patriotism and improved agriculture. The FFA gives a member a better understanding of life as it will be when he is out of the chapter and on his own. Not enough emphasis can be placed upon this fact, in that it is his training for later life.

Since its beginning in 1929 in Minnesota, the FFA has done much to improve the eight essentials as previously stated.

There are four degrees of active membership in the FFA: The Greenhand, the Chapter Farmer, State Farmer and American Farmer. The chapter determines the first two grades of membership, and the state and national determine the third and fourth, respectively.

STANLEY N. MORTENSON of Thief River Falls has submitted his resignation to the office of Gov. Wendell Anderson as judge of probate court for Pennington county. Mortenson was appointed to the position by Gov. Harold LeVander on Jan. 17, 1970. His resignation from the office will be effective April 1 of this year. In his letter to the governor, Mortenson stated that he wished to be relieved of the duties associated with probate court judge to devote full time to his private law practice.

Taxpayer' Group Meets To Plan Its Activities

Temporary officers and steering committee members of the Northwest Taxpayers association met Friday noon to further discuss formation as a permanent organization. President Norris Melander noted that work on the by-laws of the organization is almost complete and that preliminary plans are being made for a general public meeting.

Reminder was issued by the association's school committee that attendance is encouraged to the school board meeting Monday (tonight) at 8 p.m. The group plans to have a spokesman in attendance at the meeting, as well as group representation at the school board meeting and tomorrow night's meeting of Jobs, Incorporated.

Purposes and goals of the new organization will also be outlined by a member of the group at the Tuesday night meeting of Jobs, Incorporated. Representatives of city, county and school district government have been invited to present their role in the local tax situation at that time.

Robert Flynn was appointed to secure office space for the association and Mrs. Si Hanson was named to establish a volunteer force to operate the office.

Taxpayer Ass'n. Statement Read Wednesday Night

Following is the statement of the Northwest Taxpayers association, read by Les Sabo at the Wednesday night meeting between the school board and the teachers' negotiating council:

A new organization, known as the Northwest Taxpayers association, was officially formed on February 10, 1971. Election of officers was held and the following persons were elected to temporary office: President, Norris Molander; Vice President, Albert Koop; Secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Hanson; Treasurer, Robert Flynn.

The elected officers are now processing our legal incorporation, and we are well on the way to being a solidly formed and permanently active association. Our membership is $5 to any person who would like to join.

The taxpayers association came into being simply because so many taxpayers in this area now feel that our real estate and personal property taxes are on the way to being oppressive to the property owner and digressive to the financial condition of the community. With our system of open-end taxation on our real estate and income, the individual taxpayer should exercise much more control and interest on most government spending.

The Northwest Taxpayers association now offers the taxpayer an opportunity to have an immediate and direct united determination and expression on many tax spending matters, whether it be the city of Thief River Falls, county of Pennington, School District 564 or the state of Minnesota.

Our presence at this school district meeting is to offer our views and opinions on the salary levels that now exist for all school district personnel, and to study any new proposals that can affect the expenditure of tax money this coming year of 1971-72. It is the policy of the taxpayers association, that the most efficient way to hold down taxes is to hold down the increases in government spending. Considering that the taxpayer is the source of revenue to pay all these expenses, it is only natural to have more direct control over how much to spend and when to spend.

It is the opinion of the Northwest Taxpayers association that there be no increases on any level of school district spending for the coming year and we charge the school board accordingly. We are not convinced that we can afford a higher budget for this school district. In fact, we are not convinced that we can even afford what we now have.

Our reason for doubting our ability to afford what we now have in this expensive system, is that our real estate and personal property taxes have increased steadily in the past three years from 10 per cent to 20 per cent a year. Then, in January of 1971, most taxpayers received their real estate tax notices and have been jolted by 40 per cent to 100

Throughout its entire system, North Central carried 311,869 passengers in January—22 per cent more than 1970—and revenue passenger miles rose 45 per cent to 72,685,595, according to David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales.

Cargo, including air freight, express and mail, showed an increase of 27 per cent over January of 1970, Moran stated, as 780,468 ton miles were flown.

The airline also maintained its outstanding operating performance in January by flying 2,183,706 of its 2,249,779 scheduled miles for a 97 per cent completion factor.

North Central operated 34 charter flights during the month, transporting 5,084 passengers to such points as Nassau, The Bahamas; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Acapulco and Mexico City, Mexico; Orlando, Fla.; Las Vegas, Nev.; Hartford, Conn.; and Buffalo, N. Y.

Since inaugurating service in 1948, North Central has carried 26.4 million passengers and flown 4.7 billion passenger miles. The airline presently serves 90 cities in 13 states and Canada over a 9,900-mile route system.

More Than 500 Attend Session In Auditorium

With more than 500 people seated in the Lincoln high school auditorium Wednesday evening, the second negotiating session between the Thief River Falls board of education and the teachers' council took place. Most of the crowd attended at the invitation of the newly-formed Northwest Taxpayers association.

Mervin Prestebak, chairman of the board of education, read a three-page counter-proposal to the negotiating council and the assembled crowd. It cited the board's cost analysis of the teachers' proposal made the previous week, expressed concern about rising costs and the district's ability to pay and contained the board's proposal "...in keeping with the economic climate now experienced in the school district". The board proposed that all teacher salaries for 1971-72 remain the same as for 1970-71.

He said that personnel policies and grievance procedures are non-economic and would not be negotiated by the board.

The negotiating council of the faculty left the bargaining table to caucus regarding the board's offer, then returned to hear a prepared statement by the taxpayers association. Les Sabo read the statement, published in its entirety in this issue of the Times.

Prestebak informed the crowd that no questions from the floor would be permitted, since the session was called for negotiating and was not a regular meeting of the board of education. The board's regular meeting will be held tonight (Monday) at Lincoln high school at 8 p.m. Negotiating council report is on the agenda.

While the teachers' council was in caucus, Supt. L. M. Johnson reviewed some general information for the crowd. He noted that teachers on a 185-day contract receive 12 days of sick leave per year, accumulative to 130 days. Sick leave accumulation increases to a maximum of 160 days for teachers on a full year's contract, such as in the vocational-technical school.

One personal leave day per year is also granted, he said. Full hospitalization is provided by the school district, including single coverage for unmarried teachers and family coverage for heads of household. Several extra-curricular salaries were mentioned as being in addition to the regular pay scale.

The 1967 legislature ordered school boards and teachers to meet and confer, he said. Such negotiations can continue until March 1, at which time either the teachers' council or the school board may ask for an adjustment panel. This three member panel is formed to study the evidence and make recommendations for settlement. It is not binding on either the teachers' council or the school board.

By March 20, he said, the board must issue contracts on the last bonafide offer. By April 1 the teachers must sign and return the Lenten Luncheon Set By Women Of Trinity Luth.

Women of Trinity will usher in the season of Lent with a luncheon on Ash Wednesday, February 24, at Trinity church parlors. To accommodate as many working women as possible, serving will begin at 11 a.m., and will continue until [illegible] p.m.

As a focal point for thought and meditation, there will be on display a sacrificial table with foods and related information, depicting a modern day Jewish observance of the Passover Festival. This festival, observed by the Jewish people each spring, near the Easter season, is a great occasion. The meal commemorates the event when the Angel of Death passed over each house with doors that were marked with the blood from the sacrificial lamb. Due to the special order and arrangement of events that occur during the meal symbolic of the events of the first Passover, the supper is known as Seder. Mrs. Phil Kays and Mrs Don Narverud are making the arrangements for this special display. No formal program will be presented at the luncheon. However printed reports and tracts will be distributed.

A stewardship workshop for making and rolling bandages will follow the luncheon. For the workshop, members are reminded to bring needles, thread, scissors and old sheets. A special request is also made for children's used shoes and boots in good condition. These will be donated to the White Earth Indian Reservation at Bagley.

Those attending are welcome to visit the annual book bazaar featuring many types of books. Some copies may be purchased from the display while others will be ordered immediately.

All the women of Trinity are encouraged to attend and participate in the Lenten luncheon and stewardship workshop as time permits. Friends are also welcome. For the convenience of those with small children, nursery care will be provided from 11 a.m., until 4:30 p.m.

FFA Units Help Provide Services For Handicapped

Handicapped of Minnesota would like to salute a very special group of young folks—the Minnesota Future Farmers—during National FFA Week, February 21-27. Why? The handicapped have many reasons to do so!

Through the years the FFA boys have not only been involved and helpful in their own local community affairs, but they have had a deep concern for the statewide needs of Minnesota's handicapped.

In 1953, the Freeborn chapter conducted the first "Cow Drive for Camp Courage," and the proceeds were earmarked to provide camperships for rural youth. After this was initiated by the Freeborn chapter, the idea spread and, even in those areas of Minnesota where corn is not a major crop, these ingenious young fellows thought of many ways to raise money for Camp Courage, such as grain drives, scrap metal drives, dances, pancake breakfasts and sweetcorn feeds.

In addition to furnishing camperships for many deserving handicapped Minnesotans who attend Camp Courage each summer, these boys have raised money to build the speech and hearing therapy center at Camp Courage, and partially equip the therapy rooms. They have helped to initiate a horticulture program for the training and employment of handicapped rural young persons at Camp Courage by raising funds for a greenhouse and workroom. Their newest project is an elevator for one of the major buildings at the camp.

Camp Courage, Maple Lake, is owned and operated by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (MISCCA), a United Fund agency. It is Minnesota's only residential camp for the physically handicapped, blind, and children with speech and hearing handicaps.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Glendon McKeever of Middle River

After several days of above zero temperatures, many of the women in this area have become victims of a strange malady. Symptoms vary. Some report sleepiness, laziness and listlessness. Others rush about, as though super-charged with ambition, opening doors and windows, airing out bedding, washing windows, painting walls and rearranging furniture, causing (according to their husbands) utter confusion.

Women aren't the only victims of this disease, known as spring fever. Businesses are urging customers that now is the time to remodel, paint, sew, dry clean drapes, clean carpets, take a trip, buy or sell. Appetites are also effected by this fever, as noted by witnessing homemakers searching for something to perk-up the meals. Even the hidden recesses of the deep-freezers have been checked for such delicacies as fish, rhubarb, strawberries or raspberries.

We are grateful to Mrs. McKeever of Middle River for sharing one of her favorite rhubarb recipes with us. She stated that in making these bars, she has used frozen rhubarb with success. (These bars also make a delicious dessert when served slightly warm with a dab of ice cream.)

Rhubarb Bars

Filling
1 cup orange-slice candy, cut into pieces
3 cups rhubarb
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup cold water

Method: Dissolve corn starch in cold water. Add rhubarb, sugar and candy. Cook until thick. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Set aside while making the crust.

Crust
1 cup oatmeal
2 cups flour
1 cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup shortening

Method: Combine ingredients and work like pie crust. If unsalted shortening is used, add ½ teaspoon salt. Press ¾ of the crumb mixture on the bottom of a 9 x 13 inch pan. Cover with rhubarb filling and top with remaining crumbs. Bake for 34 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

The McKeevers live on a farm one mile west of Middle River where they are engaged in dairy farming. They have four daughters: Verna, 12, Colleen, 10, Vickie, 9, and Darcie, 7, and all attend school in Middle River. The whole family enjoys snowmobiling. They are members of the First Lutheran church at Middle River.

Legion Post 117 Sets Scholarship Award For ROTC

Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion has announced the establishment of an annual ROTC scholarship award. The scholarship will be awarded to a local graduating high school senior who plans to enroll in an ROTC Reserve Officer Training Corps program at an area college or university.

The $200 award, for each of two years, is designed to encourage outstanding area young men to participate in the ROTC program offered at Minnesota and North Dakota colleges and universities.

Through the establishment of this scholarship program, Ecklund-Homstrom Post 117 joins other American Legion posts throughout Minnesota in "Operation Sponsor", a program designed to encourage the continuance and development of the reserve officers training program. Post 117 has adopted the position that the ROTC program must be maintained and strengthened if the United States is to have adequate leadership to meet the present and future needs of its armed services.

Interested seniors who attend either Goodridge senior high school or Lincoln senior high school should contact their high school counselors for full details and application forms.

FFA Week Being Observed Across Nation This Week

Gov. Wendell Andersan has officially proclaimed the week of February 20-27 as "FFA WEEK" in Minnesota. The week will be observed in Minnesota as a part of the nation-wide week honoring the National Association of FFA with over 430,000 members in 8,176 affiliated organizations. There are 13,470 members of FFA in Minnesota's 270 affiliated local high school chapters. The theme for FFA Week is "FFA—Involved in America's Future."

The FFA week will officially open the 41st anniversary celebration of Minnesota Future Farmers as the first state FFA chapters were founded in Minnesota in 1929 and the first annual meeting was held in May of 1930. Since then Minnesota has had over 78,000 Future Farmers.

Membership in the FFA is made up of youth between 14 and 21 who are or have been students of vocational agriculture in high school. Vocational agriculture in high school provides excellent training in agriculture occupations experience for FFA members who plan to farm, enter agricultural college, or work in a wide variety of agribusiness and natural resources occupations. For every opportunity for an FFA'er in farming today, there are three to four in agribusiness and natural resources.

State headquarters of the FFA is in the agriculture education unit of the state department of education, vocational technical education section, Centennial Building, St. Paul.

The strength of the FFA organization lies in the local secondary school FFA chapter. There, student officers and members are developing into agricultural leaders and conservationists for tomorrow under the guidance of their chapter adviser, the high school teacher of vocational agriculture.

Advisory Group On Sheltered Workshop Meets

Sheltered workshop advisory committee met recently at the Northwestern mental health center in Crookston. Merv Healy, director of Opportunity workshop in St. Paul, was guest speaker.

A proposed establishment grant was discussed and will be completed at the March 3 meeting. This grant would set up the workshop for the first year of operations. The advisory committee would like more endorsements from agencies throughout the Northwest region, and is looking for group homes that could house one or two persons.

A tour of the sheltered workshop in Fergus Falls was planned for the end of the month. That workshop makes unfinished furniture, a project which has been very successful, and has its own locker plant and the Rehab Acres concept.

The advisory committee is accepting applications for director of the sheltered workshop. Applicants should have a concept of the sheltered workshop and would have to hire staff, set up sub-contract work and write grant proposals. A bachelor's degree in business and appropriate experience are also necessary qualifications. Interested persons may contact Mary Huseby, 720 North Main, Crookston.

Articles of incorporation have been registered with the secretary of state. The advisory committee will hold its next meeting on March 3 at the Northwestern mental health center in Crookston at 12:30 p.m.

Taxpayer Ass'n. Statement Read At Board Meet

per cent increases in their real estate tax. We know all of this increase is not created by the school district spending, but we do know that the school district can account for from 62 per cent to 70 per cent of this increase.

We apparently are not alone in operating expensive school systems, and we apparently are not alone in objecting to these expensive school systems. Most of us have followed the newspaper and TV coverage of the taxpayers in the Morris, Minnesota area who marched on the school board in large numbers and told them to quit spending or they would not pay their real estate taxes.

Then quite recently the taxpayers in the Fertile, Minnesota area attended the school board meeting in large numbers and told that school board to hold the line on all spending this year. Now we understand that the school boards in Warren and Kennedy have told the teacher groups they are negotiating with, that their salaries will be the same as last year.

We do not have the answers to the many questions being asked about our spiraling school system budget, and until these answers are forth coming, along with solutions, the Northwest Taxpayers association wants a freeze now on all school district spending. There must be a halt in spending or our entire school system will cease to function due to lack of support and the lack of ability of the taxpayer to carry the already overwhelming tax load.

Board's Statement

Prestebak prefaced the board's statement by noting that the board appreciated the "professional, precise and disciplined manner" in which the [illegible] proposal was presented. He then reviewed the cost analysis of the requests as determined by the central office staff.

The increases requested included: Proposed salary schedule for 1971-72, $293,449; proposed pay scale for extra-curricular activities, $4,061; 1971-72 substitute teacher pay scale, $5,000; hospitalization insurance (teachers' council estimate), $7,400; income protection insurance (teachers' council estimate), $10,000; and added elementary personnel (elementary coordinator, two elementary physical education instructors, two music teachers and one art teacher), $49,000.

Total increased cost estimated by the central office staff was $368,910. The teachers' council had estimated $280,000 increased cost in its initial proposal.

In terms of percentages, Prestebak said, the increase would be 15.1 per cent of the total professional salaries, 11.8 per cent of the instructional budget or nine per cent of the total budget which includes transportation, capital outlay, debt redemption and the school lunch program.

"It appears, after thorough study, that the major economic requests included in your proposal dated February 8 may be more than the school district's financial resources can marshal during this period of increased taxation, limited economic resources and high capital demands," the board chairman said.

"It is the opinion of the board of education that our educational planning has reached a point where it can no longer accept standardization of performance, equalization of teacher loads and promotion of a single salary schedule based upon training and experience," the board's statement continued.

"Further, it is unlikely that our community can endure the inordinate salaries developed by the single salary schedule where the less competent, the average and the highly competent professionals are on the same level. Since salary policy is a framework established by the board of education designed to assist in selecting, developing and retaining teacher personnel, it is apparent that any salary plan must deal in greater proportion than just maximum and minimum salaries based upon training and experience."

The statement stated that training and experience alone do not create competency in teachers, and that "it would seem natural that those who contribute the most should receive a premium for their performance.

"We recommend for your consideration," the statement to the negotiating council continued, "that the board of education and the negotiating council move away from the inflexibility of a single salary schedule and develop the techniques of job analysis and accountability which can be generated into a sound basis for designing professional compensation."

The board offered to purchase income protection insurance (estimated by the teachers' council to cost $10,000), to permit 12 days of sick leave during the school year, with four of the 12 days available for sickness or death in the immediate family or personal emergency (no accumulation mentioned), and to pay a maximum of $11 per month on a single hospitalization insurance policy.

Extra-curricular pay would remain as adopted for the school year 1970-71 and all teacher salaries for the school year 1971-72 would remain at the contract figure for the school year 1970-71.

Under the proposed school calendar, teachers would report [illegible] report for first day of classes September 6. Last day of school for students would be June 2, 1972, and last day of 185-day teacher contract would be June 8.

Following caucuses by both the teachers' council and school board, chairman Vern Isaacson of the negotiating council read the following statement to the board of education:

"Gentlemen: We have quickly reviewed your proposal and we would like to make the following comments:

"1. Your proposal does not show how you will 'contribute the most to those who should receive a premium for their performance.'

"2. Your proposal recommends that we move away from the 'inflexibility of a single salary schedule and develop the techniques of job analysis and accountability'. Yet, you have kept the single salary schedule, and have not moved away from it or offered anything else.

"3. There are other inconsistencies in this proposal and we feel that you are not bargaining in good faith. Therefore, for the best interest of everyone concerned we recommend that other meeting arrangements be made."

FFA Chapter Lists Activity For Past Year

Activities carried on by the FFA bring forth the cooperative spirit. Individual talent is discovered and developed as each member works with the others for a common cause. Each member has individual responsibilities which rest upon his shoulders, bearing in mind that team-work is essential to lasting accomplishment.

Many students today feel little involved with the FFA, which is open to anyone enrolled in a vocational agriculture class, whether living on a farm or not. Because the term FFA stands for Future Farmers of America, many students respond with the feeling, "I do not want to belong to this organization as the basic foundation applies only to farmers. And I do not want to become a farmer".

This feeling cannot be justified, although the name in itself is misleading. There are all too many opportunities for the college and high school graduates to become involved in some related business or enterprise other than the actual production of food. Agribusiness, food processing, conservation, horticulture and forestry all deal with agriculture, but they are not farming.

Many jobs are now open, perhaps due to the fact that someone said to himself, "I do not want to belong to the FFA". Again, the FFA is available to all or any individual age 14-21, whether male or female, and who is now or plans to be enrolled in one of the vocational agriculture courses.

Should the student feel that production agriculture is not the field of his preference, the agribusiness industry offers a broad field of employment dealing mainly in the buying and selling of agricultural products. Upon enrollment in the agribusiness course offered by the vocational agriculture staff, the student is offered a chance to work part time in a store or business dealing in agribusiness. By doing so, the student will gain the work experience and knowledge needed so much in the field of agribusiness.

In summary, the FFA has done much and continues to expand its opportunities for the youth enrolled, as well as the chapter's participation in local events and projects, with one goal in mind: the betterment of our environment and way of life.

$891,007 Found Due To Workers Under Wage Law

U.S. department of labor announced today that its wage and hour division found $891,007 due to 2,044 workers in Minnesota under the fair labor standards act during the last six months of 1970.

Donald H. Haack, acting regional director of the wage and hour division, said investigators discovered $259,855 due as a result of failure to pay the federal minimum wage and $245,626 in unpaid overtime.

Wage and hour division investigators also found $382,753 in underpayments under the equal pay act, which prohibits discrimination based on sex.

Violations of the age discrimination in employment act cost employees $2,773, investigators found, and 17 minors were discovered to be employed in violation of child labor provisions of the fair labor standards act.

The federal minimum wage for most workers is $1.60 an hour. The fair labor standards act [illegible] half overtime rates after 40 hours for most workers covered by its provisions.

The wage and hour division's area office is located at Room 117, Federal Building, 110 South 4th St., Minneapolis, phone 725-2594.

People Biggest State Resource

Minnesota families are the most important resource of the state.

Because the family is a major consuming and producing unit, it is basic to the state's economic and social structure. Minnesota's 3,800,000 people spend billions of dollars each year on goods and services. But they also provide the labor and other resources for the production of goods and services in Minnesota.

The way the consumer spends his dollar determines what products and services our resources provide. More than half of the consumer's dollar goes for food and housing. The average family spends its dollar after taxes in this way: 22 cents for food at home and away, 33 cents for housing, 14 cents for transportation; 11 cents for apparel and upkeep; 19 cents for health and recreation and one cent for entertainment.

Families with less than average income spend relatively more on food, clothing and shelter.

Because the consumer has such a wide array of choices in the marketplace he is often confused as to what to buy. The University of Minnesota's college of home economics and the home economics extension-family living unit of the institute of agriculture have among their primary goals that of helping consumers. Through special classes, publications and use of mass media they guide the consumer in getting the most out of every dollar through intelligent decision making.

University research and extension programs give special attention to such consumer concerns as nutrition, housing, credit, money management, food buymanship, investments, insurance, selection and care of clothing and household goods. The extension programs are available to Minnesotans in every county in the state.

Minnesota's human resources are discussed in "Serving Minnesota's People and Major Resource Industries", a publication available from the county extension office.

U of M Expert Optimistic About Turkey Outlook

A University of Minnesota poultry expert said he has faith that the turkey industry will change course to avoid the financial disaster that will surely follow if it over produces this year.

Minnesota is the nation's number one turkey producer with production of more than 17 million birds in 1970—the second largest crop in the state's history. The Minnesota Turkey Growers association said turkey production is a $60 million a year industry in Minnesota.

Robert Berg, extension poultry specialist, said the industry is aware of the over-production problem and will respond. Some hatcheries have already broken eggs and some have killed 10 per cent of their breeder hens, he added.

Cancellation of orders for young turkeys in some areas indicates that producers are responding to the critical situation, Berg said.

A five-per cent reduction in the number of turkeys raised in this country this year is needed so that the market price of turkey will offset increased production costs, he said. The turkey industry is troubled by higher production costs and lower market prices this year than in past years. Feed costs have increased because corn has been in short supply due to last year's blight, he said.

In order for turkey growers to have a good year, hatchery operators will have to have a "rough" year, he added. "It's better for them (the hatcheries) to kill some breeder hens than to jeopardize our growers," Berg said.

U.S. department of agriculture poultry marketing expert Richard Larkin has said a five-per cent cut in the number of turkeys raised this year would require a breeder hen flock of about 3.1 million head, nine per cent less than a year earlier. To arrive at this size flock, 650,000 hens intended for 1971 egg production would have to be slaughtered.

Long run benefits to the industry of selling off excess hens would be greater than the immediate loss to the owners. It's difficult to determine how many breeder hens have been sold as suggested, but comments from the industry have not been encouraging, Larkin said.

Larkin termed the 1971 outlook for the turkey industry "fair to poor" unless production for slaughter in the second half of the year is reduced to the USDA's 1971 Turkey Marketing Guide recommendations.

Thoughts On Things

While we don't lay claim to expert status in regard to governmental budgets, taxes and the like, we have tried over the years to maintain an acceptable knowledge of these subjects. We often have occasion to discuss them with people whose business it is to work with them, either as elected officials or employees expected to have information for the elected officials.

Because of the nature of our work—reporting on the workings of local government and the actions taken by the various governing bodies—we perhaps have more ready access to information regarding valuation, taxation, budgeting and spending than the average citizen. This doesn't mean that we have the answers, but it does help us to understand the questions.

While there may be some persons who don't believe it, we try to take an impartial view of existing conditions as they come to pass. After we have taken this impartial view, and obtained the information we believe to be relevant, we form our own opinions which are often expressed in these editorial columns.

For the past several years the public's concern about government spending has been growing. Taxes were continually climbing and it became increasingly difficult for persons on a fixed income to pay the taxes on their property. Within the past year a number of things happened which have been topics of general discussion among taxpayers.

At the risk of becoming too wordy and too boring, we are going to devote today's editorial columns to some of our thoughts on pertinent subjects. We don't expect everyone to agree but we hope you will read the entire message. If you do not have the time or interest, pick the subject headings you prefer and read what is said about them.

Government Spending

All forms of government require funds for operation in accordance with the services they perform. Local taxing bodies include the township or municipality (city or village), the county and the school district. Each of these bodies prepares a budget for the coming year, estimating as close as possible the amount of money it will need for the programs it conducts. The budget also includes the amount of money which that board or council will receive from state and federal sources or other local sources.

The councils and boards prepare these budgets on the basis of needs expressed to them by departments. Members of the boards and councils review the requests before authorizing the expenditures. When the budgets are set, the amount of money needed from local taxes is certified by each body to the county auditor. He then sets the mill levy required to raise those funds, based on the taxable valuation of the governmental unit. Amount of government spending is determined when each governing body sets its budget.

How Taxes Are Levied

Taxes on the property of an individual or business are determined by charging the total mill rate needed by the governing bodies against the assessed valuation of the property. Assessed valuation should not be confused with full and true or market value; it is a percentage of full and true value.

A mill is one-tenth of a cent or one-thousandth of a dollar. If one mill is levied against property with an assessed valuation of $1,000, it will produce $1 in taxes. If 10 mills are levied against $1,000 in property value, the tax will be $10. Every mill assessed means $1 tax for each $1,000 in assessed valuation of property.

Revaluation In City

Much of the current tax talk surrounds the revaluation of all real and personal property in the city of Thief River Falls. This was requested by the city council to equalize the value of property and to bring the valuation in line with current market values. Net result of the revaluation was an increase in total assessed valuation.

In general, those individuals who had the largest percentage of increase in their taxes had not been paying their share of the total tax load in previous years. If it required an increase of 40 to 100 per cent in valuation to effect equalization with other similar property, the owners of that property haven't been paying their own way.

It is our personal opinion that market values were established at an inflated figure, since a number of sales used as a base were made during a time of rapidly rising population and a critical shortage of housing.

Whether the values are high or not would make no difference, however, if they are equalized fairly among themselves and only the city itself was affected. It would simply require fewer mills levied against the higher valuations to produce the dollars needed for government operation. It is dollars which taxpayers must find to pay their taxes, not mills.

Rural Revaluation

The state department of taxation has committed itself to having the rest of Pennington county revalued in the same manner as the city of Thief River Falls. The county commissioners can institute such action or it will be ordered by the state tax department. A survey made by the state indicated that revaluation was necessary.

County commissioners and others will argue that some of the sales in the survey are not valid for comparison. They involve changes in land use and other factors, including no little amount of speculation and tax-loss farming.

In all fairness, however, no one should object to being assessed on an equal basis with his neighbor. Indeed, he should insist upon it. For that matter, if it could be accomplished practically, a full revaluation of the entire state would be the most equitable path to follow. It will never happen, however, so equalization within the county is the most that can be expected.

A Piece Of Pie

A simple pie chart which many community people have seen shows the manner in which the Thief River Falls tax dollar is divided. It shows approximately 19 cents of the dollar to the city of Thief River Falls, 19 cents to the county of Pennington and 62 cents to School District 564. The rural pie would be different, since townships levy considerably less than the city.

But let's take a look at that 19-cent piece of pie in the city of Thief River Falls. It does not include revenue collected from the municipal power plant, the municipal liquor store, the municipal sewage plant, the municipal water plant, the municipal garbage service and special assessments for improvements.

The municipal power operation alone will return $543,500 to the city's general fund—above costs of operation—according to the current budget. Profits are expected in the amounts of $27,900 from the water department, $95,000 from the liquor store, $9,500 from sewerage charges and $1,285 from garbage collection fees. All of these figures are in excess of operational costs, and total $564,024.

What does this mean? Simply that selling municipal services at rates far in excess of operational cost enables the city to adopt a lower mill levy to finance its budget. It would require 147.9 mills to raise $564,024 in taxes. The current levy is 87.8 mills. Combined this would create a mill levy of 235.7 mills—within 50 mills of the school district's levy of 282 mills.

We don't say the city is wrong in obtaining its funds this way. It may be an equitable way to raise the money. What we do say is that it isn't fair to compare one taxing body with others when one has revenue-producing operations and the others do not.

Teacher Negotiations

The most current topic of discussion is the 1971-72 contract negotiations between the board and teachers of School District 564. Initial proposals have been presented by both groups. There is a difference between what the teachers' negotiating council believes its requested increments and benefits would cost and what the school administration has calculated the amount to be. The council estimated $280,000; the administration says $368,910.

More than 500 people—encouraged by a newly-formed taxpayer association—attended the negotiating session Wednesday night. For the most part they wanted to impress upon the board of education that they wanted an end to increased spending, and that included teacher salaries.

It isn't that simple any more.

State law says that teachers' councils and school boards must bargain in good faith. That directive is not merely a suggestion or a guide line, it is the law. Anyone who advocates "holding the line" by insisting that the board of education hold to its initial offer is asking his elected officials to knowingly and deliberately violate the law.

We very strongly believe that it is just as wrong for a board of education to break the meet and confer law as it is for teachers to break the no strike law.

The turn-out at Wednesday's negotiating session must have been equally impressive on the teachers' council as it was on the board of education. Genuine concern about rising government costs was demonstrated. Teacher salaries are not the only cause of increasing school costs, but since the meet and confer law was enacted by the legislature, public attention has been focused on contract negotiations.

No Easy Task

It is much easier to criticize your elected officials for wasteful spending then it is for them to accomplish the thrift you might like to see. There are often legal requirements and some of the "strings attached" mentioned above which tie the hands of commissioners, councils and board members.

We believe that our city, school district and county officials all want to do the best job they possibly can for the people they represent. They can't give more services at less cost. They can try to hold the line in total spending, if that is truly what the taxpayers want. But it will be no easy task.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I have heard and read much comment that mobile home owners do not pay taxes or that they do not pay their fair share. Being in the mobile home business I know this is not true.

I have made a comparison with information obtained from the city assessor and the clerk of court, of the tax on a home and lot located in the City of Thief River Falls with an assessed value of $8,000 and a new mobile home with an assessed value of $8,000.

The home owner pays a tax of $225. Of this tax the city gets 19 per cent or $42.75; the county gets 19 per cent or $42.75; and the school district gets 62 per cent or $139.50.

The mobile home owner pays a tax of $263.30 and a plate fee of $3.25. Of the $263.30 the city gets 30 per cent or $78.99; the county gets 10 per cent or $26.33; the school district gets 50 per cent or $131.65 and the state general revenue fund keeps 10 per cent or $26.33 for collecting the tax. The tax on the home can be paid in two installments; the tax on a mobile home is due in full on January 10 of each year or 8 per cent penalty is added.

If the mobile home owner owns his lot he will pay real estate tax on the lot, or if he parks it in a mobile home park the park owner pays taxes on the lot in addition to the tax the mobile home owner pays.

Based on the above, I believe mobile home owners are paying their fair share of taxes. They are not paying as much tax as a home owner with a $20,000 or a $30,000 house, but I think the city—by re-evaluating the property in the city—is committed to the fact that a person should pay taxes based on the value of his property.

Maybe some mobile home owners would like to live in a $30,000 home, but they are on a budget and could not be self-supporting if they would purchase a $30,000 home and have to pay the taxes and expenses involved in owning a home of this value.

I believe people should purchase housing that will fit their budget and not ever buy to a point where they can not pay their taxes and expenses. This can happen and I think in some cases has happened.

My view is that a mobile home can not be taxed the same as a $20,000 or $30,000 home because it is low cost housing and should be taxed as such, which it now is.

Sincerely,
Les Snetting

Legislative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

The House Transportation committee has been one of the most active in the entire legislature having received more than 60 bills already. Significantly, this committee produced the session's first bill to be enacted into law: An emergency measure to permit an extension of the March 2 deadline for the display of new license plates, a law made necessary by production delays at the plate-manufacturing facilities in the St. Cloud reformatory.

Some two dozen bills dealing with highway safety have been introduced and referred to a special subcommittee, which will probably be kept busy for most of the session. Many of these bills contain measures designed to cut down on drunk driving, providing among other things:

Stiffer penalties for violating the DUI law, especially for repeat offenders.

A law making it automatically illegal to drive with a blood-alcohol level above 10 per cent by weight.

Authority for police officers to give preliminary breath tests to suspected drunk drivers, to determine whether an arrest is justified.

Other safety measures introduced include re-examination for applicants for drivers license renewal, periodic vehicle safety inspections, and stronger measures to prevent driving after a license suspension or revocation.

One of the more controversial bills of the first month of the session has been a proposal to require all new cars sold in Minnesota after 1973 to have bumpers capable of absorbing a five-mile-per-hour test crash without damage. After 1975 new car bumpers would have to withstand a 10 mile-per-hour crash. Supporters of the measure claim that present-day bumpers provide little protection and are easily dented or crumpled in low speed collisions. They cite figures to show that Minnesotans' auto insurance premiums could be cut by nine million dollars if these requirements are enacted.

Representatives of the Big Three car makers told the committee that the 10-mile-per-hour standard would cost the motorist more (because of price increases) than it would save in insurance costs, and that the most economical and practical requirement would be a front-end bumper designed to stand up under a five-mile-per-hour test crash with only a few minor dents and scratches.

One bill which has been before the legislature for several years looks as if it may finally make its way into the lawbooks this year. This is the bill to allow drivers to make right turns on red lights at all intersections unless a sign has been posted to prohibit the movement. Under present law right turns can be made against a red light only at intersections signed to permit them. The change would be effective in mid-1972.

All these matters have come before the committee in the last month. Many other bills are expected to be acted upon before the end of the session, and several of them—such as the future of studded snow tires, proposed increases in vehicle license fees and the gas tax, and a new fund to finance the replacement or reconstruction of unsafe bridges will have a lasting impact on Minnesota's total transportation picture.

Mrs. Emma Paulson of Lancaster visited with Mrs. William Wikstrom on Sunday afternoon.

Grant Seale, Conrad Stallock and William Wikstrom were visitors at the Clifford Smith home on Thursday afternoon.

Strandquist will hold a whist tournament on February 20th at 8 at the Legion hall. Admission will be $1.50. Auxiliary will serve lunch.

Robert Lindstrom, Great Lakes, Illinois Naval hospital and John Wagner of north St. Paul spent the weekend visiting at the Morris Lindstrom home.

Robin Swanson, Rita Kasprowicz, John Wagner and Robert Lindstrom were supper guests at the Morris Lindstrom home on Sunday. Those who came later in the evening to help Morris celebrate his birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Vance Lefrooth and family, Arne Lindstrom and children and grandfather Lindstrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sihlberg visited with Mrs. P. E. Sihlberg at the Greenbush hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Cora Johnson, Mrs. Tillie Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson of Holt were visitors at the Edwin Lefrooth home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pearson of Warren and Mrs. Anna Brekke were visitors at the Kittelson home on Sunday afternoon.

The Strandquist Warriors were defeated by the Middle River Skippers by the score of 55-54 in a game played in Middle River on Saturday night.

Walter Brekke was a morning visitor and a noon luncheon guest at the Louis Larson home on Monday. Gayhard Nelson and Dennis Brekke of Warren also called at the Larson home on Monday.

Mrs. Donald Nelson, David and Jill of Warren were visitors at the Louis Larson home on Tuesday. They also spent the night and returned to their home on Wednesday morning.

Visitors at the Louis Larson home this past week were Mrs. Anna Brekke, Mrs. Irvin Larson, Mrs. Herman Nelson, Mrs. Ella Thun and Randy Nelson.

Crop Set-Asides In Feed Grain, Wheat Programs Explained

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has announced 1971 crop set-asides of 20 per cent for feed grain and 75 per cent for wheat.

These set aside percentages were announced as tentative on Dec. 8, 1970, and were based on preliminary estimates of acreage required for this year's production to meet U.S. domestic and export needs. The preliminary estimates now appear to be satisfactory, USDA officials said.

The set-aside program is designed for a market-oriented agriculture. It will give producers more options on what and how much to plant than the former crop-by-crop planting requirements, the department explained.

Under the set aside, a farmer sets aside his share of the national land diversion required to prevent overproduction—but he can plant his remaining acres to whatever crop he chooses. Regional shifts in cropping patterns are already showing up in the preliminary planting intentions survey recently conducted by USDA, as farmers seek lower production costs and higher net incomes from sales.

The 20 per cent diversion requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for sorghum times the yield established for the farm times one-half the corn and grain sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on the production from half their corn base, and $1.24 a bushel ($2.21 a hundredweight) on half their sorghum base.

Payments to feed grain producers will begin as soon as possible after July 1.

The certificate payment rate for wheat will depend on the final parity price for wheat and the actual market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 per bushel, national average. Producers will get preliminary payments equal to 75 per cent of the estimated face value of the certificate soon after July 1. The remainder will be paid after Dec. 1, 1971.

In 1971, acreage planted to soybeans will not be considered planted to wheat, feed grain or cotton.

Eight alternate crops may be grown in 1971 on acreage set aside from the production of feed grain and wheat under provisions of the agricultural act of 1970. They are guar, sunflower, sesame, castor beans, mustard seed, safflower, crambe and plantago ovata.

There will be a $10 per acre reduction in the payment due participating farms which plant any of the eight allowable crops on set-aside acreage. The figure of $10 per acre is based on the approximate average reduction under prior programs for planting these crops on diverted acres.

The agricultural act of 1970 provides the secretary of agriculture with authority to allow the planting of certain crops on set-aside acreage. The law states he must determine that such production is needed to provide an adequate supply, is not likely to increase the cost of the support program, and will not adversely affect farm income.

USDA also announced today loans will not be extended on 1968-crop corn in on-farm storage. Market demand for corn continues to be strong, the department explained. Release of this corn to the market is required to maintain a free supply in order to continue current levels of usage.

Cotton, feed grain and wheat producers who wish to qualify for program benefits must sign up to participate during the period March 1 through April 8, 1971.

Public Invited To Scuba Diving Seminar At UND

University of North Dakota invites the public to attend a free scuba diving equipment seminar (lecture and demonstration). This seminar will be held on Friday, February 26, starting at 6 p.m. in the Lecture Bowl of the Student Union Centre.

It is intended to acquaint all persons (high school, college and adult working levels) with some of the equipment available to them and other divers and point out several safety aspects of scuba diving.

Mr. Mike Drock, an internationally known and experienced diver will be the guest lecturer. He will be presenting several items to those in attendance for their discussion. Mr. Brock is very knowledgable and highly respected in regards to the scuba diving equipment industries.

This seminar is designed to give the public some insight into the types of equipment available and will demonstrate some of the uses in this fascinating sport.

It is being offered under the auspices of the University's Physical Education Service Program. Scuba diving is one of the many lifetime sports taught in this program at the university.

There will be a lecture followed by pool demonstrations. Following the pool demonstrations, Mr. Brock and other instructors will be available for open discussions on scuba diving.

Study Confirms Impairment Of Driving Ability

For most people, definite impairment of driving ability starts well below the state's presumptive level of intoxication, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today. In Minnesota, .10 per cent concentration of alcohol in the blood is the legal presumptive level.

Hoaglund's comments were made after reviewing the findings of a week-long experiment conducted by the department and other agencies in cooperation with KSTP radio.

"Starting on Sunday, December 26, and continuing through Wednesday, December 30, we conducted drinking and driving experiments with 29 volunteer subjects of both sexes. On Sunday, 11 of them reported to the St. Paul public school driving range at 10 a.m. After completing a dry run through the test area, each subject was given measured amounts of alcohol in drinks of their choice. After reaching certain blood-alcohol levels, the subjects again drove on the range and were tested on a Breathalyzer machine.

"On the following Tuesday and Wednesday nights, two sets of different volunteers were subjected to the same experiment in a large hotel room, with a comprehensive measuring machine replacing the driving range.

"We tested a cross section of subjects, ranging from the early twenties to 60 in age, and from 103 to 210 pounds in weight. Although generally the heavier people were able to drink larger quantities, we definitely found that impairment of driving skills began after from three to six drinks containing one ounce of 86 proof beverage alcohol.

"In other words, though .10 per cent is the presumptive level of intoxication in Minnesota, we know that serious driving impairment begins much sooner.

"We also noted several interesting deviations from person to person. For example, two 210-pound men drank the same amount and had approximately the same blood-alcohol levels. However, there was a difference of almost 30 years in their ages. When they were given depth perception and reaction tests, the older man's reactions were much more seriously impaired than those of the younger man.

"Another case was that of two young women of 25 who weighed approximately the same. After a given number of drinks, one tested .08 per cent and the other tested a high .14 per cent.

"From these and other experiences with the subjects, we are convinced that no simple, foolproof formula can be applied to how much a person can safely drink based on his weight alone. The person's build, general state of health, age, drinking experience, and many other factors definitely bear on the degree of impairment a subject will experience. In other words, to be really safe, if you drive, don't drink," Hoaglund recommends.

"We are now in the process of conducting a detailed evaluation of the experiment, and will have some interesting conclusions in the following week."

Minnesota Has Its Birthplace At Stillwater

Minnesota's birth at Stillwater resulted from a quirk in the U.S. government planning when Wisconsin became a state in May, 1848. A triangle of land, previously a part of the Wisconsin territory, was not included in the boundaries of that newly admitted state.

This triangle, between the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers, was left without government regulation since the St. Croix was the western boundary of Wisconsin. Settlers in the triangle, left without protection, mail service or roads, decided to do something about it.

In August, they called an unusual public meeting known as the Stillwater convention of 1848. The 61 delegates who attended drafted memoranda to Congress and the President calling for the formation of a Territory of Minnesota. Fur trader Henry Sibley was chosen by delegates to go to Washington and lobby for the proposal.

A former Wisconsin territory official later was named governor of the triangle by the delegates and, from a home established in Stillwater, issued a proclamation calling for the election of a delegate to Congress from the no-man's land, labeled the Territory of Minnesota. Sibley was elected and his efforts in Washington were successful in the establishment of the Minnesota Territory in 1849.

Stillwater's first lumber mills were built in 1844. Within 10 years, the pioneer settlement was the leading lumbering community in the territory. It retained that distinction for nearly 50 years, until competition from wilderness areas transferred superiority to towns in northern Minnesota.

Among tourist attractions in Stillwater are Curtis Cave, the ruins of Minnesota's first prison, the state's oldest court house still in use, the present state prison and the Washington County Historical society, which offers guided tours every afternoon from spring to fall.

Stillwater is about 30 minutes' drive from either St. Paul or Minneapolis on expansive new U.S. highway 36 and state highway 96. This ascent to Stillwater takes visitors along scenic highways carved by both man and nature.

Some Like It Hot . . . Some Like It Cold . . .

For a hearty mid-winter supper how about grilled knockwurst and sauerkraut in toasted bread shells with hot potato salad and a crunchy celery salad? It's a menu that makes a marvelous Saturday night supper and one that is sure to make a hit with the teen-agers as a change from their regular party fare of hamburgers or pizza.

With this hearty meal serve mugs of hot or iced tea. If you serve it hot, be sure to make it strong and hearty, remembering to use one teaspoon of tea or one teabag per serving. If you serve it cold (and more and more families are serving iced tea all year round), remember to use 50 per cent more tea to allow for melting ice. Here's an easy way to make a big pitcherful, enough for 10 servings.

- Bring 1 quart freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
- Remove from the heat and immediately add 15 teabags or ⅓ measuring cup loose tea.
- Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes.
- Stir and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water.
- When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses.

Minnesota Ag Department Aids Bull Shipment

Minnesota department of agriculture has helped establish a significant new international market beachhead in Italy for the livestock industry, Commissioner Jon Wefald claimed today.

A flight from Metropolitan airport on February 24 will transport 209 Charolais cross bull calves to Milan, Italy, for a new cattle feeding operation intended to bolster southern Europe's short supply of red meats.

Commissioner Wefald said the shipment consumates 10 months of negotiations by the marketing services division of the Minnesota department of agriculture, bringing together the buyers in Italy and the unique cattle procurement facilities of the Central livestock order buying company of South St. Paul.

"The potential for future feeder cattle sales in Italy and perhaps in other nations in southern Europe is tremendous. The February 24 shipment is the first of a possible order of 10,000 feeder calves indicated by the Italian buyers," Commissioner Wefald stated.

He said the historic consignment represents a $50,000 initial sale. The calves, weighing 496 to 500 pounds apiece and aggregating 83,000 pounds, are now in required quarantine in Central's U.S.D.A. holding pens in Newport.

The shipment also requiring a special conversion of a four-engine jet transport chartered from Seabord World Airlines, to accomodate the 209 young bulls.

It reportedly will be the biggest airlift of bull calves in aviation history.

Commissioner Wefald said the successful marketing promotion demonstrates the effectiveness of both the Minnesota department of agriculture's efforts and the new development muscle provided by the 12-state Mid-America international agri-trade council.

"Actually, this first shipment of cattle came from Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana, because the specification was for Charolais cross, and our midwest livestock industry is still building its foundation stock for this exciting new beef animal.

"We figured importantly in this transaction," Commissioner Wefald explained, "because of the MIATCO product bank, recognition by the U.S. department of agriculture foreign agricultural service, and our demonstrated ability to provide any service on filling world food and fiber needs."

Commissioner Wefald added that while the first shipment required Charolais, the Italian buyers have been made aware of and expressed strong interest in purchase of beef feeder calves that are in good supply in Minnesota, in their future orders.

He praised the personal efforts of the Department's export marketing specialist, LeRoy Thoreson, and the companion cooperation of Francis Anderson of Central livestock order buying company for the success of the current sale.

Commissioner Wefald noted that the Minnesota department of agriculture's marketing services division also has spearheaded another major MIATCO bid for new and expanded international trade. In the forthcoming food industry trade mission to Tokyo, Japan, in April Minnesota's delegation now numbering 13 food processing firms, will be the largest 12-state MIATCO food exposition.

Commissioner Of Agriculture Favors DDT Ban

Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald has proposed a total ban on the use of DDT and mercury compounds in pesticides in Minnesota.

"We in the Minnesota department of agriculture are in complete agreement with the policy stand taken by Governor Wendell R. Anderson, and wish to implement his demand for the cleanup and protection of our environment," Commissioner Wefald declared.

He said he will soon announce a hearing date on a proposed amendment of existing Minnesota department of agriculture pesticide regulations, to achieve the ban.

"This action further emphasizes the department's concern for protecting the state's environment and providing greater protection of our foods and natural resources," Commissioner Wefald stated.

He explained that the proposed ban on DDT and mercury compounds by the amending of existing regulations implementing a 1969 law "is a necessary expedient to insure against further possible damage to the ecology in the new insect season only three months away.

"This action will complement the priority the department has already assigned to a Legislative proposal asking additional powers to regulate the management and use of all pesticides," Commissioner Wefald declared.

The proposed ban on DDT would eliminate the four remaining restricted pesticide uses, one for control of bats, two for control of potato insects and one for control of fruit insects. Mercury compounds would be banned from pesticide formulation and in the treatment of agricultural seeds.

No Fault Insurance Bill Is Introduced

A bill to change the automobile insurance system in Minnesota was introduced Monday in both the Senate and House of Representatives. The proposed legislation would replace the present liability coverage with "no fault" insurance that pays all the medical and economic losses of an auto accident victim, without regard to who caused the accident.

The bill has strong bi-partisan authorship, including five lawyers, the senate majority leader, one of the two doctors in the legislature, and the chairman of the senate subcommittee which gave the bill presession study.

Senator Jack Davies, Minneapolis DFLer, is chief senate sponsor. His co-sponsors are majority leader Stanley Holmquist, Grove City conservative, and Rollin Glewwe, South St. Paul conservative. Glewwe was chairman of the senate interim committee on no-fault insurance.

Representative Howard Knutson, Burnsville conservative, is chief house sponsor. Knutson is a lawyer and a member of the insurance committee to which the bill will be referred. Knutson's co-sponsors are DFLers Dr. Vernon Sommerdorf, St. Paul, and L. Joseph Connors, Fridley, and conservatives Roger Scherer, Brooklyn Center, and Salisbury Adams, Wayzata. Adams, Scherer and Connors are also lawyers.

"Under the no-fault, or insure-yourself plan, you buy insurance to protect yourself and your family," said Knutson. "If there is an accident, you go directly to your own insurance company for compensation. They pay all of your economic losses right away and for as long as needed."

Senator Stanley W. Holmquist said, "This system answers the problems that have frustrated the accident victim under our present compensation system. There's no longer the need to suffer the expense and delay of determining fault before collecting damages from the other driver's insurance company. The basic idea of the bill is to eliminate accident lawsuits and to provide instead insurance like fire or medical insurance where companies quickly pay appropriate benefits to their own customers."

All the authors emphasized the inefficiency of today's lawsuit system of auto insurance in explaining their support for the no fault, insure-yourself system.

According to the reform bill's authors, this new type of auto insurance would cost less than present coverages. How much of a savings would depend upon the driver's choice of coverages and driving record, but Senator Davies estimates costs will average less than present premium rates. Most of the savings would be in the costs of investigating and litigating automobile damage suits, and would come principally from the elimination of legal fees, fault-determination costs and settlements for "pain and suffering" damages.

"Despite the high cost of auto insurance in Minnesota today, only 14½ cents of the premium dollar goes to compensate victims for out of pocket loss, and then only if the victim can prove that someone else caused the accident. Under the bill introduced today, which will make insurance available at a lower cost than the present system, payments for net economic loss arising from personal injuries will almost triple, and will represent more than 50 per cent of the bodily injury premium dollar," Knutson said.

"The combination of sensible and adequate benefits and lower costs is hard to believe unless you understand the extravagance and waste in today's system," Davies said.

Features of the no-fault or insure yourself proposal include:

—Persons injured in auto accidents would be certain of receiving insurance benefits; there would be no exclusions on the basis of fault.

—Hospital and medical expenses would be paid without limit.

—Policy would cover economic losses, including present and future wage loss, cost of substitute services and other expenses.

—Rehabilitation services would be included, encouraged and fully paid.

—Permanent impairment would be compensated according to a schedule of benefits.

—Damage to property other than automobiles would be covered.

—Insurance would cover an entire family, when riding, walking or when passengers in other cars.

—Complete coverage would be provided for out-of-state driving.

"With more than 100 million cars on U.S. highways today, the time has come to abandon an auto insurance system that developed in horse and buggy days. The popularity of first party benefits under our liability system make it apparent that what the public wants from auto insurance is benefits, not lawsuits," Holmquist said.

"Whether the bill will pass this session depends to a great extent on the public," Davies said. "The legislators are well informed on the issue and quite sympathetic. They are waiting to see what the public reaction is before making commitments, however. I think a dozen letters to each legislator from individuals from his district would make the bill move."

Among the organizations which have endorsed no-fault auto insurance are the American Insurance Association, a national trade association consisting of property and casualty insurers, the Minnesota NFO and the Minnesota Farmers Union. In its 1971 policy statement, the latter organization said "We recommend that very serious consideration be given in the state and the nation to the so-called 'No Fault Insurance,' under which each auto insurance company would be responsible to its own policy-holders for losses they may suffer, regardless of blame for the accident."

"Although our no-fault proposal is not in force in any jurisdiction in the United States, it is based on proven insurance principales and common sense," Holmquist said.

Resources Dep't. Outlines Proposals

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Friday announced some of the legislative proposals it will be supporting during the present session.

Robert Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources, said the following are some of the major items of legislation that the Department hoped to see enacted at this session:

The conservation education bill: This appropriates $1,077,000 to the Department of Natural Resources and Department of Education to implement an environmental education program in the public school system.

Registration fee or other charge levied on severed mineral interests: Absence of such a fee has resulted in land owners selling the surface rights while reserving ownership of potential mineral values. The result has frequently been hopelessly fractionalized ownership of the mineral interests which impeded development of mining industries or acquisition for public recreational use.

Game and fish contingency fund: To establish a $1.5 million emergency fund from general revenue sources to assure continuation of game, fish and enforcement programs in case license income falls short of appropriations.

Legislation to implement the Voyageurs National Park.

A bill to exempt landowners from liability where private lands are opened to the public for recreational use. Would permit Department to acquire easements from private owners to facilitate trail development and other recreational uses.

Authority to regulate all terrain vehicles (ATV's) on public lands and waters and wherever potential environmental damage would result from unregulated use.

Authorization to develop a program to regulate conflicting recreational uses of lakes and streams following the holding of public hearings.

Strengthen the boat safety laws to reduce the number of accidents, personal injuries, property damage and fatalities.

Authorize the Department to charge a fee for permits to chemically control weeds and algae in public waters. The fee will partially offset costs of supervision needed to assure correct application of proper chemicals to designated areas.

Authorize Commissioner to set a moose season.

Designate the bear as a game animal. Presently classed as an "unprotected species".

Authority and funds to administer a program to supervise abandonment, repair and general regulation of dams in public waters.

Authority to set regulations for the humane caging and treatment of animals at roadside zoos and exhibits.

An appropriation, contingent on matching contributions from private sources, to develop a method of dry processing taconite. Purpose is to minimize the need for reservoirs and discharge basins which frequently have a negative effect on the environment. This is the same type of funding arrangement which produced the taconite process.

Continuation of the small game hunting surcharge for wetlands acquisition. Surcharge is due to expire in 1972.

Continuation and expansion of the accelerated fish and game habitat development programs now underway.

Broader authority to the Commissioner of Natural Resources to set hunting and fishing seasons.

Legislation to facilitate development of the St. Croix Wild River area, including a proposed Sunrise River State Park.

Authorization to acquire abandoned railroad right of way, easements to power line corridors and similar areas to give land jurisdiction to the Department for development of recreational trails.

Authorize the Department to charge a fee for permits to appropriate public waters, do work in the bed or shoreline of public waters and store gas underground in natural rock formations.

This is the time of year when you come in from outdoors and back up to a stove or wish you could. I read a story in one of my schoolbooks when I was in elementary school about a boy who loved a stove. The stove was described as trimmed with tiles and iron moldings. I never could quite imagine it until last summer when I visited a farm museum in southern Minnesota. There was a stove with tiles, an upright heater with colored ceramic tiles fastened around the top and bottom. That started me thinking of some of the stoves I have known.

There was our kitchen cookstove when I was a child—a black Home Comfort range. It was trimmed with shiny metal, like chrome, that had to be polished. There were rosettes of this on the warming oven doors. I can see that stove so well in my mind. There four round "griddirs" on top in pairs. These could be lifted up with a "poker" to get at the fire underneath. Then there was one flat section between the "griddles" and the reservoir. The reservoir was a tin or copper-lined tank at the right hand side of the stove. This had a cover hinged in the middle so it could be lifted up. Water was either pumped from a cistern (soft water) or carried in from the well to fill the reservoir. It held five to ten gallons usually. A tin dipper hung nearby so the water, warmed by the stove, could be dipped out for cooking or washing.

On the left side of the cooking surface of the stove a hinged lid projected over an extension of the firebox. If the "griddles" were occupied by pans and kettles, fuel could be added here—wood, corn cobs, coal, whatever was used. There was a sliding damper, on the lid whereby little rectangular holes could be opened or closed to regulate the fire. There was also an opening to the firebox through a square door on the front of the stove. Some stoves, as ours did, had one door for the firebox and another for the ash pan. Other stoves had a single rectangular door that covered both and a flat door underneath for the firebox. Usually these covering doors were rounded and trimmed with shiny metal and ornamental iron work. The ash box was the part of the stove I liked least. I didn't care much for carrying wood in, but carrying ashes out was worse.

Mother made us put down a newspaper under the stove because ashes always spilled when one pulled out the long metal drawer under the firebox. Usually it was hot so you had to use potholders or mittens. If you didn't burn yourself then ashes blew in your face when you went out the door. We dumped our ashes behind the outdoor toilet. Over the years quite a pile built up. The chickens used it for dust baths in summer. After you emptied the ash pan then you had to scrape out the left over ashes from the space. There was a special little scraper than hung behind the stove. It was a metal rod with a ring on one end and on the other a peice of flat metal about one by two inches. This was also used to scrape out soot from the little soot door under the oven. Mother usually did this job because soot is unpredictable. Or rather you can predict that it will fly all over. It is black flakes or powder and light as feathers. It is also slightly greasy so it sticks rather than brushes off easily. Fortunately, soot needed to be cleaned out only every month or so. Ashes were cleaned daily.

In the center of the stove front was the oven door usually with a round glass covered dial with a pointer that indicated "cold-warm-hot". Later models showed degrees. The oven door was also trimmed with molding. It opened downward revealing an ordinary box type oven. I can remember my mother testing the heat by holding her hand inside for a moment. Oven heat in a cookstove was tricky. If you could get slowburning coal or semi-dry wood that was best. We burned a lot of corn cobs and they were difficult because they burn fast causing the oven to get too hot and then cool down too fast. Every now and then my Dad would come in, not knowing my Mother was baking, and "fire up". Then we ate burned bread.

Besides the warming oven where food could be kept hot, our stove had a couple of bracket shelves on the back. They could be folded up out of the way or put down to hold the coffee pot or a small pan. They were round, of a sort of filagree design.

If I ever get enough money I'd like to have a kitchen big enough to have a cookstove in one corner. I'd keep my electric stove, but it would be so nice to back up to an old fashioned cook stove on a chilly day or to pull up a chair to the open oven door and prop my feet up to toast the cold out.

Today's pork contains fewer calories than was the case a decade ago and has 22 per cent more protein. A 3½-ounce serving of cooked pork—that's a good-sized pork chop—has about 250 calories, about the same as a similar serving of other meat. Pork is 96 to 98 per cent digestible.

Have you wondered how many pounds of loin roasts and pork chops one hog will yield? Here are some figures from the American Meat Institute.

East Grand Forks Tops Prowler Hoopsters 71-55

DALE HANSON and Rande Smith (51) go up with Don Johnson of the Green Wave in an attempt to block his shot in Friday night's 71-55 loss at the hands of the Green Wave. Mark Thyren (43) and Kent Smith (33) look on during the fourth quarter action. The Prowlers will travel to Warren Saturday night before closing out their regular season on March 6, at Fergus Falls.

East Grand Forks maintained its unbeaten record in Big Five Conference play Friday night as they pulled away from a 31-29 halftime advantage for a 71-55 win over Thief River Falls in the Lincoln gym.

High-ranked "East Side" has lost just two games all season, both to Grand Forks Red River, and holds a 7-0 mark in the Big Five.

The Prowlers, now 9-7 for the year, held the Green Wave to a 15-15 stand-off after the first quarter and stayed with the conference foe in the second quarter before the one-two punch of 6-7 Mark Syrstad and 6-3 Don Johnson gave the Green Wave their win.

Syrstad led all scorers for the game with 26 points with Johnson chipping in 20 and sophomore Rip Thompson adding 10 for the Green Wave. Dale Hanson led the Prowlers in scoring with 24 points while Rande Smith added 11.

Rande Smith scored the first three points for the Prowlers before Stan Leach put the Green Wave on top 4-3 with 7:12 remaining in the first period. Baskets by Hanson and Mike Hamerlinck gave the Prowlers a 7-4 lead with 5:36 remaining. Scott Gravseth cut the margin to 9-8 with 3:53 remaining and Syrstad added two free throws with 2:54 left to give the Wave a 10-8 lead. Hamerlinck put the Prowlers in front 11-10 with his shot from the corner but Stan Leach scored twice from the field for a 14-11 advantage for East Grand Forks with 1:34 remaining.

Hanson trimmed the difference to 14-13 with 1:17 remaining. Johnson made the most of his one free throw opportunity with exactly one minute remaining in the first quarter for a 15-13 Green Wave lead before Rande Smith scored with six seconds remaining to tie the contest at the quarter.

Smith scored at the out-set of the second quarter and captain Mark Thyeen was on target with two long range attempts for a 21-15 Prowler lead with 5:40 remaining in the half.

Thompson lobbed in a shot from the corner with 5:20 remaining to trim the lead to 21-17 but Kent Smith and Hanson teamed-up to put the Prowlers on top 25-17 with 4:42 remaining. Three straight baskets by "East Side" cut the lead to just 25-23 with 3:38 remaining in the half and forced the Prowlers into a time-out.

Rande Smith connected from short range to put the Prowlers in front 27-23 with 2:42 remaining but the Green Wave reeled off six unanswered points for a 29-27 lead with 1:41 remaining.

Hanson put in a rebound for the Prowlers to tie the contest 29-29 and a bad pass by "East Side" gave the Prowlers the ball with [illegible] seconds remaining in the half. The Prowlers were called for three seconds in the lane, however, and Leach scored the final bucket of the first half for a 31-29 lead at the intermission.

Dale Hanson tied the score four times in the opening stages of the second half as he scored the Prowler's first eight points of the third quarter. The last time the score was tied was on Hanson's short jumper with 2:57 remaining in the third quarter to knot the game at 39-all.

Syrstad put the Green Wave in front 41-39 with his shot from in close but Rande Smith's free throw made it a one-point game, 41-40 with 2:25 remaining in the third quarter.

Smith again hit on a single gift shot with 2:29 remaining after Johnson's field goal for a 43-41 contest with 1:59 remaining. A field goal by Syrstad and a free throw by Johnson were answered by a Dale Hanson free throw with 51 seconds remaining for a 46-43 Green Wave lead before Johnson beat his defender to the inside and then scored just before the buzzer for a 50-43 lead going into the last quarter.

East Grand Forks moved to a 59-43 lead with 6:13 remaining in the game before the Prowlers were able to score in the fourth quarter. Baskets by Thyren and Randy Carlson brought the Prowlers to within nine points, 62-53 with 2:18 remaining but "East Side" scored its final six points on foul shots as they sat on the ball and forced the Prowlers to try to get the ball by fouling.

The Prowler B squad won the preliminary contest over the East Grand Forks JV's 64-50 to avenge an earlier season loss. The Prowler Bee's led all the way with quarter leads of 23-15, 37-31 and 52-44. Tom Kays paced the winners with 20 points while Jeff Rhoden added 16 points with Craig Knutson and Ordean Peterson each adding 11 points for the Prowlers.

motion and came out of the tent thinking that maybe a Grizzly was in our packs. He saw the confused Caribou.

Also at our first rest today as we were all talking together on the river bank, 31 Caribou swam from across the river and we all froze to see how close they'd make land from us. They made land within 50 yards from us and acted as they didn't see us at all. In fact, part of them walked to within 30 feet of us.

Also saw two single Musk Ox at different locations plus another big band of Caribou swimming the river. Paddled 25 miles today and there were always geese in sight on one side of the river or other. Also saw a lot of loons flying but they stay mostly in the lakes and small ponds of which there are thousands in this country. I have only seen three loons on the river.

Next Issue: Challenge from a Grizzly.

Hanson Named To WCCO All-State Team Of The Week

Lincoln high school's 6-4 senior Dale Hanson was one of 20 Minnesota high school cagers selected to WCCO radio's All-State basketball Team of the Week Wednesday night, February 17. Honors were given on "Prep Parade," a program devoted for 15 years to the coverage of high school sports and bands.

Hanson scored 31 points against the Dilworth Locomotives on February 13, and he carries an 18.8 scoring average for the season. Hanson has reached double figures in all but one game for Whitey Olson's Prowlers this season.

Sports director Paul Giel hosts the weekly series of programs on WCCO. An advisory board of Minnesota newspaper sports editors and sports broadcasters nominate the top high school athletes for the Team of the Week.

For their election to the squad, each All-Stater will be presented with a memorable certificate from WCCO radio and the program's sponsor, Midwest Federal.

75,000 Seedlings Eaten By Deer

About 75,000 white cedar seedlings being grown to supply future deer browse have been eaten this winter by hungry white tails while still in the tree nursery seed beds, the department of natural resources said this week.

The seedlings, being raised in the Badoura state forest nursery near Park Rapids, were consumed within the space of a few days.

Erick Kurki, staff forester in charge of nurseries, said nothing like the wholesale destruction of seedlings had ever ocurred before.

"We wish the deer would have given us a chance to plant the trees out around the state so as to share them with other deer, and also been willing to let them grow to a larger size," he added.

The loss of the seedlings means a disappointing set back in plans the division of lands and forestry had for planting deer browse on state owned lands next spring.

"We will be able to fill the orders we have received to date from private buyers of white cedar," said Kurki, "but we will not be able to fill any additional orders for this species."

Before the loss of the three-year-old seedlings, about 200,000 white cedars were being grown in the three state forest nurseries operated by the department.

Beaver Trapping Permitted On Agassiz Refuge

This spring, Agassiz National Wildlife refuge will be open to interested and qualified beaver trappers to trap beaver on the refuge. Two trappers will be allowed on the refuge this year.

All trapping must conform to state fur trapping regulations. The season will run from February 20 to March 21.

PROWLER GUARD Kent Smith goes up with Scott Gravseth to try and block his driving lay-up in Friday night's Thief River Falls-East Grand Forks basketball game in the Lincoln gym. "East Side" won the Big Five Conference battle 71-55 with a second half drive after leading just 31-29 at the half.

Hibbing Wins Twice Over Northland Six

Swede Lund's Northland state junior college hockey team suffered a double loss over the weekend to Hibbing to drop their season record to 3-17 for the year while their opponent for the two games went home with their first wins of the season for a 2-10 mark.

Hibbing defeated the Northmen 2-1 Saturday night in the city arena and came back on Sunday to blast the Northmen 9-6 in the preliminary game to the U.S. Nationals-Warroad Lakers contest in the arena.

An addition to Hibbing's line-up yesterday was Grand Forks Central star Gary Purpur. The shifty wing had just helped his team to a 2-0 win in the finals of the North Dakota state tournament over Fargo South on Saturday night when he assisted on The Indian's first score.

Purpur joined two brothers, Bob and Dick on the Hibbing team and Gary collected three assists for the game. A talk with the Hibbing coach found that the Hibbing squad is a club team and is not a junior college squad, thus Purpur was able to play for the Flyers who are going to become the college team next year. Gary is expected to be with the Hibbing team in their last four games.

The Flyers opened the game's scoring in the first period as Bill Vukish skated from behind the Northland net and slipped the puck past goalie Bill Sugden for a 1-0 lead with 8:51 remaining. Northland's Larry Skime tied the contest 1-1 with a beautiful move around his defender and an unassisted goal with 8:48 remaining.

Hibbing went in front 2-1 with 5:18 remaining as John Barbatto scored a power play goal on an assist from Gary Purpur with 6:18 remaining.

Northland's Bob Lundbohm put in a rebound from the left side with 2:09 remaining in the first period and Rodney Balduc gave the Northmen a 3-2 lead at the end of the first period as he scored with 45 seconds remaining. Skime and Balduc assisted on Lundbohm's score while Leonard Kotta and Gary Holverson were credited with assists on Balduc's goal.

Hibbing tied the game 3-3 with 15:10 remaining on Andy Korpela's shot from close range on assists from Rudy Van Kyte and Jim Reed. 1:08 latter Dick Purpur put Hibbing in front 4-3 with his unassisted goal from the left side.

Skime picked up his second goal of the game for Northland to tie the score at 4-4 with 9:53 remaining in the second period. Lundbohm was credited with an assist on the score for the Northmen.

Bill Vukish put the Flyers on top 5-4 with his unassisted goal coming with 7:48 remaining. Van Kay put Hibbing in front 6-4 with 2:58 remaining as he scored from the right side on assists from Korpela and Dick Purpur.

Larry Skime collected the three-goal hat trick for the Northmen with 59 seconds remaining in the second period to cut the Flyer lead to 6-5 going into the final period of action. Gordon Marshall was credited with an assist on the play as Hibbing had one second remaining on a double penalty.

Northland tied the contest once again in the third period as defenseman Gary Halvorson of Roseau snuck the puck under goalie Dan Robinson from long range on an assist from Bldue with 10:06 remaining in the game.

Hibbing went in front for good with 7:07 remaining as Dick Purpur scored from brother Gary on a Hibbing power play for a 7-6 Flyer lead. Vukish and Tom Friend added the final two scores with Gary and Dick Purpur assisting on Vukish's score while the final tally came unassisted with 4:26 remaining.

Northland captain, Larry Skime, put his team in front 1-0 in Saturday night's game as he scored with 3:20 remaining in the first period on an assist from Gordon Marshall. Hibbing came back in the second period to tie the score 1-1 on Dick Purpur's unassisted score with 15:38 remaining. The winning score was off the stick of Bob Purpur with 16:40 remaining in the game with Bob Klinkey getting an assist.

Northland goalie Maurie Pearson was credited with 34 saves for the contest while Robinson came up with 36 stops in the Flyer nets.

Green Wave Tops Big 5 Conference

Crookston defeated Climax 74-52 last week to move into second place tie with the Vikings in the Big Five Conference. East Grand Forks is the run-away leader with a sparkling 6-0 record in action up to February 13.

Kurt Knoff's scoring leadership is being challenged by teammate Don Johnson who climbed up from third to second in the scoring parade. Johnson is scoring at a 21.3 clip while injured Knoff has a 24-point scoring average. Prowler center Rande Smith moved up a notch in the scoring leadership when Gary Hanson of Climax dropped his average two points. Smith and the Prowlers played a non-conference last week against Dilworth. The 6-5 junior holds a 19-point average for four conference games.

Dale Hanson, Prowler forward is the eighth leading scorer with a 15.8 point average in four conference games.

Wildlife Winner

Middle River 4-H club member is one of five in the state who have been selected as individual winners in the 4-H Wildlife Habitat Improvement contest.

Receiving a purple ribbon for his accomplishments in building feeders, digging ponds and planting trees and brush was Arne Rantenen. The special recognition came from Wayne Carlson, assistant state leader of 4-H and youth development at the University of Minnesota.

Purple ribbon winners each received a $10 cash award from the Federal Cartridge corporation, a certificate from Minnesota Pheasants Unlimited, and a $10 scholarship to attend the 1971 State 4-H Conservation Camp at Lake Itasca June 7-11.

Lake Of The Woods Study Filed By Commission

Sport fishing for walleyes on Lake of the Woods in northern Minnesota should be reduced by allowing an angler only one limit of walleyes a day regardless of any Canadian license he may hold.

This was one of several recommendations made to the legislature by the Lake of the Woods-Rainy Lake commission in its study of the long term economic outlook for Lake of the Woods, Koochiching and Roseau counties.

However, this does not mean the walleye is in trouble, the commission researchers said. A reduction in fishing pressure will result in an increase in the average size walleye taken by anglers.

Walleyes account for 80 per cent of the total catch by weight at Lake of the Woods and their death rate is higher at this lake than at most other walleye sport fisheries in the state, the commission reported.

Sport fishing harvest exceeds commercial harvest of walleyes three times in weight and five to six times in numbers at Lake of the Woods. Also, sport fishermen harvest a high percentage of walleyes before they reach maturity, which contributes to the small size of the fish by limiting the number that escape to grow larger, the commission's report stated.

The commission also recommended that commercial fishing pressure be reduced.

The combined harvest of sport and commercial fishing in the lake approaches the potential maximum annual yield of the species. Monitoring the lake should be continued to protect against depletion of the walleye stock, the commission suggested. Total impact of spending by Minnesota-based anglers on Lake of the Woods has been estimated to average $565,000 a year and the average annual value of the commercial catch $372,390 was from 1955 to 1969.

The commission called for better conditions on rainy lake, also in northern Minnesota, for walleye spawning by raising the lake's level during the first two weeks of May. A level of at least [illegible] would inundate a substatial portion of the spawning grounds at spawning time and inhance natural reproduction, the commission added. The action would be taken through the Rainy Lake control board of the International Joint commission.

It further recommended that all or parts of Black bay on Rainy lake be closed to fishing until about June 1 to save the lake's diminished walleye spawning stock.

Spawning fish are attracted to Black bay's warm waters and by mid-May, when fishing season opens, there are heavy walleye concentrations in the bay. "These fish are extremely vulnerable to the angler," the commission stated.

Test netting of Rainy lake in 1967 showed the number of walleye brood stock to be so low as to prevent a rapid comeback even with improved spawning conditions, the commission reported.

A walleye hatchery with a capacity for 200 million eggs is being built on the Pike river in northeastern Minnesota and will be at full operating capacity in the spring of 1972. It will be able to supply all the fry necessary for massive stocking of the east arm of Rainy lake when predictably low runoff threatens to reduce the natural hatch.

Rainy lake spring water levels have been favorable for walleye spawning during the past four seasons and there are some signs of recovery from the deteriorating walleye population.

Depressed walleye spawning and fishing decline were largely caused by a policy of keeping Rainy Lake below the recommended elevation. Lake elevations are controlled at International Falls and Kettle Falls by dams operated under the direction of the Rainy Lake Control board.

The reservoirs are drawn down in winter to create storage capacity for spring runoff. The dam gates are closed in late March and the reservoirs rise with the runoff until the established summer elevations are reached in June. The policy of keeping the lake level lower than recommended evolved through a tacit agreement with lakeshore property owners to prevent flooding in the spring, the commission said.

Other fish of importance in Rainy lake have not undergone a marked decline. Commercial and sport fishing are not competing [illegible] in the part of the lake in the United States. Commercial fishing is confined by regulation to the part of the basin lying east of the Brule narrows, while only one and one-half per cent of the sport fishing originating on the U.S. side was found to have occurred in that area.

Commission members included Chairman J. Kimball Whitney, commissioner of the Minnesota department of economic development, Jarle Leirfallom commissioner of the Minnesota department of conservation (natural resources); and Sherwood D. Berg, dean of the institute of agriculture, University of Minnesota.

Stanford Coach Will Headline Concordia Clinic

John Ralston, head football coach at Stanford University, will be one of the football headliners at the 18th Annual Concordia Coaching Clinic to be held August 4-6. Ralston piloted the Indians to the Pacific 8 football championship and then the big upset victory over number 1-ranked Ohio State in the Rose Bowl.

Ralston has compiled an impressive 46-33-3 mark at Stanford, coaching seven straight non-losing seasons. He has also been particularly successful in guiding the Indians to intersectional victories, as evidenced by the Indians' 13-7-1 mark against opponents from other sections of the country.

Ralston is just the beginning of another talent-laden coaching clinic that will be presented to the Upper Midwest by Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn. So circle the dates on the calendar: August 4, 5 and 6.

Mahlon Sanders, a 6-3 forward, is the only senior on the 1970-71 University of North Dakota basketball team.

Bantams Defeat Roseau 4-3 Sat.

Dale Wennberg's Thief River Falls bantam hockey team jumped out to a 3-1 first period lead and held on to defeat Roseau 4-3 Saturday afternoon in the city arena to capture a seeding in the sub-state bantam tournament scheduled for the city arena in March.

The bantams led 2-1 at the end of the first period as Scott Reed scored on assists from Larry Bacon and Mark Thrall while Reed added the second goal unassisted. Jim Elleson scored in the second period for Thief River Falls on an assist from Peter Hess while the final score came in the third period off the stick of Bacon on assists by Thrall and Reed.

The bantams avenged a 6-5 loss suffered last week to the Roseau team in the region eight VFW bantam tournament in the city arena.

Floating Down the River . . .

Much Wildlife Seen On Stoltman's Trip

Part II

(Today's article continues the diary of Hillary Stoltman of Thief River Falls as his four-man party advances on its float trip down the Thelon river in Canada's Northwest Territories. First installment was published in the Wednesday, February 17 issue.)

July 8—I baked trout over open fire. Boys like them fried better. Broke camp 11:30 a.m. Saw three caribou coming down from ridge to river on our left. Wind 15 M.P.H. Temperature 60 degrees. Inspected an old cabin today. Also a cabin of a newer construction. Last magazine date was 1962.

I climbed an observation point 300 feet high and spotted a herd of Musk Oxen a mile and half up river and ¼ mile in. We had paddled past this point but couldn't see them as the river had brush along there. Paddled back and Bob and Einer took cameras on one side of a small ridge. Duane and I flanked them on the other side. We closed in on them from both sides. They got scared from Bob and were running right at us. Duane and I jumped up and tryed to chase them back to Bob and he took a few more pictures that way.

Saw our first ptarmigan today. They are half white yet. They sould like sharp tail grouse when flying. Saw our first Tundra Grizzly Bear track in the sand beach today.

July 9—Temperature is 55 degrees. Drizzled rain all day. Started canoeing at 1 p.m. Saw a big bull caribou along the river. Also saw a big Musk Ox feeding along the bushes on the river bank. We got within 200 yards of him and he saw us and ran up a high ridge.

Duane and I paddled up the river bank and I ran up to the spot he was last seen by us, and then I saw him go into a tundra thicket with scattered spruce trees. Went in up wind and very cautiously. Being that it was raining, didn't make a sound. In doing so, came to within 30 yards of three big bull musk ox.

I watched them feed for 15 minutes, then rushed them to see what they would do. They ran for 150 yards, then stopped for 10 seconds to see what was chasing them, then took off. Saw one more Musk Ox along the river just before making camp. We came in very close by following the river bank for a half a mile. They have fair eye sight. Saw a number of swans today. Also some Elder ducks. Hundreds of Canada geese.

July 10—Stopped raining at 7:30 a.m. Placed everything out to dry while we ate and broke camp. Saw a bull Caribou along the river. Stopped by a wide rapids coming into the Thelon to do a little fishing. I caught four lake trout. Kept just one to eat for supper. Einer and Duane caught a number also.

The river turned very fast and as we rounded a bend, I spied two timber wolves along the river one-third mile away. We paddled toward them easy like and they just watched us and trotted along the river the same direction that we were going.

Along the way, one wolf jumped a molting goose on the banks. He held it and started trotting away with it, but dropped it to watch it, like a cat would a mouse, and the goose made a mad dash to the river and was safe. The wolves trotted a mile in this manner and then jumped into heavy brush.

Heard sand hill cranes today also. Where we made our evening camp, a very big Grizzly had made tracks on a sand bar. Hope he leaves us alone tonight.

July 11—Got up at 4:15 a.m. and took a bath and washed underclothes as there weren't any mosquitoes at that time. We saw nine Caribou cross a small river across from our camp this morning. Started paddling.

Hard day as we had 30 M.P.H. wind against us most of the day. But the river was fast with many rapids that we bypassed, so 30 miles were paddled even with the wind. Temperature is 65.

Duane caught a Northern pike and trout. Had trout for supper. Saw many rough-legged hawks today for the first time. Also saw Caribou four different times during the day, plus one Musk Ox. The crew was very tired after a hard day of paddling and dodging rapids. Duane took a bath after supper. His face is very weather beaten.

Today at our campsite we are as far north as we'll be going on this trip, as from now on to Baker, we'll be going east and south. We are only 120 miles from the Arctic Circle. It's hard to imagine that the weather can be this mild, as no one has had his winter underwear on yet.

July 12—It started raining last night at 9:30 p.m. and this morning it was still raining. Had pancakes, apple mix, and cocoa. Have been eating only freeze dry and dehydrated food and find it very good and nourishing, and it only takes ¼ the room in the pack. Also you use only what you use at the time of eating and there isn't any waste.

We have a hot meal every morning, a cold meal at noon and a hot meal in the evening. That way only two meals have to be cooked a day.

It rained all day long. Everyone got wet from perspiration if wearing rain gear, or from the rain itself, as Duane did because he had no rain pants.

At 6 p.m. we found a cabin belonging to the Canadian Wildlife Service on Lookout Point. We looked into it and it was well provisioned with a note from the Canadian government as to the rules if anyone had occasion to use the cabin. Followed all the rules faithfully. Bob is going to write the government a letter thanking them for the use of the cabin. It would have been very miserable pitching tents in the soft wet tundra this evening. It is still raining at 9:30 p.m.

In tough paddling we go for about 50 minutes or so then rest, either in the canoes or find a nice look-out. Then someone goes to see if any animals can be spotted. We also stop at tributaries coming into the Thelon river, especially if there's a rapids there. We always catch trout in the holes below these.

One thing that helps in this rainy weather is we all have a change of dry clothing. All nine of our Duluth packs have a double liner of heavy plastic paper. The packs can be sitting in water, or rain falling on them, and still the contents will be dry.

At 1 a.m., five Caribou swam from across the river and walked just to the east of our campsite. When walking on the beach they made a lot of noise because many loose rocks were scattered around. Duane heard the com-

THIS CABIN was the newer of two cabins inspected by the Stoltman party during a rest stop on the canoe trip. The older cabin was smaller and higher on the bluff away from the river. Later in the trip, the group found a cabin owned by the Canadian Wildlife service and used it to spend the night under shelter from the rain. —Photo by Bob O'Hara

SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

February 22, 1971

REGULAR MEETING

February 8, 1971

A regular meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on Monday, February 8, 1971, in the Cafeteria of the Lincoln School building.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Melvin Prestebak, Charles Samuelson, Wallace Sparby, Maynard Wedul, and Superintendent Johnson. None were absent.

Chairman Prestebak presided.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to accept the minutes of the special meeting held January 15, 1971 and the regular meeting held January 27, 1971.

A motion was made by K. Murphy, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to approve the bills as presented.

Summary of Bills

General	$44,736.53
Hot Lunch	12,771.27
Capital Outlay	5,974.75
Building	2,687.07
Debt Redemption	70.50
Athletics	710.34

A motion was made by G. Martin, seconded by M. Wedul and carried for the Junior High to take over five rooms in Mark Twain Elementary School and that other arrangements be made for additional rental facilities for the elementary pupils.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to approve that the fire escape at Knox be located on the south side of the building as per recommendation of the State Fire Marshal.

Other Business

The following report was made by M. Wedul. The Carpentry Advisory Committee visited the house project to observe the progress on the house. From there the committee went to the Vocational School and toured the carpentry division of the Area Vocational School.

It was found that there was a need for storage facilities for the wood working and welding classes. It was also found there is a problem with low humidity in the woodworking area and it was the recommendation of this committee that some system be used to increase the moisture level in this area.

Officers were appointed as follows: John Peterson, President; Maynard Wedul, Vice President; and Jon Metvsalem, Secretary. It was unanimously agreed that this committee did not approve of combining the Area Vocational School and the Junior College.

The Teacher's Negotiating Council consisting of the following people: Vern Isaacson, Janet Shaw, Ellen Clark, Edith Etter, and Arthur Walter submitted their proposal to the school board for the school year 1971-72 as per the attached proposal.

According to the Committee's figures this is approximately a 10 per cent increase including all benefits and will cost the school district an additional $240,000 per year.

The Board informed the Negotiation Council that a definite date would be arrived at later that evening and that they would be notified of the next meeting date.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by C. Samuelson and carried to adjourn the meeting at 9:25 p.m.

Superintendent's Report
February 8, 1971

1. Additional instructional space for the junior high school and/or the Mark Twain Elementary School has been under consideration in developing plans for the school year 1971-72. Space at the Redeemer Lutheran Church was considered as a temporary means to the space problem for the modular flexible program at Franklin. However, since a large group room apparently cannot be made available for school use, a more feasible solution would be that of quartering the elementary grades 3 and 4 at this site and transferring additional rooms at Mark Twain to Franklin for junior high use. Generally speaking, elementary grades lend themselves better in rented church facilities than do secondary pupils.

The church facilities would be desirable as temporary elementary school quarters because of its location to the public school building, playground area, extra parking facilities, new and fresh quarters not requiring extensive remodeling, and special transportation would not be required. Negative considerations of the church quarters might be the undersized classrooms, the cash rental, strictly temporary facilities for needed classroom space, and the internal location of the rooms (Church).

Rental of the church facilities would include such items as heat, electricity, and janitor service. The rental fee is to be determined by the church board which is also meeting this evening for that purpose.

An alternate plan to house Grades 3 and 4 from Mark Twain might be the "Old" City Library. Unofficially the Superintendent has received approval of the rental of that building for the next school year. Alteration and/or remodeling will be necessary to make an acceptable school building. A fire escape would have to be installed on the east side. General refurbishing and some alterations would be necessary on the interior of the building. The library building could be made into a good instructional center without too many problems or too great a cost.

Positive reactions for this facility would be the independence of single proprietorship of the building, nearby access to the main City Library, easy access to the City Hall, which could well be used for physical education 12 hours per day, and relatively low rental. If the City Hall were used for physical education, the housing of grades 3 and 4 in the "old" library would decrease the pressure on the use of the Franklin gym during the school day.

Negative aspects of this situation might include the following: Required transportation of pupils 3-4 times per day if lunch were served. Transportation might not be required at noon. Limited outdoor play area and isolation from the rest of the elementary school population.

2. National Guard Armory - During the planning for the Junior High-Elementary space problems it was an original thought to place grade five in the armory quarters if these were to be available. The Superintendent has received an affirmative answer to his request for these facilities. There are two fine classrooms each measuring 20 feet by 22 feet with excellent restroom facilities and gym facilities. The basic rental cost for the entire facility is $2,800 for the school year. This cost does not include janitor service which would be billed to the school district at a rate of $3.00 per day. Roughly this would amount to about $540 extra per year. In addition the school district would be required to furnish the following materials: paper towels, toilet tissue, soap, waxes, and sweeping compound.

It appears that the possibility of serving the noon lunch would exist if paper service was utilized. This might be more desirable than transporting pupils back to the Mark Twain-Franklin complex each noon. Placing the fifth grade at the armory not only creates more classroom space at the East side complex but also relieves pressure from the junior high school gymnasium.

Thus, it is evident by transferring the third, fourth, and fifth graders from Mark Twain the total junior high program will be enhanced and the same high quality of education can be maintained at that level. Elementary instruction will not suffer any decline in quality. It is evident that the temporary housing is such that it could elicit new practices in teaching not possible in the traditional setting of Mark Twain. Rental facilities are a realistic and temporary means of coping with the growing school population at Mark Twain and Franklin.

3. Other plans to handle a bulging school population include extended school year (various propositions) and double shifting (i.e. 7:00-12:00 and 12:15-5:15).

a. Extended School Year - The Superintendent reviewed considerable material on the subject of extended school year. These included studies conducted by the Department of Education for the State of New York (1966), Governor's Commission for the State of North Carolina (1968), A Study by the College of Business Administration of the University of Toledo in 1966, and a treatise by Schoenfeld from the University of Wisconsin in 1968. Several plans were presented which included such theories as The Four Quarter Plan, Continuous Trimester Plan, Modified Summer Plan and The Extended K-12. (I see no reason at this point to describe each of these plans in detail since booklets from Dr. Sederburg were sent you summarizing all known plans of the extended school year.) All of the plans studied have some merit but in this writer's opinion would pose great problems of implementation in the Thief River Falls School System.

One plan that did not present too many hurdles to overcome appeared to be that of the 45-15 plan recently implemented in the State of Illinois. (You were given a reprint of the plan as it appeared in the magazine American School and University for November of 1970.) The TRF Times also made reference to this plan in an editorial about the same month, as a plan worthy of the Board's consideration.

Basically the Illinois plan provides each pupil with a 45 day attendance period with a 15 day vacation following each 45 day period of instruction. Thus each child has 180 days of instruction and a total of 60 days of vacation with other common recess periods at Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter, and the 4th of July. Enrollment is cut by 25 per cent.

After spending some time going over this so-called 45-15 plan the Superintendent telephoned the State Department of Education and talked with Mr. Donald Clauson, Director of Curriculum and Secondary Education concerning the possibility, legality, and acceptability of the plan. The Superintendent was informed that the Department would accept such a plan with "no strings attached."

It was also learned last week that the Mora Public Schools are seriously considering the adoption of the plan for the school year 1971-72. In discussing the matter with School Superintendent Lacher of Mora, it was learned that the plan had been adopted for grades K-12 commencing July, 1971. (See Minneapolis Sunday Tribune, February 7, 1971, Page 1, Part A.) According to Lacher the plan will permit the withdrawal of elementary pupils from the secondary building since they will have only 75 per cent of their elementary pupils at any one period. It is expected that this will solve enrollment problems for about a three year period. Lacher also indicated that if the plan is successful on the elementary level his district will move toward the same schedule for the secondary schools. Motivation toward this plan was provided by a two-time defeat of a 3 million dollar bond issue for a new senior high school building.

It is the Superintendent's belief that this 45-15 plan could be implemented in the TRF system at the Junior High level without too many complications. All classes could be carried on within the confines of the present Franklin structure. Extra expenditures would be necessary in transportation and teacher salaries. However, the extra expenditures for teacher salaries would include costs already paid out in the form of teacher overloads and summer school salaries. A 13 month period is required to make the entire cycle of instruction.

If the 45-15 plan were adopted on the Junior High level for the school year 1971-72, immediate consideration and study would be necessary to the implementation of the other segments of the system since the Mark Twain population would require an extra room per year for the next two years. This does not include an "all-purpose" room.

b. Double Shift - This plan is considered least advisable by authorities and should be resorted to only in extreme emergency or for a definite short period of time. The Forest Lake School System will have the Junior High School on a double shift next year. Superintendent Lechner described this district as growing by 400 pupils per year. This past year two new elementary schools were completed. In addition, classes were held in a rented parochial school building outside the district, church rooms and the like. A new Senior High School is under construction and will not be completed before the 1971-72 school year - thus the move toward double sessions in the Junior High School. The Forest Lake problem is not as great as many since the second shift of teachers will move into the second junior high school upon completion of the senior high school.

4. St. Hilaire - On February 2nd, Prestebak, Murphy, and the Superintendent met with the St. Hilaire Board of Education. Johnson reviewed personnel and financial policies of the TRF School District with the Board. It was pointed out that the school board of Independent District 564, would, according to statute, issue teaching contracts to St. Hilaire teachers for the school year 1971-72. There is only one teacher on the staff with a four year degree. Two part time teachers will not return to teaching this next year because of age or lack of certification. Plans will be made in the near future on how to best administer this unit. Immediate problems for the ensuing school year center around building renewal, rest rooms, library and kindergarten.

5. Spruce Avenue Parking Problem - has apparently been solved. Thursday 99.9 per cent of Junior High cars were on the school parking lot. Friday the lot was made somewhat larger in that it was completely plowed to allow better parking. Letters to the staff by residents as well as the front page newspaper article, no doubt motivated the move to the parking lot. A few (2 or 3) hold-outs from Mark Twain still persist on parking on Spruce. City council action could restrict this area to a two hour parking zone.

6. The pool report for the month of January indicates a total of 5,043 people used the pool. Of that number 1,129 persons (swimming classes, day care center, special ed classes, Boy Scouts, etc.) used the pool on a recreational basis after school hours. Total expenses for the month amounted to $686.83 with income amounting to $196.55. Net loss for the month of January: $490.28.

7. Fire escape at Knox Elementary School - The state fire marshal, Pat Barry, along with the city fire chief and the Superintendent of Schools studied the second floor of Knox. It was his opinion that if a second fire escape is necessary it should be placed on the south side of the building. The present cloak hall going south could remain as an emergency hallway.

Full Hospitalization Insurance

Every teacher, whether married or single, shall receive full hospitalization in addition to his regular salary. All married professional personnel shall receive full family hospitalization whether they are heads of households or not.

- Total additional cost: $7,400.00

Income Protection

Disability Income Insurance guaranteeing a minimum of 66 and two third per cent of his annual salary, less any Social Security benefits of Workmen's Compensation he receives, from the time accumulated sick leave expires until age sixty five (65) for absence due to sickness or accident. This would be written as 66 and two third per cent of salary up to a maximum of $1,000.00 per month with a 60 day waiting period. Cost would be about $4.50 per teacher per month.

Total cost about: $10,000.00

Extra Curricular Pay

An increase in extra-curricular pay based on a percentage scale and related to a base salary of $7,300.00. The percentage scale was adopted by the School Board for the 1968-1969 school year.

Salaries for teachers of summer school, curriculum development, and other similar professional duties outside of the regular school term, shall be two thirds of the individual's daily salary as it was adopted by the School Board of Education for the 1970-1971 school year.

Elementary Teachers

A. The majority of elementary teachers have indicated that they have a preference for a change of administration for the elementary level. The following would be suggested proposals:

1. Full time elementary principal in each building.
2. Part time elementary principal in each building with each principal teaching a special area half time.
3. Four full time elementary principals with one of these principals serving as elementary director.
4. An elementary curriculum director and two principals for four buildings.

B. The majority of elementary teachers have indicated a need for additional preparation time. There are several possibilities to assist the teachers so that sufficient preparation time could be available.

1. Four full time elementary physical education instructors.
2. Four full-time music instructors.
3. Two full time speech therapists.
4. Two elementary art instructors.

Maternity Leave

The Board shall grant a maternity leave to any pregnant teacher who makes written application for such leave. Upon learning of her pregnancy, the teacher shall notify the superintendent and at the end of the third month, she shall submit her written application for such leave so that the school authorities may have sufficient advance notice to make appropriate arrangements. Her maternity leave shall commence at the date to be fixed by the board to be approximately at the end of the fourth month of the pregnancy and shall continue until two months after the birth of her child; however, upon request the board may shorten the period for such leave. The continuing contract shall remain in effect, and upon the termination of her leave, she shall resume her teaching duties. Her position on the salary-schedule shall not be prejudiced by such leave, except that she shall not receive credit for the period of her leave.

Substitute Teachers

A. No person shall be employed as a substitute teacher unless

1. He is serving only temporarily while a regularly certificated person is on leave of absence.
2. Such substitute teaching service will not continue for more than twenty days.
3. Such substitute teaching will be paid at the following rates per day:
   a. $30.00 per day for a certified B.A. Degree - full day
   b. $31.00 per day for a certified B.A. Degree - half day
   c. $24.00 per day for a non-degree certified - full day
   d. $15.00 per day for a non-degree certified - half day
4. After twenty days of substitute teaching, such substitute teacher will be paid according to the current certificated teachers salary schedule and shall receive a written contract from the district.

B. Every effort will be made to secure a certificated substitute teacher before a full time certificated teacher is asked to serve as a substitute during his preparation period.

C. In those cases where certificated substitute teachers are not available and a full time teacher voluntarily agrees to serve as a substitute during his preparation period, said teacher will be paid an additional five dollars for each hour substituted. Such assignments will be made by the principal of the school and will be distributed as equitably as possible among the members of the school's faculty.

Pay Dates

Each teacher will have their choice of either being paid

1. twice a month on the first and fifteenth
2. once a month on the fifteenth

The decision will be made by each individual on the first school day.

Personnel Policy

There will be no discrimination, dismissal or demotion of any teacher due to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, or place of residence.

Sick Leave

An allowance of twelve days shall be permitted for illness of teacher, to be available at any time during the school year. Four of the twelve days may be used for illness or death in the immediate family or for personal emergency. Immediate family shall include father, mother, father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother, sister, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, children, wife or husband. Unused sick leave shall accumulate without restriction.

A Sample Grievance Procedure-Short Form

I—Definition - Any claim by a recognized teacher organization or a teacher that there has been a violation, misinterpretation, or misapplication of the terms of the district personnel policies, a violation of his or her right to fair treatment, or violation of any established policy or practice shall be a grievance.

II. Time Limits - All time limits herein shall consist of school days except that when a grievance is submitted on or after May 1 time limits shall consist of all week days so that the matter may be resolved before the close of the school term or as soon as possible thereafter. The number of days indicated at each level should be considered a maximum, and every effort should be made to expedite the process.

III. Teacher Organization Representation - Upon selection and certification by the Association, the Board shall recognize the PR&R Committee as representative of the buildings and any three members of this committee will be the Association Grievance Committee. A similar committee selected by the Federation shall be recognized as the Federation Grievance Committee. At least one member of the appropriate Grievance Committee shall be present for any meetings, hearings, appeals, or other proceedings relating to a grievance which has been formally presented. Nothing herein contained will be construed as limiting the right of any teacher having a grievance to discuss the matter informally with his supervisor, and having the grievance adjusted without intervention of either organization provided the adjustment is not inconsistent with the terms of the district personnel policies.

IV. Procedure - The parties acknowledge that it is usually most desirable for an employee and his supervisor to resolve problems through free and informal communications. When requests by either party, the building grievance representative may intervene to assist in this resolution. However, should such informal processes fail to satisfy the supervisor and the teacher, then a grievance may be processed as follows:

Step 1. If the complaint is not resolved in the initial meeting, the employee or the teacher organization grievance committee must present the grievance in writing, within five (5) days, to the principal, who will arrange a meeting within five (5) days. The organization grievance representative, the supervisor and the aggrieved teacher shall be present for the meeting. The supervisor must provide the aggrieved teacher and the organization with a written answer on the grievance within five (5) days.

Step 2. If the grievance is not resolved in Step 1, then the organization shall refer the grievance to the Board's representative within five (5) days. He shall arrange for a meeting between the appropriate Grievance Committee and the Board's representatives to take place within five (5) days of his receipt of the appeal. Each party shall have the right to include in its representation appropriate witnesses and counselors to develop facts pertinent to the grievance. Upon conclusion of the hearing the Board will have five (5) days in which to provide its written decision to the organization.

V. Arbitration - If either party is not satisfied with the disposition of the grievance at Step 2, or the Step 2 time limits expire without the issuance of the Board's written answer, then the Association or Federation may submit the grievance to final and binding arbitration under the rules of the American Arbitration Association which shall act as the administrator of the proceedings. If a demand for arbitration is not filed within thirty (30) days of the date for the Board's Step 2 reply, then the grievance shall be deemed withdrawn. Neither the Board nor the teacher organization representative will be permitted to assert any grounds or evidence before the arbitrator which was not previously disclosed to the other party.

The Arbitrator shall have no power to alter the terms of this agreement. However, it is agreed that the arbitrator is empowered to include in any award such financial reimbursements as he judges to be proper.

Each party shall bear the full costs for its representation in the arbitration, and the remaining costs will be equally divided between the parties.

VI. The Board acknowledges the right of Association and Federation representatives to participate in the processing of a grievance at any level.

VII. Provided the parties agree, Step 1 and/or Step 2 of the grievance procedure may be bypassed and the grievance brought directly to the next step.

VIII. No reprisals of any kind will be taken by the Board of Education or the school administration against any teacher because of his participation in this grievance procedure.

IX. The Board and the administration will cooperate with the teacher organization in its investigation of any grievance, and, further, will furnish the Association or Federation, whichever represents the concerned teacher, with such documents and information as is requested for the processing of any grievance.

X. All documents, communications and records dealing with the processing of a grievance will be filed separately from the personnel files of the participants.

Suggested Teacher Evaluation Policy

A. 1. All monitoring or observation of the work performance of a teacher shall be conducted openly with a full knowledge by the teacher. Public address, audio systems and similar surveillance devices may be used only with the prior consent of the teacher being observed.

2. The teacher shall be given a copy of the evaluation form used for classroom evaluation at least two days before the conference on a classroom visit by his superior. The teacher shall fill out the form as a self evaluation which, along with the superior's evaluation will be the basis for discussion during the conference. As a result of the conference a report will be written by the superior to be submitted to the central administration office after the teacher has had an opportunity to read it.

B. 1. Nontenure teachers shall be observed enough times to ensure the adequate supervision required by the tenure law.

2. If a nontenure teacher who is denied tenure requests the reasons for such denial, such reasons shall be given to him in writing.

3. Non tenure teachers denied tenure or not to be employed for the following school year shall be so notified by March 20.

C. 1. A teacher shall have the right, upon written request, to review the contents of his personnel file and to have a representative of his teacher organization accompany him.

2. No material critical of a teacher's conduct, service, character or personality shall be placed in his personnel file unless the teacher has had the opportunity to review the material. The teacher will acknowledge that he has had the opportunity to review such material by affixing his signature to the copy to be filed with the express understanding that such signature in no way indicates agreement with the contents thereof. The teacher also shall have the right to submit a written answer to such material and his answer shall be reviewed by the superintendent and attached to the file copy.

D. Serious complaints regarding a teacher's professional performance made to any member of the administration by any parent, student, or other person shall be promptly called to the teacher's attention.

E. Our teacher organizations recognize the authority and responsibility of the principal for disciplining or reprimanding a teacher for delinquency of professional performance. If a teacher is to be disciplined or reprimanded by a member of the administration above the level of principal, however, that teacher shall be entitled to have present a representative of the teacher organization of which he is a member.

F. No teacher shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank or compensation—or—deprived—of—any professional advantage without just cause. A suspension of a teacher, pending charges, shall be with pay.

TERRY TOLLEFSON seems to be having a rough time trying to keep his balance during his championship match with Wayne Belch of Crookston during their 112 pound match in Saturday night's district 31 tournament at Warren—Belch defeated Tollefson 7-1 to claim one of five individual titles for the Pirates as they captured the district crown. District 30 basketball tournament will be held March 4, 5, 9 and 12, in the Crookston Central gym with games beginning at 7:00 and 8:45 p.m. each night.

Tournament manager Ed Neibauer of Mentor made these following observations on District 30 teams last week:

"There will be a good deal of prognosticating, but based on performances so far, the 1971 district 30 tournament could be a toss-up with no exceptionally outstanding teams, yet no weak ones.

"It would appear from games played that teams from the north half having a fair chance of making the district play-offs are McIntosh, Fosston, Mentor and Dagley, while Gonvick, with some explosive shooters, is capable of an upset. Oklee could mean some trouble on a given night, and Clearbrook and Erskine could make their presence felt, also. To show how the ball bounces, McIntosh has defeated Mentor, Fosston has defeated McIntosh and Mentor has whipped Fosston.

"Mahnomen, Waubun, Ada, Halstad and Hendrum have shown power in the south subdistrict while Fertile and Twin Valley could be the dark horses. Gary and Borup could surprise someone, too," Neibauer said.

Tom Tunberg of Thief River Falls was one of only two University of North Dakota athletes who recorded perfect straight A (4.0) grades for the first semester of the 1970-71 school year.

The junior is a pitcher on the Sioux baseball team coached by Harold (Pinky) Kraft. Another baseball player, Gary Royal of Crookston, recorded the other straight A average.

A survey compiled by the UND athletic department found 70 student-athletes have earned superior grades for the first semester of the 1970-71 school year. The list shows 23 of the 70 student athletes recorded A grades during the first semester. The survey reveals that eight baseball, eight basketball, 16 football, two gymnasts, 18 hockey, three swimmers, three wrestlers and 12 track men were included in the honors list.

Junior Scott Kleven of Red Lake Falls was one of the athletes making the honor list. Kleven is a 183-pound left wing on the Sioux hockey team.

Bob Whelan, Bemidji high school's stellar linebacker, was notified that he had been selected for honorable mention on the Coach and Athlete magazine's All-American prep football squad.

Whelan was a three year regular on the Lumberjacks grid teams, performing at guard, tackle and fullback on offense while backing the line on defense.

The 6-1, 200 pound gridder is reportedly headed for Bemidji state college next fall where he hopes to participate in both football and wrestling.

With the sub-region eight hockey tournament scheduled for tomorrow night (Tuesday) at Roseau and Bemidji and the regional clashes set for Thief River Falls beginning Friday, the area sports fans will be hearing names on the all-tournament, all-region and all-state teams.

I would like to be the first to put out a suggested all-region team for high school hockey. Start by putting Warroad's Alan Hangsleben and "East Side's" Tim Schroeder together on defense. Robert Harris of Roseau would be the center with John Taylor of Warroad and Tom Goddard of Thief River Falls on the wings. All of these players are seniors with the exception of Goddard, who is a sophomore.

Nursery Founder Dies At Age 76

Ray Clement, Minnesota forester and founder of the state's tree nursery program died at the age of 76 Saturday (February 6) in Minneapolis.

In 1929, Clement planted the first tree by hand in the clearing in Hubbard county which later became the Badoura nursery. The Department of Natural Resources now operates three full scale tree nurseries producing between 20 and 50 million trees annually.

For the 19th time this season the Northland state junior college basketball team ended up on the short end of the scoreboard at final buzzer as Hibbing dropped the Northmen 85-75 Friday night at Hibbing. The Northmen closed their regular season with a 2-19 record but Chet Engelman's quint will play one more game before hanging up their socks on a dismal season.

Northland will take on state tournament entrant, Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school basketball team Wednesday night in the Lincoln gym in an 8:00 p.m. contest. There will be no admission charge and the game is open to the public.

Sophomore forward Scott Rousseau put the Northmen on top 2-0 at the outset of the Hibbing game for the Northmen's only lead of the contest as Hibbing built a 37-29 halftime lead.

Guards Dale Moore and Bob Loushine supplied the power for Hibbing in the first half as Moore connected on four of six field goal attempts and Loushine hit on five of seven from the field. Dave Homoky kept the Hibbing drive going in the second half as he ended with a game-high 29 points. Ron Visness led the Northmen in scoring with 16 points followed by Tony Burke with 15, Curt Jenson 14, Jim Goudge 13 and Steve Haaven 10.

The Northmen out-rebounded Hibbing for the game, holding a 46-39 advantage after Hibbing led the Northmen in rebounding 23-14 in the first half.

Taxes Were Topic At Jobs, Inc., Meeting

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

More figures were shown in three hours on the wall of the Elks club in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening than on the sunny beaches of Miami in a week, but viewing the former was not nearly as pleasant as the latter. The projected figures Tuesday showed reasons for the tax situation which now exists here and were presented by city, county and school district officials.

Occasion of the meeting was the annual meeting of Jobs, Incorporated, the local industrial development corporation. While election of directors and reports on progress were included on the program, they were almost incidental to the community's tax question. Representatives of the three governmental units had been invited to discuss their operations.

Reelected to the board of directors were Gordon Ballingrud, Randall Noper, Glenn Peterson, Donald M. Olson and Robert Flynn. The slate of candidates was presented by John Penn, co-chairman of the nominating committee with Gene Belto, and was adopted by acclamation.

Donald M. Olson, president of Jobs, Incorporated, reported that the organization's industrial park had been improved by the addition of Schroeder Industries during the past year and that the property for ACS Industries had been purchased by a local group including Lowell Swenson, James Winjum and William LaFave. Schroeder Industries now has 10 employees and owners of the firm are happy to be in Thief River Falls, Olson said.

Talking Taxes

Robert Flynn, treasurer of the newly-formed Northwest Taxpayers association, said that the organization was not unique in that a number of local associations are being formed in the state. He added that all facets of people that we deal with are organized, and taxpayers must organize to make their wishes known.

Flynn said that the association plans to have committees in attendance at school, county and city board and council sessions to report back to the general association. City and rural taxpayers will all be welcomed in the association, he said, adding that the group was not being formed "to nail anybody's hide to the wall".

Otto Steaberg of the county board of commissioners introduced C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor, to explain a part of the way taxes are collected in the county. Ronald Mooers, director of the county welfare board, also reviewed operations of that department.

Chairman Mervin Prestebak of the board of education introduced Supt. L. M. Johnson who outlined the 1971 school budget together with the budget figures and actual expenditures for 1970.

Mayor A. E. Jacobson reviewed the method used to provide revaluation of city property by the state department of taxation, and Robert Carlson, chairman of the city council, reviewed the city budget and increases for this year.

Most of the figures presented at the meeting—attended by approximately 150 people—were budget figures which have been reviewed at public meetings and in this newspaper on previous occasions.

Council chairman Carlson indicated that the council intends to call on the taxpayers' association for counsel on expenditures when questions about them occur. He said that problems of a serious nature demand immediate attention in both the sewerage and water departments and that the council is studying an increase in rates for both sewer and water service.

At times of peak flow, he said, virtually raw sewerage escapes into the river because the present plant can not handle the volume. Water is being treated to make it safe to drink but not of the quality which would be possible with modern methods.

The council will say "no" to street improvements and sewer and water extensions for this year in an attempt to hold down costs. Bonded debt for the city is now $4,663,750 which includes bonds for streets, sewer and water lines, arena and other revenue or general obligation issues.

DONALD SWANSON, manager of the dairy enterprise of the Swenson Brothers, Inc., was named Pennington county's outstanding dairyman for 1970. Mr. and Mrs. Swanson were honored guests at the annual dairyman's banquet held Monday in conjunction with the Red River Valley winter shows. The Red River Valley Dairyman's association sponsors this event. The dairy enterprise at Swanson Brothers includes 160 cows on DHIA testing and the production of Grade A milk. Factors considered by the local committee which selects the outstanding dairyman include good facilities, quality of production, herd improvement and production records.

TRF Foundation Has Annual Meet

One board member was reelected and a charter member was replaced when the Thief River Falls foundation held its annual meeting recently. A. B. Stenberg was reelected to the board and Marvin Lundin was elected to succeed William E. Dahlquist, one of the founders of the scholarship organization.

The board paid special tribute to Dahlquist, former state senator and former editor of the Times, for his service to the organization. Now residing at the convalescent and nursing care unit of Northwestern hospital, Dahlquist aided in formation of the foundation to provide scholarship funds to needy students desiring to further their education. He had served on the board since that time.

Action was taken at the meeting to provide scholarship funds in the amount of $200 each to Northland state junior college and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. These funds are to be administered by the scholarship committees of each school to assist needy students.

William LaFave was reelected president of the foundation with Randall Noper renamed to the vice president post and Orville Hanson returned to the office of secretary-treasurer. Other board members in addition to Stenberg and Lundin are L. B. Hartz, James Winjum, Frank Tunberg, Robert Lund and Stanton Dahlen.

Operating statement for the year showed $18,737 in loans outstanding to 23 students or former students as of the end of the fiscal year. The foundation entered the year with $18,678 outstanding with $4,195 paid by loan recipients and an additional $2,275 advanced by the foundation.

Assets of the foundation total $42,753 which include the loans receivable plus $25,545 in savings accounts and time deposits and $449 in the checking account.

Cash receipts during the year of $21,748 included a $15,000 bequest from the Paul J. Lundgren estate, principal payments of $4,195 and interest payments on loans and savings of $1,752. Donations of $300 were also received.

Thief River Falls foundation is described as a non-profit corporation formed to administer, in its own behalf or as the trustee for others, funds or property for educational, benevolent, charitable, social, recreational, civic or commercial purposes in accordance with requests.

Northland Adds Play Performance

Due to public demand and the limited space in the student commons, Northland Theater production of "The Miracle Worker" is being presented one more evening than planned. The additional presentation is scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m., in the student commons.

Directed by Roger Vaughan, the play follows the life of Helen Keller as she is taught by Annie Sullivan. A special children's matinee is planned for Saturday at 2 p.m., and the Friday night production will be staged as scheduled earlier. Admission is $1 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Wildlife Week Calls Attention To Human Needs

Drawing the public's attention to the fact that everybody benefits by the existence of wildlife will be the goal for 1971 Wildlife Week, March 21-27.

Minnesota's leading painter of wildlife, Roger Preuss of Minneapolis, has been named state director of the educational campaign, the largest of its kind, sponsored by the Minnesota Conservation federation in cooperation with the National Wildlife federation.

Preuss said the theme, "Wildlife—Who Needs It", will emphasize that the condition of our wildlife is a reflection of man's own environmental quality.

"Lost in all the rationalizations concerning wildlife is the fact that people have the same basic needs as wildlife. As we have ignored wildlife needs, we have also failed to provide for our own. As wildlife suffers, so does man. It just happens faster to other creatures," Preuss said.

More than 200 staunch volunteers will head local Wildlife Week activities in communities throughout the state. Strong effort will be given during the statewide observance to encourage citizens to help improve wildlife habitat. The director cited the need for greater citizen support of state and federal habitat programs.

Fire Department Answers Three Calls On Monday

Thief River Falls fire department answered three calls Monday morning.

At 5 a.m. the department was called to the Art Terrian residence at 302 Riverside avenue when excessive oil in the furnace caused smoke damage in the building.

The fire department made a call to the Theo Graifel home at 121 South Markley at 11 a.m. when a transformer on the furnace burned out causing smoke damage to the building.

Five minutes earlier a call went out to the Chris Ballas home at 302 North Kneale ave. when the occupants smelled smoke. The fire department could find no cause, however.

On Thursday, February 18, the Alfred Lokken home, 420 Red Lake boulevard, suffered burned walls in the front entry when an electric heater was left on and overheated.

Faculty Council Suggests $100,000 Cut In Spending

Taxpayer Ass'n. Again Calls For Holding The Line

(Editor's Note: The following statement from the Northwest Taxpayers association was read by Les Sabo at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening.)

The Northwest Taxpayers association would like to again remind the School District Board that we are still most anxious that there be no increase in budget expenditure for the 1971-72 school year.

In addition to the reasons as stated in our presentation to the school board on Wednesday, February 17, we would also like to state that since the inception of the taxpayers group, many statements and observations by taxpayers, teachers and other persons have been passed on to members of the taxpayers committee.

These statements and observations lead the taxpayers association to believe more than ever that there is unnecessary spending in our school system, and we charge the school board with the duty of studying and analyzing the following areas of spending which seem to receive the most criticism:

Administrative department, their duties, and their loyalty to the school board;

The teaching staff and their full time duties;

The aides to teachers and their necessity to the system.

The clerical and office staff, and their numbers and duties.

The taxpayers association would like to remind the school district that we are not opposed to paying tax dollars to operate a good school system, nor are we opposed to paying good salaries.

The existence of irresponsibility and disloyalty to the school board can account for much unnecessary spending, so we also charge the administration, the teachers and other working personnel, to better their methods, and they in turn can help themselves and the financial condition of the school system.

Area Vocational School Receives Station Approval

Federal Communication commission granted a construction permit to the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school for a new Class D non-commercial educational FM broadcast station last Thursday.

With the granting of this permit, the full operation of the radio broadcasting course at the area vocational-technical school becomes a reality.

According to present plans, students will begin actual "live" broadcasting near May 1.

Station call letters, schedule of broadcast time, etc., will be announced later this spring.

GIRLS' STATE delegate from Plummer American Legion auxiliary this year is Janice Hesse, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Florian Hesse. Alternate is Gloria Culkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Culkins. The girls were selected from the Plummer high school junior class on the basis of their school activities and citizenship.

Families of pre-school children are encouraged to attend.

Appointments should be made two weeks before the clinic comes to town. The appointment chairman is Mrs. Joe Dostal, Jr., 308 Conley av. S. Her telephone number is 681-2581.

The hearing and speech clinic is available to all families of handicapped children. There is no clinic charge. Children requiring periodic follow-up and whose parents cannot provide the necessary care may return to the clinic. Written referral from a physician is recommended for each new patient.

Examination and consultation services for each child will be provided by a pediatrician, otologist, audiologist, and speech consultant. A report of their findings is sent to the family physician. A public health nurse is in attendance to assist families in planning to carry out the medical recommendations.

Appointments also should be made for this clinic two weeks before the clinic comes to town. The appointment chairman is Mrs. Calvin Ripley, 205 South Maple. Her telephone number is 681-4165.

The general clinic is available to all families of handicapped children. There is no clinic charge. Children requiring periodic follow-up and whose parents cannot provide the necessary care may return to the clinic. Written referral from a physician is recommended for each new patient.

A public health nurse is in attendance to assist families in planning to carry out medical recommendations. A medical social worker is also available to help parents with any emotional, social or financial problems.

Wheat And Feed Grain Programs To Be Explained

An informational meeting will be held on Monday at 1 p.m. in the meeting room in the Thief River Falls city auditorium. At that time the Pennington county ASC committee and Wallace Sparby, county executive director, will be on hand to explain the wheat and feed grain program as it affects farmers in Pennington county in 1971.

Other programs administered by the ASCS office will also be discussed. Terry Courneya, county agent, will speak on new varieties and recommendations from the extension service.

Albert Matson, FHA supervisor, will speak briefly on programs administered by the Farmers Home administration. Bob Kloubec, Soil soil conservation technician, will speak on activities in Soil Conservation service.

All farmers and interested persons are invited to attend this meeting on March 1.

Proposal Calls For Reduction In Teacher Aides

Thief River Falls teachers' negotiating council proposed a reduction from its original salary proposal and 60 per cent reduction in teacher aides Monday evening in a package estimated to total $100,000 in its negotiations with the board of School District 564. An estimated 300 people were in attendance at the meeting in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Vern Isaacson, chairman of the teachers' council, made the proposal to the board toward the end of the session. He proposed a drop in requests by the council of $100 at the top of the BA lane to a starting salary of $7,400, and at the bottom of the MA plus 30 lane of $430 for a top salary of $14,860. He also proposed that the school district reduce its teacher aides by 60 per cent to reduce total instructional costs.

The council chairman recommended formation of a committee consisting of a representative of the school board, the administration, the community and a teacher representative from each school building to study the techniques of job analysis and accountability, as a possible means to study the utilization of instructional personnel. Board chairman Mervin Prestebak expressed pleasure at this suggestion.

The teachers' council proposal was the second in the negotiations process. The board will make its second counter proposal at the next negotiating session which was set for Thursday at 4 p.m.

Monday's board meeting opened with a request by Police Chief Rolland Waller to purchase the house being built by the area vocational-technical school carpentry class. He noted that the house is at a point where the selection of color scheme and carpeting would be appreciated by the builders, and that it is becoming increasingly difficult to sell new homes in the city.

Prestebak responded for the board, thanking the chief for his offer and acknowledging the points made, but said that the board is committed to placing the house for sale on bids.

Appearing on behalf of the Northwest Taxpayers association, Les Sabo read a statement from the association, the text of which is published in its entirety in this issue.

A number of local citizens made comments and asked questions in regard to subjects affecting the schools. In response it was reported that the St. Hilaire school building will be put in good repair and used for classes in the fall of 1971; that it is not possible to plan for an influx of 110 to 120 students should St. Bernard's school be closed; that military service had caused the loss of two teachers in one of the district's elementary classes this year, and that budgeting is underway now for the next school

Announce Census Bureau Figures

Pennington county's official population in the 1970 census was 13,266, up 6.4 per cent from the 1960 figure of 12,468, the bureau of the census, U.S. Department of Commerce, reports.

The official population of the state was 3,805,069, up 11.5 per cent from the 1960 population count, which was 3,413,864.

The 1970 census counted 13,218 white persons in Pennington county, 99.6 per cent of the total; and 48 persons of other races. In 1960, 99.6 per cent of the population was white.

The census showed 1,039 children under 5 years; 3,565 in ages 5 through 17; 6,826 people 18 through 64; and 1,836 who were 65 and older. The population 14 years and over included 5,928 married people, 869 who were widowed, 152 divorced, and 2,829 never married.

Pennington county's 1970 population was classified as 65.0 per cent urban, and 35.0 per cent rural.

There were 4,164 households, with 12,946 persons, including 816 one-person households. In addition 320 persons were living in group quarters.

The 1970 census counted 4,451 housing units in Pennington county, 3,085 of them occupied by owners, 1,079 occupied by tenants, and 287 vacant. These included vacant units for seasonal use. The proportion occupied by owners in 1970 was 69.3 per cent, compared with 69.3 per cent in 1960.

Among year-round dwelling units there were 3,249 single family houses, 932 housing units in multi-unit buildings, and 255 mobile homes or trailers. The percentage of occupied units with more than one person per room was 8.7, compared with 11.3 in 1960. Of all the occupied housing units, 3,567 had piped water, toilet, and bath, while 597 lacked some or all plumbing.

The median value of owner-occupied houses in Pennington county was $12,800, compared with $10,100 in 1960. The median rent paid by tenants in 1970 was $65 per month, compared with $56 in 1960. Half were over and half below the median figures.

These results are from two 1970 census advance reports from the state: PC (V2), General Population Characteristics, and HC (V1), General Housing Characteristics. The reports, which contain additional 1970 census data for the state and various areas within it, may be purchased at nominal prices from The Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from offices of The U.S. Department of Commerce in major cities.

Further reports giving more extensive statistics on the characteristics of the population and housing will be published in future months.

Freedom Of Religion Favored By BPW Club

Several events, both on local and national level, were discussed at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Thief River Falls Business and Professional Women's club held at the Aurelia room at the Elks cafe.

Receiving the greatest discussion was the letter read by Mrs. Eileen Horejsh. This letter asked that members write letters to the National Aeronautical Space center requesting that astronauts be given the privilege of expressing their religious faith, counteracting the action of renown atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair, who is working to have this privilege denied. The club went on record as being in favor of granting the astronauts the rights to voice their religious convictions. During the discussion, it was reported that several organizations in this city had received this request several months earlier. Mrs. Clarice Collins was appointed to investigate the issue. Following the meeting, Mrs Collins contacted Mr Bouer, clerk of the Supreme Court at Washington, D.C., and the Space Center at Houston, Texas and she was informed that letters at this time would be of no avail. She was told that although [illegible] reached, it will be based only on information already on file.

Other matters discussed were the annual card party, membership drive for the Northern Blood bank association and the Diamond Jubilee fashion parade. Chairman of the card party, Mrs. Eileen Horejsh, stated that the party was scheduled for March 16, following the regular meeting. Members decided that in place of gift prizes, cash prizes will be awarded. Several club members volunteered to work at the party.

Mrs Vi Kalinoski reported that a membership drive for the blood bank will be held in March, with a definite date to be announced later. She also received a number of volunteer workers to assist in the project.

In discussing the fashion parade to be held in conjuntion with the Diamond Jubilee celebration, Marge Hanson requested that anyone in the community having old gowns, dresses, shoes, hats, accessories and men's clothing, that could be used for the event, contact her. She stated that people having these clothes may model their own garments or have a relative model them. Request was also made for clothing from the "Old Country." It was decided that if clothing was too frail to be worn that copies of these styles could be made.

Mrs. Clarice Collins reported that as requested by the club, she had met with the safety committee regarding the removal of the piles of snow obstructing vision at certain intersections. She stated that these hazards had been eliminated. She was instructed to convey the club's appreciation to the City department.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Dr. Ervin Kiesz. His topic was adult oral hygiene dealing with tooth problems faced by middle-aged and senior citizens. He also explained the diseases leading to the loss of teeth. A question and answer period followed his discussion.

Introducing Dr. Kiesz and his wife was DeLores Anderson, chairman of the program committee on Public Relations. Assisting Mrs. Anderson in planning the program were Bernice Nelson and Dorothy Larson.

In 1970 over a thousand FFA'ers in 190 high school chapters raised and released about 9,500 wild ducks and over 30,000 pheasants.

Entries may include lithographs, wood cuts, linoleum blocks, metal engravings, serigraphs, calligraphs and other experimental prints. Each contestant may submit three entries.

Awards are presented each year to help further careers of promising young artists. Last year's competition was in dance, and next year's will be in literature. The 1967 Minnesota winner in literature tied for third place in the national contest.

A total of $2,000 is to be given in the national competition, as follows: $1,000 to the first place winner in the 19 to 26 age division; $500 to the second place winner in that division; $500 to the first place winner in the 14 to 18 age division. The Northern Minnesota chapter will select its own winners in each of these age groups, and the winning entries will be submitted to the national contest.

Three judges will select a first, second and third winner in each division. National winners will be announced at the national convention of the society to be held at Shreveport, La., in June. The first place national winner will be sent to the convention to receive the award in person.

National judges will select outstanding prints from the first, second and third place winners in the two divisions to be exhibited. Handicapped May Have Privileges Under State Law

Physically handicapped drivers in Minnesota are entitled to special consideration and privileges under state law, the department of public safety pointed out today.

1. Those who qualify can obtain official "handicapped" flags for use in emergencies such as vehicle failure, and for getting into and out of cars.

2. They can obtain identifying certificates which, when properly placed in the vehicle, will exempt them from parking violation penalties under certain conditions.

Any person is eligible for these privileges who is handicapped by the loss of one or both arms or legs or who is otherwise permanently disabled in any manner rendering it difficult and burdensome for him to walk.

The "Handicapped" flag is a 6 x 14-inch reflective pennant bearing a red H in an irregular red border. It is obtained by submitting to the department of public safety an application establishing eligibility. The cost is $1. Each flag is accompanied by an authorization and identification card which the user must carry with him.

The parking insignia is also obtained from the public safety department. An applicant is required to submit a physician's certificate that he is handicapped within the meaning of the law. There is no charge for the parking insignia. Exemption from parking penalties does not extend to parking in rush hour no parking—no stopping zones, in fire lanes, or in truck or other restricted zones.

Application forms for the pennant and the parking insignia can be obtained from the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, Highway Building, St. Paul, 55101.

Major Changes Occur In Food Service Industry

Broad, sweeping changes are occurring within the food service industry, of interest to Americans who now eat 40 per cent of their food away from home.

Robert Olson, instructor and extension specialist in food service management at the University of Minnesota, lists some of the changes and the trends that will affect the industry in the years ahead:

Greater use of pre-prepared or convenience foods. These are the foods that require only a limited amount of labor such as heating to make them ready to serve. Examples are frozen foods—from frozen vegetables to such dishes as lobster Newburg.

Separation of the functions of the kitchen (the manufacturing plant) and the dining room (the marketing organization) under one roof. Convenience foods used by the industry are now produced and processed in separate facilities, possibly hundreds of miles from the point of consumer sales. A number of hospitals and restaurants no longer have kitchens, but depend entirely upon outside services for all the food items they serve. The trend of using catering service will probably grow.

Greater use of soy protein products. Soybeans yield foods that are fabricated to a specific nutritional makeup and also to taste like bacon, chicken or beef.

Increasing application of the computer in all phases of operation and management. The computer is now being used for accounting functions, inventory maintenance and menu planning. It will also be used for scheduling production and employee activity, recipe development and the design of food service facilities to provide the most efficient arrangement of equipment.

More consideration to nutrition.

The changes occurring in the industry, coupled with the tremendous growth expected, present problems to be faced and solved, says Olson. One of the challenges is the responsibility of sharing in the education of the consumer to eat for better health.

Vehicle Control Standard Aimed To Aid Drivers

The department of transportation has amended its vehicle control standard to provide better access and convenience for drivers, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund reported today.

The original standard requires that controls such as steering, horn, shift lever, ignition, lights, windshield wipers and washers, manual choke and driver's sun visor must be accessible to a driver while wearing lap and shoulder safety belts.

The new amendment extends the requirements to include multipurpose vehicles, buses and trucks as well as passenger cars, and includes provision for identification of these controls under daylight and nighttime conditions.

For passenger cars, control location and identification requirements are effective next January 1; and all requirements on all vehicles, including illumination, become effective on Sept. 1, 1972.

The nine controls for which illumination is required are the ignition, automatic speed control, hazard warning signal, clearance lamps, identification lamps, windshield wiping, washing, defrosting and defogging systems, and heating and air conditioning systems.

Improvement of the standard is designed to ensure accessibility of the controls, thereby reducing hazards caused by undue diversion of the driver's attention.

Biggest Spring Wheat Crop In 25 Years Seen

Minnesota farmers intend to seed the biggest spring wheat crop in 25 years and the third largest acreages in history of corn and soybeans, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald has announced.

Forecasts of intended acreages of the major grain crops were obtained in a special survey just completed by the Minnesota department of agriculture's crop and livestock reporting service.

Commissioner Wefald noted that the increased acreages of corn and soybeans could put Minnesota agriculture in a position to break the production records set by those two primary cash grain crops in 1970.

Corn acreage for 1971 is forecast at 6,254,000 acres, an 18 per cent increase over last year's acreage. Only the 1959 and 1960 acreages planted exceed the 1971 intention. Minnesota ranks fifth nationally in corn production.

Soybean acreage is forecast at 3,300,000, up six per cent from last year and the biggest figure in the record book next to the 1966 and 1967 plantings. Minnesota ranks sixth nationally in soybean production.

Spring wheat acreage is forecast at 1,233,000 acres, including 34,000 acres of durum (macaroni type) wheat. If actually seeded, it would be the biggest stand since 1946, the end of the World War II boom for agriculture, when Minnesota farmers seeded 1,276,000 acres of spring wheat.

While the corn and soybean intentions reflect state-wide increases in acreage, the bulk of the sharp increase in spring wheat acreage forecast represents an attempt by the Red River Valley to recoup against unfavorable planting and growing conditions for the past two years.

Minnesota will defend its national oats production title with 3,229,000 acres, a reduction of 8 per cent from 1970.

Barley seeding intentions total 753,000 acres, up 24 per cent from 1970 but down 26 per cent from 1968. Minnesota ranks fifth in barley production.

The special survey indicated hay acreage, a big factor in Minnesota's livestock industry and second nationally, will remain fairly stable, down 1 per cent, to 3,200,000 acres.

The special survey provides an additional economic tool for Minnesota farmers to use in adjusting crop production plans to compensate for weather, economic conditions, seed supply, labor availability and the federal farm programs. It offers a cross-check with the regular crop intention survey to be taken among the same 8,500 cooperating farmers on March 1.

Bankers Ass'n. Is Honored For Ag Service

Minnesota Bankers association and its 730 member banks have received special recognition from the American Bankers association for service to Minnesota agriculture.

The ABA's agricultural and rural affairs committee chairman, Edward M. Norman, president, The First National Bank, Clarksville, Tenn., has announced that the association has been awarded the committee's annual agricultural award on behalf of the bankers of the state.

The award is presented each year, to the state bankers associations of those states whose programs and activities have been of notable service to agriculture during the preceding year. This is the 32nd consecutive year that Minnesota has received the award.

Minnesota Bankers association President Marvin R. Campbell, president, First National bank, Crookston, congratulated the members of the association's agricultural committee as well as all Minnesota bankers on achieving the national honor.

Agricultural projects of the MBA were carried out during 1969-70 by the association's agricultural committee, chaired by Leslie W. Peterson, executive vice president of the Farmers State bank of Trimont.

Among the activities of the committee, the American Bankers association noted: Joint sponsorship of the Midwest Banking Institute at the University of Minnesota Morris campus; support of the Future Farmers of America and National 4-H foundation as well as June Dairy Month; participation in the regional professional improvement conference; encouragement of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce farm forum program; co-sponsorship of a farm income tax short course; and other projects.

Minn. Sales Tax Burden Lighter Than Elsewhere

Minnesota's state sales tax puts a lighter burden on taxpayers than do those in 43 of the 44 sales tax states, in the judgment of the U.S. Internal Revenue service, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"This is shown in the optional sales tax deduction tables provided by the Internal Revenue service for use by income taxpayers who itemize their deductions," said Charles P. Stone, executive director of the association. "Only in Massachusetts are the optional deductions lower than for Minnesota."

In effect, Stone said, the Internal Revenue service tells taxpayers: This table tells you how much, considering your income and the size of your family, you probably paid in sales taxes in 1970, and we'll accept that deduction without question. If you think you paid more, prove it. Or if you bought an automobile, you may deduct the sales tax paid on it additionally to the figure in the table.

For the purpose of its study MTA compared the optional sales tax deductions for a family of four, at two different gross income levels—$5,000 to $6,000 and $10,000 to $11,000—in all 45 sales tax states.

In Massachusetts, which has a three per cent sales tax rate, the optional deduction is $20 at the $5,000-$6,000 income level and $34 at the $10,000-$11,000 level. Massachusetts, however, does not tax alcoholic beverages, restaurant meals, gas and electricity, telephone service and some other items that are taxed in Minnesota. In Minnesota the optional deductions at the same income levels are $42 and $68. The heaviest sales tax load is carried by Mississippians, who pay a five per cent rate. Optional deductions permitted there are $163 at the $5,000-$6,000 income level and $244 at the $10,00-$11,000 level.

"The Internal Revenue service figures make it clear that the impact of a sales tax on the taxpayer's pocketbook is determined more by the items taxed or excluded from taxation than by the percentage rate of the tax," Stone said.

Bergland Offers Protection Bill For Consumers

Congressman Bob Bergland announced this week his co-sponsorship of the 1971 consumer protection act. The legislation, introduced this week, would establish an independent consumer protection agency and a White House consumer protection office.

Noting that 36 federal departments and agencies now administer over 500 bills dealing with consumer protection, Bergland stated: "The total lack of coordination among these programs has resulted in such confusion and duplication that little actual protection has been afforded consumers. The independent agency—free from political pressures—would provide, in fact, the protection consumers demand and need."

Bergland also noted that "political pressure can be put to good use and the establishment of a White House consumer office will place the full weight of the presidency behind the consumers' cause."

"This two-pronged program," Bergland concluded, "will assure the people that the products and services they buy will be subjected to the closest of scrutiny and serve notice that consumers now have a strong and unified voice in Washington."

Faculty Council Suggests Cut In Proposal

Speaking for the negotiating council, Mrs. Edith Eiler sought clarification of the school calendar. The board's original proposal showed school classes starting on Labor day (September 6) and teacher contracts for 185 days expiring June 8, 1972, six days after students were dismissed. Correction was made to show school starting September 7 and teacher contracts ending September 6.

No allowance had been made for teacher convention days in October, Mrs. Eiler noted. She was assured that deletion of the two days for the convention was intentional since a number of faculty members do not attend the sessions. Mrs. Eiler suggested a voucher system whereby attendance would be required for payment.

Miss Janet Shaw questioned the removal of accumulative days on sick leave, and Veen Isaacson asked the amount of money the district could expect to save by not allowing accumulation. Board members Presteback and Dr. Martin responded that the item was negotiable and that it was impossible to determine a dollar figure.

Miss Ellen Clark asked if the board considered it ethical to drop a negotiated benefit such as hospitalization insurance. (The board had proposed reduction from full coverage to single coverage not to exceed $11 per month.)

Art Weller of the council stated that the extra curricular portion of the schedule is one in which instructors are "grossly underpaid" and repeated the council's request for a percentage of the base salary. Adjustment was made for reduction of the base from $7,500 to $7,400.

Council chairman Isaacson then made the council proposal which he said offered a package decrease of $100,000 from the original request.

The board went into executive session for 15 minutes. Upon return, Presteback thanked the council for its second offer and the formation of a study committee in particular.

Board member Kenneth Murphy reviewed extra-curricular salaries, citing figures showing that Thief River Falls extra-curricular salaries were the highest in the district and in all cases except hockey coaching were in excess of the state average.

Next meeting date was set for Thursday at 4 p.m.

Supt. L. M. Johnson noted in his report that a study had been made of the heating plant at Mark Twain and Franklin school complex and that it was capable of heating an additional 22 classrooms with 1.5 million BTU reserve.

He said that a representative of the Hamel & Green architectural firm had been invited to the next meeting to discuss the possibility of a master plan for additional needed classroom space.

Mention was again made of the 45-15 plan for year-around school operation.

Teaching contract was approved for Peter Stern, Minneapolis, to teach grade five at Northrop, succeeding Lawrence Fearing who entered military service. Stern has a BA degree from Augsburg college and BS degree from Bemidji state college.

Resignation of Marlys Hauschultz, fourth grade teacher at Knox school, was accepted upon securing a replacement.

Supt. Johnson noted that it would be possible for the school district to lease the former Carnegie public library building for 36 months at $150 per month plus maintenance, repair, remodeling and utilities for elementary classroom use.

Taxes Are Topic At Jobs, Inc. Meet Tuesday

units in the city, townships, villages, county and school district for 1971 is $3,066,060. It was learned at the meeting. Net levy, or the amount raised through local taxes, is $2,711,631. The latter figure compares with $2,036,040 a year ago.

Comparative levies for 1970 and 1971 respectively, as listed by County Auditor Rodekuhr, are as follows: City of Thief River Falls, $261,001 and $334,848, County of Pennington, $549,499 and $655,693, and School District 564, $1,226,133 and $1,721,356.

Mobile home tax was mentioned, and Rodekuhr explained that mobile home tax is distributed 10 per cent to the county, 10 per cent to the state, 50 per cent to the school district and 30 per cent to the municipality.

He showed how the taxes on an $8,000 mobile home of $223.82 the first year would decrease to $131.66 after five years, and the taxes on a $14,000 mobile home would decrease from $460.80 the first year to $230.41 after five years.

If anything was proved during the meeting, it was the complexity of computing taxes for each of the governing bodies and the impracticality of attempting to make comparisons among them.

Since taxes reflect the money that governments need to purchase goods and services, it would seem that they must increase as the cost of goods and services continues to increase in the private sector as well.

Moos Defends 'U' Salary Policies Against Attack

Salaries at the University of Minnesota are about average among institutions of similar quality and size, University President Malcolm Moos told the state legislature last week.

"Our averages are not high in the marketplace in which we compete for talent," Moos told the education division of the House appropriations committee. "Indeed, without improvement in this coming biennium, our ability to compete for talent, or hold the quality faculty we now employ, could be seriously endangered."

He noted that salaries at the university rank fifth among the nine public Big Ten schools plus the University of California.

Moos also expressed concern over what he called "rather widespread legislative skepticism about the university's candor" in making its budget requests.

"The university's budget is complex because the institution is complex," he said, "not because we seek to disguise our real purposes."

Moos said most of the university's budget requests result from inflation. "Two-thirds of the increase in the request for our operating costs for 1972 is what is needed to maintain the university at its present level of quality."

If the legislature sustains the governor's recommendation of no new academic positions for the first year of the biennium, Moos said, the university could not even hold the line but would be forced to "retrench and redeploy" to a lower level of quality and opportunity.

Criticism has been leveled at the university because many of its employers are paid more than the $27,500 salary of Gov. Wendell Anderson.

University records show that 154 salaries exceed that figure, out of about 12,000 fulltime employees. Twenty of the 154 are brought into the higher salary range by outside grants and endowments.

The average faculty salary, not including graduate students who teach, is $18,027 on a 12-month basis and $14,696 for nine months.

Moos said these averages are low for the education field. "For the university in toto," he said, "they are only slightly above the other state systems despite the fact that we carry for the state most of the high-cost graduate and professional missions."

"At the very least," he said, "the data sharply challenges the assumption that we are running an extravagant system."

Moos said the university should have the freedom to pay high salaries in ways that reward those with outstanding talent.

"Mediocrity of performance is the most costly phenomenon experienced by any university," he said. "Cheap universities often become the most expensive over the long haul."

The small number of highly paid faculty members is essential to the university's ability to attract important research and development money, Moos said. "The university brings more than $40 million annually to the state from federal and private sources for research and graduate education. This is possible only because of its ability to attract and hold distinguished scholars."

"It should be noted that the administrative costs involved for the university include all of the central administrative costs for operating a system of five campuses as well as 12 experiment stations and a far flung network of general extension and agricultural extension activities," he pointed out.

The first use of "Future Farmers" of America (FFA) as the name of an organization of vocational agriculture enrollees in Minnesota was by Esko high school students on Oct. 29, 1929.

Claim Luggage At Airports To Avoid Thefts

Last year, more than $7 million in baggage thefts at airports occurred, according to airlines estimates. But by taking proper precautions, says the Minnesota AAA, you can avoid having your luggage stolen at an airport baggage department.

When claiming luggage at an airport terminal, be sure to arrive at the baggage department immediately after getting off your flight, the travel organization points out. This is to ensure that you—and nobody else—gets your luggage. You may have to wait awhile for your bags to be unloaded, but it's worth it.

Also, be sure to have baggage claim checks ready when picking up luggage, because more and more airports are checking claim logs before releasing baggage.

Over the past few years there has been a steady 25 per cent annual increase in airport terminal baggage thefts. One of the big reasons for this is that deplaning passengers will stop in a lounge, restaurant or airport shop before finally getting around to claiming their luggage.

During the past eight years over 50,000 wild strain mallard ducklings were supplied by the Max McGraw Wildlife foundation of Dundee, Ill. for the Minnesota FFA's experimental rearing and releasing programs.

Minnesota Onion Stockpile Lowest In Many Years

Here's a report from the Minnesota department of agriculture that may bring tears to your eyes.

Commissioner Jon Wefald said Minnesota's onion stockpile is one of the lowest in years, due to the unfavorable 1970 growing season for this small but economically important specialty crop grown primarily in the Hollandale, Moorhead and Anoka area.

The current inventory is estimated at only 7.1 million pounds, or less than two pounds per capita for each of Minnesota's 3.8 million inhabitants.

It not only means less native onions for hamburger and hot dish fans, but a sharp cut in income for Minnesota's onion growers. The value of the 1970 crop is estimated at $428,000, compared with an annual average of nearly $750,000, and a record $1,064,000 crop in 1968.

While Minnesota's crop was short, the national onion production, reflected by January 1 inventories, is 24 per cent greater than last year and four per cent higher than the record 1969 carryover. New York, Michigan, Idaho and Oregon lead the nation in onion production. Minnesota's supply represents only 1.2 per cent of the national total.

Letters to the Editor

Hurrah for the school board! These elected servants of the public are responding to the majority of their electorate, as every public official should. These people are facing financial reality in refusing to hand our public school teachers automatic raises at a time when the people cannot afford it. If all public officials faced this financial reality, our taxes would be lower.

With increased taxes, incentive is reduced for income producing families, while it threatens the security of our good citizens on retirement and fixed income people. Your school board needs your support NOW! Here's what you can do: Call or write the members of the school board. They are Mervin Prestebak, Dr George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Charles Samuelson, Wallace Sparby and Maynard Wedul.

Thursday, February 25, at 4 p.m. at Lincoln high school there is a meeting between the school board and the representatives of the teachers. Bring a friend and be sure to attend. Your presence supports your school board!

Potato Growers To Feel Ban On DDT

Proposed DDT bans would affect Minnesota's potato growers most, according to University of Minnesota entomologists Laurence Cutkomp and Edward Radcliffe.

DDT has been taken off the state department of agriculture's recommended list of pesticides for 1971, making it impossible for farmers to obtain a permit for crop use this year. Without DDT, pest control costs on potatoes will more than double, raising total production costs about five per cent, the entomologists say.

However, production of other crops will not be affected if DDT is banned, they add.

The federal environmental protection agency (EPA) will decide by mid-March whether or not to suspend interstate shipment of DDT. And, the Minnesota department of agriculture will have a hearing sometime in March to determine whether or not to ban DDT and mercury. A ruling by the state attorney general or the secretary of state could ban use of DDT and mercury in Minnesota after July 1, 1971.

Although potato growers have been phasing out the use of DDT in the Red River Valley, about 10,000 pounds of the chemical were used there last year. The 10,000 pounds of DDT used to treat 5,000 acres last year was about one-half the amount used in 1969.

DDT is especially important to potato growers because it is most effective in combating the potato leaf hopper insect, Cutkomp says.

"There's never been an adequate substitute for DDT in controlling the leaf hopper. If other pesticides are used, heavier applications have to be made to kill potato leaf hoppers," he explains.

Farmers have had to absorb greater production costs as they gradually substituted other pesticides for DDT on potatoes and other crops, Cutkomp adds. "Everywhere that DDT was effectively used, other pesticides didn't approach it in economy."

Other crops in Minnesota will not be affected because other pesticides have already been substituted for DDT, the entomologist says. The substitution has usually been a result of regulations which prevent excessive amounts of DDT from occurring in food consumed by people.

An example is the substitution of the pesticide carbaryl (Sevin) for DDT to control the corn ear worm.

When DDT was used to control the corn ear worm, residues of DDT stayed on the stalks used for forage, Cutkomp says. Consequently, dairy animals fed the stalks were found to have excessive amounts of DDT in their milk.

The pesticide Sevin is about equal in effectiveness to DDT, but Sevin costs more and often more applications have to be made, Cutkomp explains.

Apple growers had also stopped using DDT because of residue regulations, he says. Only four DDT applications could be made in spring and early summer to stay within the residue regulation. However, a very important apple pest, the apple maggot, comes in late summer when DDT cannot be applied, he says.

Similar problems with residue regulations have caused farmers to stop using DDT on cabbage, broccoli and other crops, Cutkomp reports.

In other cases, insecticides have been substituted for DDT when insects have developed a high degree of resistance to DDT. For example, DDT has been used to control house flies around farm buildings where such use was permitted by law. However, house fly resistance caused DDT to be ineffective.

Since July 1, 1970, DDT, DDD, dieldrin, endrin, heptachlor, lindane and aldrin have been on the restricted use list in Minnesota. The sale of these pesticides is illegal except for certain recommended uses for which a permit must be obtained. These pesticides cannot be used by homeowners.

Minnesota 2nd In Nation For Honey Production

Minnesota now ranks second in honey production nationally, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald announced today.

He said Minnesota moved up a notch, behind Florida, when California tumbled from first to third place with the largest production decline reported by any state. Minnesota produced nearly eight per cent of the national supply of honey.

Commissioner Wefald reported the value of Minnesota's 1970 honey crop is estimated at $3,115,000, by the crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture. Production totaled 18,470,000 pounds.

Another $206,500 value is estimated for the 350,000 pounds of beeswax yielded by the 1970 honey crop.

"Significant as the estimated $3,321,500 value of the honey and beeswax appear, this is dwarfed by the biggest reason for beekeeping, for pollination of agricultural crops. The annual value of pollination service by bees in Minnesota is estimated at over $80,000,000," Commissioner Wefald stated.

Although Minnesota production of honey declined eight per cent from 1969, that was less than half the 17 per cent drop in national honey yield. Compensating in part for unfavorable weather conditions was a two per cent increase in the number of Minnesota's bee colonies, to 177,000. Colonies produced an average of 110 pounds of honey during 1970, down 11 pounds from the prior year.

The margin between average wholesale and retail prices for extracted honey increased by two cents, with the wholesale tab dropping three cents to 15 cents per pound, while the retail price dropped only a penny to 28 cents per pound.

Growth Country Term Applied To Rural Area

"Rural Minnesota should—and would—be growth country if we had enlightened programs to encourage the prosperity of existing basic industries—and if we promoted good development of our soil, water and human resources.

"The greatest drawback to rural prosperity at the moment is the low income situation of Minnesota farmers," Edwin Christianson, president of Minnesota Farmers Union, told the audience at the annual meeting of the Gully credit union on Saturday.

"It rather alarms us" the farm spokesman said, "when some leaders seem to "write off" the rural areas. The ghost town concept of rural Minnesota's future is both short-sighted and wasteful. It is wasteful because it will abandon hundreds of millions of dollars in public and private investments in these communities—and it is short-sighted because rural Minnesota is the living space of tomorrow and if these communities are allowed to die now, new communities will have to be built eventually," Christianson declared.

The Farmers Union spokesman listed some of the other qualities of life that are involved in building desirable rural communities, in addition to the economics of the farm balance sheet. These include education, housing, health care, employment opportunities as some of those necessary to make any community a good place to live.

"Frankly, a community which is starved of income is likely to in turn starve the public services and facilities which are essential to its citizens," Christianson said.

Unemployment In State Rises To 5.0 Per Cent

Seasonally adjusted January unemployment rate in Minnesota was 5.0 per cent, up 0.2 percentage points from December, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services said today.

This compares with a national unemployment rate of 6.0 per cent for January, Cushing said.

He said the number of unemployed in Minnesota in January was the highest January jobless figure since 1958.

The level of unemployment in January of 1958, however, was far more acute, Cushing pointed out. He noted that the seasonally adjusted rate at that time was 7.7 per cent, with 104,600 persons jobless.

The total number of unemployed in January of 1970 was 98,200.

The relatively small increase of—15,700—from December—to January in the number of unemployed was primarily the result of seasonal factors, Cushing said.

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in Minnesota declined from December by 28,200 for a total of 1,279,100 workers in January. The seasonal decreases responsible for this drop were mainly in the construction and trades industries, he said.

A decrease of 24,400 in manufacturing employment was partially offset by an increase of 10,900 workers in nonmanufacturing, netting a total decrease of 13,000 workers from January 1970, he said.

Practically all of the decline in employment in the manufacturing sector occurred in the durable goods category, with nonelectrical machinery down 8,100, electrical machinery down 7,300 and the category which includes ordnance and scientific instruments and miscellaneous industries down 5,200.

Cushing said the 10,000 rise in employment from a year ago in the nonmanufacturing sector was chiefly attributable to gains of 5,100 in service industries and 5,000 in government.

The increase in the service category was mainly due to added jobs in hospital and other medical services.

Approximately 86 per cent of the upturn in employment in government occurred in local units, with administrative and educational segments posting increases of 2,600 and 1,500 respectively.

Production workers in manufacturing earned an average of $144.52 per week for working 39.1 hours at $3.69 per hour. In December, average weekly earnings were $145.82 for 39.9 hours at $3.65 per hour. Although the December to January decline in average weekly hours and earnings was largely due to seasonal influences, a labor dispute and layoffs contributed substantially to the downturn.

Hog Prices Cause Livestock Value Drop In State

A 45 per cent drop in hog prices is primarily responsible for a four per cent cut in the valuation of an increased Minnesota inventory of livestock and poultry, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald reported today.

He said the Minnesota department of agriculture crop and livestock reporting service estimated the January 1 value of livestock and poultry, excluding turkeys, at $911,000,000—down $40,000,000 from the "meat bank" inventory a year earlier.

Hogs showed the biggest inventory increase, by 18 per cent, to a Dec. 1, 1970 total of 3,692,000, or just less than one per capita for Minnesota's population of consumers. Hogs were valued at $23 per head, compared with $41.50 a year ago. The total supply is valued at $84,918,000.

Inventory increases also were reported for cattle and calves, one per cent, chickens, up 10 per cent, and dairy cows, up a fraction of one per cent.

Minnesota's beef cattle count on January 1 was 3,998,000, or [illegible] capita for the state's consumers. Minnesota has 981,000, or more than one per capita for the state's consumers. Minnesota has 981,000 dairy cows, up 1,000.

The value estimate is combined on beef and dairy cows, $799,600,000, or up $8,000,000 from a year earlier.

There are three and two-thirds chickens for each of Minnesota's residents, or a total of 13,584,000. This includes 10,978,000 hens and pullets of laying age in the state's egg factory. Total live chicken supply is valued at $16,301,000, down about $1,000 because of a 20 cents per chicken drop in worth.

Continuing price declines also reduced the sheep and lamb inventory by nine per cent, to 504,000 head. Biggest drop was in sheep fed for slaughter. Value of the inventory is estimated at $10,332,000.

Although Minnesota leads the nation in turkey production, census figures were combined with neighboring Wisconsin to preserve the confidentiality of the latter state's limited operations. The combined turkey jackpot for the two states is $1,057,000, valued at $5,074,000, another slippage because of a 30 cent drop in average value.

Youths Receive Interest Areas Through 4-H

If you don't believe it's a "young" world, take a look at the Minnesota population figures.

Nearly half of the state's population is under 25 and almost one-third falls in the under 15 age group.

Serving youth is a major function of the University of Minnesota's Institute of Agriculture. All of its colleges—agriculture, forestry and home economics—train youth for careers.

The 4-H and youth program of the agricultural extension service reaches over 100,000 young men and women each year. Many of these young people are enrolled in organized clubs in Minnesota but others take short-term programs such as arts and crafts, horticultural science, automotive and small engines, bicycle safety and camping.

Several thousand boys and girls in the last few years have been enrolled in the TV action and TV science series. This spring young people will have an opportunity to learn photography by watching the 4-H photo fun series of programs telecast on educational and some commercial television stations.

4-H continues to be a "learn by doing" program, but many of the traditional projects and taking on a new look to meet the needs of today's youths. To broaden the appeal of 4-H to more urban and suburban young people, new projects are added each year. Money management, photography, dog care and training, horsemanship, conservation, entomology and nutrition are among projects that are interesting increasing numbers of urban and suburban youth.

Deepening concern for the environment and for people is showing up in today's 4-H programs.

Clubs in nearly every county in the state have been working to improve the appearance of their communities through the youth for natural beauty program. They have picked up tons of litter along roadsides, in vacant lots and along beaches, built roadside picnic areas, planted flowers and shrubs in community parks and on abandoned lots.

Special projects and programs reflect their concern for people young and old alike. Some clubs volunteer time on a regular basis to visit and work with residents of nursing homes. Each summer rural 4-H'ers act as hosts to youths from the inner city to show them farm life. Basic psychological needs of more than 3,000 retarded children are being met through 4-H programs set up in some 300 special education classes.

4-H'ers are also expanding their own world through international programs—pen pal exchanges, the teen caravan and the international farm youth exchange.

In Minnesota this continuing education program for youth is conducted by the agricultural extension service of the U.S. department of agriculture, the University of Minnesota and the counties. Extension agents give direct supervision in the counties.

Party Paddles Deep In Canada's Barrens

(Hilary Stoltman of Thief River Falls and his three companions have been canoeing on the Thelon river in Canada's Northwest Territories for a week as this segment of his diary continues the story.)

July 13—It was still raining until 9:45 a.m., at which time it looked as if the clouds might break up some. Bob was out doing some morning chores. He yelled for us to bring his cameras to him. He had spotted a pair of ptarmigan and young ones.

Duane caught one of the young ones, and the [illegible] would walk within two feet of him. She was clucking all the time while the male kept exposing himself, trying to get us to follow him. We got some good pictures of this.

After a late breakfast, we bear-proofed the cabin as we found it and were on our way by 2 p.m. It was a very pleasant day of paddling as we had the wind behind us to start with. From 5 p.m. on the river was just like glass as the wind had died down at that time. We saw some gray fronted geese, eight caribou from a distance, always many Canada geese, and various ducks.

Made 25 miles today as we quit paddling at 8 p.m. We tipped over a canoe and used it for a table for the evening meal. Also stored enough dry wood for the breakfast meal by placing it under the canoe. The temperature yesterday reached a high of 50 or so. Today it reached 60. The nights get down to 35 or 40.

Today we are camped on the fringe of the tree line with just a few trees scattered around, most of them the thickness of your wrist. Have to look for some firewood. I don't expect to see any more musk ox as the ones we have seen so far have been in heavy brush of a type that isn't to be seen anymore. The lay of the land is truly becoming barren.

July 14—Caught a 7½ pound trout after breakfast. We were on the river by 11 a.m. Today was a very exciting day.

To start with, we spotted a sow and two cub grizzly bears. The sow and one cub entered the willow thicket while the other cub stayed in the open and was digging for grubs. We drifted in to take pictures. The wind was blowing from us to the shore.

When we got to within 30 yards of the shore, the sow winded us and let out an "ump." At that moment the cub took off in a dead run. The sow came charging at us at locomotive speed all the way to the water's edge and angrily stood on her hind legs to see if she could get to us. I hate to imagine what would have happened if anyone would have been on shore. When both cubs had run out of sight, she lumbered after them.

CANADA GEESE were much in evidence along the shores of the river and, because they were molting, were unable to fly. Hilary Stoltman caught this bird which ran up the bank as the canoe approached. —Photo by Bob O'Hara Earlier I had caught a molting goose that had run up the bank.

Three miles from where we saw the bear, we spied a large herd of caribou. There were at least 10,000 animals. We came in on them from three directions and took a lot of pictures. They [illegible] in all directions and just about run some of us down.

A few miles past that we spotted a large grizzly bear on a cliff. We paddled in a little closer and got to within 75 yards to watch him. He made an attempt to get a goose before he saw us. He got suspicious of us and went into the willows. Then he had second thoughts of losing an easy meal of us and came out toward us and within 75 yards he stood up on two feet and looked us over very closely and finally took off. Temperature is a high 55.

July 15—We are camped today in a spot that the inland Eskimos have used for centuries for hunting caribou on the Thelon from north to south. The hill across the river has 20 well-worn paths leading to the same point at the water's edge. On this side of the river they have dug three hunting pits where they used to sit and wait for the caribou to come close enough to kill. These pits haven't been used for years as there are bushes growing in them.

They had many campsites on three small hills within 300 yards of each other. We picked up 15 artifacts on their campsites. They have rocks placed in a circle from a diameter of nine yards to four yards with thousands of cracked caribou bones that they have eaten the marrow from. Also scattered around their campsites are thousands of chipped pieces of flaked rock that they fashioned some of their tools from.

We were wind bound to our camp today but it turned out to be an interesting day as I walked in most of the surrounding area. While taking pictures of the many campsites, Duane saw a grizzly bear ¾ mile away. So Duane sat down and watched as the bear passed to the east of us. When he reached the river, he went the correct direction—away from us. The wind was 30 to 40 M.P.H. and the temperature high was 30.

July 16—Today it was still a 30 mile wind so by following the shore we made 20 miles, within one and one-half miles from Beverly lake. Had to paddle past the Thelon Bluffs and there were two rapids in that vicinity. The first one we shot but came a little too close for comfort. The second one, after much discussion, we lined, paddled and carried the canoes unloaded over. It was very rough doing it because the wind was throwing the canoe back to us all the time as we lined.

We have seen five grizzly bears since I last wrote yesterday. Duane and I also saw a fox on the opposite shore line. Saw hundreds of caribou in this stretch in bands of from 10 to 300 or so. Before we had left our campsite, three bands of caribou crossed on that well-used trail that was previously mentioned. If we were still and quiet, they'd swim to within 30 yards of where we'd be sitting on the bank.

The temperature is a low 40 or so. We are finally in the completely treeless barrens as the terrain is mostly very short grass, moss, some shrubs in the low places and exposed rock.

Survival Of Man, Wildlife Linked

"Wildlife—Who Needs It?", is the theme of 1971 Wildlife Week, March 21-27.

Roger Preuss, Minnesota wildlife artist and state director of the educational campaign said the theme is important because it illustrates the fact that the condition of wildlife is a reflection of man's own environmental quality.

"Lost in all the rationalizations concerning wildlife is the fact that people have the same basic needs as wildlife. As we have ignored wildlife needs, we have also failed to provide our own. As wildlife suffers, so does man," Preuss said.

Strong effort will be given during the observance, sponsored by the Minnesota Conservation Federation and the National Wildlife Federation, to encourage citizens to help improve wildlife habitat.

THIS HUNTING PIT had been used by the Eskimos to hunt caribou along the trails in Canada's Northwest Territories. The Stoltman canoe party camped in the area and saw caribou herds up to 10,000 animals. These pits were located along well-worn trails to the river where the hunters could wait in ambush for the animals which contributed so greatly to their existence. —Photo by Bob O'Hara

Trapping Season Opens Feb. 20

Minnesota's beaver and otter trapping season will open February 20, the Department of Natural Resources announced this week.

Most of the state will be open to beaver trapping, but otter may only be taken in north central and northeastern Minnesota. The season will run through March 21.

Two areas will be closed to beaver and otter trapping this season,—one in east central Minnesota and the other along the North Sore of Lake Superior. All of Isanti, Kanabec and Pine Counties and parts of Aitkin, Crow Wing and Cass Counties are in the closed area.

The regulations and a map showing the open and closed areas will be available at county auditor's offices.

A second beaver trapping season will be held in southern and western Minnesota April 16-30. The second, later season will help control the beaver population in the agricultural area where they are responsible for many complaints from rural land owners about flooded fields, roads and woodlots.

Richard Wettersten, game and fish director, said that the early "under-the-ice" trapping season was set at a time when the animal's fur would be prime and that early trapping should also help to regulate the harvest in the primary range.

No more than 10 beaver nor more than 3 otter may be taken by a trapper during the season.

All beaver must be tagged at the site where trapped with a self-locking metal tag issued with the license. This tag is to be attached to the pelt by inserting it through the mouth and out the eye and locked.

Both beaver and otter pelts must be submitted for inspection and sealing to a conservation officer or other authorized agent of the Commissioner not later than two days after the close of the season.

State parks are game refuges and neither beaver or otter may be trapped within their boundaries.

Beaver may be taken in all statutory game refuges in the open area except the Paul Bunyan refuge in Hubbard County.

Traps may not be set within or upon beaver houses or closer than 6 feet from the house.

Trapping hours are 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and traps may not be tended between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Trappers are reminded that no license to take beaver may be issued to any person after the third day of the open season. Otter trappers must have the regular trapping license.

In addition to the trapping license, both beaver and otter trappers must also possess a small game hunting license unless they are trapping on their own land.

Wettersten said the beaver season was set on the basis of information obtained from over 2,000 miles of aerial census flown during the month of October, and on extensive reports from the field including trappers observations.

Sunday Skating Program Ends

Instructional skating program under the city parks and recreation department on Sunday afternoons has been completed for this season, according to Mrs. Alfreda Anderson, instructor. Some changes are being considered for the program if it is to be offered again next year.

Greg Armstrong, University of North Dakota sophomore 150-pound wrestler, who hails from Billings, Mont., was Montana's 1969 state champion

JON JENSON lifts the puck over Indus goalie Jon Peterson for the Prowler's second goal in last night's 10-2 drubbing of the Trojans. Jenson's score broke a 1-1 tie with an assist from Mike Hamilton with 54 seconds remaining in the first period. The Prowlers will take on the Moorhead Spuds Friday night, February 26, in the second game of the region eight tournament in the city arena at 9 p.m.

Prowlers Bomb Indus 10-2; Region Tourney Begins Fri.

Thief River Falls easily rolled over Indus 10-2 in sub region eight hockey action last night at Roseau to join seven other teams in the region eight hockey tournament starting Friday, February 26, in the city arena.

In other sub region action last night it was Hallock getting by Red Lake Falls 5-2, Moorhead blanked Alexandria 7-0, Warroad bombed Baudette 12-2, Crookston stopped Fergus Falls 7-2 and Bemidji downed Detroit Lakes 6-3. Roseau and East Grand Forks were already seeded into the region tournament with their first place finishes in the north and south divisions during the regular season.

In the first round game Friday night at 7 p.m., Crookston will go up against the number one team in the state, the Roseau Rams. Thief River Falls will face Moorhead at 9 p.m. Friday. Saturday night will find Hallock and East Grand Forks colliding at 7 p.m., with Warroad taking on Bemidji in the 9 p.m. game. The second round will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, March 1, with two games, and the championship contest is set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 3.

The Prowlers opened the scoring in last night's contest against Indus with defenseman Paul Johnson getting an unassisted goal from the right blueline with 12:09 remaining in the first period.

Center Jerry Palm tied the contest 1-1 for Indus with 9:15 remaining on a rebound from the left side with an assist going to Barry Hasbargen on the play.

The score remained tied until sophomore wing Jon Jenson scored from close range on an assist from Mike Hamilton with 54 seconds remaining in the first period.

The Prowlers scored three goals in the second period to go into the final frame holding a 5-1 lead before increasing the margin to 10-2. Sophomore John Wangberg slipped behind Indus goalie Jon Peterson as the Trojan tried to clear the puck, but the Prowler slipped the puck into the open net with 13:42 remaining in the second period. Jeff Bottem was credited with an assist on the play. The two sophomore linemates exchanged positions for the Prowler's fifth goal as Wangberg assisted on Bottem's shot from close range with 10:09 remaining.

Just four seconds after Indus' Terry Rasmussen was whistled off the ice for tripping the Prowlers' Mike Protz scored on an assist from Jenson with the teams skating four men each.

Thief River Falls kept adding goals to their total in the third period with back-up goalie Tom Nepper scoring his first goal of the season while skating on the forward line. Nepper dug the puck out of Peterson's hands for a 6-1 Prowler lead with 14:32 remaining in the third period. John Wangberg picked up another assist on the score.

Jon Markstrom made it a 7-1 game with 0:46 remaining as he knocked in a rebound with Merv Eriksson getting an assist on the play. Mike Hamilton scored an unassisted goal on a backhand shot from close range for an 8-1 bulge with 7:25 remaining.

Protz picked up his second goal on an unassisted score with 6:15 remaining before Indus broke through for their second score on a power play with 53 seconds remaining. Jeff Bottem put the Prowlers in double figures for the night with just 29 seconds remaining in the game on assists from Nepper and Wangberg.

The Prowlers played without the services of captain Roger Lee who injured his back against Warroad in the last game of the regular season. Lee will be back in time for Friday night's game however. Junior Tom Wurst re-injured his knee against Indus but he is expected to be ready for the Moorhead game also.

In the first contest at Roseau last night, Hallock jumped out to a 2-0 first period lead on goals by John Barger and Bobby Lindegard and added two more scores in the second period to lead 4-0. Lindegard picked up his second goal with 11:12 remaining in the second period and Steve Holmgren scored the fourth Hallock goal.

Red Lake Falls came back on two goals by John Harren to trim the difference to just 4-2 with 8:52 remaining but Scott Pearson scored an unassisted goal for Hallock with 4:51 remaining for the 5-2 win.

The Bears out-shot the Eagles 34 to 11 for the game.

In the final game of the north half at Roseau last night, Warroad got off to a 5-0 first period lead and led 11-2 after two periods before winning 12-2 over Baudette.

John Taylor scored two first period goals for the Warriors and added the hat trick in the second period.

Deer Herd Coping With Conditions

Minnesota's deer herd, struggling to recover from the effects of some severe winters during recent years, is coping with present snow conditions pretty well, the Department of Natural Resources reported.

Milt Stenlund, northeastern Minnesota game manager, said that with the winter half over, the herd is facing no crises but warned that there is little chance of a bumper crop of fawns next spring.

Although there is no evidence of any starvation occurring in the herd, deep snow in some areas will probably reduce the food intake of some does to the point that the health of their fawns will be affected.

Stenlund said there is a narrow belt north of Lake Superior through Cook and Lake counties that has had 18 inches of snow for more than seven weeks.

The rest of the Arrowhead district has had snow of this depth for four weeks. Low temperatures have also been common.

BACK-UP GOALIE Tom Nepper (18) switched from defender to attacker last night as he skated on a forward line for the Prowlers in last night's 10-2 sub region win over Indus at Roseau. The senior adapted to his new position by assisting on a score by Jeff Bottem and scoring a goal himself on this third period shot with 14:32 remaining in the game. The Prowlers will compete in the region eight tournament beginning Friday night in the city arena. Crookston will take on Roseau in the first game Friday night at 7 p.m.

Alvarado Tabbed Favorite In Sub District Tourney

All sub-district 31 basketball coaches except Parker Williams pick Alvarado as the favorite when the tourney begins next Monday night in the Lincoln high school gym.

Williams is the head coach of the Alvarado Indians who have lost only one game all season. The head mentor is pleased to hear of his team's large following but he thinks Oslo should be the tournament favorite because of their streak of five straight sub-district titles.

Six teams, Red Lake Falls, Goodridge, Oslo, Plummer, Alvarado and Fisher will take part in the tournament which begins at 7 p.m. Monday, March 1. There will be two games on both Monday and Tuesday with the consolation and championship games set for Thursday, March 4, in the Lincoln gym.

Red Lake Falls, with a record of 4-12 for the year through Monday night's games, will meet Goodridge in the first round game at 7 p.m. on Monday. The Eagles finished fourth in the Polar conference and have beaten Goodridge twice during the regular season.

Eagle head coach Alvin Amundson said he will try to run on offense and will be switching from zone to man-to-man on defense. Amundson said his team's hopes will hinge on senior guard Ed Shukle who carries a 13-point average for the season.

"Alvarado has to be rated the favorite because of their record," says Amundson, "but Fisher should give them a good fight for the title."

Goodridge holds a 6-10 mark for the season through Monday night and they will finish their season Friday against Middle River. Forward Glen Nefland is the only senior on a young Huskies squad and he leads the club in scoring with a 12.8 average. Junior guard Aldon Hyland also averages in double figures with a 10.6 mark.

Head coach Glen Peters reports his club will try to run with the fast break and press a lot to make up for their lack of height. "Our tallest player stands at 5-11 so we have to compensate with something," stated Peters.

"I'd have to rate Alvarado as the tournament favorite," says Peters, "but Fisher will be tough and Oslo could be the dark horse," said the head man.

In the second game at 8:30 Monday night, Oslo will meet Plummer and Bobcat head coach Gene Augsperger said he wasn't going into the tournament conceding anything.

Oslo finished their regular season with a 9-8 record and a 7-3 mark in the Polar Conference, good for third place. The Bobcats defeated Plummer in the second game of the season, 70-42. "We have a fairly even, well balanced squad," reports Augsperger, "with no real exceptional players, but guard Willie Bayne and forward Bob Hoverston play fine ball for us.

"We've been running a lot more as of late and go mostly with a zone-type defense. Our biggest man is just six-foot but we have four seniors and one junior in the starting line-up, so we are experienced," said the Bobcat coach.

"I'll have to go with Alvarado as the favorite but Fisher and ourselves should be in the thick of things too," said Augsperger.

Plummer will enter the tournament with a 3-15 season mark and a 1-9 record in the Polar conference, good for last place. Seniors Bob Cardinal and Daryl Wilkens captain the Plummer squad and they are two of the only three seniors on the team. Junior forward Lowell Arlt is the leading scorer for the Cardinals with a 12 point season average.

"We do not have the height so we try to run with the ball," said head coach Paul Walker. "I don't like to discount Oslo because they are real winners, but Alvarado is tough," said Walker.

In Tuesday night's action, Alvarado will take on the winner of the Red Lake Falls-Goodridge contest at 7 p.m. while Fisher goes up against the Oslo-Plummer winner.

Fisher carried a 13-4 season record through Monday night's action and they will close out their season at home against Climax Friday night. The Flyers finished second in conference action with an 8-2 mark. During the regular season the Flyers split with Oslo and swept a pair of games against Plummer.

Pete Anderson, a junior center, is the leading scorer for Fisher and he ranks second in the conference in that department with a 21-point average. Alvarado captain Rykk Nicholls leads the league with a 22.2 average. Another Flyer player in double figures for the season is senior forward Tim Wagner who carries a 12.1 points-per-game average.

"Alvarado and Oslo will be right up there for the title," says Flyer coach Dale Johnson, "but I think our club will be right in there too. We have pretty fair height with a front line of 6-2, 6-1 and 6-0," states Johnson.

Alvarado captured the Polar conference title this season with a 9-1 record as the Indians finished the regular season with a 16-1 mark.

Coach Williams said his team will "go with what we have to. We have about five different defenses that we can go with and we can either run or set up patterns on offense, depending on what the other team does."

Williams declined to name any outstanding individuals on his team, but stated that everyone on the squad contributes his fair share.

Prices for the games in the LHS gym will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students with their identification slips from their schools.

Research Needed On Seed Production

More research is needed on bluegrass and timothy seed production, important crops in two northern Minnesota counties, the Lake of the Woods-Rainy Lake commission recommended.

The commission recently submitted a report to the legislature examining the outlook for Lake of the Woods, Koochiching and Roseau counties.

Present funding of the Minnesota agricultural experiment station for $60,000 a year for grass seed production problems should be continued, the commission said.

A major problem facing researchers is to develop a means to kill an old grass variety effectively and establish a new one on the same field since bluegrass rootstock can remain alive in the ground for five years.

Questions need to be answered on the method and time for fertilization, quackgrass control and controlled burning. Burning provides disease control, but may be restricted under new pollution control standards, the commission added.

"Seed crop production, especially in Lake of the Woods and Roseau counties, is one of the brightest aspects of regional agriculture. Of special importance has been the growth of bluegrass and timothy production.

"Bluegrass, grown on 18,000-20,000 acres, is the most important seed crop in the area... Future demand could jump considerably if U.S. homebuilding resumes a rapid pace... New varieties have been introduced and ways of controlling insect-caused diseases such as silvertop have been discovered. However, additional research is needed," the commission recommended.

"Future domestic demand for timothy seed may weaken somewhat, but expansion in export demand is expected. More research on production of this well-adapted crop is needed," the commission said.

A steady rather than expansionary production of small grains now grown in the area is expected. The future of oats appears solid.

Flaxseed is now in considerable surplus in this country. "Although it does not give a high return per acre, no other crop can be planted as late as early June and still yield as high a revenue as flax. This alone will keep it in the area, although wide year-to-year fluctuations in acreage appear likely," the commission added.

No significant shifts in wheat plantings are expected with about a 400,000-500,000 bushel annual crop harvested. Barley and rye are expected to remain as crops of limited importance in the tri-county area, according to the commission's report.

Hay demand should be greater in the future with increased numbers of cattle in the area. Red clover seed holds little promise for this area since it must be harvested in September, when weather conditions may be adverse. The future also looks grim for alsike clover, which has declined in harvest acreage in past years. Future prospects for alfalfa, which needs warm, dry weather for best yields, are marginal in the three counties, where moisture is plentiful, the report said.

Funds should be provided to the Minnesota agricultural experiment station to conduct research on paddy production of wild rice, the commission recommended.

"Natural stands of wild rice may total about 2,500 acres in Koochiching county—and 1,000 acres in Lake of the Woods county in a good year.... Some research, especially by private interests, has dealt with such variables as soil types, fertilization, mechanical harvesting and non-shattering types (of wild rice). However, the expertise of the experiment station should be brought to bear on these difficult problems," the commission added.

The commission recommended an investigation by private interests, the experiment station, agricultural extension service and state agriculture department of the feasibility of locating a small potato wash plant in the area. Weather uncertainties and price fluctuations make potato production in the region a high risk operation. A wash plant would allow producers to market table stock potatoes as an alternative to seed stock.

Commission members included Chairman J. Kimball Whitney, commissioner of the Minnesota department of economic development; Jarle Leirfallom, commissioner of the Minnesota department of conservation (natural resources), and Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the Institute of agriculture, University of Minnesota.

Working Mothers Grow In Number From Last Year

Number of working mothers continued to increase at a particularly rapid pace for the fourth year, according to results from the 1970 survey of marital and family characteristics of the United States work force.

The number of working wives with children under 18 years old reached 10.2 million in March of 1970, about 460,000 above March of 1969, the U.S. department of labor's bureau of labor statistics reported. Increases in the number of these working wives have averaged 520,000 during the 1966-70 period, compared with 200,000 in the previous four.

The number of working wives, including those without children, reached 18.4 million in March of 1970, about 780,000 above March of 1969. Married women made up the largest portion of the year's labor force gain, and single men ranked a close second. The majority of these men were under 30 years old, reflecting population growth in this age group and, in part, the beginning of a reduction in the military draft requirements.

These and the following findings are from the annual survey of marital and family characteristics of workers in the population 16 years old and over conducted by the bureau of the census for the bureau of labor statistics.

Labor force participation rates for wives rose again from March of 1969 to March 1970, but young children continued to exert a major influence on the likelihood of a wife's working. About one-fourth of all wives with children under three years old were in the labor force. The proportion was over one-third of those whose youngest children were 3 to 5, and one-half for those whose children were old enough to be in school.

The employment increase between March of 1969 and March of 1970 was not sufficient to absorb all of the rise in the labor force and, therefore, joblessness increased by about 1 million. Husbands accounted for about 360,000 of the jobless increase and wives for about 230,000. Unemployment among widowed, divorced and separated persons rose by 110,000 over the year. Almost all of the remaining increase was among single persons under 25 years of age.

Although it is frequently suggested that secondary workers enter the labor force to make up for the loss in family income that occurs when the head of the family becomes unemployed, very little of the increase in the labor force participation rate of married women appears to be related to the increased unemployment of married men.

Labor force participation rates have been rising among married women for many years regardless of the level of unemployment or prevailing economic conditions. Even though the labor force participation rates have been higher for wives of unemployed than employed men, the amount of this difference has been too small to account for very much of the continuing increase in the total number of working wives.

Bergland Lauds Anderson Plan To Aid Elderly

Seventh District Congressman Bob Bergland today praised Governor Wendell Anderson's tax relief proposals for senior citizens. According to Bergland, the governor's plan exemplifies how state and federal government "can join hands and work together to resolve the financial crisis faced by the elderly."

Bergland said that the state plan—which increases a senior citizens maximum income tax credit for property taxes and doubles the credit for rent—"can be coupled with sweeping changes in Social Security benefits to make retirement a time to enjoy rather than a time to fear."

Bergland called "essential" proposed federal legislation which would provide a 15 per cent across-the-board increase in social security benefits and insure minimum monthly benefits of $100.

"But," Bergland concluded, "federal programs for the elderly can only solve part of their problems and Governor Anderson has demonstrated the state's ability and willingness to do its share."

Whisperliner 001 Rolls Out

Eastern's Whisperliner, the L-1011 wide-bodied tri-jet which the airline will preview this fall, rolls out from Lockheed's Palmdale, Calif. plant. The aircraft is designed to raise comfort standards in family and business travel while respecting the rights of people on the ground. The Whisperliner's ability to serve medium-sized airports, combined with its long-range capability, influenced Eastern's decision to be the first and largest buyer. Observers at the aircraft's maiden flight recently said it was the quietest and cleanest commercial aircraft they had witnessed.

100 Ambulances Delivered Under Safety Program

Nearly 100 new ambulances have now been delivered to Minnesota communities under a highway safety program initiated in 1968, according to W. A. Hoaglund, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner.

"Many of these communities," he said, "had no ambulance services of any kind, and many were covered by local undertakers with their hearses."

The Minnesota program, administered by the state health department, assists communities with emergency medical services by training ambulance personnel and by making federal highway safety funds available to cover half the cost of new, fully equipped ambulances.

The vehicles are of the carryall type and have facilities for transporting four patients at one time. They are also fully equipped to administer emergency medical aid at the point of pickup and while enroute to the hospital. The first models delivered sold for $8,200, with the federal government and the local community sharing equally in the cost.

The first cities to order new vehicles in late 1968 were Hutchinson, Prior Lake, Truman, Silver Bay, Slayton, Staples and Preston. The first new ambulance was dedicated in Prior Lake in January of 1969.

The emergency medical care courses are taught in various parts of the state to accomodate all who desire to attend. The training is provided at no charge to the students or to the community. As of January 1, almost 6,000 drivers and attendants have attended the course.

The value of the training was summed up by Lamberton councilman Arthur Beutow who said, "Two youngsters in the Lamberton area are alive today because graduates of the course were on hand to administer emergency care."

Potatoes Checked With Infrared Aerial Photos

Use of infrared, aerial photography as a tool to help increase Red River Valley potato production will be continued in 1971, according to officials at the Red River Valley potato processing laboratory and the University of Minnesota.

Roy Shaw, director of the laboratory at East Grand Forks, said attempts will be made to determine potato maturity by aerial photography of potato crops with infrared film.

University scientists will be involved in evaluation of potato samples, interpretation of data and photography for the potato maturity project.

University researchers used infrared photography last year in an attempt to determine potato maturity and were encouraged enough to urge continuation this year.

Less loss in storage and better eating potatoes result when mature potatoes are stored rather than underdeveloped ones which are more susceptible to spoilage, Shaw explained. Through the use of infrared photography, researchers hope to advise farmers on the proper date to harvest.

Photography would start in mid-August on a weekly basis through October and would be used on the potato research farm in the valley to determine maturity in various varieties planted at different dates, Shaw added.

University scientists, for the seventh consecutive year, will be working with infrared photography to identify "late blight" disease in potato fields before the symptoms are visible on the ground, according to Howard L. Bissonnette, university professor and extension plant pathologist.

University researchers have used aerial flights to detect diseases in other plants. Last year Professor Merle P. Meyer of the school of forestry and David W. French of the department of plant pathology used black and white, color and infrared films and thermal heat sensors in aerial surveys of northeastern Minnesota to detect "dwarf mistletoe" disease in black spruce trees.

Studded Tires Are Not Used By Highway Patrol

In a memo to Commissioner of Highways N. T. Waldor, John J. Harbinson, chief, Minnesota highway patrol stated that the Minnesota highway patrol does not use studded snow tires.

Said Harbinson: "In 1968-69 we evaluated the use of such tires by having six cars in the northern part of the state equipped with studded tires on the rear wheels.

"We found them to be helpful on compacted snow or icy roads but found them to be very undesirable on dry roads, and concluded that the percentage of time they would be helpful to be a very small percent of the total time our cars were patroling. As a result, we have not ordered or issued studded tires to our patrol officers."

In reviewing the use of studded tires on highway patrol fleets with the state administrators of Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri and Wisconsin, it was revealed that Wisconsin has been using studded tires but is in the process of phasing them out of this program. None of the other states contacted permit the use of studded tires.

Dairy Products Price War Hit By Ag Dep't.

Commissioner Jon Wefald confirmed that the Minnesota department of agriculture has taken legal action to curtail a metropolitan dairy products "price war" he charged can be equally damaging to consumers and to the state's economically important dairy industry.

Commissioner Wefald said that a Hennepin county district court restraining order obtained by the department against Penny's Supermarkets, Inc., is only the pilot action of a full crackdown on violations of the Minnesota dairy industry unfair trade practices act.

"We see filing complaints and taking appropriate legal action against all dairy products merchandisers who are breaking the law by selling selected dairy products at illegal, below cost prices," Commissioner Wefald declared.

The court order restrains Penny's supermarkets from selling, offering for sale or advertising for sale any selected dairy products at less than cost, as charged in the department's complaint.

Commissioner Wefald also indicated the department is considering further legal action to recover treble damages against all retailers involved in the present milk price war. This course of action also is provided by state law.

He warned that retailers who join the price war and sell selected dairy products at less than actual invoice wholesale prices plus overhead expenses will run the risk of becoming defendants in damage recovery actions.

"Dairying is the second largest segment of Minnesota's greatest economic resource, agriculture. This industry, and consumers dependent upon an adequate supply of quality dairy products at reasonable cost, cannot afford the jeopardy resulting from illegal loss-leader selling," Commissioner Wefald stated.

Complaints from grocers and route delivery drivers of firms respecting the state law are being accepted and documented by the department of agriculture.

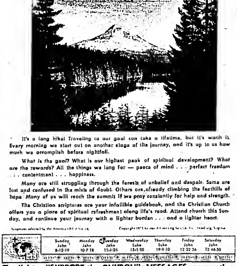
"FFA - Involved in America's Future" is the theme for 1971 Future Farmers of America (FFA) Week, February 20-27, 1971.

THE SHINING GOAL



It's a long hike! Traveling to our goal can take a lifetime, but it's worth it. Every morning we start out on another stage of the journey, and it's up to us how much we accomplish before nightfall.

What is the goal? What is our highest peak of spiritual development? What are the rewards? All the things we long for — peace of mind . . . perfect freedom . . . contentment . . . happiness.

Many are still struggling through the forests of unbelief and despair. Some are lost and confused in the mists of doubt. Others are already climbing the foothills of hope. Many of us will reach the summit if we pray constantly for help and strength.

The Christian scriptures are your infallible guidebook, and the Christian Church offers you a place of spiritual refreshment along life's road. Attend church this Sunday, and continue your journey with a lighter burden . . . and a lighter heart.

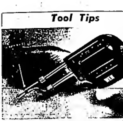
Tool Tips



It's pretty annoying to find out that you have accidentally magnetized a small tool, such as a screwdriver, but don't fret. If you have a two post soldering gun you can easily demagnetize that pesky screwdriver. Just turn on the soldering gun and insert and withdraw the blade of the screwdriver several times between the two arms that form the tip. This does the job quickly and thoroughly.

What You Can Do Today

The following advice to persons concerned about pollution is provided by the National Wildlife federation:

As everyone is getting to know these days, the cost of air pollution to health and property is staggering. And the people who die because the air is poisoned are called "excess deaths" by the statisticians.

The President's Council on Environmental Quality puts the cost of air pollution damage to structures, clothing, equipment, agriculture and livestock in the billions of dollars annually.

Researchers Lester B. Lave and Eugene P. Seskin report that the annual health costs from air pollution are over $2 billion. Cleaning up the air, they say, would have as great an impact on the nation's health as finding a cure for all cancer. It would add 3-5 years to the lives of children born today.

So in spite of the fact that the proposed air pollution standards issued by the Environmental Protection Agency are virtually incomprehensible to the layman, they do represent a giant step toward making the air safe to breathe. And it is time for all breathing Americans to let EPA know that they want clean air and they want it now.

Comments on the air standard proposals will be accepted through March 15. If you care, sit down right now and write:

Not Only Here

Attendance at the school board meeting Monday evening was about half the total noted last Wednesday, but sufficient to indicate a high citizen interest in costs of education. As we have said before, the squeeze caused by taxes to support government spending is not unique to our community. The following editorial appeared recently in the Brainerd Daily Dispatch.

"Make Do" is an old-time expression which once was used by families who faced income cut-backs.

By "making do," they meant cutting back their expenses to meet their income. They ate hash instead of steak and patched-up their children's clothing once again.

The Brainerd school board now seems to be facing a situation in which a "make do" philosophy is needed.

Not only has the school tax levy reached the point where property owners are demanding a "hold-the-line" policy, but the school district is facing the loss of gross income revenue which has produced about a half a million dollars a year.

In discussions with a taxpayer group this week, most school board members gave no evidence that they understand the emergency which the district is facing. Members of the board kept asking the taxpayer spokesmen to suggest ways in which cuts could be made as if a minor cut here and there would solve the situation.

A thorough examination of the school district's spending is now needed, not just arguments on whether wrestling should be curtailed or swimming should be cut back.

There are many questions which the school board and school officials should ask themselves and each other.

Here are a few:

Does the school district need its elaborate system of supervisors including principals, sub-principals, and guidance directors or could it "make-do" with less personnel in this field?

Are the many secretaries, clerks and stenographers all needed or could some of the supervisors "make do" without fulltime secretarial help?

Must the high school offer so many elective courses or could the students "make do" with more solid educational fare? Could such courses as "Media Impact" and a study of voo-doo religions be dropped without too great a loss?

Is all of the teacher-aide program absolutely necessary or could the teachers "make-do" with less help.

Has the growth of athletic, music, speaking and other extra-curricular programs contributed enough to the school district to merit the expense or could the schools "make-do" with a less elaborate program, particularly in the elementary grades and junior high school? Is it really a necessary expense, for example, to bus junior high students to other towns for basketball games and to bus fifth and sixth grade basketball teams from one school to another for games?

Has the growth of the custodial staff in recent years been justified or could the district "make-do" with less help?

Should the district continue to buy more and more so-called "teaching aids" or could the teachers "make-do" with some of the more primitive educational tools, such as books, paper and pens?

Should the school district at this time consider construction of additional space or should it "make-do" with the buildings it now has? (Some rooms are now vacant in Washington Junior High School.)

There has been a proliferation of new courses and new activities in the Brainerd schools during the last five years but now the era of affluence seems over.

Like a family which suddenly has faced a financial setback, the Brainerd school district must now learn to "make-do" with what the taxpayers can afford.

Another's Words

The following letter was written by Norman Wagner, an educator at Fisher school, and published in a recent issue of the Grand Forks Herald. It is being printed here in compliance with a request from the chairman of the Thief River Falls teachers' negotiating council:

This is the time of year for another "Down with Teachers" campaign. For a few months teachers are eulogized for their contribution to society, but contract time is when teachers are looked down upon as the prime cause of high taxes and inflation!

It is discouraging to see articles published such as the Minnesota School Board Association's recent decision to not offer reasonable increase in teachers' salaries. More disturbing locally is the front page news from Fertile, where residents are organizing a prevent salary raises for teachers. How many derogatory articles were published when the railroad employees struck for higher salaries? How many local people organized to protest the raises of steel and auto workers? How many grieving taxpayers, teachers included, have not noticed the increased fees demanded by plumbers, electricians, repairmen and other tradesmen?

Be realistic! Teachers are not the only reason taxes are raised. Teachers aren't responsible for inflation, even though news articles imply teachers should pay for increased cost of living. Don't forget that teachers also pay taxes, also pay the increased fees of repairmen, and also pay the businessman's increased prices.

Who is responsible for the cost-price squeeze the farmer is caught in? Who is responsible for inflation and high cost programs? If you need a fall guy, look to your local, state and federal government. Tell your congressman to cut spending and eradicate wasteful programs. Maybe then there will be enough to spend on education and teachers, without having to point out the teachers saying they are the ones causing high taxes."

"Let us help create an atmosphere where the teachers and school boards can meet and discuss their mutual problems. Local school boards are answerable to you. You voted for them, teachers voted for them with the confidence they will do the right thing for both the community and the teachers.

Free Trade

Following editorial is from the Waseca Journal:

Many U.S. industries are suffering from the inroads made in the market of this nation by foreign made goods. This has led to more and more unemployment.

Over the past decade people were not aware of what was happening because our industries were busy making war goods to support our soldiers in Vietnam. Now that the war is being de-escalated we are placing all the blame for unemployment on the slowing down of the war.

True this is the direct cause but it is accentuated by the fact that while we were busy with the war, Japan, Germany and other nations were stealing our home markets.

People do not realize what has happened if they did four out of five would not vote for free trade in a recent Newsweek magazine poll. In the same breath those polled by a three-fourths vote said that Americans should buy American made products because increased buying of imports is causing unemployment.

How do we meet the problem of educating people to the facts? No one is undertaking that task. Eastman Kodak is striking back at the Japanese where they are most vulnerable—photographic film. Cameras are cheap in Japan but film is high priced. Eastman proposes to cut and package film in Japan in its effort to fight back. West Germany is establishing a Singapore plant to make Rollei cameras, lenses and optical components. Singapore wages are one-sixth of those in Germany and one-third of those in Japan.

Question is this: Will the leveling off process over the years reduce the U.S. wage level or will it bring the Singapore wage level up to ours? The latter is doubtful.

Lab School Uses Games To Teach Subject Lessons

Sixth graders sit in their classroom building paper airplanes—the fifth grade has already split into groups sharply segregrated by financial status—and other students at the Bemidji state college laboratory school are making motions, dealing with parliamentary procedure, and passing laws.

If things sound a bit unusual in the BSC elementary school, it's really all right. What is happening is implementation of a series of simulation games designed to teach the children basic rules and attitudes for living.

For example, the airplane construction is part of a game called Origami. The students are competing for imaginary government contracts for their paper airplanes, and the rules call for their products to be carefully inspected and either accepted or rejected by the inspectors.

They learn to make the planes according to specifications laid down by the rules of the game. After they have practiced, they must estimate the number of airplanes they can construct in a given period of time, then make the planes to meet the specifications and sell them to the imaginary government. If [illegible] their contract, they lose money.

In another game, fifth graders participated in "Simile II", a game that has rules stacked against some players from the start. Frustration with illogical and arbitrary rules and the impossibility of moving into the privileged group all lead to better understanding of how minority groups fell in a society where the rules are stacked against them, according to lab school personnel involved in the gamemanship.

"Simile II" has some players getting richer, while others grow progressively poorer. As the rich reach a certain goal, they make the rules under which the game progresses.

"The Great Game of Democracy" teaches students on a personal level what legislators encounter in trying to get a particular set of laws passed in a democratic legislative body.

The whole purpose of the series of games is to teach students specific things that may be applied to living as a whole. Origami is designed to teach them to use their own resources effectively and to adjust their goals to the realities of the situation and their own abilities.

The Origami Game is a development of Harvard university's achievement motivation development group; Simile II was developed by the Western Behavioral Sciences institute and the Great Game of Democracy is marketed by the 4-H clubs of America.

Dr. Gerald Nelson, principal of the lab school, says, "The purpose of the games is to change children's attitudes toward themselves and toward others. The Origami game, for instance, [illegible] of favorable conditions, assume moderate risks to gain success, use feedback, take personal responsibility and realistically assess their own abilities."

He points out that simulation games are not new. Chess was developed a simulation for war, business and long used training aids that are analogous, and the military Link trainer is similar.

The difference is that these games tend to deal with universal matters, and are a fairly recent development in the field of education, having been developed in the last 15 years. Used both in elementary and secondary schools, the game allows students to play specific roles, make decisions as though they were living the role, and then live with the results of these decisions.

"Certain games, like chess and monopoly, have intrigued generation after generation, not only because they are fun, but because they teach basic lessons as well. I feel that these games are developed along much the same lines," Dr. Nelson assesses. "A student can learn in many different ways, and these games seem to provide fun while teaching universal lessons to these pupils."

Display Animal Waste Controls At Winter Shows

University of Minnesota agricultural engineers from the Northwest experiment station and from St. Paul will share a large booth at the winter shows with area soil conservation engineers to demonstrate pollution control methods.

A large working model of an oxidation ditch unit will be shipped from St. Paul along with a series of pictures relating to other experimental work going on in the animal waste management field at various university stations.

The soil conservation service under the area supervision of Jerry Young, Thief River Falls, will display new techniques approved for runoff control, models depicting before and after barnyard situations, and pictures of many installations already in use around the state.

A continuous color movie of experimental work under way at the Northwest experiment station, Crookston, will illustrate many of the concerns of the university in solving the problems of animal waste management.

Soil conservation experts and University of Minnesota [illegible] the booth during the entire show, and will be available to consult on special problems which may concern individual farmers and/ agricultural industry at the present time.

This special feature for the 1971 Red River Valley winter shows is the result of a long-time planning effort on the part of the Northwest experiment station, area soil conservation officials, and the University of Minnesota extension engineers.

Farmers Union Urges Raise In Social Security

Amendments to the social security program, which will be under consideration soon in the U.S. Congress, would be of major importance to residents of East Marshall county, leaders of the Farmers Union have declared in a resolution sent to the state's senators in the national capital.

Meeting in a quarterly leadership meeting Monday at [illegible], the Farmers Union county and local officials urged that the greatest emphasis be placed upon increasing the benefits for those now drawing the minimum amounts.

Conducting the leadership session Robert Wiseth of Goodridge, East Marshall chairman of the county Farmers Union organization, revealed that 2,508 in the county are drawing Social Security.

Edwin Christianson, president of Minnesota Farmers Union, had noted in a communication to the county group, that about 480,000 Minnesotans, about one of every seven citizens, are drawing Social Security benefits of one kind or another.

"The most important change would be for the Congress to provide that all those now drawing the minimum benefits of $64 a month be raised to $100 a month," said the resolution.

Name Edgar Naplins Farmer-Homemaker

by Marvin Landin
Times Editor

A lifetime of community service has been wrapped up in less than 20 years of living in Pennington county by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Naplin were honored Thursday at a Red River Valley winter shows banquet as the outstanding farmer and homemaker of Pennington county.

Edgar was born in Pennington county but hasn't lived here all his life. He worked at the welfare office in Crookston after completing college and for 10 years was director of the Freeborn county welfare department in Albert Lea. He married the former Margaret Strandell of Crookston in 1939.

In March of 1952 the Naplins decided to return to the farm, [illegible] Section 13 of Polk Centre township from Edgar's parents in 1952. Edgar also owned an adjoining quarter of land. The Naplins now own about 550 acres and rent an additional 250 acres. They raise small grains, sunflowers, some beef cattle and sheep.

The Naplin home is a 10-room, two-story house which has been remodeled bit by bit. Mrs. Naplin uses her ingenuity to decorate and furnish the home, and her sons have contributed their share to the farm operation.

Only the youngest son, 16-year-old Mark, still lives with his parents on the farm. Robin, 21, is a senior at the University of Minnesota, majoring in wildlife management. David, 26, teaches industrial arts at Port Huron, Mich., having gained a BS degree at the University of North Dakota. Charles, 30, is a UND graduate and a geologist for the North Dakota water commission in Bismarck, N. D. Charles is the only married son and the father of a son of his own.

All of the boys participated in 4-H club work and Robin and Mark were active in Future Farmers of America activities at Lincoln senior high school.

Activity should come naturally to the Naplin children, for it has been a way of life for their parents. Edgar has been on the VALLEY FARMER and homemaker award for Pennington county from the Red River Valley winter shows went to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls. They are shown with the plaque received at the honor banquet held last Thursday.

THIS LITTLE LAMB seems to wear almost as wide a smile as Mark Naplin, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls and a junior at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. The Naplins have about 100 ewes on the farm and are getting into the busy spring lambing season.

Wheat Allotment Notices Mailed Last Thursday

Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county ASCS committee, stated today that wheat allotment notices for 1971 were mailed on Thursday.

Many questions have been asked about the reduction in wheat allotment acres.

The reason the allotments are smaller this year is based on the fact that the allotments this year are domestic allotments. The domestic allotments are the amount of acres that are used for domestic consumption. These allotments represent approximately 43 per cent of the allotment you had last year. They are also the same acres you were paid on last year and the same acres you will be paid on this year.

You will be able to plant more wheat than your domestic allotment in most cases. Your requirements are that you maintain your conserving base and set-aside acres which are approximately 33 per cent of your 1970 allotment. After these are satisfied, you may plant the balance of your cropland to wheat, Knutson stated.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact the ASCS office.

Permits Issued By City Council

SiMar Sunflower company has applied to the city council for a building permit of $1,[illegible]00 for improvements on an elevator and to build an additional room, it was announced last week.

SiMar also made an application for a moving permit to move an elevator 2½ blocks to the corner of Davis and Sixth street.

Earl Jorgenson, 303 Fourth street, made an application to the council for the purpose of building a garage at the cost of $600.

An application for a permit to remodel basement was presented by Les Ihle, 205 Crocker avenue, for $3,500.

Norman Peterson Named To State Blue Cross Body

Norman P. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern hospital, was recently elected to serve on the state governing body of Minnesota Blue Cross, according to R. T. Crist, Blue Cross president.

As a corporate member of the health care plan, Peterson will join representatives from the other 183 member hospitals to form the fundamental governing body of Minnesota Blue Cross.

Each year, two members-at-large are elected from each of the nine medical councilor districts in Minnesota to serve as corporate members. All member hospitals in the districts who have furnished less than 10,000 days of the Blue Cross hospital care are entitled to vote for the at-large members.

One additional member is elected from each of these districts for each 10,000 days of Blue Cross hospital care in excess of 20,000 days furnished by such hospital during the preceding calendar year.

In addition, each member hospital that has furnished 10,000 days of Blue Cross care is entitled to elect one member for each 10,000 days of care with a limit of four corporate members for each hospital.

The corporate members, in turn, elect the 23-man Blue Cross board of trustees who are entrusted with responsibility for the immediate Blue Cross operation.

State Insurance Investigator To Be Here Thursday

A. E. Isberner, insurance investigator for the state of Minnesota, will be in Thief River Falls on Thursday at the Minnesota manpower service office [illegible].

He will be available to handle complaints for people of the community against insurance companies, agents or other problems they may have relating to insurance. His services are offered free of charge by the Minnesota insurance division.

The function of the [illegible] division, complaint section, is to protect the rights of the citizens of the state in regards to all lines of insurance.

The complaint section will protect policyholders' rights by demanding an explanation from the insurance company for a delay or refusal to settle a legitimate claim and determine the validity of such reasons.

NSJC To Share In Two Grants

Northland State junior college will share in two grants from the National Science foundation, according to Congressman Bob Bergland.

The grants, part of nearly $1 million distributed nationally, are provided to improve instruction and curriculum at two-year colleges, according to Bergland. Minnesota's share of the grants, $98,000, will be administered by the University of Minnesota. Northland will receive funds for the political science and physics departments, Bergland said.

School Board, Faculty Continue To Negotiate

Presentation of a second proposal by the board of education and a third proposal by the teachers' negotiating council took place at the negotiating meeting held Thursday afternoon in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium. The meeting convened shortly after 4 p.m., recessed about 5:30 p.m. and reconvened after the supper hour.

The board's second proposal differed from its first offer in allowing one day of personal leave to teachers earning tenure and adding $25 to the annual salary for all teachers in 1971-72—above the 1970-71 contract—except those at the maximum of each salary lane.

The teachers' council counter proposal showed a reduction in request for base salary to $7,350—$150 less than the initial request. Top BA salary would be $11,270 after 12 years of experience.

Other minimum and maximum salaries proposed in the various lanes were $7,650 to $11,930 in BA plus 15; $7,950 to $12,530 for BA plus 30; $8,250 to $13,490 (13 years experience) for BA plus 45; $8,650 to $14,210 for MA; $8,950 to $14,720 for MA plus 15; and $9,250 to $15,210 for MA plus 30.

The faculty group also dropped its requests for additional elementary teachers, elementary administrators and teacher preparation time—factors calculated by the school board and administration to cost $49,000. Reduction in the base salary schedule was estimated by the teachers' council at $14,000.

Since March 1 is the deadline for either side to file notice of an impasse in negotiations, the teachers' council mailed such notice Friday [illegible]. It was reported to the Times today. The notice requested the formation of an adjustment panel to review testimony and make recommendations following its fact-finding sessions.

An adjustment panel consists of a representative appointed by the teachers' council and one appointed by the school board with a third member selected by the two appointees. If the two can not agree—as happened here two years ago—the third members is appointed by the district court.

Filing of a notice of impasse and request for an adjustment panel does not preclude negotiations by the board and faculty group. Such sessions may continue and tonight's session, scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m., will be held as scheduled in Lincoln high school.

In opening Thursday night's meeting, board chairman Mervin Prestebak read the board's statement. It expressed appreciation to the teachers' council for giving consideration to the board's suggestion on a flexible salary schedule. The statement also showed the total increase in proposed salary schedule as suggested by the council to be $251,637.

"The savings as outlined by your group in reference to teacher aides and flexible scheduling (roughly $65,000) is not a negotiable item and

TEACHER OF THE YEAR for Thief River Falls, Mrs. Frank Harger, has two main interests—music and children. Here she helps Joann Wefald, daughter of Mrs. Glenna Wefald, and Peter Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Lee, both members of the elementary band at Knox school.

Jeanne Harger TRF Teacher Of The Year

"Each pupil is a precious gem, and each moment spent with those pupils is just as precious. The most important thing in my life is teaching classroom music."

You don't have to talk to Mrs. Frank (Jeanne) Harger more than a few minutes to be a firm believer that her above statement is true. If you have the opportunity to watch her at work, the conclusion will be made even quicker. She teaches with such an obvious delight that the pleasure can't help but be contagious among her pupils.

Mrs. Harger has been selected by the local chapter of the Minnesota Education association (MEA) as teacher of the year for Thief River Falls. She has been nominated by the chapter to the state organization for competition in Minnesota teacher of the year selections.

"Music is for the child and school is for the child," Mrs. Harger says. She has derived immense pleasure from music and feels that its proper application can bring pleasure into the lives of her pupils.

Mrs. Harger has a bachelor of music degree in vocal and instrumental music from Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill. She is currently working on an MA degree at Bemidji state college.

She taught high school band and chorus as well as French for seven years in Ohio before coming to Thief River Falls with her husband and two sons 12 years ago. Mr. Harger is physical therapist at Northwestern hospital and three more sons have joined the family since the Hargers came to Thief River Falls. The boys include Ryan, 7, Randy, 9, Rick, 11, Rowdy, 13, and Rory, 17.

Mrs. Harger taught music at St. Hilaire since coming to this community, and still travels there to teach one day per week. On the other four days she teaches both instrumental and vocal music at Knox elementary school. At the two schools she instructs about 020 students—teaching group band at noon in the library, going to the classrooms for vocal music and helping individuals before and after school hours.

Jeanne's father owned a music store, and she began taking piano lessons at the age of four. These lessons continued into junior high school when she took up the saxophone as her band in-

Kitty Cat Added To Arctic's Line

The "Kitty Cat", a gasoline engine-powered miniature riding snowmobile for youngsters weighing up to 150 pounds, has been introduced by Arctic Enterprises, Inc., manufacturers of Arctic Cat snowmobiles and other recreational products.

The "Kitty Cat" has a maximum speed of 10-12 miles per hour with a 75-pound rider, a speed regarded as safe for most youngsters.

As with any motorized vehicle, the "Kitty Cat" should be used only with parental guidance. To reduce the possibility of injury, many safety features have been added, including a hood "lock". An ignition shut-off switch and throttle adjustment to reduce maximum speed are located under the hood. The choke and starter cord are mounted on a special console.

Standard safety equipment includes reflectorized decals, lockable hood, protected ski tips, rear snow flap, all riveted body construction, emergency shut-off switch mounted on the handlebar next to the brake, and low center of gravity to reduce the possibility of tipping.

The basic body construction is of the same heavy duty aluminum used on production model Arctic Cat snowmobiles, but all engine parts have been enclosed. Special side plates limit protrusion of the one-piece rubber drive track to 2½ inches.

The "Kitty Cat", 23 inches wide, 22 inches high and less than five feet long, will fit in the trunk of most full size cars. It weighs less than 100 pounds and is easily lifted by the bumper on the front and a special rear handle.

The "Kitty Cat" will be produced in limited quantity this year on a test marketing basis. It will retail for about $250.

Mobile Home Tax Report In Error

An error has been called to our attention regarding taxes assessed against mobile homes, as reported in Wednesday's edition of the Times. Tax on a new mobile home valued at $8,000 would be $263.32—not the $223.82 stated in the story. The $223.82 figure is the tax after one year of ownership.

The party began with a devotional program which included two songs, "Love Divine" and "Face to Face." The devotional message, given by Rev. Melvin Walla, was based on Psalm 27:1, "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?"

Lunch provided by the group featured decorated cup cakes served to all who attended. Gifts and cards were also presented to the honored guest and among them were remembrances from sons and daughters living elsewhere. Linda Kay Kopecky And Maurice Rodahl Are Wed

Miss Linda Kay Kopecky and Maurice O. Rodahl exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, January 9, at 1 p.m., at the Black River Lutheran church. Rev. Phil Lathrop officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kopecky of rural Thief River Falls. The groom is the son of Mrs. Anton Rodahl of Newfolden and the late Anton Rodahl.

Approximately 150 relatives and friends attended the ceremony. Mrs. Donald Mosbeck, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ. For the processional and recessional, she played the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Melvin Melin, friend of the bride, as she sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors of blue and white, baskets of white and blue-tipped carnations and mums flanked the candle altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length, A-line gown of white satin styled with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring stand-up collar and full length sleeves. A band of lace flowed down the front of the skirt forming an apron effect. Two rows of matching lace encircled the skirt at the hemline. Her chapel-length, bridal illusion veil, edged with the same trim as her gown, was held by a cluster of three white satin roses. She carried a hand bouquet of miniature white mums and blue tinted carnations tied with blue and white satin ribbon. The gown was designed and made by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Alan Wheeler.

Serving the bride as her personal attendants were Mrs. Jerome Myhrer, a friend of the couple, and Mrs. Larry Sehindeldecker, a niece of the groom.

Mrs. Orris Rodahl of South St. Paul, a sister-in-law of the groom, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Alan Wheeler and Miss Debra Praska, a niece of the groom. They were attired in identical, floor-length gowns of deep blue velvet enhanced by matching velvet bows. To complete their attire, they wore blue velvet bow headpieces and at the neckline were pearl chokers, gifts from the bride. Each carried a solitary long-stemmed white mum tipped with blue and accented by blue and white streamers.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Orris Rodahl of South St. Paul. Groomsmen were Alan Wheeler and David Kopecky, brother of the bride. Seating the guests were Dennis Newell of East Grand Forks, cousin of the bride, and Larry Sehindeldecker, nephew of the groom. All the men of the wedding party were attired in black tuxedos with black bow ties and blue tipped carnations.

The mother of the bride was attired in a bone-white dress accented with black trim and accessories, and a corsage of blue-tipped white mums. The mother of the groom wore a deep blue dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Newell, uncle and aunt of the bride, served as host and hostess at the reception that followed the ceremony. Kathy Hawkinson, a friend of the couple, registered the guests as Vicki Mack, a niece of the groom, presided at the punch bowl.

Centering the serving table was a square, three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with blue roses and blue trim. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom ornament. Mrs. George Ferencik, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. David Praska, sister of the groom, cut and served the cake as Mrs. Ernst Kleven and Mrs. Emil Nonasek, aunts of the bride, poured.

Waitresses were Mrs. Robert Howman, Geri Johnson and Annette Novothy, friends of the couple. Mrs. Larry Sehindeldecker and Mrs. Jerome Myhrer opened and arranged the gifts.

Relatives and friends attending were from Grand Forks, N.D., South St. Paul, East Grand Forks, Mentor, Crookston, Euclid, Warren, Alvarado, Holt and the St. Hilaire-Thief River Falls area.

A wedding supper was hosted by the bride's parents at their home following the reception. Approximately 50 guests were in attendance.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. The groom, a graduate of the Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden, is employed by Arctic Enterprises, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodahl are at home at Holt.

Russian Youth Has Christianity Says Dr. Koglin

Birth of an intense spiritual Christian religion among the Russian youth was reported by Dr. Anna Koglin as she presented the topic at the recent meeting of the Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Dr. Koglin based her topic on the writings of Anatoly Levitan Krasnov, a Soviet citizen, teacher and writer, who has been imprisoned as a dissenter against the Kremlin. She stated that the author compared the Russian youth, born without religious heritage or having received no religious training, to the early Christians. Extreme intensity and fiery enthusiasm for Christianity is noted in both cases. Out of three generations of all-persuasive and aggressive atheists, which have inflicted successive waves of religious persecution, has sprung a new generation striving for culture, knowledge, and the meaning of life. This generation desires freedom of opinion, research and religious convictions. Assisting them in their endeavor are the Christian laymen working underground as modern apostles. Dr. Koglin stated that this secrecy is necessary as all official Soviet life is anti-religious and even the official church, under the rule of the Kremlin, cannot teach evangelism.

Dr. Koglin began the topic by reading "Good News for Modern Man," Acts 10:9-15.

Several members of the unit participated in the program. Miss Mathilda Liden read "Our Prayer Guide," based on Matt. 7:78, listing the values and powers of prayer. An article on God answering prayer, written by Mrs. C. T. Gauntlett, late president of the WCTU of Japan, was read by Mrs. Sylvia Martinson, and the "Ten Commandments" written by Abraham Lincoln was read by Miss Geneva Overum. The article, "It is my business if you drink," read by Mrs. Nina Larson, stated that it was the business of the innocent bystander as drinking degraded society, increased insurance rates, raised taxes and impaired the safety of many.

During the business meeting, secretary Elsie Koglin reported that following the presentation of the program on Drug Abuse at Northland State junior college, the local union had provided the health class with several new publications. These included "The Seekers", concerning drugs and the new generation, by Jess Steam; "The Dope on Drug Abuse," "High School Buddies", "Goof Balls and Pep Pills," and a number of leaflets, "Drugs and Alcohol", written by Barbara Goodheart. Miss Koglin stated that all these publications were provided by the WCTU headquarters, Evanston, Ill. A letter written by Charles Samuelson, head of the health department, expressing appreciation for these publications, was read by Geneva Overum. Laura Ekeberg read a communication from Mrs. Carl Bodin, head of the state department of Christian Outreach.

The meeting was held at Our Savior's Lutheran church. The program began with the group singing, "Sound the Battle Cry," with Mrs. Gladys Hunstad at the piano. Lunch was served during the social hour that followed the program.

Membership Discussed At BPW Board Meet

Workshop on gaining and retaining membership was the highlight of the Business and Professional Women's winter board meeting held recently in St. Paul. Representing the local club were President Norma Hanson and state emblem chairman Clarice Collins.

State second vice president Margaret Berg was in charge of the workshop. She stated that membership in the state was down considerably. At present there are only 296 new members compared to 448 at this time last year. She urged that clubs make every effort to keep present members and to make the organization attractive to the younger women. Figures showed that most of the new members were middle-aged or older. Clubs showing a membership loss were asked to analyze their clubs to determine why members are leaving. One suggestion was to follow Anoka's method of having members submit a written notification giving the reason for cancellation of membership.

Mrs. Ida Gelttman of Bemidji, first vice president, who was in charge of the program workshop, stated that interesting programs will help retain membership.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Margaret Orlich, state world affairs chairman. Mrs. Orlich, who recently returned from a world tour, told of the research in education in the countries visited. This research was in conjunction with the 1970 United Nations Fellowship which was awarded to her by the National Federation of BPW clubs. Mrs. Orlich will be the guest speaker at the District One spring board meeting, scheduled for April 1st at Walker. The local club is a member of District One.

Members of the clubs throughout the state were advised of the tour to be held in conjunction with the 12th Congress of International Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. The group will leave from the St. Paul-Minneapolis airport on Friday, July 2 for Calgary, Alberta, Canada. They will tour by bus the Banff, Lake Louise, the Icefields, Maligne Canyon and Jasper National Park, arriving at Edmonton on July 4. The convention will be held in that city from July 5 through the 10th. Reservations for the convention are to be made before April 1 while reservations for the tour will remain open until May 1st. For further information members were asked to contact Mrs. Verna Lind, 2291 West County Road B, St. Paul, 55113.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

features from the kitchen of
Mrs. Harry J. Engen of Holt

With more women employed now than ever before, either gainfully or on a volunteer basis, hot-dishes are becoming very popular. Women fortunate enough to own an automatic oven, are finding hot-dishes extremely convenient as they can be prepared before leaving for work or an afternoon meeting and popped into the oven. By the time the family returns home, the meal is ready to be served. Even without an automatic oven, homemakers can prepare hot-dishes ahead of time and refrigerate them until ready to be reheated.

Today's recipe for hot-dish comes from Mrs. Harry J. Engen of Holt. We are grateful to her for sharing it with the readers of Kitchen Karnival.

Hamburger Noodle Hot-dish

- 1 pound hamburger
- 1 large onion
- 1 8-oz. package medium-size noodles
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1 can tomato soup
- 1 can vegetable soup
- 1 pint milk

Method: Cook noodles, according to directions, until tender. Drain, rinse with cold water and drain. Fry onions in a little shortening until golden brown, add hamburger and brown. Combine soups and milk and add to the hamburger mixture. Add noodles. Mix well. Season to taste. (If the noodles were boiled in salted water, be sparing with the salt as the soups are rather salty.) Bake in a slow oven for one hour.

The Harry Engens live in the village of Holt and of their five children, only Becky, is at home. She is enrolled at Northland State Junior college in this city. Their other children are married and live elsewhere. There are 11 grandchildren. Their children are Harley who resides at Seattle, Wash., and has four children; Vernon, at Werner Robins Air Force Base, Georgia, has three children; Mrs. Walter (Delores) Smith lives at Moorhead and has four children and Mrs. Dan (Janice) Critchley makes her home at Pelican Rapids. With the children living in such a large area, it isn't always possible for them to be at home at the same time, like they were last summer.

Since retiring, Mrs. Engen stated that she is enjoying all the things she didn't have time to do while she and her husband owned and operated a cafe and store in Holt.

strument. In college she resumed her piano studies, and still attempts to receive formal instruction when she can. Most recently she has been taught by an instructor at Bemidji state college.

One of her biggest thrills in her music career was being selected to play piano and accordion with the Marine band in Columbus, Ohio. When she was still in junior high school she demonstrated the accordion in New York City. Pianist at Northwestern university in 1945, she holds membership in Mu Phi Epsilon, music honorary, and Delta Kappa Gamma, teachers' honorary society in which she was music chairman since 1969.

In spite of her enthusiasm for teaching, Mrs. Harger finds time to serve her community by giving of her talent in several ways. At United Methodist church she has been both organist and director of the junior choir since August of 1964. As a member of the Northwestern Hospital auxiliary she has been pianist for hospital parties and charity events. And the American Legion auxiliary she has been accompanist for the chorus and ensembles since 1962. From 1967 through 1970 the chorus has been district and state winner in the American Legion auxiliary music contests.

Today Mrs. Harger is busy in the classroom, making music enjoyable for her students. Tonight she will be cheering for her son Rory and his teammates on the Prowler hockey team as they clash with Roseau in regional competition. Tomorrow she will be back in school again, ready to face more groups of eager youngsters seeking challenge.

THESE STUDENTS of Mrs Frank Harger at Knox elementary school pucker up and blow during one of the elementary band rehearsals. "Mostly it's pretty loud but it's amazing what these youngsters can do," Mrs. Harger says of her students.

Bank Employees Take Installment Credit Course

Wayne Thompson and Steven Stokke of the Northern state bank and James Matson of the Union state bank recently completed an American Institute of Banking course on installment credit in Thief River Falls. Bankers from Karlstad, Newfolden, Warren, Fertile, McIntosh, Fosston and Erskine also participated.

Members of the Minnesota Bankers association educational committee are responsible for the organization of A I B study groups such as this throughout the state. The educational committeeman for this area is Fred A Sorensen and instructor for the course was Robert A. [illegible], both of the Union State bank.

The American Institute of Banking is a nation-wide banker education program, which is known as the largest adult education movement in the world. It is affiliated with the American Bankers association and offers a complete course of study for bank employees throughout the country. The A I B. study group program in Minnesota, sponsored by the Minnesota Bankers association headquartered in Minneapolis, has been the pattern for similar efforts in other states.

School Board, Faculty Still In Negotiations

therefore cannot be construed as a reduction in the cost of your proposal," the statement said.

"The resulting increases required to meet the schedule you have requested is still far above a level that the tax-paying public is apparently willing to accept. Thus it is the consensus of the board of education that the second proposal submitted by the teachers' council dated February 22, 1971 be rejected."

Asked by Supt. L. M. Johnson if he felt the teachers' council was being realistic in making its request, Vern Isaacson, chairman of the council, stated emphatically, "Yes, sir, we do."

Supt. Johnson replied that the taxpayers of the community have charged the board of education to give no increases, that taxes have reached the degree that "you can't get blood out of a turnip" and that "there is no way on God's green earth that you can get a quarter of a million dollars out of this budget."

Following the supper recess, the groups reconvened with the board answering questions asked by the negotiating council. After some discussion and a caucus, the faculty presented its third proposal. The board agreed to review this proposal and the next meeting was set for 5 p.m. Monday (tonight) at Lincoln school.

Edgar Naplins Named Farmer And Homemaker

St. Hilaire school board for 16 years, including many years as clerk. Last year he was named to represent Pennington county at the Minnesota state fair as the county's outstanding school board member.

Chairman of the Polk Centre board of township commissioners, he also served two terms on the board of supervisors of the Pennington County Soil Conservation district. He is a member of the Black River Lutheran church board and secretary of the church council.

As treasurer of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association for a number of years, he was active in promoting and conducting the seed and feed show held in Thief River Falls. He has been agriculture division superintendent at the county fair and a member of the fair board of directors. Edgar is also secretary of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company and chairman of the board of directors of Northern Shipping association—a group of area cooperatives.

A past president of the St Hilaire PTA, he has also been an adult leader of his local 4-H club and made a People-to-People tour of a number of countries, including Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Mrs Naplin is a member of the Black River homemakers club and the Sun Brite Garden club. She is treasurer of the Lutheran Church women (LCW) at the Black River church and for 10 years was a member of the St Hilaire Women's club. She also served as an adult leader of the Black River 4-H club for five years and was a member of the Pennington county home council.

"I'm from a city background and it took me awhile to adjust to rural living. But this is a really close knit community and the neighbors are all very nice people. Now I'm convinced that the country is the only place to raise a family," Mrs Naplin said.

The Naplins are proud of their community and the way neighbors help each other in time of need or show genuine concern for other people. The community should also be proud of the Naplins—because they help make the community what it is.

OFFICE WORK is one of the necessary tasks for successful farming, but office space for Edgar Naplin is necessary for a number of other reasons. He has held and does hold a number of offices which require a considerable amount of correspondence and bookkeeping. This time of the year, however, is income tax time for many farmers, and Edgar is shown filling out his return.

THOSE RARE MOMENTS when she can sit down in her favorite chair and pick up a special knitting project are treasured by Mrs. Edgar Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls. She calls the attention of visitors to the table at her right—made by her son David from the spoke wheel of an old Ford car—and to the rocking chair at left which has been in the Naplin family for many years and was refinished by the same son.

Bank Debits Are Down 25 Per Cent

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during January 1971 showed a decrease of 25 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars Thief River Falls bank debits volume during January was $18,833,000. In the same month of 1970, the total figure was $25,147,000.

Bank debits for the most part are checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payment for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and of states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

January Bond Sales Here At 13% Of Quota

January sales figures for the United States savings bonds program released by George H. Dixon, state volunteer chairman, show a substantial increase over January of 1970. Pennington county sales of $15,518 are at 13 per cent of quota.

State H bond sales were down three per cent from $187,500 in January of 1970 to $181,000 for January of 1971. However, E Bond sales were up 19 per cent for the same period from $4,702,359 to $5,587,797. Overall, the net increase in total sales was up 10 per cent or $525,019.

Dixon attributed the increase in E bond sales to the highly successful 1970 payroll savings campaign. It is estimated that 70 per cent of all E bond purchases are made through systematic payroll savings. E Bonds now pay 5½ per cent when held to maturity of five years and 10 months.

Land Bank Sets Reduced Billing Interest Rate

"Interest rate on new variable interest rate loans has been reduced to 7½ per cent effective immediately," according to a statement by Hans T. Hagen, president of the Federal Land bank of Saint Paul.

The action of the board of directors also reduces to 7½ per cent the billing rate on $184,000,000 of 8 per cent variable interest rate loans outstanding effective as to interest periods beginning April 1, 1971, or thereafter.

Hagen noted this was the second time in the past three months the bank has reduced the interest billing rates by one-half of one per cent. He indicated the drop was possible because of an easing of money costs to the land banks.

"This action is in line with the bank's policy of providing long term credit to farmers and ranchers on the variable interest rate plan at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business management," Hagen continued.

Glenn E. Johnson, manager of the Federal Land Bank association of Warren, reported the interest rate drop would affect over $1,237,000 in variable rate loans in the Warren office.

Last year farmers in the 7½ county area borrowed over $1 million through the Warren office, according to Manager Johnson. Presently the Warren office has in excess of $7.9 million in long term real estate loans to 868 farmer-members in Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Pennington, Red Lake, Lake O' Woods, Koochiching, and northern Beltrami counties.

County Highway Engineers Oppose Studded Tires

Minnesota highway department announced today that it has been notified that at its recent annual institute, the Minnesota county highway engineers' association voted to oppose continued use of studded tires. The resolution is as follows:

Whereas mounting evidence shows that studded tires do not provide a safety factor except on glare ice and in fact are to the contrary on bare pavements, and

Whereas extensive damage is being sustained on our highways, roads, and streets by studded tires which will require expensive repairs, and

Whereas the wear on the highways, roads, and streets is causing hazardous conditions from several aspects,

Be it therefore resolved the Minnesota county highway engineers' association supports legislative action against the extended use of studded tires.

Camp Friendship Now Accepting '71 Applications

Camp Friendship, a residential summer camp for retarded children and adults and located in Annandale, is owned and operated by the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children. Now in its seventh season, it is accepting applications for campers and staff.

All mentally retarded children and adults eight years of age and over are eligible to attend the camp. Persons are accepted who are not toilet trained, have physical handicaps and are receiving medication. The only persons not accepted are those who are nonambulatory or injurious to themselves or others.

"To the campers, the staff members are friends, teachers and counselors," Miss Clasen said. "We have been fortunate each year to have a highly qualified staff which possesses the patience, perception, skill and understanding needed to work with retarded people.

"For many staff members, a summer at Camp Friendship is a chance to gain experience in what may be a life-long career of working with retarded people as a teacher, recreation leader, social worker, counselor or in a related profession," she added.

To learn more about Camp Friendship, contact Miss Ruth Clasen, Camp Administrator, 1911 Nicollet Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55403.

Jobless Required To Report Only Every Other Week

Jobless workers in Minnesota who are receiving unemployment insurance will be required to report every other week rather than weekly beginning immediately, Commissioner E. J. Cushing of the Minnesota Department of Manpower services, announced today.

Cushing said the switch to biweekly reporting is being made to save claimants time and effort and to enable the department of manpower services to give better service.

"Claimants won't have to stand in line as long and they'll save on transportation costs and parking fees as well as saving time by fewer visits to the office," Cushing said. "The offices will be less congested which will enable our staff to give better service."

Conversion to the biweekly system will be done gradually, Cushing said. Persons who currently are reporting every week will be advised when and if their reporting schedule will be changed.

Once a claimant starts reporting biweekly, he will receive payment for two weeks each time he reports, provided he is eligible. In hardship cases, checks still may be issued on a weekly basis, Cushing said.

Cushing emphasized the change pertains only to reporting for unemployment insurance claims. A claimant still must report to the employment service office for possible referral to a job whenever he is directed to do so.

Each time a claimant reports to pick up his check he must continue to be able to show that he was able to work, available for work and actively seeking work during each of the weeks for which he is claiming benefits.

Goodridge Lions Receive Advice To 'Think Small'

Pointing out the difference between a 1930 model radio and a pocket AM-FM set, a speaker said here today that years ago nobody would have considered telling an ambitious young man to "Think Small" but now you can make a fortune at it.

John F. Tigges, Northwestern Bell Telephone company control center foreman from Detroit Lakes, made the comment in a talk, "The Mini-Revolution," to the Goodridge Lion's club.

He explained that the tiny transistor, which has replaced the vacuum tube, not only has space-saving advantage but also last longer, can take more banging around and is a lot cheaper to produce.

Noting that the transistor was invented by the Bell Telephone laboratories, Tigges called today's transistorized devices "a double miracle. The first is that we can understand them and make them work at all, even in the laboratory. The second is that we are now able to mass-produce them economically in a factory."

The speaker said Western Electric worked with the Bell Labs on the very difficult problem of manufacturing devices so small they're barely visible.

"We tend to overlook the great impact transistors and other so-called solid state devices have on our lives. Twenty years ago, the computer industry barely existed. Today, millions are employed in making, using or servicing computers...," the speaker said.

Tigges explained that while the transistor has been vital to the space program and defense systems and put to so many other uses, the men who discovered it were looking for a means to make telephone service better.

Tigges also told of even greater "ultra-miniaturization" coming up which may make possible such things as wrist watch TV phones, "shoe-box" computers for the home, and inexpensive automatic radar controls that may drastically reduce auto accidents.

"Tom was feeling more and more like the Prodigal Son and did not like it, as indeed we daresay the Prodigal Son himself did not like it either. Sportsman's Creed

Tournaments in the various high school sports are underway and it might be a good time to again consider the importance of sportsmanship. The following creed from the Kentucky High School Athletic association was printed recently in the Norman County Index at Ada:

THE PLAYER ...
1. He lives clean and plays hard. He plays for the love of the game.
2. He wins without boasting, he loses without excuses, and he never quits.
3. He respects officials and accepts their decisions without question.
4. He never forgets that he represents his school.

THE COACH ...
1. He inspires in his boys a love for the game and the desire to win.
2. He teaches them that it is better to lose fairly than to win unfairly.
3. He leads players and spectators to respect officials by setting them a good example.
4. He is the type of man he wants his boys to be.

THE OFFICIAL ...
1. He knows the rules.
2. He is fair and firm in all decisions. He calls them as he sees them.
3. He treats players and coaches courteously and demands the same treatment for himself.
4. He knows the game is for the boys, and lets them have the spotlight.

THE SPECTATOR ...
1. He never boos a player or official.
2. He appreciates a good play, no matter who makes it.
3. He knows the school gets the blame or the praise for his conduct.
4. He recognizes the need for more sportsmen and fewer "sports."

Citizen Power

Arch N. Booth, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, presents the following comments regarding citizen participation in the problems of education:

You know, the more a nation advances technologically—as this nation has advanced, the greater becomes the need for trained and educated people to keep things running, and to prevent a collapse in the level of living.

The future of the country, therefore, depends on education. It depends on what the students are taught in the schools, and how they are motivated to learn.

But our system of education here in America — with its million dropouts a year, for one thing — is not at present meeting the challenge. It is falling short.

What is the answer?

The answer, as the businessmen see it, is not merely to make massive appropriations of public funds to reform education. Spending is not enough.

To strengthen the system of education, and to improve the quality of education, there are two steps, we believe, that must be taken. The first step is to make the system more productive by applying the latest business and management techniques to education.

The second step is to show the educators how tremendously important their work really is, and to encourage them to exercise a greater sense of accountability in everything they do.

These two essential steps can be taken, it is now being proved, by establishing a close working partnership between business and education. The businessmen, for their part, must take time to study and to understand the problems the educators are up against — and must come up with ways to attack the problems.

The educators must frankly be open to new ideas and new procedures. The educators must be receptive to whatever practical help the businessmen can give them. Most of them are, we find.

This sort of partnership is now being put into effect in an increasing number of cities. And where it has been tried, there is evidence that it works. Take Dallas for example.

The Dallas school district is large, and so are its responsibilities. It has about 200,000 students, a growth rate of 10 per cent, a budget of $140 million.

Two years ago, the Dallas Chamber of Commerce set up a management team of 50 top business executives to work with the school district in meeting the increasing demands that were being made upon it by the public.

The objective was to review the operations of the school district, and to recommend ways in which the operations could be made more efficient. A secondary objective was to promote greater confidence and greater involvement in the learning process as carried out in Dallas. Here are some of the early accomplishments:

1. An office of school planning was formed.
2. School purchasing procedures were streamlined.
3. The basis of assessment of property was changed to increase the potential of school revenue.
4. Personnel policies were updated.
5. Steps were taken to meet data-processing needs.
6. A new and better food program was put into effect.
7. Warehousing and distribution procedures were overhauled to achieve tighter inventory control, better delivery service, and preventive maintenance.

A working partnership between business and education can not only make the operation of the system of education more effective, but it can also bring about needed changes in school curriculums to make them fit the needs of the times. A partnership of this sort represents citizen power in action.

Poison Of The Month

While danger is not to be minimized nor research discouraged, there is a certain amount of truth in this editorial from the "Dairy Industry News":

Who can forget the great milk scare of a decade ago? Then a lot of people were literally scared by official government warnings that radioactive fallout had contaminated pastureland. While there is no evidence that the cows became discontented, a good portion of the populace did cut down or cut out drinking milk.

This government scare has been followed by others with increased frequency. The consumer is being warned of a new poison or danger practically every month in the food he eats, the fluid he drinks, the clothes he wears, the tools he uses, the vehicles he drives or rides in. Latest poison of the month is mercury.

Well, in the case of mercury poison—allegedly caused by eating fish with high levels of mercury in their systems—scientists are in disagreement. The toleration level for mercury fit for human consumption, so to speak, appears to rise or fall in direct proportion to the maritime character of the nation determining the safe dosage for its citizens.

Now it seems that some researchers have unstuffed fish that have been frozen for 43 years. To their surprise, they have discovered that the mercury content was more than twice that heretofore deemed safe for humans.

CONCLUSION: Generations of humans have been eating "mercury-poisoned" fish seemingly without permanent damage to their health or to their genes.

RECOMMENDATION: Isn't it about time for the government to stop scaring the wits out of its taxpayers? Is it too much to ask that no pronouncements be made as to putative threats to public health, unless and until there is scientific certitude of the "harm" facing the citizenry?

Democrat Or Republican

There are many today who claim that the difference between political philosophies of the Democrat and Republican parties is so small as to be insignificant. In some cases we are inclined to agree, but the following comparison from the Valley Herald in Connecticut helps to point out the difference in philosophy:

Democrats buy most of the books that are banned somewhere. Republicans form censorship committees and read them as a group.

Democrats give their worn out clothes to those less fortunate. Republicans wear theirs.

Republicans employ exterminators. Democrats step on bugs.

Democrats keep trying to quit smoking, but are not successful. Neither are Republicans.

Republicans keep their shades drawn, although there is seldom any reason why they should. Democrats ought to but don't.

Republicans study the financial pages of the newspaper. Democrats put them in the bottom of the bird cage.

Most of the stuff you see alongside the road has been thrown out of the car windows by Democrats. Republicans give theirs to their relatives.

Republican boys date Democrat girls. They plan to marry Republican girls, but feel they are entitled to a little fun first.

Democrats plan, and then do something else. Republicans do what their grandfathers did.

Republicans sleep in twin beds—some even in separate rooms. That's why there are more Democrats.

Interesting Opinions

"Many a man that can't direct you to a corner drugstore will get a respectful hearing when age has further impaired his mind." —Finley Peter Dunne

notes from the governor

No one in Minnesota would disagree that the health and safety of our working men and women should be of paramount concern to us all. It is one of the most important duties of government to provide for the protection of the working man on the job.

The 1969 Legislature recognized the fact when it created the Occupational Safety and Health Advisory Board. Business and labor have recognized this too as shown by their continuing concern for job safety and by the establishment of job safety committees in many plants. This cooperation by government, business and labor has done much towards making Minnesota's plants, farms and offices safer places in which to work. But much more needs to be done.

The labor movement in Minnesota has made job health and safety one of its top priorities. I join with them in this task. We can eliminate much pain and suffering if we would but enact and enforce up-to-date safety regulations. Technology and plant conditions have simply made our present safety regulations obsolete. We need tough, modern standards. And we need increased enforcement efforts. To provide this enforcement effort I have funded in my budget nine new positions for the Accident Prevention Division. This represents complete funding of the Department of Labor and Industry's budget request for this division. To cut their request would not only show a callous disregard for worker safety but would be "penny-wise and pound foolish". The cost of these new positions would be more than offset by a reduction in Workmen's Compensation claims.

Each of us every day can create a safer job climate by following common sense rules, by being on the lookout for job hazards and by suggesting improved safety regulations and procedures. If we do this, we can avoid these terrible and senseless "accidents" and can make Minnesota a much safer place in which to work.

Legislative Letter

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Minnesota may have close to a record number of moose roaming the wilderness areas of the northern part of the state. In the agricultural part of northwestern Minnesota the moose population is at an all-time high. Richard Wettersten, Assistant Director of Game and Fish told a House subcommittee this week that surveys show a stable population and some bull moose have been spotted with antler spreads of more than five feet. "If the season is opened hunters are almost certain to take some trophy bulls," Wettersten said.

Four different bills calling for a moose season are being considered by a sub-committee of the Natural Resources Committee. Among the differences in the four bills are regulations which would limit the hunting to parties of four, vary the license fee up to $100, bar non-residents, restrict hunting to persons twenty-one or over the limit the season to 1971 only as an experiment. The subcommittee is also considering an amendment which would give local residents a better chance to have their names drawn for permits than hunters from other parts of the state.

There seems to be considerable support in the House for a limited moose season, but in the Senate it's a different story. Apparently no Senator is willing to sponsor the bill in the Senate as no bill has been introduced in that body to date.

At the last session of the legislature a program for deer habitat improvement was established. The Game and Fish Division of the Natural Resources Department would like to continue this practice. They would like to improve 25,000 acres per year at an estimated cost of $450,000 to $500,000. If programs of this magnitude could be maintained the department feels we would be assured of a good, healthy deer herd.

The federal government has notified the state department of agriculture that they plan to take over Minnesota meat inspection program. During the past two weeks since the federal government made known their intention to take over our meat inspection we have tried to find out what steps we have to take to correct our deficiencies.

All Minnesota meat plants were found to be to satisfactory sanitary condition. The major problem pinpointed by the USDA was insufficient staffing. We are now inspecting all plants that require inspection but not with the frequency that the USDA demands. By adding sixteen positions to the meat inspection staff of the Department of Agriculture immediately we will then be considered to be in compliance with the federal requirements. The legislature is now preparing to take the necessary steps to accomplish this.

President Asks Cooperation In Hiring Veterans

President Richard Nixon has announced a nationwide "Jobs For Veterans" campaign. He has asked federal, state and local governments, labor management and private organizations to work together to insure a successful national effort.

This campaign is designed especially to assist returning veterans to obtain meaningful employment or to improve their job opportunities through additional education or training, states Charles Josephson, veterans employment representative in the local manpower services office.

Over one million servicemen will complete their military duty this year and return to civilian life. This number is expected to rise substantially in each of the next several years with the withdrawal from Vietnam and other planned reductions in the Armed Forces. About one-fourth of the returning veterans will resume their educational pursuits, but most will enter the civilian labor market.

This is a crucial period for the veteran. With the number of returning servicemen increasing at an average annual rate of more than 100,000 since 1965, there has been a concurrent rise in unemployment among veterans, most of whom are in the 20-24 year age group where the labor market is particularly tight.

"Each returning veteran deserves the opportunity to find his place in our economic system. The challenge to the nation is to make effective use of the talents of all who have served," Josephson said.

As an employer, you can profit from the veteran's use of Veterans administration and department of labor training programs, he added. You can [illegible] the veteran the way you want—for the skills you need.

The veterans wages can be supplemented by the government through training allowances offered under the GI bill and MDTA.

For assistance in hiring a veteran, contact the local manpower services office. For information on job training under the GI bill, contact the local office of the Veterans administration.

State Hospital At Fergus Falls Changes Roles

The year 1970 was one of significant change as far as the role of the Fergus Falls state hospital is concerned, reports Robert F. Hoffman, administrator.

For the 80 years since its inception, the hospital has served primarily the mentally ill. In 1969, following the concept of multi-purpose hospitals serving smaller regions, new programs were established for the mentally retarded and the inebriate.

Last year was the first year to indicate the impact of this change in provision of services. Whereas in 1969 the hospital admitted 777 mentally ill patients, in 1970 the hospital admitted for treatment 591 mentally ill, 186 mentally retarded, and 360 inebriate patients for a total of 1,137. The geographic breakdown for these figures is as follows:

Mentally ill—219 admissions from the nine-county Lakeland area, 219 admissions from the 10-county Upper Mississippi-Northern Pines area, 114 admissions from the seven-county Northwest area, and 39 adolescent admissions from the total 26-county area;

Mentally Retarded—186 admissions from the 16 counties of the Lakeland and Northwest areas; and Inebriate—360 admissions from the 16 counties of the Lakeland and Northwest areas.

Breakdown of counties that are included in each of the mental health program areas is as follows: Lakeland area—Clay, Becker, Wilkin, Otter Tail, Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Stevens and Pope; Northwest area—Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Mahnomen; and Upper Mississippi-Northern Pines area—Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Cass, Wadena, Crow Wing, Todd and Morrison.

During 1971, Brainerd state hospital will begin programs for the mentally ill and the inebriate patient from the 10 counties of the Upper Mississippi-Northern Pines area. "During the same period, we will initiate additional programs at the Fergus Falls state hospital for the remaining disability groupings of mentally retarded from the Lakeland and Northwest areas," Hoffman said. "As a consequence, our admissions for 1971 will show further decrease for the mentally ill, increase for the mentally retarded and [illegible] change for the inebriate patient population.

"Our present population at the Fergus Falls state hospital is 335 mentally ill, 220 mentally retarded and 49 inebriate patients. In 1972, projections indicate we will have 250 mentally ill, 350 mentally retarded and 50 inebriate patients."

This change in program requires staff education, remodeling of physical facilities, changes in supply and equipment needs, increased need for volunteers in new as well as the more familiar services, and a change in general orientation to increased emphasis on training and education, the administrator added.

"Despite the additional burden that such change brings to hospital and community staff, we are very optimistic about the future. The reduction of our receiving area from 28 to 16 counties presents greater opportunity for closer working relationships between the hospital and community agencies. This reduced receiving area and the fact that we are serving all categories of mentally disabled will make the hospital more accessible for patients seeking admission and for visitors. It will also reduce travel time for community and hospital staff.

"The challenge of providing services based upon need rather than upon legal or medical definition and a cooperative effort to assess whether particular services are best provided by the community or the hospital is now before us. Our staff looks forward to continued cooperation with families, community agencies, and interested citizens to meet that challenge in providing the optimum of treatment and prevention of mental disabilities."

Minnesota Meat Plants To Have U.S. Inspection

U.S. department of agriculture has announced it plans to place meat plants doing business wholly within each of 11 states and Puerto Rico under federal meat inspection, under provisions of the wholesome meat act.

[illegible] Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Montana, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Texas and West Virginia.

Officials of USDA's consumer and marketing service said that the decision was made on the basis of recently completed surveys of the inspection programs in the 11 States and in Puerto Rico. They added that State inspection authorities had been working to develop adequate inspection systems, but did not complete them by the deadline set by the wholesome meat act, making federal inspection necessary.

C&MS said it will immediately survey each plant not now under federal inspection in the affected States in order to determine what corrective measures must be taken to meet federal inspection requirements. Upon completion of these surveys, the states will receive a "Notice of Designation" and federal inspection will begin 30 days thereafter.

Officials said approximately 162 intrastate meat plants will be affected in Minnesota.

The wholesome meat act, which became effective Dec. 15, 1967, gave each state two years to establish a meat inspection system at least equal to the federal program for meat products crossing state lines. The act authorized USDA to grant a one-year extension to any state showing significant progress toward meeting the requirements.

These 11 states and Puerto Rico were among those granted such extensions in December of 1969, but, under the requirements of the act, USDA must now place their intrastate plants under federal inspection since satisfactory programs were not in effect at the end of the three years.

Today's announcement means that USDA must assume inspection responsibility in 15 States and Puerto Rico. North Dakota's plants were placed under federal inspection last June. USDA announced in January its intent to place plants in Colorado, Massachusetts and New Hampshire under federal inspection.

Thirty-five other states have received "equal to" certification of their meat inspection programs.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—How long will a veteran who retired Nov. 1, 1970, for total disability be covered by his servicemen's group life insurance?

A—Coverage under SGLI will continue while he is totally disabled, but not beyond one year. Within the year, he may convert his SGLI (maximum $15,000) to an individual policy at standard rates with any company participating in the SGLI program. Also, within a year of notice of his service-connected disability, he can apply for a $10,000 low-cost RH policy from the Veterans administration.

Q—My husband died in service in 1946. Am I still eligible for his home loan benefit?

A—Yes. Under recently passed legislation, unused, expired loan benefits were restored for World War II and Korean conflict veterans and eligible, unremarried widows of these veterans.

Q—I was discharged from service in January of 1964. Am I still eligible for educational benefits?

A—Yes. Veterans released from active duty between Jan. 31, 1955 and June 1, 1966, have eligibility for eight years, or until May 31, 1974. Eligibility of Vietnam era veterans extends eight years from the date of their release from active duty.

Q — I am under 65 years of age and am receiving a disability pension through the Veterans administration as well as disability social security benefits. May I deduct my medical expenses from my income reportable for pension purposes?

A — You should list the medical expenses paid for the treatment of the disabilities which qualified you for social security disability benefits. The VA will deduct these expenses from your social security income.

Q — Are business loans available for post-Korean and Vietnam era veterans under any Veterans administration program?

A — No. Business loans are not authorized by VA for these veterans. Like other citizens, they should contact the Small Business administration.

Q — I attend school under the GI bill, and married after I started classes. Will I receive more money because I now have a wife?

A — In most instances your education allowance will be increased as a result of your marriage. To apply for these benefits, send the Veterans Administration a copy of your marriage license, along with your VA claim number.

Q — I am a veteran of World War II, and am 65 years old. Am I eligible for pension benefits?

A — Yes, if you are single, and your income from all sources is below $2,300. If you have dependents the income limitation is $3,500. Your net worth is also a factor. You should contact the Veterans administration for an application so your eligibility can be determined.

Economist Says Poor Need More Than Only Jobs

Jobs alone can't eliminate the need for income supplement programs and supportive services for poor people, Arley D. Waldo, agricultural and applied economist at the University of Minnesota, said.

"A myth persists that poverty is largely the result of an unwillingness to work, but many of the poor do work. For example, more than half of the men 25-64 years old who were the heads of poor families in 1968 worked at least 50 weeks during these years. And 95 per cent worked all or part of the year or were ill or disabled, in school or in the armed forces," he added.

"More and better paying jobs, training and supportive services would undoubtedly benefit many of the poor, regardless of whether they are being aided by current welfare programs," Waldo said.

But neither providing incentives nor requiring poor people to work are likely to bring about a major reduction in the number of public welfare cases, he added.

Less than half of the 1.6 million adults receiving benefits under the aid to families with dependent children program in the spring of 1969 were potentially employable, according to the U.S. department of health, education and welfare. The employable adults included 564,000 mothers and 13_,000 unemployed fathers. About half the potentially employable adults were mothers who already were working either full or part-time or unemployed fathers who would need a year of training before they could enter the job market.

"One might reasonably conclude that work alone cannot eliminate the need for other programs to supplement the incomes of the poor and to provide supportive services," the university economist said.

The Nixon administration's welfare reform proposal emphasizes the transformation of welfare into "workfare." The family assistance plan proposed by the President would attempt to increase work incentives by making the working poor eligible for cash assistance, except for individuals and couples without children. It would also provide that cash grants be reduced by less than a dollar for every dollar a family earns on its own.

Public opinion favors work over welfare and many people apparently believe that anyone who is willing to work hard can make it on his own in this country, Waldo said.

His remarks appear in a recent issue of "Minnesota Agricultural Economist," published by the University of Minnesota, St Paul.

Prowler Hoopsters Romp Past Warren Ponies 80-57

Again paced by the Dale Hanson-Rande Smith combination, the Thief River Falls Prowlers overwhelmed the Warren Ponies 80-57 Saturday night in a Big Five Conference meeting at Warren.

Hanson, a senior forward, hit 12 field goals and five of seven from the free throw line for 29 points while Smith, a junior center, was on target eight times from the field and made all eight of his free throw attempts for 24 points. Sophomore guard Kent Smith also reached double figures for the Prowlers with 10 points.

Jim Hill led the Warren attack with 20 points followed by Mark Maruska with 17 and Brad Fultz with 11.

The Prowlers opened up a 20-16 first quarter lead before enjoying a 38-27 halftime advantage. Thief River Falls came out in the third quarter with Hanson and Smith scoring 17 of the Prowlers' 21 points for a 59-39 bulge going into the final quarter.

The Prowlers shot 45 per cent from the field on 32 of 72 attempts while Warren connected on 21 of 64 tries from the field for 33 per cent. From the gift line the Prowlers hit on 16 of 26 for 61 per cent while the Ponies were on target with 15 of 21 tries for 71 per cent. The Prowlers outrebounded the Ponies 46-38 for the game with Smith grabbing 14 and Hanson 12 rebounds.

Prowler head coach Whitey Olson noted senior guard Mike Hamerlinck was credited with six assists while Kent and Rande Smith were given four assists each.

The Prowlers are now 10-7 on the year with a final 3-3 conference record. The Prowlers will close out their regular season Saturday night when they will travel to Fergus Falls.

Department Has Fishy Records

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources today released its latest listing of record fish taken in the state by angling.

Included is the name of the angler and address if known. The record is considered official since weights were verified to the satisfaction of a Department representative.

Only hook and line angling records were used, although larger fish of some species may have been taken at some time by net, spear or some other method.

Three new records were set last year: A 15 pound 7 ounce rainbow trout, a 10 pound 6½ ounce coho salmon, and a 70 pound mud catfish.

Only game fish are listed, however Minnesota also holds a national record for carp: a 55 pound 5 ounce specimen taken on July 10, 1952, in Clearwater Lake by Frank J. Ledwein.

Although the carp is not regarded by most Minnesota anglers as a game fish, other states think differently and the fish is recorded in Field and Streams latest listing of "New World Record Fish". Record fish caught in Minnesota with species, weight, place caught, fisherman and date listed respectively are:

Largemouth Bass, 10-2, Prairie Lake, Itasca county, Harold Lehn—Bemidji, Minn., 1961;

Season Not Closed

Just because you may not fish for walleyes and northerns in inland lakes as of February 15th does not mean that the winter fishing season is over. Sunfish and crappies are still available to the winter fisherman, and if you want walleyes, there is Lake of the Woods where the season is open until April 15th. It is well to remember that after February 28th shelters may not be left on the ice over night. They must be removed by 7:00 p.m. but can be put back again at 7:00 a.m.

Minnesota's Favorite Winter Fish—The Crappie

Back in 1968 this column revealed that the majority of game fish taken by ice fishing are crappies. At that time we pointed out that the crappie is a member of the sunfish family along with bluegill and the large and small mouthed bass. The winter caught crappie is especially tasty. Unlike the other members of the sunfish family, the crappie often co-exists with heavy rough fish populations of carp and bullheads. Two native species of crappies in Minnesota...the black crappie and the white crappie. The easiest way to distinguish between them is by counting the spiny rays on the dorsal fin. The black crappie has seven or eight spines and the white crappie has five or six. The white crappie is paler colored and generally smaller than the black crappie. The white crappies occur mostly in the southern part of Minnesota, mostly south of the Twin Cities. The State record for the black crappie is five pounds. This fish was caught by Tom Christenson in the Vermillion River in Dakota County in 1940. Since we have been fishing the crappie the year around the size has been growing with many three pounders entered in winter fishing contests. The average age of a 12-inch crappie is eight years.

Fishing Report

"Swede" Elfering of Bird Island and six other fishermen had good fishing in Blackduck Lake. This included a 20 pound northern.

"Swede" Carlson, the Warroad flyer reports that the Roger Brighton party of Crookston caught their limits of walleyes from two to four pounds in Lake of the Woods at 12 mile Reef. Live minnows were used for bait. Fred Peterson and Harold Ross, also from Crookston, were in the party.

Phil Esposito, Bobby Orr and Fred Stanfield of Boston scored within 1 minute and 1 second of each other against the North Stars on January 14, 1968.

Swimmers Dunked In Two Weekend Meets

Lincoln high school swim team with reinforcement from four junior high school boys suffered two set-backs February 19 and 20, as they swam back to back meets against Grand Forks Red River and Fergus Falls in the Franklin junior high school pool.

The Thief River Falls swimmers lost to Red River 53-40 and dropped a 57-34 meet to Fergus Falls.

Next action for the local swim club will be sometime in March when they will host a possible tri meet with Red River and Grand Forks Central.

The Lincoln 200-yard medley relay team swam a 2:07.6 to take first place in the Red River meet as Pat Travnicek swam the back stroke; Gordy Prichard, breast, Knute Thorsgard, butterfly, and Don Fearn, freestyle.

Mark Metusalem took a first in the 200-yard freestyle event with a 2:26.4 clocking while Don Fearn was a first place finisher in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 1:00.2. Pat Travnicek also took a first against Red River competition as he swam the 100-yard backstroke in 1:14.5.

In other events, Pat Travnicek was a third place finisher in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:47.8 behind the winning time of 2:34. Don Fearn finished second in the 50-yard free style with his 26.8 time while the Red River winner swam a 26.2. In diving competition, Gordy Prichard took a third.

Knute Thorsgard took a second in the 100-yard butterfly event with a time of 1:12.6 with the winner finishing in 1:06.2. Junior high school swimmer Brian Phelps was a third place finisher with a 1:09 in the 100-yard freestyle while Mark Metusalem finished second in the 400-yard freestyle with a time of 5:30. Dan Cork, another junior high school swimmer, was a second place finisher in the 100-yard backstroke with a 1:18.6 with Gorden Prichard and Dan Heieren taking second and third in the 100-yard breast stroke. Prichard finished with a 1:18.4, just four-tenths of a second behind the winning Red River swimmer.

On Saturday, February 20, the swimmers again had to double up in events to take on an experienced Fergus Falls team. For the first time this season, Thief River Falls lost both relays in which points only go to the first place winner.

Pat Travnicek was a first place finisher in the 200-yard individual medley event with a time of 2:31.2 behind the winning time of 2:22.2. Don Fearn also captured a first place finish for the Thief River Falls team as he swam the 50-yard freestyle in 26.4. In the 100-yard butterfly event, Knute Thorsgard was a first place finisher with a 1:13.6 clocking, while Fearn was first in the 100-yard free style in 1:00.6 and Gordy Prichard finished first in the 100-yard breast stroke in 1:18.6.

The 200-yard medley relay team came in second with a 2:03.6 clocking, with Fergus Falls winning the event in 2:03.3. The 400-yard free style relay team was also a close second place with a 4:48.4 time, compared to the winning time of 4:45.

SAC Operation To Have Planes Flying In Area

U.S. Air Force aircraft of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) will participate with air defense forces of the North American Air Defense command (NORAD) in a joint training exercise overflying northwestern and north central part of the United States and southwestern and south central part of Canada during the evening hours on February 16 and early morning hours on February 17.

The SAC aircraft will overfly the Canadian provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. During this aerospace defense training exercise, the participating aircraft, operating at high and low altitudes, will overfly cities and towns in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Two SR-71 reconnaissance aircraft will fly high altitude supersonic missions over cities and towns in Montana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, Missouri and Kansas. Supersonic missions flown in conjunction with this training exercise are planned no closer than seven nautical miles to the near edge of metropolitan areas.

Crews at NORAD BOMARC missile sites operated by USAF Aerospace Defense command also will take part in the training exercise by simulating firings of their defensive weapons.

Air traffic control officials in Canada and the United States have received advance information on this exercise, and a minimum suspension of normal civil air traffic is expected.

Muzzy Wins Region 8 Wrestling Title

Prowler wrestling captain Jerry Muzzy made his way through three region eight matches to claim the 133 pound title Thursday night at Bemidji and qualify for the state wrestling tournament at Williams arena March 5 and 6.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks won the region eight title as they finished with three champions and 54 points to runner-up Bagley's 44 points. Bagley and Park Rapids each claimed two individual titles with Waubun, Crookston, Thief River Falls, Fertile and Mahnomen claiming single championships.

Muzzy decisioned Steve Hilliard of Fosston 9-1 in his first round match and defeated Gary Boots of Park Rapids 7-2 in the semi's. The Prowler grappler got by Walker's undefeated Randy Brown 9-6 for the 133 pound title.

The only other district 31 wrestler to claim an individual title was Crookston's Murry Tiedeman who defeated Lorry Lorenson of Greenbush 11-4 for the 127 pound title.

Mark Costello and Joe Safratowich of Park Rapids, Bemidji's Tom Ritchie and Mike Hanlon of Bagley successfully defended their region eight titles before the sell-out crowds in the Bemidji state college gym.

Greenbush held a 43-40 edge over Bemidji going into the evening matches with the Jacks entering three men in the title matches while Greenbush had four wrestlers going for championships. The Tigers failed to score a point in the championship round however, and three Tigers in the consolation rounds failed to come up with a point as Bagley finished ahead of Greenbush in the final team totals.

In the championship matches it was Mike Hanlon of Bagley blanking Paul Erickson of Greenbush 6-0 to win the 95 pound title while Mark Costello claimed his third region crown as the Park Rapids wrestler recorded one of only six pins in the 70 matches over Remer's Jerry Berge in the 103 pound division final.

Bemidji's Bill Tibbetts stopped Walker's Terry Brown 6-2 in the 103 pound title match with Jon Hougium of Waubun getting by Ron Mooney of Greenbush 2-0 in the 120 pound title match.

Other winners included Tiedeman and Muzzy at 127 and 133 while Safratowich decisioned John Rasmussen of Bagley 4-2 for the 138 pound title. Bemidji's Tom Ritchie blanked Kelly Lundeen of Oklee 3-0 for the 145 pound title with Mark Lindberg of Fertile downing Mahnomen's Jim Willie 7-1 at 154 pounds.

Bagley's Jim Hood stopped Dan Zak of Greenbush 6-0 in the title match of the 165 pound division and Bob Whelan of Bemidji blasted Clyde Sletten of Bagley 15-2 for the 175 pound title. Dave Uhlir of Mahnomen scored in the last second of the heavyweight match for a 3-1 win over Waubun's Steve Haddeland.

The complete team totals for the region eight meet were: Bemidji 54, Bagley 44, Greenbush 43, Park Rapids 40, Waubun 25, Walker 21, Crookston 20, Mahnomen 19, Fertile 10, Remer 14, Thief River Falls 12, Oklee 9, Fosston 7, Erskine 5, Warren 3, Roseau 3, Ada, Blackduck, Cass Lake, Clearbrook and East Grand Forks 0.

Dept. Natural Resources Sets Wildlife Goals

Department of Natural Resources today announced a list of goals set for its game and fish division to achieve during 1971.

Richard Wettersten, game and fish director, said attainment of many of the objectives will depend upon adequate appropriations from the present legislature.

Provided these are sufficient, he said, the following are some of the goals the division hopes to reach during the present year.

Establish 300 winter cover areas for pheasants. This is part of a long range program to provide four such sites per township throughout the state's main pheasant range by 1980.

Management of four lakes exclusively for walleye fishing and a permanent monitoring program on 10 walleye lakes.

Carry out deer habitat improvement work on 25,000 acres in northern Minnesota.

Acquire 18 new northern pike spawning areas and develop 22 such areas recently acquired.

Take depth soundings and map 175 lakes.

Acquire 20,000 acres of wetlands for waterfowl and upland game.

Improve habitat in 46 trout streams and rehabilitate 10 lakes for trout fishing.

Survey the fish population in 200 selected lakes.

Hold public hearings aimed at designating 10 shallow lakes to be managed for wildlife, chiefly waterfowl.

Reconstruct muskie rearing ponds at Park Rapids to increase capacity and the survival and growth of young fish.

Establish a state-wide creel census program.

Stoltman Crew Has Visitors In Barrens

Part IV

(Wally Stoltman and his companions Bob O'Hara, Einer Anderson and Duane Monson are nearing the mid-way point of their canoe trip down the Thelon river in Canada's Northwest Territories. Stoltman's diary of the trip continues.)

July 17—I woke up at 5:45 a.m. to check the weather to get an early start if the wind had gone down but it was still blowing. At 8 a.m. Einer woke us up and said the wind was down, which was very surprising. So we packed up and left without eating to get a few miles up behind us in case the wind should blow.

A mile down Bob noticed that his boots had been left in camp and he ran after them and the three of us paddled around the point and waited for him. Had good paddling before the wind and made six miles down the west shoreline of Beverly lake before we stopped to eat.

Had a big dinner as will do a lot of paddling before the day is over. Stopped at an island with ice up against it on the north side of it all the way to the north side of the lake. Caught a trout on the south side of this island. A very scenic view from here. Bob took a lot of 16 mm movies at this spot.

We must have come through this lake as early as it was possible by canoe for at one narrows we could just get by the ice pack by skirting the north side of the lake. After supper we paddled until 10:30 p.m., in order to get to the northeast end of Beverly in case of bad winds tomorrow. Logged 35 miles today, our best so far. The temperature today was a high 60, and a low of 35.

July 18—About four miles from where the Thelon enters Aberdine lake a big sea plane had just unloaded three Archaeologists. We stopped at their camp and they told us they were going to uncover what they thought were remains of people that had lived at this caribou crossing 7,000 years ago.

While talking to them we watched a band of caribou cross the river in this old crossing. Six miles past this camp, we stopped at a small cabin where a naturalist working for the Canadian Wildlife service was conducting a study of Arctic fox. He had a university student and an Eskimo for assistants. He told me that the Eskimo was a mechanical genius as he could fix anything someway or another. He also told us he knew the country for hundreds of square miles like the back of his hand.

Also, he informed us that the lemming and fox population was way down. He showed us a lemming he had just live trapped. We also saw ravens and snow geese today. Temperature is in the 60's. The most common small sparrow is the Harris Sparrow. Today for the first day, I saw a snow bunting.

Lake Aberdine is 60 miles long and 15 miles wide. The ice looks as if it's going to give us some problems. We paddled until we came to a big cove and the ice was packed against the outside. As the time is 10:30 p.m. we decided to camp here and portage to the other side of the ice tomorrow.

July 19—Made five miles by 2 p.m. by following islands that lie close to the shore and ice leads along the shore. Then came to a solid pack of ice that would mean at least a mile portage to get around. Had our noon time lunch and discussed what steps we should take next. Decided to wait until after supper and then decide.

Duane and I went cross country a mile to do a little fishing in a stream that enters the lake from the north. The temperature is 55. I caught a nine pound trout which we had for supper.

Just as we had finished supper, the party from the Canadian Wildlife service came with their big freighter canoe and camped on the other point from us as that is as far as they could go for the ice pack. It was only one-fourth mile walk so they came over and had tea with us. Had a long conversation with them that lasted until 11:30 p.m.

July 20—Wildlife men came over early in the morning and had breakfast with us. At noon the ice still hadn't moved so asked the Eskimo if he'd like to go up the river with me in my canoe which he agreed to. Duane and the assistant took the other canoe. We paddled a mile to the river and the wind shifted from the south in 15 minutes with gusts of at least 35 m.p.h. The ice came in more than ever and blocked our approach to our camp. So we ended up portaging our canoes to get them back to camp.

So here we are ice bound worse then ever with no guarantee of when things will get better. We need a north wind to push the ice a little way off the north shore. In the evening the wildlife crew came over for a chat that lasted until 11:30 p.m.

July 21—The wind shifted to the east and it looks as if we'll spend at least another day at this camp. Everyone looking many times over the ice packs hoping for a change. I think if we had a chance to do so, we'd paddle 30 hours, though, as all are anxious to move. The temperature the last [illegible] low 45 or so.

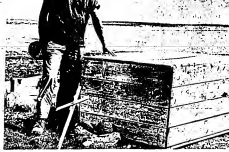
Saw many longspurs, a black-bellied plover, red-headed mergansers, a band of caribou yesterday, and also one gray fronted goose. We see a great many yaygarts which feed on lemmings.

Looked at an old Eskimo grave on a hill. A crude box and the body was bound in caribou robes with three caribou bulls over looking the grave. Also a small cross made of two sticks. I took a two mile walk east of camp and came upon a child's grave. It was a pile of rocks on a hillside with a few small bones in the middle. Found a tiny skull too. Also found a cache of caribou that the Eskimos had left for their future use but had never came back to use. Have seen many old squaw ducks and a few pin tailed ducks. The temperature was high 70 and low 45.

This county we are traveling in has an annual rainfall of only 11 inches which makes it almost a desert. The naturalist told us that all the Canada geese that we had seen were unpaired and unmated yearling geese which don't breed for the first year but spend their time in this area.

At 5:30 p.m. a band of 200 caribou went within 250 yards of our camp and being in a position of not knowing how long we might be iced in, Duane shot a cow. I butchered and skinned it. Then Duane and I took it to the lake and washed, quartered, and packed it in ice. Also iced down two trout that Duane and I had caught in the evening. The mosquitoes are getting worse by the day. They even get into the food before you get a chance to eat it.

Next Issue: Ice-Bound Adventure



AN ESKIMO GRAVE was visited by the Stoltman party while ice bound on the trip down the Thelon river. Because of the permafrost, no burial is made below ground. A rough box encloses the body and a crude cross bears testimony to at least some Christian religious influence among the survivors.

FLOATING ICE, pushed against the shore by the contrary wind, was a problem for several days for the Stoltman canoeing party. Although the trip was made in mid-July, the ice floes closed the canoe routes on the lakes at times and made the end result of the trip uncertain.

March 1, 1971
SPECIAL MEETING
February 11, 1971

A special contract negotiating meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 9:00 o'clock p.m. on Wednesday, February 17, 1971 in the auditorium of the Lincoln School Building.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Mervin Presteback, Charles Samuelson, Wallace Sperby, Maynard Wedul and Superintendent Johnson. No one was absent.

Chairman Presteback presided.

This School Board meeting had the largest group of interested members of our community. There were over 300 persons in the audience.

The members of School Board 564 presented the members of the Thief River Falls Teachers' Negotiation Council with the attached proposal (Board of Education, February 20, 1971 Pages 1, 2 and 3).

After receiving the School Board proposal the Teachers' Negotiation Council went into caucus. During this time Superintendent Johnson and Mervin Presteback explained the 1970-71 contract to the public and compared this to the school board proposal. A short question and answer period was held with the audience and Board during the caucus.

A recess of the Negotiation Council caucus was called so that Mr. Les Sabo could read a statement from the Northwest Taxpayer's Association of Thief River Falls.

The Negotiation Council gave the Board the attached statement (Letter dated February 11, 1971, 9:30 p.m.).

After a short caucus the Board made the statement that a group from the Board would meet with a group from the Teachers' Negotiation Council on Saturday, February 20, 1971.

The next scheduled meeting was set for Monday, February 22, 1971 at the Regular School Board Meeting.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:35 p.m.

SIGNED Kenneth D. Murphy, Clerk
APPROVED Mervin Presteback, Chairman

Board of Education, February 20, 1971

The existing policies of Independent School District No. 564 were derived from the requirements as recorded in Article VIII of the Minnesota Constitution. Section One of Article VIII charges the citizens to develop in each student a perpetual learner, with democratic interest. The actual quotation reads as follows: "The stability of a republican form of government depending mainly upon the intelligence of the people, it shall be the duty of the legislature to establish a general and uniform system of public schools."

Therefore, general objectives stemming from the school district's statement of philosophy and the state constitution might be developed to read:

A. To provide a curriculum best designed to enable us to achieve the desired development in each individual student.

B. To employ an optimum number of people best qualified to teach this curriculum.

C. To provide facilities, equipment, organization, and administrative support best designed to enhance this education process.

D. To control the use of public funds in such a way as to maximize their effective use in pursuit of the district's educational program.

E. To move consistently toward greater individualization of instruction, within the limits of the resources made available to the school district.

F. To operate the district as a corporate example of the effective citizenship we seek to develop, through open and cooperative action, free flowing of communication, and invitation to initiative and inquiry on the part of all students, staff and community.

The preceding five objectives could well become the axis around which all other functions of the school district would revolve. Basically these would include administration, curriculum, finance and personnel. Since our consideration at this point is more or less confined to finance and personnel it might be well to zero in on these two areas.

I. FINANCE This program establishes and maintains coordinated long range fiscal planning to provide essential funds, facilities, and services. It also includes the internal controls that insure the guardianship of a public trust and makes possible the public accountability of the organization. The guidelines for this section could be stated in the following terms:

A. To establish and maintain a coordinated long range fiscal planning program which translates educational objectives and the aspirations of the community into composite financial plans of budget procurement, and distributions in creased responsibility and accountability to be brought into focus at each level of supervision.

B. To establish and practice effective fiscal control policies which insure the treatment of public funds as a public trust and guarantee a close relationship of the expenditure pattern to the stated educational objectives.

C. To manage a program of funds, facilities and services which maximizes the opportunity for each individual student.

D. To establish fiscal priorities to ensure that every expenditure of public funds fulfills the stated objectives and is commensurate with the community's willingness to pay.

E. To carry out a program for the development of plant needs and property management which will enhance and support the current educational program of the community to the fullest extent, while incorporating the flexibility to meet the demands of evolving program needs.

F. To arrange, maintain and control, to the extent possible an equitable method of taxation and develop its fiscal application in a reasonable way.

G. To provide the taxpayer with a periodic summary of services furnished.

II. CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

That group of professionals subject to state statute and certified by the State of Minnesota for employment in the public schools. The school district's policies reinforce state provisions by providing direction for professional growth, recruitment, welfare and systematic direction for the exchange of ideas between the two major segments of the school district. Therefore personnel objectives could be developed to include the following as guidelines for professional evaluation.

A. To employ as professional staff members those candidates who have demonstrated professional and personal excellence through their training and/or experience.

B. To develop a system of compensation which attracts competent personnel, which encourages and rewards personnel for additional training and experience, and which recognizes varying levels of responsibility, along with evaluations appropriate to the appraisal of changes in pupil behavior as definitive measurement.

(The fundamental purpose of evaluation in any organization is to identify those behaviors which tend to enhance or inhibit programs of the organization towards the achievement of these objectives. One of the weaknesses that is most apparent in the public schools, which incidentally has almost guaranteed failure in any program of evaluation, is the lack of pre-determined objectives. Thus in developing our cooperative venture for evaluation and accountability it would follow that a continuous process must be established in which the completeness and validity of an objective can be confirmed. It would also follow that a medium must be established through which the effects of change in technique or resource allocations on achievement of objectives can be determined. Certainly it will be necessary to refine our system for analyzing and identifying elements which will critically affect any program of learning. Efforts to measure competence of personnel must therefore be directly related to the particular objectives (behavioral changes) that the professional will accomplish and the characteristics of the pupil that the teacher has been assigned to change.)

C. To develop policies which provide for the assignment of all personnel to positions for which they are trained and qualified.

D. To provide the opportunity for exchange of ideas among students, parents, teachers, administrators and members of the board of education.

E. To encourage experimentation, innovation, and research by the instructional staff.

F. To encourage staff members to be creative and to assist in the process of bringing about orderly change.

February 11, 1971
9:30 p.m.

Gentlemen:

We have quickly reviewed your proposal, and we would like to make the following comments.

1. Your proposal does not show how you will contribute the most to those who should receive a premium for their performance.

2. Your proposal recommends that we move away from the 'inflexibility of a single salary schedule and develop the techniques of job analysis and accountability.' Yet, you have kept the single salary schedule, and have not moved away from it or offered anything else.

3. There are other inconsistencies in this proposal and we feel that you are not bargaining in good faith. Therefore, for the best interest of everyone concerned we recommend that other meeting arrangements be made.

Negotiations Council

Monday, March 1
February 22, 1971

A regular meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on Monday, February 22, 1971 in the auditorium of the Lincoln School Building.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Mervin Presteback, Charles Samuelson, Maynard Wedul, and Superintendent Johnson. Absent was Wallace Sperby.

Chairman Presteback presided.

The minutes of the regular meeting held February 8, 1971 and the special meeting held February 17, 1971 were approved as presented.

A motion was made by Dr. Martin, seconded by C. Samuelson and carried to hire Mr. Peter Steen to teach Grade 5 at Northrop Elementary School. Mr. Steen will take the place of Mr. Lawrence Feering who was called to military duty.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to accept the resignation of Marlys Hauschultz, 4th grade teacher at Washington Elementary School to be effective today, February 23, 1971, or as soon thereafter as possible.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to pay the bills as presented.

At tonight's meeting there was over 300 people in the audience. Chairman Presteback thanked the public for attending our sessions and showing an interest in the operation of our school district.

Mr. Rolland Walter, Chief of Police, Thief River Falls, approached the Board on the possibility of purchasing the house that is being built by the Area Vocational School. At this time of its construction the Board felt it would be in the best interest of the public to have a public bid on this home. At a regular meeting on August 10, 1970 the following motion was made. A motion was made by W. Sperby, seconded by E. Olson and carried that the second year carpentry class of the Area Vocational Technical School build a house on school owned property and place it for public sale by sealed bids with a certified check enclosed with the bids. All sales to be final within 60 days of bid opening.

Mr. Les Sabo read a statement from the Taxpayer's Association and made remarks relative to the tax problem in our district that asked for no increase in our next budget.

Mr. Jack Goulet suggested that the teachers and Board should attempt to come to some type of raise in pay based on a merit type of system. It appears to him that some of the people in Thief River Falls should help the city grow instead of complaining that the city is growing.

Mr. Fred Phillips asked if the St. Hilaire school would close when they join our district. Superintendent Johnson informed the audience that St. Hilaire would not be closed; but instead there would be some remodeling and a kindergarten through 9th grade would be operated from there.

Roy Langevin inquired if this school system had made any plans for the extra pupils if St. Bernard's should close. Superintendent Johnson replied that we have serious space problems now and will have more if this does happen. We will have to meet that problem when it arises.

A parent inquired as to why a 5th grade class at Northrop Elementary School has had four teachers in one year. Superintendent Johnson explained that two men teachers were drafted in one year. He also explained the process of retaining draft eligible teachers for the school year.

Mr. Robert Flynn asked when the new budget would be started for the school year 1971-72. Superintendent Johnson informed him that it was already started and the first draft of the budget would be submitted to the Board by April 1, 1971. In June a preliminary budget would be adopted by the School Board and in October a final budget would be adopted by the School Board.

Superintendent Johnson informed the audience that next year's budget would be the same as this year. In referring to the budget Superintendent Johnson said, "The house will remain the same, only the partitions will be moved around inside."

A question was asked as to the cost of the study made by the University of Minnesota Bureau of Field Studies. This figure is $17,000 and will be completed for our school district about June or July of this year (1971).

A student cost comparison between Thief River Falls and other school districts was asked for. It was brought out that in Thief River Falls, as of last year's figures it cost our school district $400 per pupil. This is compared to Warren $612, Red Lake Falls $929, Newfolden $843, East Grand Forks $768, Red Lake $1,163; and Bemidji $693. These figures include all money—state, local, and federal.

Mr. Hamerlinck was also asked about the taxes collected here compared to other communities in our area. On a $16,000 house here we would be paying $315 compared to Warroad $471, Red Lake Falls $474, Roseau $417 and Crookston $446.

Mr. Hamerlinck was also asked about the qualifications for teacher aides in our schools. The answer given was that we really have two types—teaching aide and a teacher's aide and that each are hired on their own merit and that type of position we need filled at the time.

In answer to a question about computer programming costs for report cards and student scheduling it was placed at $11,000 or $12,000 a year but that computerized report cards would be discontinued.

The Teacher Negotiation Council made a few corrections in the school calendar for 1971-72 and pointed out a few mistakes as to the starting and completion date for the next school year and submitted the attached proposal. Superintendent Johnson pointed out that on the school board proposal we would no longer pay for the MEA days in October.

At this time the school board called a 15 minute caucus to study this new proposal.

Upon returning, the School Board held a discussion in regards to extra curricular pay and sick leave. The school board rejected the increase. We find that we are now highest in our district so an increase would not be justified.

The next meeting was set for [illegible] to 8:00 p.m. in the High School.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

Signed: Kenneth Murphy, Clerk
Approved: Mervin Presteback, Chairman

Superintendent's Report
February 22, 1971

1. On Wednesday, February 17th, the superintendent met with the architect that designed the Franklin-Mark Twin building complex. It was learned that this complex can handle the equivalent of twenty-two classrooms without over-taxing the present heating system. Arrangements were made at this meeting to have Mr. Hamel of Hamel, Green and Abrahamson meet with the Board of Education at its next regular meeting on March 8, 1971. This meeting should cover the possibilities of building expansion, a master plan of building additions and whether or not the architect will agree to drawing plans on the basis the board may want them submitted, in parts and without supervision on the smaller projects.

2. It appears that the Board of Education must make a decision relative to the plan to follow in developing next year's school program and budget. Should the district confine itself to rental property for a year? Should the district enter a limited building program by adding to the North end of Mark Twain or should the district confine itself to portable units until such time it is sure of a future building program and-or adopting a lengthened school year.

3. Building addition to the North end of Mark Twain—As the superintendent sees this possibility it would enable the district to furnish six classrooms by adding a seventy five foot addition to the North end of Mark Twain. Regardless of the avenue the district might choose to follow later the rooms would meet utility requirements and would at the same time meet current needs.

4. The superintendent spoke at the local Rotary meeting this noon. Many of the group showed great interest in the 45-15 plan of an extended school year. Possibly the Board should give serious consideration to adopting such a plan for the school year 1972-73.

5. New Teacher Contract for a full time substitute—Northrop School, Grade 5. (Mr. Lawrence Feering was called to active duty with the Minnesota National Guard.) New Teacher—Peter Steen, B.A., Augsburg College, B.S., Bemidji State College. Home—Minneapolis.

6. Teacher Resignation—Marlys Hauschultz, teacher of the fourth grade, Washington Elementary School. Resignation to be effective on February 23, 1971, or as soon thereafter as possible.

7. Shall the District maintain its present [illegible] schedule for the school year 1971-72? Should all secondary schools return to the traditional type of scheduling? There is a difference of cost that could vary from $30,000 to $50,000 if the traditional plan were placed into operation.

8. See attached rental proposal given my office today by the city council. The board's approval or disapproval should be returned to the city office for tomorrow's council meeting.

9. See attached information sheet used for basis of discussion held between the teachers' negotiating council and members of the board of education last Saturday.

February 22, 1971

In regard to the proposal that you, the Board of Education for Independent School District 564, feel you are unable to "accept standardization of performance, equalization of teacher loads, and promotion of a single salary schedule based upon training and experience," we would like to make the following recommendation.

In order for School District 564 to provide the most effective education for each child, we recommend a committee consisting of a representative of the school board, the administration, the community, and a teacher representative from each school building to study the techniques of job analysis and accountability, as a possible means to study the utilization of instructional personnel.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to Dr. Davidson and Dr. Bray and the nurses at Northwestern hospital for the wonderful care while at the hospital. Thanks also to Rev. Stoffel and Rev. Berger and the many friends who visited, sent flowers and cards. Ole J. Ness. 1t17p

Card of Thanks

Thank you to everyone for all the thoughtfulness and kindness showered on the persons involved with the fire at Blom's Boarding home in Middle River.

There are so many that helped that we couldn't begin to mention everyone, but we would like to say a special thank you to the fire departments of Middle River and Newfolden for coming to our rescue, to the First Lutheran church for shelter and to the ladies of the church for providing our supper. Also to Bruce Pharmacy who came up with a "portable drug store" and took care of our pharmaceutical needs and to our regular employees, Florence Peterson, Carol Ness, and Mary Jane Harris who were there helping to the very limit.

Thank you everyone and may God bless you for it.

The Blom's 1t17c

The day God called you home.

Sadly missed by Merrill, Arlyne Skoglund and family, Roseau, Minn., and Mrs. Frieda Wilkens and all his family. 1t17p

Bonspiel Starts Tues. At NSJC

Eight teams have signed up to play in the Northland junior college intramural curling bonspiel. Competition starts Tuesday, March 2, at 4:15 p.m. at the local curling rink. Spawning Area Will Be Started Near Brainerd

A $600 donation from the Crow Wing county Conservation Club to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will be used to create a managed northern pike spawning site near Brainerd.

The spawning area will be located on Whiskey Creek which flows into the Mississippi River. Presently, fish swim up into the creek from the river seeking a place to spawn but often find unfavorable water conditions.

Game and Fish Director Mike Casey thanked the Club and its president Lee Chenberg of Brainerd.

He said the contribution would be used to help finance a $5,000 project involving a new water control structure, dike, channel and culvert.

MOORHEAD GOALIE Dave Morinville was struck by a hard slap shot off a stick of one of the Prowlers during Friday night's first round 10-1 Prowler win over the Spuds. Group Opposes Ban On Spearing From Darkhouse

A bill is in the process of being written for the purpose of introduction to the state legislature to outlaw darkhouse spearing, states D. B. Jones of Bagley. "Our main form of winter recreation will be jeopardized by an organization whose interests conflict with ours in this situation only," he writes.

"Hearings will be held before the legislative committee on natural resources. There the bill's sponsor will attempt again to portray spear fishermen as poor sportsmen who are destroying the natural resources of the state. The last time a similar bill was brought before the committee it was kept from legislative consideration by a margin of 13 to 11.

"If you are one who considers darkhouse spearing to be a major winter recreation that does not deplete natural resources, may we suggest you contact your legislators and request serious attention be given our side of the issue," he suggests.

"If at all possible be at the hearing to present our side of the issue or arrange to have a delegate from your area present."

EGF Scorers Top Big 5 Conference

Dale Hanson and Randa Smith, a pair of high scoring Prowlers, each carry a 17.4 scoring average in Big Five Conference action with 87 points in five games. The pair stand tied for fifth place in the scoring department with Bob Menzhuber of Crookston also carrying a 17.4 mark through seven games.

Kurt Knoff still leads the scoring parade with his 24-point average through three games while teammate Don Johnson has the most points in the league, 127, for a 21.1 average in seven games.

Gary Hanson of Climax is the third leading scorer with an 18.5 average, just ahead of "East Side's" Mark Syrstad's 19.1 clip.

Prowler guard Mike Hamerlinck stands second in the free throw shooting department with a .730 shooting per centage. Hamerlinck has connected on 12 of 19 shots from the gift line in five conference games. Jamie Tronnes of Climax leads the league with an .832 per cent on 15 of 18 free throws.

Rande Smith leads the league in rebounding with an average of 15.8 caroms per contest while Dale Hanson stands fifth in that department with an average of 9.8 rebounds per game.

But University of North Dakota has three basketball coaches with the same initials—D. G. They're head coach Dave Gunther, assistant coach Dennis Glenger and junior varsity coach Dave Godferad.

Activities Planned For Girl Scout Anniversary

Scout troops of Thief River Falls will celebrate Girl Scout Week, March 6-13, with a variety of activities, according to Mrs. Larry Kron, neighborhood chairman.

Arrangements made by Northrop scout troop leaders include service at area churches, window displays and daily appearances on cable television. An anniversary tea, honoring past leaders and other workers and celebrating the 60 years of scouting in TRF, will be the final event.

Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior troops will have their displays of scout activities in 19 store windows beginning Saturday. Displays will be judged Tuesday and troops will compete for the $5, $3 and $2 awards.

The J.C. Penney window will be used by the neighborhood leaders for the anniversary window. Included will be a huge cake and early uniforms of leaders and scouts. Pictures, scrapbooks and various publications will remind all of the girl scout activities, both past and present. The Children's Toggery will feature uniforms and equipment, and the library case will have a display of various books and magazines used in scouting, as well as photographs of Thief River Falls activities.

On Girl Scout Sunday, Junior scouts will usher and assist in other ways at the churches. Monday morning Mrs. Gunder Legvold will open the week of radio and cable programs by discussing scouting of the past with Mrs. Donald L. Olson. On Tuesday the 18 Brownies of Mrs. Tom Gustafson's troop 159 will sing their fun songs. The girls are third graders from Knox elementary school.

Wednesday Jodi Torkelson and Gayle Peterson, Cadettes of Troop 158 led by Mrs. Delwin Schob Sr., will discuss the Cadette program, the challenges and the badge work. Representatives of Mrs. Florian Kritz' Troop 113 from Knox school will describe the outdoor activities of Junior scouts and camping skills on Thursday.

Senior Scouts of Troop 84, advised by Mrs. Donald Olson, will discuss the senior scout program on Friday.

Culmination of scout week activities will be the anniversary tea, sponsored by present leaders, to honor those who built scouting in Thief River Falls during the past 50 years. It will be from 2 until 4 p.m., Friday, March 12, at the area vocational-technical school on highway 2, east. Due to the large number of volunteers who served in the girl scouting program, no invitations are being sent, but leaders hope all who worked to make scouting a success will attend the tea. Representatives of the Pine to Prairie council will also attend.

Diamond Jubilee Committee Has Meeting Tuesday

Members of the Thief River Falls Diamond Jubilee steering committee met Tuesday evening at the basement meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse to hear a presentation by professional consultants interested in helping to conduct the 75th anniversary observance.

Following the presentation, questions by members of the steering committee and a lengthy discussion among committee members, a large majority voted in opposition to retaining professional organizers. The opinion was expressed that initial plans had been progressing well and that sufficient local talent is available and willing to bring the observance to a successful conclusion.

The consultants outlined their program and services and presented a proposed budget for the event. They said they would begin organization for the jubilee immediately and would be in the city two days every two weeks to meet with local people. Proposals were presented for selling miscellaneous items, holding several contests and officiating at various events. Contract for the services was set at $8,200.

Initial plans for the event were reviewed by the committee with recent developments presented in reports. Actual days of the celebration will be September 16, 17, 18 and 19, since actual date of incorporation of the city of Thief River Falls was on Sept. 15, 1896. William LaFave, general chairman, outlined events scheduled for each of the four days and told of progress already made by the committees.

Planned for the Diamond Jubilee are threshing and sawmill demonstrations, antique car show, style show, commercial displays, open houses, entertainment programs, parade, religious services, sale of souvenir plates, coins and historical books, banquets, recognition of pioneers, dances, visiting dignitaries, fly-in breakfast and a number of other items.

Further details will be announced as plans progress and events are scheduled on the program.

Board Offers $150 Annual Increase To TRF Teachers

"We are now at the eleventh hour in negotiations. Let us, both groups, settle down and zero in on a program of finance that all can live with. It is evident that both have pre-constructed proposals. Therefore, we should start the bargaining process in earnest by 'trading dollars', until the proposals are at least nearly congruent so that this phase of 'meeting and conferring' can be brought to a successful end for both parties."

This was part of the statement presented for the Thief River Falls board of education by Mervin Prestebak, chairman, at the negotiating session held Monday at 5 p.m. in Lincoln senior high school. Next meeting has been set for Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Lincoln building.

"Therefore, we are herewith submitting this proposal as an opener. Reactions will be mixed, but certainly the track is now clear for both of us to push ahead with new proposals."

The board's proposal was for an increase of $150 above the annual contract for 1970-71 for all teachers except those with bachelor degrees and at the maximum experience step in their respective lanes. Teachers on extended contract (in excess of 185 days) would have the base increment prorated. Teachers with master's degrees and on the maximum experience step in their lanes would receive the increment.

In addition, the board offered up to $30 per month credit toward full hospitalization with family or single policy as applicable, with married teachers to receive family coverage whether or not head of household.

Sick leave was offered at 12 days per year with four of these available for illness or death in the family or personal emergency. Sick leave would be accumulative to 130 days. For teachers with 200-day contracts, 13 days of sick leave per year would be accumulative to 140 days. Those on 220-day contract would have 14 days accumulative to 150 days, while those on 240-day contract would have 15 days accumulative to 160 days.

Personal leave would be permitted at one day per year upon gaining tenure. Extra-curricular pay was to remain unchanged from the past year and summer school teaching salaries were to be prorated at two-thirds salary as adopted for the 1970-71 school year.

In his opening statements, Prestebak said that the total cost of the last faculty plan had been calculated at $236,836 above the 1970-71 figure or 12.7 per cent over salaries paid to Thief River Falls teachers for the current school year.

"The proposal is an excellent index system and would indeed provide an estimable level of income for each and every teacher," he said. "Unfortunately the cost of this overture is still out of reach for the school district since such an expenditure cannot be recommended to an already over-burdened taxpaying public."

Faculty Counter Proposal

Following a caucus to review the board's presentation, the teachers' negotiating council

Michigan Men Travel Here By Snowmobile

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"We're real anxious to look at a map and find out how we got here," commented Dick Alward, one of four Michigan men to arrive in Thief River Falls early this week after an 11-day snowmobile trip which covered more than 1,000 miles.

The four neighboring farmers from the Breckenridge, Mich., area left their home territory on February 18, headed west for Thief River Falls—the origin of their four Arctic Cat snowmobiles. Their major problem, believe it or not, was too much snow.

Loren Humm, Dean Giles, Rod Marr and Alward agreed that the toughest travel they ever had was a stretch of about 175 miles of deep snow in Michigan's upper peninsula. They managed 20 to 25 miles per day in the heavy going, trying to travel at night or in the early morning when the snow was hard enough to hold up the weight of the machines.

"At Ironwood (Mich.) they had 228 inches of snow this year," Giles said, "and when you bogged down, you really bogged down. The snow was up to your armpits and it took a real effort to even move."

While crossing a river in Michigan, Alward's machine broke through the ice just as it reached the bank. He scrambled to shore while the back end of the snowmobile settled into the river. Deep snow on the river bank made it extremely difficult to maneuver the other machines into position to pull the distressed sled out of the river.

"The only way we could move when off the machines was to roll over and over in the snow," Alward said. "Finally, I jumped in behind the machine and pushed and lifted so we could get it pulled out. For awhile, though, I thought we were going to have to leave it right where it was."

After the dip in the river to free his machine, Alward had to make an immediate clothes change—"while they would still bend". That incident, and one burned out bearing which they replaced themselves, was the only real trouble they experienced on the trip.

"We don't have much snow right in our area," Marr commented. "We live in farm country and raise corn, soybeans and sugar beets for cash crops. In fact, when we started out we hit rain and sleet and it was really too warm for the machines. Our best day was 175 miles and some nights we made 60 to 70 miles."

Each machine carried an extra five-gallon can of gasoline on a platform mounted behind the

Barbara Olson-Bruce Wold Vows Spoken At Alvarado

Arrangements of orange roses and yellow mums graced the [illegible] Lutheran church, Alvarado, for the wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Olson and Bruce Wayne Wold.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Olson of Alvarado and Mr. and Mrs. Ingvold Wold of this city.

Rev. Dale Peterson officiated at the double ring ceremony which took place December 12 at 2 p.m. Miss Paulette Olson, a cousin of the bride, was the organist. She played "The Bridal Chorus" for the processional and also accompanied Mrs. Ronald Wold, sister-in-law of the groom, as she sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. On either side of the aisle the pews were marked with yellow bows.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of off-white bridal satin designed in princess style with lace trim accenting the front of the skirt. Matching trim edged the high neckline and full-length sleeves of the empire fashioned bodice. Her tiered, bouffant veil was held by a crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a bouquet of orange roses and yellow mums, accented by a gold sweetheart pin, a gift from the groom.

Miss Carol Olson of Minneapolis attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Hanson of Erskine, a friend of the bride and Miss Lonn Johnson of Grand Forks, N.D., cousin of the bride. All wore similar attire featuring floor-length hostess skirts of green brocade topped by gold blouses. All the attendants wore a sprig of gold holly in their hair and each carried an arrangement of yellow mums, and orange roses accented by autumn colored oak foliage and green satin streamers. Their gold necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Ronald Wold of Sunnyvale, Calif. Groomsmen were Virgil Olson of Alvarado, brother of the bride, and Phil Wold of San Diego, Calif., brother of the groom. The guests were seated by Robert Olson of Moorhead and Peter Wold of Thief River Falls, brothers of the bride and groom, respectively. The men of the wedding party selected black tuxedos with black bow ties as their attire. The groom's boutonniere was an orange rose while the other men of the wedding party had yellow roses pinned on their lapels.

The mother of the bride was attired in a brown sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of orange roses and yellow mums. A similar corsage was worn by the mother of the groom who wore a blue two-piece ensemble with coordinating accessories.

Mrs. Hildeborg Olson, grandmother of the bride, attended the wedding as special guest.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Terry Beaudry as reception host and hostess. Mrs. Edward Walseth, a friend of the couple, presided at the guest book as Miss Debra Olson, cousin of the bride, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake. Between the ornate, pillared tiers were white doves and miniature angels playing harps. Orange flowers graced each tier and marking the corners of the bottom tier were clusters of matching flowers. Topping the cake was a golden Christogram. Mrs. Richard Nelson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Grace Ulrich, sister of the groom, cut and served the cake as Mrs. Helmer Pearson and Mrs. Lewis Hill, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, poured.

Waitresses were Lila Torgerson, Dawn Moen, Jeanne Kollin and Jody Kollin. At the gift table were Roberta Hanson and Twylla Torgerson.

Out-of-town relatives and friends attending were from Sunnyvale and San Diego, Calif.; Middle River, Thief River Falls and Twin Valley.

For traveling on a wedding trip to North Dakota, the bride wore a red dress complemented by black accessories and a yellow mum corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

The newly-weds are now at home in this city at 611 North Duluth. The bride is a graduate of the Alvarado high school and Northland State junior college. She is employed by Ace Hardware. The groom is employed by Ev's Red Owl. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school. Photo, Neal Fox Studio.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Wilson. President Mrs. J. C. Lendobeja presided and commended the committee for the new program booklets. Roll call was answered by giving a favorite variety of strawberry or raspberry. During the business session, members of the club voted to give a donation to the Don Hoog Memorial fund for Bonanza village at West Fargo.

Several reports were also given of the garden club seminar held at Crookston on February 23. Those attending the seminar were Mrs. Alvin Burstad, Mrs. Archie Wilson, Mrs. Wallace Tiemen, Mrs. J. C. Lendobeja and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja.

To complete their attire, they wore a band of daisies in their hair and each carried a colorful bouquet of daisies and blue strawflowers.

Serving the bride as her personal attendant was Mrs. Caroline Pittman, a friend.

Darryl Weigel of Thief River Falls was best man. Groomsmen were Alan Gehrls and Culver Kisch, both of Thief River Falls. All are friends of the groom. For the wedding, the groom and his attendants wore black tuxedos with black bow ties and blue-tipped carnation boutonnieres.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Highlighting the serving table was a five-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and trimmed with blue. Topping the cake were miniature white doves surrounded by flowers.

Relatives and friends of the bride assisted with the reception. Mrs. Geri Braatlien, a cousin, cut and served the wedding cake as Mrs. Anne Schumacher, a friend, poured. Serving the punch were Mrs. Janice Christiansen, a cousin, and Mrs. Helen Wohlrabe, an aunt. Mrs. Betty Daniels, a sister, presided at the guest book, while another sister, Mrs. Doris Massey, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Janice Schauls, opened and arranged the gifts.

The newly-weds will make their home in this city. The groom is employed by the Thief River Falls Municipal Liquor store.

Legion Auxiliary Selects Two Girl State Delegates

Delegates and alternates for Girls State were selected at the Thief River Falls American Legion auxiliary meeting held Monday evening at the Legion club rooms. Also included on the agenda was the endorsement of a local woman, Mrs. James Cuppett, as candidate for first vice president of the Ninth District. Allocations of proceeds from the recent home talent show were also made.

As in the past, girls selected to attend Girls State will represent both Lincoln high school and the Goodridge high school. Chosen as delegate from Lincoln was Brenda Burger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Burger of Thief River Falls. Selected as her alternate was Alice J. Sorenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorenson of Grygla. Sharon Verbout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Verbout of Grygla was chosen as the Goodridge high school representative. Alternate selected was Valerie Wiseth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiseth of Goodridge.

Mrs. L. P. Winter, unit chairman, stated that the delegates or their alternates will attend Girls State in June at St. Catherine's college. There they will study the democratic form of government, electing city, county and state officers who will preside at their sessions. Featured speakers on Americanism and good government will be state officers. Included will be the Justice of the Minnesota Supreme court who will administer the oath of office for the girl elected to serve as Girl State governor. The girls will spend a day at the state capitol where they will be greeted by the governor and will hold sessions. Mrs. Winter stated that in addition to learning the importance of participating in the workings of the government, such as campaigns and elections, they will also visit historical sites in the area.

Endorsement of Mrs. Cuppett as candidate for the first vice president of the Ninth District was unanimously approved by the unit. Election will be held at the district meeting in Warren on June 5.

In allocating the proceeds from the Hometown Hee Ho talent show, which was held during American Legion hospital week, $50 was donated to the Lyle Mikkelson scholarship fund, $200 to the auxiliary's Northland Junior college scholarship fund, and $240 to the American Legion hospital association.

It was noted that American Legion hospital week, observed annually, was established to help raise additional funds for needy veterans and their dependents in need of specialized medical care. When instituted, only the Rochester medical center was included in the plan. It has now been expanded to include specific hospitals in Duluth, Fargo, N.D., Moorhead and the University of Minnesota. Arrangements for this aid must be made through the veteran's service officer. Serving as Thief River Falls service officer is M. R. Leverson. Since its inception, the association has assisted 6,094 patients at a cost of over $1,000,000.

Plans were also made for the Legion birthday and Past Commanders and Past Presidents dinner set for March 30, at the Legion club rooms. Guest speaker at the event will be the Ninth District commander Francis Chisholm of Gary.

The meeting concluded with a film and report by Robert L. Phillips, research biologist at the Agassiz National refuge, featuring the habits and activities of the moose.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Art Dicken and Mrs. Barry Fellman.

Board Offers $150 Increase To Teachers

returned to ask questions, make several statements and offer a counter proposal.

The counter proposal called for a BA base salary of $7,300 increasing to $11,[illegible]50 after 12 years of experience. Minimum and maximum salaries in the other lanes included: $7,800 to $11,800 for BA plus 15, $7,900 to $12,400 for BA plus 30, $8,200 to $13,400 for BA plus 45, $8,600 to $13,800 for MA, $8,900 to $14,300 for MA plus 15, and $9,200 to $14,600 for MA plus 30.

According to figures presented by the teachers' council, total faculty salaries under the proposal would be $1,986,800. The previous offer had been estimated at $2,013,440. Budgeted for the current 1970-71 school year is $1,745,329.

Under the council's proposal, extra-curricular pay would be based on a percentage of the $7,300 proposed base salary.

Council's Statement

Vern Isaacson, chairman of the negotiating council, presented the following statement to the board before offering the counter proposal mentioned above. It is printed in its entirety.

Gentlemen:

The "cost" or increase of our proposal is constantly being brought up. There are certain items that have not been mentioned that would shed a light on the actual cost.

(a) Not every teacher will move up one step. This year 28 inexperienced teachers were brought in to replace teachers who retired, moved, or left teaching. If this is again the case, it will affect the total cost by a considerable amount.

(b) Certain persons on our staff—for example the vocational school, home economics, agriculture, RIC,—have salaries that are partially or almost entirely paid for by the state government, federal government, or both.

Much has been said about the community's "willingness to pay"—not its capacity to pay. The taxpayers association reported to you on February 22, 1971, that they "are not opposed to paying tax dollars to operate a good school system, nor are we opposed to paying good salaries".

The February 22, 1971, issue of the Times in its editorial went on record with the following and I quote:

> "State law says that teachers' councils and school boards must bargain in good faith. That directive is not merely a suggestion or a guide line, it is the law. Anyone who advocates "holding the line" by insisting that the board of education hold to its initial offer is asking his elected officials to knowingly and deliberately violate the law."

With this in mind, let's summarize our meetings to date:

Our proposals:

(1) Initial proposal—realistic—rewarding experience and education. $7,500.00 starting—approximately a cost of living—far below the 15 per cent recommended by the MEA.

(2) Our second proposal—
a. $40,000.00 cut in salaries
b. and other suggested cuts.

(3) Our third proposal—
a. $14,000 cut in base salaries
b. estimated $3,000 cut in extended contracts and extra-curricular pay
c. $48,000 cut in additional personnel
d. a change in income protection—amounting to approximately $7,000
e. total—$73,000

Our number one objective is the best possible education for each child.

We have several questions concerning this objective.

Ask yourselves gentlemen:

(1) Does a competitive salary schedule attract a more competent and highly trained person into education and into Thief River Falls?

(2) Do highly trained and competent individuals train students to become highly trained and competent adults?

(3) Is the "best" possible education our goal in Thief River Falls?

We feel it is gentlemen, and hope you feel the same.

Michigan Men Travel To TRF By Snowmobile

seat. The men carried what clothing, parts and supplies they thought they would need with them on the snowmobiles. They had no support vehicle to travel with them and pulled no sleds.

All of the snowmobiles were Arctic Cat Panthers, purchased from the same dealer in their area. Two were 1971 models, one was a 1970 and one was a 1969 machine. While here they toured the Arctic manufacturing plant, test area and Arctco Distributors.

Last year the men made a 289-mile one-way trip by snowmobile to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and enjoyed the travel. This year they decided it would be fun to take a trip to the place where their machines were made. They skirted larger cities, received assistance from snowmobile club members who guided them along parts of the way, slipped into the edge of towns to purchase gasoline and stay at motels. Frequently they didn't know where snowmobile club members were leading them.

Dean's wife Sondra and Loren's sister Karen arrived in Thief River Falls Monday with a car and four-place snowmobile trailer to return the machines to Michigan. Rod and Dick planned to take a plane home while the Giles and Humms traveled by car.

"You might say I'd appreciate it if people would tie up their dogs," Marr quipped. "When you're riding a snowmobile at night in unfamiliar territory on soft snow, those German Shepherds can look you right in the eye!"

Where are the men going to travel next year? Right now they plan to stay home. The urge to travel has been quenched for awhile.

But wait 'til next year.

Mrs. W. Anderson To Chair Drive For Retarded

The state's first lady, Mrs. Wendell Anderson, will serve as chairman of this year's Minnesota Association for Retarded Children membership drive, a state-wide project held throughout the month of March.

In accepting the honorary position Mrs. Anderson said, "The goals of the association are community responsibilities and require community understanding and action. A large and well-informed membership will help our mentally retarded citizens enjoy the basic human rights so many of us take for granted."

Theme of the drive is "We Need You Now." Mrs. William Woehrlin, president of the Minnesota ARC said, "This theme was selected to point out the fact the mentally retarded need you, and me, and all of us to help them live more normal lives within their communities."

The 80 county chapters of the Minnesota ARC work to start day activity centers, sheltered workshops, job training, residential facilities and special education classes as well as a network of specialized services such as regional centers for diagnosis, evaluation and treatment of mentally retarded persons.

At present, there are in Minnesota approximately 114,000 people who are mentally retarded. Serving them are 91 day activity centers, 21 sheltered workshops, 37 residential facilities, seven state institutions, six resident summer camps and special education classes for both trainable and educable retarded children in most school districts. It is estimated that some 59 per cent of our retarded persons need services not available to them.

Membership in the Minnesota ARC now numbers 9,600. General goals of the association are to help all retarded people in the state enjoy their citizenship to the fullest of their abilities and to help families of retarded persons.

Ice-Bound Adventure

Ice In July Is No Joke For Canoeists

Part V

(This episode continues the diary of Hilary Stoltman of Thief River Falls as his party continues its canoe trip in the wilds of Canada. Unpredictable nature plays an important role in this part of the trip.)

July 22—The wind was from the east again so that meant one more day of waiting. Had caribou steak for dinner. Very good, much more like beef than anything wild I have ever tasted. At 2 p.m. we were all thinking the same thing—will we ever get out? We decided to start a long portage east. Made two miles by 7 p.m. as everyone had to make three trips. We portage 300 to 400 yards and go light for another load. Have nine miles more to portage if the wind gives us a break. The temperature is high 65, and low 40.

July 23—The wind was still from the east today, so after a light breakfast, we started to portage and line the canoe over the ice and open water. Started at 9 a.m. and finished at 8:30 p.m. Duane's feet were giving out. Elner looked as bushed as he ever had. Bob is starting to conserve our food supplies, in doing so we have 10 days of food left.

If things go right, we should be at journey's end in four days; if not, then it's anybody's guess as to how long we will be here.

We saw four sound hill cranes today, also a baby's grave on a hill. It also was wrapped in a caribou skin and placed in a small box with a big rock on it to hold it in place. Picked up a few more artifacts. Saw many caribou skulls and bones scattered all over this area. The early American West prairies must have looked this way years ago.

July 24—Today the crew was paddling another 45 minutes and came around a point and guess what, ice packs again! We had made 10 miles so it all will help. All we need is a north wind, and from here we would make at least 35 or 40 miles per day, which would put us on the Thelon river again, and from there we can make it to Baker in one day.

The wind has been blowing from the east for five days now so it should turn soon. At 3 p.m., we portaged across a point and entered a bay off the main lake as Bob and I had scouted the lake here and it appeared to be open water west of here. There was a thick fog all day so we had portaged, hoping that the open water would last. Had gone just a half a mile and came to ice again so that was to be our camp for the time being.

Had trout for supper. Must have eaten three pounds of it myself. At 8 p.m. Bob and Elner went over to the point we had just portaged earlier as the people from the Wildlife Service had pulled in with their 22 foot freighter canoe and that was as far as they could get. Bob was going to get fuel and food if they had some to spare.

Of the two, fuel is the most important as there were many trout in this bay we're camped on. But Bob came back and reported that they were also short of both as they had used too much fuel zig-zagging all over the lake to get this far.

At 8 p.m., Duane and I went fishing in the bay with my canoe and I've never seen trout fishing like that in my life. The first five casts, and we had five trout. All together we must have got 50 trout or so averaging about six pounds each. Caught four that weighed at least 15 pounds. Was using 10-pound spinning line so it was a battle with all of them.

July 25—This morning, still blowing from east. The C.W.S. men moved their camp to join us as they had found a lead out for their big canoe. In the afternoon, Bob, Wayne, (C.W.S. man) and myself took the 18 foot canoe and went on a scouting trip east to see how bad the ice is there, as if possible we would portage overland to open water. But the ice proved to be all over.

One interesting thing that Wayne told us, was that the rocks piled four feet high, one rock on another, were called cairns. The Eskimos place them in many places where the caribou have favorite crossings so finally the animals get used to seeing them and will walk right up to a man sitting with a rifle on a hill.

We have seen hundreds of these cairns so far. I myself had a band of animals come within 20 yards of me while standing still upon seeing them coming my way. Of course, the wind has to be in your favor, as if they scent you, off they go.

We gathered some firewood by looking in a bay a mile away. For supper, the seven men each ate two pounds of fish cooked over an open fire, which we haven't done for a week as there aren't any trees at all and in most places, no driftwood at all. Both crews of us brought our own gas stoves, but they are much slower to cook over.

Next Week: Illness In Camp

FABULOUS FISHING for lake trout was encountered by the Stoltman canoe party as evidenced by the 15 pound plus fish above. The conditions were not the most comfortable, however, as the party was ice bound and running low on supplies. Fish became a regular bill of fare at camp. —Photo Courtesy Bob O'Hara

PILES OF ROCKS, known as cairns, were seen by the hundreds by the Stoltman canoe party. Eskimos had placed the cairns in a number of locations frequently used by caribou and the animals became accustomed to seeing them in the bleak landscape. Unafraid of the rock piles, they would approach a lone hunter crouching motionless with a rifle, thus giving the Eskimo an opportunity to shoot. Photo Courtesy Bob O'Hara

Ask Agriculture Inspectors For Identification

Insist on seeing proper credentials before allowing an alleged state agriculture inspector to check merchandise on your premises, Minnesota Agricultural Commissioner Jon Wefald warned businessmen and farmers today.

He said that Dr. Rollin M. Dennistoun, administrator for the Minnesota department of agriculture's plant and environmental concerns programs, reported a sharp increase in recent "misrepresentation complaints" against persons who attempted to pass themselves as official state inspectors.

State inspectors carry proper credentials, co-signed by themselves and by the commissioner of agriculture. Legitimate inspectors will be happy to show their official credentials and properly explain their mission on request, the department spokesman emphasized.

Commissioner Wefald added that many state inspectors also are accredited federal inspectors and carry proper credentials for the U.S. department of agriculture or the food and drug administration.

He declined to speculate on the reason for the apparent new rash of pretenders to the title of agricultural inspector.

Cross-Country Race Canceled

Due to a lack of snow at the present time and uncertain weather conditions, the triangle dura-skill race promoted by Mrs. Louis Carpenter has been canceled for this year. The cross-country race had been scheduled for March 6 and 7.

Rainy River JC Will Host First JC Puck Tourney

Rainy River state junior college, International Falls, will be hosting the first State Junior College Hockey Tournament at the Bronco Arena, March 19 and 20, 1971. Coach George Schlieff comments that the local college has been among the pioneers of Minnesota state junior college hockey and therefore it is fitting that the first state tournament be hosted by the Rainy River Voyageurs.

The first game of the tourney will be 6:00 p.m., Friday, March 19. As the conference champions, Rainy River squares off against fourth place Northland. Lakewood will face Itasca in a 9:00 game.

The losers of these two games will meet in a consolation contest on Saturday, March 20 at 6:00 p.m. The winners will compete for the tournament championship at 9:00 p.m. on the same night.

Muzzy Tackles Foley Opponent In State Mat Tourney

Senior wrestling captain Jerry Muzzy will represent Thief River Falls in the Minnesota state high school wrestling tournament beginning tomorrow (Thursday) in Williams arena on the University of Minnesota campus, Minneapolis.

Muzzy swept through District 31 and Region Eight to claim the 133 pound title and advance to the state meet where he will compete with 191 other wrestlers for the twelve individual titles.

Muzzy will meet second seeded Al Bauerly of Foley in his first round match Thursday evening. Bauerly lost to Minnetonka's Dave McKay in the finals of the strong region five meet.

Crookston's Murray Tiedeman is the only other district 31 wrestler competing in the state tournament.

The second round of action will be held Friday at 1 p.m. and the semi-finals will take place Friday night at 7:00. The championship matches will be held at 12 noon, Saturday, March 6.

Muzzy will be accompanied to the cities by wrestling coach Ed Krystosek and assistant coach Kent Johnson.

Four defending champions will return to the state tourney. Tom Jean of Albert Lea, who claimed the 165 pound title last year, won the region one championship again to help Albert Lea to the team title in region one.

Another returnee from region one will be Mark Lange of Caledonia. Lange won at 138 last year to boost Caledonia to the state team title. He returns as the runner-up at 145 after losing to Larry Goodnature of Albert Lea in the championship region match.

Hopkins Lindbergh's Larry Zilverberg, who won the state at 133, will return as the region five champion in the 138 pound class.

Brad Rheingans of Appleton is the fourth returnee. He won his second straight region three 175 pound title this year.

Winners in the regional tournaments held last week in Minnesota were: region one, Albert Lea; region three, Canby; region four, Fridley; region five, Minnetonka; region six, Staples; region seven, Grand Rapids; and region eight, Bemidji. The region two tournament was rescheduled because of bad weather.

Staples, with an 80-42 bulge over Moorhead, scored the most convincing region victory while Grand Rapids and Forest Lake were the only teams with more than 100 points. Both wrestle in region seven.

Tournament buttons are now on sale at $2.00 at the college Bookstore and at Riley's Sporting Goods. The buttons will be admittance to all tourney games. Individual game tickets will be on sale at the arena: $1.50 adults, 75 cents for children 12 and under.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mrs. Anna Wagner who passed away 1 yr. ago March 4th, 1970.

A precious one from us is gone,
Her voice we loved is stilled,
A chair is vacant in our midst
Which never can be filled.
She had a smile for everyone,
A heart as pure as gold
To those who knew and loved her best,
Her memory will never grow old.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never
The memory of those happy years
When we were all together.

Sadly missed by her husband, Adolph, brother and sisters. 1t18p

WARROAD'S Dave Kvarnlov (12) leads his team on the attack against East Grand Forks in Monday night's region eight semi-final action in the city arena while "East Side's" Bill Mero (0) seems to be the Green Waves main line of defense during this action in the third period. The scoreboard shows Warroad leading in the game, 2-1 with 6:44 remaining in the third period, but the Wave tied the score 1:11 later and knocked in the winning goal with just one minute left in the third period. Another full house is expected tonight when Roseau will meet East Grand Forks for the region eight title with the winner advancing to the state tournament. Game time tonight is 7:30.

Rams Blank TRF 5-0; EGF Stuns Warroad To Reach Region Finals

It'll be the East Grand Forks Green Wave taking on the number one ranked Roseau Rams in the Thief River Falls city arena tonight (Wednesday) for the region eight championship. Roseau made it to the finals by blanking Thief River Falls 5-0 in Monday night's semi-final action while East Grand Forks upset Warroad 4-2 in the second game Monday night.

The two teams will collide at 7:30 tonight with the winner advancing to the state tournament at Met Sports Center on March 11, 12 and 13. The loser will travel to Coleraine to try for the region three title against the runner up of region seven on Saturday, March 6.

Roseau opened the scoring against the Prowlers when Robbie Harris poked in a rebound from in front of the Prowler net with 8:54 remaining in the first period. The Rams were a man short at the time of the goal and they had managed to keep the pressure on the Prowlers while two men short before Kent Langlie stepped back on the ice three seconds before the Rams scored.

Roseau collected its second goal of the first period when Jeff Tangen scored on assists from Bill Lundbohm and Kent Langlie with 5:11 remaining.

The Prowlers came out in the second period and actually outskated the Rams although Roseau led 3-0 going into the final period.

Bill Lundbohm scored the third Roseau goal from close range in front of the Prowler net on an assist from Tangen with 4:33 gone in the second period.

Mike Broten scored twice for the Rams in the final period for the win. The senior wing's first goal was a rebound shot from the right side with 1:52 remaining on assists from Mitch Brandt and Harris. Broten's second third period score came with one minute remaining in the game on assists from Bill Lundbohm and Harris.

Roseau was called for five penalties during the contest while the Prowlers skated the entire game without a whistle against them.

Brian Peterson kicked out 25 Roseau shots in his last game for the Prowlers while the Rams' Tim Delmore came up with 21 saves in his shut-out effort.

Warroad jumped out to a 1-0 lead over East Grand Forks with only 3:41 gone in the first period when Les Sutherland scored from the point with an assist from Alan Hangsleben.

The first period ended with the Warriors leading just 1-0, but only because of the fine goal tending by junior Gordy Hangsleben in the Green Wave nets. Hangsleben was credited with 20 saves for the contest while Warroad's Gordon Landin, starting in the place of injured Jeff Hallet, came up with 17 saves.

Warroad made it 2-0 in the second period when John Taylor put in a rebound while sliding past the net on his stomach with 12:38 remaining. Alan Hangsleben was given an assist on the score for Warroad.

"East Side" was on the scoreboard with 7:10 remaining when Curt Knutson stole the puck away from the Warriors and shot on goal with Mark Hughes putting in the rebound for a 2-1 hockey game.

East Grand Forks got the equalizer on a power play shot from the right side with 5:33 remaining in the third period. Bill Mero scored for the Wave on assists from Lynn Olson and Dale Pesch with 1:09 remaining in a penalty to Warroad's Ed Boucha.

The fans just started thinking of the overtime period when Hughes' centering pass in front of the Warroad net was tipped in by Pesch with just one minute remaining in the game. Lynn Olson was also given an assist on the play. The same three players teamed up for the game's final score into an open net as Warroad kept the pressure on the Green Wave in the final moments before the Waves' shot from long range trickled into the Warroad net.

Cage JV's Club Warren 77-44

Lee Swanson's Prowler junior varsity basketball team received balanced scoring as four players topped the double figure mark to bury Warren 77-44 Saturday, February 27.

Tom Kays led the Prowler Bee's with 16 points while Craig Knutson and Ordean Peterson pumped in 14 points each and Jeff Rhoden added 10.

The JV's forged out to a 24-7 first quarter lead and opened up a 42-18 bulge at the half before rolling to a 60-28 third quarter lead.

The Prowlers will close out their 1970-71 junior varsity schedule Saturday when they travel to Fergus Falls to take on the Otters' B squad in the preliminary game to Whitey Olson's A squad contest.

The Lincoln high school basketball coaches declined to name a Prowler of the Week for the Warren game, instead saying it was a great team effort and they didn't want to slight anyone with a single selection.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 60 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, March 3, 1971 Number 18

Immunization Plan For 1970's Changes

An immunization program for the 1970s, announced by the Minnesota Department of Health, shifts main emphasis to the completion of the primary immunization series during the first two years of a child's life. The recommended interval between the primary series and subsequent boosters is now longer, reflecting the recognition that protective levels of antibodies persist for many years and that too frequent booster doses may be associated with increased frequency and severity of reactions.

The emphasis on completion of primary inoculations or feedings of vaccines before the age of two is based on two important factors, according to D. S. Fleming, M.D., director of the state health department's division of disease prevention and control. The primary series not only protects the child at this critical stage of his life, but is all-important in giving long-term protection against these infections to the general public.

The change in immunization approach points the way for school health programs. In the '70s, the school's role will be to fill in the immunization gaps from pre-school years. This will require concentration on children entering school, according to Dr. Fleming, first to determine accurately what immunizations each child has completed, and then to provide the necessary fill-in immunizations. Widespread booster programs will be of less significance and at longer intervals than in the past.

Concentration of immunization program interest on the child entering school will be of major benefit to community or public health programs. Surveys of the immunization status of kindergarten or first grade pupils will disclose immediately where there are needs for more community development of programs for pre-school child protection.

Recent surveys revealed that the great majority of Minnesota schools already have some form of required health program for those entering school, including some elements of an immunization program. Most of the present programs, however, emphasize booster shots or vaccinations at fairly frequent intervals.

The state health department provides consultative and technical assistance to local and school health authorities in the development of immunization programs. These services include the new immunization schedule (Recommended Schedule of Immunizations and Tuberculin Testing) together with guidelines for conducting an actual immunization program; distribution of vaccines and toxoids; provision of jet injectors, training sessions, and technical assistance in use and maintenance of injectors; development of health education materials, record forms for use in surveys and clinics.

The newly published immunization schedule, approved by the Minnesota State Medical Association, is a combination of the recommendations developed by the American Academy of Pediatrics and the U.S. Public Health Service Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

Effective immunization agents have been developed and applied against many communicable diseases in the last half-century. Eight of the most significant diseases are smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough), poliomyelitis, measles, rubella (German measles), and mumps. These infections, formerly responsible for countless deaths and disabilities, particularly among children, have now been nearly eradicated.

The endless effort by health personnel against communicable diseases has included every conceivable method of application of the vaccine and toxoids. Most recent programs have been the statewide use of live virus vaccines on an intensive "crash" basis to eliminate polio, measles, and rubella. Those initial battles have been won; now the immunization program must seek to prevent and control diseases.

Consumption Of Lamb Chops Is Lowest In Years

Consumers should enjoy lamb chops more often now to be able to enjoy them in the future, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald -- suggested today, reporting a 15 per cent reduction in the number of sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter in Minnesota.

He said the 111,000 sheep and lambs now on feed is the smallest number for Minnesota in 40 years, and less than one-third the record 350,000 in 1935.

Minnesota's cutback reflects a national trend, combatting the continuing decline in prices farmers receive for market lambs, the slipping per capita consumption of mutton.

"Perhaps for the sake of economies and good nutrition, we should get mutton chops off the face and back onto the dinner plates," Commissioner Wefald suggested. He noted that while facial mutton chops are enjoying greatest popularity since the Civil War, consumption of lamb chops has skidded to only 3.4 pounds per capita annually, a pound less than during 1957-59.

A nine per cent national reduction in sheep and lambs on feed helped Minnesota retain its ranking as the nation's ninth largest producer. Colorado, Texas, Iowa, Nebraska, Idaho, South Dakota, Ohio, and California rank ahead of Minnesota, in that order.

Union Agreement Covers Workers In State Agency

Signing of the first union work agreement covering employees in a major state agency was announced today by Paul Goldberg, business representative for the Minnesota State Employees union, Council 6 (AFSCME).

The agreement was negotiated by the 6,000 member AFL-CIO Council 6 with Wallace Hoaglund, commissioner of the state department of public safety, and covers radio communications personnel of the Minnesota highway patrol.

"We are quite pleased with the fact that this is the first agreement of this nature between a union and any state department," Goldberg said. "But, more importantly, we are pleased with the true collective bargaining posture this document lends to our dealings with the department."

The agreement was effective December 31 and covers union recognition, hours of work, vacation, sick leave and overtime procedures, employee transfers, discipline and discharge and related provisions, including a requirement for the employer and the union to "review and discuss" wages, hours and other conditions of employment prior to the biennial salary hearings conducted by the state civil service board.

"While the agreement does not provide for actual bargaining on wages for these employees, because of the current prohibitions in this area for public employees," Goldberg concluded, "it does lay a firm foundation for this step when the legislature passes enabling legislation, as it is almost certain to do."

Commissioner Of Agriculture Is Anti-Pollution

Minnesota department of agriculture, says Commissioner Jon Wefald, stands behind the cleanup of America's total environment. The department has effected a 1969 law—a law regarded nationally as a model in the protection of the environment—that checks the pesticide pollution of our foods and natural resources. The department is now asking the 1971 legislature for the power to further regulate the management and use of all pesticides.

Further, Commissioner Wefald said, "The department applauds the efforts of the pollution control agency to guard Minnesota's natural resources. We agree, for example, that permits should be required for all new feedlots."

But Commissioner Wefald, paraphrasing Winston Churchill, says that he "is not coming to his office to preside over the liquidation of Minnesota agriculture. Agriculture and agribusiness in Minnesota represent 40 per cent of the states GNP—exceeding $5 billion—and employing over 33 per cent of all Minnesota employees."

American farmers are so productive and efficient that American consumers pay only 10.5 cents out of every dollar for food. One Minnesota farmer today feeds 41 other people. For over 100 years, as Orville Freeman put it, the American farmers have been subsidizing the American consumer, not vice versa. "The truth is," Wefald said, "that if agriculture and agribusiness are taken out of Minnesota's economy, Minnesota is reduced overnight to the level of Appalachia."

In short, the Minnesota department of agriculture—in addition to protecting our state's environment—is pledged to providing fair play and equality of opportunity to the Minnesota family farmer.

"With that in mind, the Minnesota department of agriculture," Commissioner Wefald said, "wants to make it clear that some of the proposed regulations of the pollution control agency for livestock feedlots are not only ludicrous but asinine. The Minnesota department of agriculture believes that livestock feedlots should be regulated but not if it means the liquidation of the farming enterprise in Minnesota.

"We believe, for example, that the pollution control agency requirement placing a dike around every poultry house is absurd on its face because the poultry house itself is a containment structure. Further, we believe requiring all vehicles used to transport animal waste on all highways to be covered is total nonsense—if only because there are now no such vehicles in existence.

"In conclusion, the department of agriculture is of the opinion that regulations of this scope cannot be uniformly administered. We recommend, therefore, that the agency become more practical in implementing guidelines and that the agency explore means of providing direct financial assistance to the farmers of Minnesota in the control and regulation of animal waste."

Recreation Vehicles May Be Overloaded

Nearly one-fifth of the recreational vehicles traveling on the highways could be dangerously overloaded, estimates the Tire Industry Safety council.

The council bases its estimate on a study recently conducted by the Wisconsin department of transportation which found 21 per cent of the vehicles it inspected were carrying loads which exceeded the tires' maximum load carrying capacity.

"We feel the figure may have gone much higher if the tires' air pressures had also been checked," said Ross R. Ormsby, chairman of the council. "Because of time limitations, the Wisconsin researchers were not able to take air pressure into account—only gross weight."

For motorists who might be unaware of the serious problems of overloading and underinflating tires, the Wisconsin researchers offer the following advice:

"First, overloading a tire increases tread wear and increases the probability of structural failure at any given speed and life milepost (as measured by miles).

"Second, structural failure, if it occurs under conditions of overloading, will produce exaggerated control problems and more likelihood of a crack-up than a structural failure occurring under acceptable conditions of loading.

"Excessive heat is a tire's worst enemy," says Ormsby. "Its most frequent causes are underinflation and overloading. Excessive heat build-up reduces a tire's strength and increases the risk of premature tire failure."

The Tire Industry Safety council reminds owners of travel trailers, truck campers, camping and boat trailers and motor homes of the three major "don't" when it comes to caring for their tires:

1. Never "bleed" hot tires to reduce air pressure build-up, as pressure increases up to 15 pounds are normal.

2. Never overinflate beyond recommended limits in an attempt to compensate for overloads. Instead of making matters worse, lighten the load of the vehicle. No one ever needs everything he packs.

3. Never drive on underinflated tires.

As owners are beginning to ready their vehicles for warm months ahead, the council recommends that now is time to carefully inspect the tires for excessive or abnormal tread wear, fabric breaks, cuts or other damage. Removing nails, small stones or bits of glass embedded in the tread will help prevent flats or costly tire damage which can lead to failure. Tires should be replaced when tread is worn to 1-16th inch or less.

The council is offering free of charge a "Recreational Vehicle Consumer Tire Guide." The guide contains information on the proper care of tires, charts covering load range and inflation pressures, and tips on how to increase the mileage and safety factors of the tires. The guide may be ordered by writing to "Recreation," Box 723, New York, N.Y. 10010

Auto Theft Is Serious Problem For Minnesota

Automobile theft continues to be a serious problem in Minnesota, where 13,241 cars were stolen last year, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund pointed out this week. These thefts accounted for more than 10 per cent of all reported crimes in the state.

"This means the loss of an average of 36 cars every day of the year," he said. "While the recovery rate is 83 per cent, the fact remains that 2,250 cars were permanently lost to their owners, and there were heavy losses on many of the recovered cars, from stripping, accidents and misuse. Moreover, the cars permanently lost were generally late-model, high performance cars that carried high price tags. They were taken by professionals, and professionals nearly always go for such cars. Altogether, auto thefts cost Minnesotans several million dollars annually.

"A car gets into the theft statistics if it is missing for 24 hours—or more. This generally excludes most of those cars 'borrowed' for casual joy-rides.

"The professionals are highly skilled at taking a car, and the usual door and transmission locks are not much of an obstacle. A person buying a new car should consider other anti-theft devices, preferably of a type that the thief cannot know about in advance.

The driver of a new car should be careful where he parks it. Unsupervised parking lots where the same cars are left each day are favorite hunting grounds of professional thieves. They can choose cars at leisure and make whatever advance preparations may be called for."

The thieves also favor urban areas, he said. Last year, 95 per cent of the thefts occurred in places with populations of 2,500 or more, and 68 per cent occurred in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth.

Anti-Pollution Emphasized In New Ag Program

Anti-pollution and other environmental benefits are being emphasized in the development of the Marshall county rural environmental assistance program (REAP) for 1971, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county ASCS committee.

REAP was formerly ACP—the agricultural-conservation program which has been operative in Marshall county for many years. The name change is the key to the program change. Long-range preservation of the environment and more public benefits are being emphasized.

Lower priority is being placed on conservation practices which are production-oriented or which provide only temporary benefits.

In considering applications by farmers, as individuals or in groups, the county ASC committee will give first priority to those which will best improve the community environment and provide the most public benefits

Encouragement will be given to such farmland conservation measures as ponds, permanent grass cover, buffer strips, and tree plantings, all of which help retain and slow down water and reduce siltation as the water moves downstream. Practices which help reduce pollution from animal wastes, fertilizers and pesticides also will be encouraged REAP will continue to be administered by the Marshall county agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) committee Arthur Vansickle is vice-chairman of the committee with Francis Haack as member.

The ASC committee said every attempt is being made to help farmers and the general public understand how the new rural environmental assistance program can best serve Marshall county.

This is a continuing program with an annual allocation of funds. The committee invites more community participation in planning and carrying out farmland conservation practices under REAP which can provide long-term, tangible benefits to the entire community—such benefits as cleaner water and air, better recreation, green open spaces to help beautify the county, better habitat for wildlife. REAP is an agricultural conservation program for the benefit of everyone, and everyone can be involved in REAP progress

Placement Rate For Job Corps Good In Minn.

Placement rate for Job Corps enrollees in Minnesota was 83 per cent during the 1970 fiscal year, a U. S. department of labor official announced today.

They were placed at an average hourly wage of $2.03, according to Emery J. Biro, the labor department's assistant regional manpower administrator for Job Corps.

By law, the labor department's manpower administration counts as placements Job Corps men and women who are placed in jobs, in school or in the armed forces.

There were 86 Job Corps youths available for placement in Minnesota. Virtually all returned to their homes after training at one of the eight residential centers of the Job Corps' Region IV, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

These include men's urban centers at Camp Atterbury and Edinburg, Ind.; a women's urban center in Cleveland, a residential manpower center in Cincinnati, and conservation centers at Golconda, Ill.; Branchville, Ind., and Blackwell and Laona, Wis. A new residential manpower center is scheduled to open in Detroit this winter.

Biro pointed out that Job Corps members who completed their training had a much better chance of placement—and at a higher average hourly wage—than those who dropped out.

Of enrollees from Minnesota completing training, 95 per cent were placed. Their average hourly wage upon placement was $2.37.

Noncompleters who spent 90 days or more in the Job Corps had a placement rate of 83 per cent and received an average of $2.12 an hour.

For noncompleters with less than 90 days, the rate was only 73 per cent and the average hourly wage $1.63.

The nationwide placement rate for Job Corps enrollees for the fiscal year was 81 per cent—up five per cent from the previous year. The placement rate for Region IV was 86 per cent, Biro said

WOULD A FENCE HELP?

If we could build a fence around the world, would we respect our limitations and live happily with one another? Would we stop wars? Probably not!

You can fence in physical objects but not the minds and hearts of mankind.

Nor can we be forced to live in peace. Peace comes through practicing love, faith and tolerance—an understanding of God and His Church. Then, remember World Day of Prayer. Determine not to build a fence around yourself, or around anyone else. Instead, enlarge your horizons through the common voice of prayer.

What better place to start than in the Church?

"A man is obliged to teach his son a trade, and whoever does not teach his son a trade teaches him to become a robber. The person who has a trade in his hand is like a vineyard which is fenced in, so that cattle and beasts cannot get in, or passers-by eat of it." —Talmud

It Gets Old Fast

Say, how about that crowd of concerned taxpayers in attendance at the last negotiating session between the teachers' council and the board of education. We mean the one on Monday at 5 p.m. in the school auditorium.

A couple of weeks ago the crowd was conservatively estimated at 500 people. The next session produced about 300 spectators. A 4 p.m. session a few days later brought out about 75 people. The 5 p.m. meeting on Monday was attended primarily by interested faculty members, with a scattered few other interested people.

Admittedly, the sessions have not been highly entertaining. If they were televised they would rank somewhere between the "Three Stooges" and "Gumby" for adult entertainment. But they are more relevant at this point than they were at the beginning, because negotiations are being made and the gap is narrowing.

Do people care less about their tax statements now than they did a couple of weeks ago? Are they better able to meet their obligations now that they were then? Is the farmers' plight less crucial now than it was at that first meeting? Can the person on fixed income now see a solution to the tax squeeze that he couldn't see when negotiations started?

Or did the people who attended the first meeting or two come to the realization that "holding the line" isn't as simple as it sounds? Did they determine that in grabbing on to the end to "hold the line" frequently causes them to be dragged along with it, and so they let go instead?

Or did attendance at two meetings "show em we were concerned" and fulfill an obligation which will let the conscience rest for the remainder of the year?

How influential is the Northwest Taxpayers association? How really concerned are its members? Where is the "support" offered earlier to the school board?

Isn't it amazing how taking your own time to go to a public meeting is an experience that gets old fast? In our opinion, the depth of taxpayer concern was easily measured by attendance at the four meetings mentioned. It gets shallower with every step.

The Tax Picture

If you think taxes are taking away a lot of your earned income, you're right. If you hope things will soon get better, don't count on it. Some interesting information is included in this report from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

It's easy to see what the term "good old days" means when you look at the history of tax growth in this country.

Even the year 1960, when per capita taxes were more than $600, would qualify for this description compared to the present. A National Chamber study shows that in the current fiscal year, governments at all levels will collect an estimated $1,175 in taxes for every man, woman and child. This averages out to more than $3.20 for every calendar day of 1971.

Despite predictions of bankruptcy of our cities and states which bring calls for federal revenue sharing, these smaller political units have been raising taxes at a faster rate than Uncle Sam. Federal taxes, which have doubled in the past 10 years, were surpassed by the two-and-a-half times increase at state and local levels.

At the beginning of this century, the federal, state and local govenments were averaging $17 from every American. But the passage of time—plus some tax-raising measures—saw this figure soon become a memory.

Real growth in taxes, however, took place since 1940, when per capita taxes were $96. In 1950, the average tax load jumped to $337 and in 1960, it stood at $628.

Federal income taxes produce the bulk of all tax receipts. In the past fiscal year they totaled $123 billion. This is nearly double the $62 billion collected in 1960 and almost five times the revenue from this source in 1950.

Difficult as it may be to believe, the federal government in 1940 was realizing only $2 billion from the income tax.

Some other findings and statistics of the National Chamber study are:

The $48 billion in taxes collected by the states during the fiscal year ending in 1970 will go up by more than 16 per cent this year, when an estimated $56 billion will be taken in.

In 1970, all but 12 states increased taxes in one form or another, with sales, income, alcohol and tobacco, and motor fuels being the major taxes raised.

Local governments will again look to the property tax for most of their revenue. The $35 billion expected to come from this source into both state and local coffers represents a per capita tax of $176 for every American.

The National Chamber sees a trend toward more municipalities turning to nonproperty taxes as a source of revenue, such as sales or income taxes. About 3,000 local governments are now imposing sales taxes, and 19 cities with populations of over 150,000 are levying one form of income tax or another.

State governments have long used both these taxes as vital ways of raising revenue. At the beginning of 1971, 41 states were imposing personal income taxes, and 45 states had sales taxes. Almost half of this latter group had rates of 4 per cent or higher, and National Chamber tax experts foresee the possibility of some of these rates climbing as high as 9 per cent by 1980.

The property tax provides about 40 per cent of all tax collections of state and local governments, and the demise of this revenue producer is not in sight. A modernized version of this tax, however, could be expected to make property tax systems more equitable and efficient in many of the states.

What We Produce

Minnesota has the lowest school dropout rate in the country, according to a recent survey of the National Education association. NEA reports that 93.4 per cent of the students entering the ninth grade in Minnesota in the fall of 1965 graduated in the spring of 1969. This compares with a national average of 78.8.

Expanded vocation programs in Minnesota schools and the good overall health of Minnesotans were cited as major causes for the high ranking.

Minnesota also ranked first in "least number of rejections for failure to pass selective service pre-induction and induction tests in 1968". Only 1.6 per cent failed to qualify as opposed to the 11.8 national average.

These statistics seem to indicate that Minnesota is producing a highly educated product in terms of people. Our kids nearly all go through high school and very few of them have any trouble with military tests. Our post high school education program, however, may be in need of revision.

The state advisory council on vocational education makes a very valid point when it states: "The best educated, best trained individual who cannot find employment is just as frustrated....as the school dropout with no skills or talent." Representatives of the council have repeated this theme in speeches to various Minnesota groups recently.

For instance, last June 2,800 college graduates with a professional degree and credentials to teach found no need for their services in Minnesota. The advisory council says that Minnesota is a supplier of degree-trained people for other states but imports some 7,000 each year for the labor market.

It costs Minnesotans a lot of money to operate the state's education system. For that money we produce more degree people than we need and many fewer tradesmen than we need. Does it seem unreasonable that we should make some adjustments in our thinking so we can educate tradesmen who have a future in Minnesota?

Recently we interviewed applicants for a position at this newspaper. We found quite a number of people looking for work, but our interviews were all with degree people looking for a job—and most of them wanted A job, not necessarily THE job.

One applicant said that his wife was considering returning to school to obtain a master's degree. With the job situation as it is, however, she was tending more toward vocational courses which would help her find employment.

Another applicant told how a relative had graduated from college with a four-year degree, sought employment through the summer, then enrolled in a vocational program in the fall, hoping to gain training which would qualify him for employment.

Perhaps it is time to give a little more attention—no, a lot more attention—to the needs of our state and the needs of our students as they prepare for the future. Times change. Needs change. Situations change. Can't education change?

A gardener can devote his whole garden to producing the finest, highest quality gourds in the state, but if he can't sell them because nobody wants them, what good has he accomplished. Perhaps our education system has been too occupied with raising gourds. Probably we should use some more of our ground for corn and potatoes.

Dear Editor:

Beware everyone about the "Peace Symbol" as some people call it. It also has another nickname called "Love Symbol" but it is really called "The Broken Cross" the symbol of the communists peace is very well known symbol. It was called "The Witch's Foot" in the middle ages and it was a common symbol of the Devil. With the cross reversed and broken it is embroidered on clothes for Americans to wear. It can also be worn on a chain, in the hair, even on a ring and so on. But every symbol of "The Broken Cross" that is publicly displayed is noted gleefully by the godless communists, who can see how thoughtless and vulnerable the Americans really are.

Everyone who wants America free so they can worship God in their own way and also if we love our children, we all should help destroy the Broken Cross of the Anti-Christ.

Yours Truly,
Mrs. Merrill Skoglund

Gentlemen;

It seems odd when you write Thief River Falls on a paper it causes that paper to sink to the bottom of the barrel.

If you write a shorter name of a town on the same paper it floats on top.

This explains why in our Thursday night drawings so many names of outlying towns are called.

With the people living in Thief River Falls and the five mail routes with a T.R.F. address making up 85 per cent of the names in the barrel, we only draw 25 per cent with a Thief River Falls address.

Thank you
Frank Armstrong

Dear Mr. Editor,

Attached is a copy of a letter that I have sent to several of our local lawmakers, as well as the governor and others that may be concerned with a return of property tax on business inventories, etc. It seems that a return of that tax would hurt your town a lot more than it would do good. I would appreciate it if you could publish this letter attached.

Very truly yours,
Arnold C. Espeseth
Winger, Minn

copy of letter follows:

Dear Legislator:

As implement dealers, we want to go on record as being against H. F. No. 232 and H.F. No. 659. Both bills would be a step in the wrong direction and against the well being of implement dealers, their employees and any other business that must carry a large inventory. It may cause a cut-back in the supply of parts available at the St. Paul Parts Depot in our case. This would also be the situation for many others in business.

It seems to me that the farmers and businessmen in the farming areas have enough pressure on them now without adding more. You know as well as we do, that business and farmers alike are losing out every day. I personally know of many businessmen that have quit and some have had to even file bankruptcy due to the poor business climate and poor profit picture we already have, due to dealing with underpaid farmers.

It is easy for our legislators who are doctors, insurance men, attornys and school teachers, to decide who should pay the bill; certainly not their group. None of them are in a position where a property tax would directly hurt them. It looks like they are out to feather their already soft nest. As in the case of a good percentage of the school teachers, they are not even familiar with real estate tax. It appears that the sponsors of this bill must be representing themselves rather than the rank and file.

Our employees feel the same as we do, so we all plan to sign this letter...and we do request a reply immediately so we know how you plan to vote. Let's get with it! Defeat these two unjust proposals.

Very truly yours,
Arnold C. Espeseth

Great River Road Is "Spine" For Recreation Area

Newly proposed national recreation area, is expected to lean heavily on previous legislation calling for the development of the Great River road.

Congress recognized the need for the recreation area as early as 1954, when the federal aid highway act was passed, which in part set forth plans for the building and improvement of the Great River road.

According to a field task force report conducted by the department of interior and the Army Corps of Engineers on the national recreation area (N.R.A.), the Great River road and the N.R.A. are expected to complement one another. The Great River road is expected to provide the needed north south access throughout the proposed N.R.A.

[illegible], task force chairman, speaking in Chicago this time last year to interested persons and organizations said, "The Great River road is the 'spine' to the proposed N.R.A."

The Great River road is intended to be a scenic highway along the Mississippi from the Gulf of Mexico and extending into Canada. At present it is a series of connecting highways bordering the river which afford the traveler the most scenic views. The project has been awaiting state and federal funds for improvements.

The Mississippi river parkway commission and Great River road association have been working toward the development of a roadway and parks along the Mississippi river since 1939. Due to their efforts the public is already partially aware of the scenic, historic and recreational opportunities that are available in the newly designated N.R.A. which will include land and waterways in the Mississippi valley from St. Paul to St. Louis.

The proposed N.R.A. is expected to hasten the development of the Great River road on the upper river only.

National Litter Index Registers 4-Point Decline

Minnesota highway department announced that for the second consecutive year, the national litter index registered a four-point decline from the previous year level, as reported by the national anti-litter organization, Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

The 1970 index stands at 94.27. This compares with 98.26 for 1969, 102.82 for 1968, 101.45 for 1967, 101.41 for 1966 and 101.91 for 1965. In 1964, the first year it was recorded, the index was 100. The base figure is 100.

The index, compiled annually by [illegible], is based on the cost of litter removal from state roads compared with miles traveled on those roads by motor vehicles. The litter removal costs are supplied by the 50 state highway departments, and mileage by the U.S. department of transportation.

The cost of collecting roadside litter in the 50 states has increased some 70 per cent in the past seven years—from $19,687,733 in 1963 to $33,444,938 in 1969. Rising labor and equipment costs are largely responsible for the steep rise.

Master Plan For Environmental Education Set

Natural Resources Commissioner Robert Herbst and Education Commissioner Howard Casmey have issued a proposed master plan for environmental education for the state of Minnesota.

The master plan was prepared by a committee, appointed by the two commissioners, consisting of 10 people representing a cross section of interests. It culminates two years of study by various groups.

The committee recommends that the Minnesota state legislature appropriate funds of $1,077,118 and the federal government contribute $901,580 for environmental education in the next biennium.

According to the report, the funds are needed in Minnesota in order that citizens develop a better understanding and an appreciation of the environment which will be reflected in their attitude toward quality surroundings.

The 1969 legislative session passed a bill charging the departments of education and natural resources to develop [illegible] teaching materials. The state plan seeks the funds to fulfill that obligation. The two departments have developed experimental teaching materials being evaluated in 12 school districts across the state.

According to the proposed master plan, the prime objectives of the state should be:

To assess existing teaching materials and develop new programs where voids exist;

To provide comprehensive environmental education training for the teacher and community leader; and

To develop and conduct community education programs on environmental problems.

The committee recommends that a research and development group be established on a regional basis.

Under the terms of the legislation proposed by the committee, $600,000 of state funds would be appropriated to the department of education and $477,118 would be appropriated to the department of natural resources. The additional $901,580 of federal funds, to be allocated to the department of education, would bring the state total expenditures for the two years to $1,978,698.

"We can not stress enough the importance of this program to the citizens of the state of Minnesota", Commissioner Herbst and Commissioner Casmey said in their joint statement.

"Environmental education is a life-long process", the statement said, "and we are well past the time when we should start that process in earnest".

Study City Government

City government was discussed for two sections of ninth grade social studies last week at Franklin junior high school by Robert Carlson, president of the Thief River Falls city council. Peter Hess and Mike Froehle, seated to the immediate right of the speaker's podium, in the photo below, were in charge of the extra credit project. The boys asked nearly 20 specific questions about the working of city government and the role of councilmen in conducting city affairs. About a month ago the class also heard from Mayor A. E. Jacobson. "The kids thought it was really interesting and said they learned a lot from it," Hess said about the project. Carlson was impressed with the questions asked and said he was happy that youngsters show an interest in local government. Calvin Lindberg, instructor for the class, is pictured at left. Minor Points Accepted As Teacher Talks Continue

Citizens' Group Will Be Heard By School Board

Appearance of a citizens' group regarding housing of Mark Twain elementary students for the coming school year is on the agenda for the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education. The session will be held tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the local school district's problem of space for students in existing buildings with a representative of an architectural firm. Consultation with the architect's representative had been approved at an earlier meeting of the board.

Review and approval of the monthly financial report and presentation of Supt. L. M. Johnson's report are also scheduled.

Officers of the Northwest Taxpayers association have again encouraged members and others interested to be in attendance at the meeting. It was not announced whether or not the association will have another formal statement to present at this meeting as it has at two previous meetings.

Enforcement Of Parking Laws To Be Intensified

Announcements regarding enforcement of parking regulations in Thief River Falls have been made today by Roland Waller, chief of the Thief River Falls police department.

Effective immediately, drivers who double park in the business district will be subject to receiving a parking ticket and subsequent fine. The problem has been particularly acute in the area of the post office, Chief Waller said, and postal patrons are advised to park at the curb or in the city lot immediately south of the post office property.

Also subject to parking tickets will be cars parked on the wrong side of the street in the residential area of the city.

New parking tickets are now being prepared for use by the city police department and will be put into use in the near future. Although they will have the same appearance as the previous tickets, they will provide for an automatic penalty for non-payment of parking fines beginning 10 days after issuance. The penalty will be incurred without further notice.

Chief Waller said the intensified enforcement of parking regulations is designed to prevent traffic tie-ups, improve the traffic flow and contribute to safety of both motorists and pedestrians.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? If the photo above looks like what you think it is but you don't want your family or friends to think you're in need of psychiatric help turn to page 10 for an explanation.

Acceptance of two minor points and rejection of several other proposals by the teachers' negotiating council took place at the negotiating meeting held Thursday in the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria. The council then presented its fifth proposal to the board of education for consideration. Next negotiating meeting will be Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Lincoln school.

The teachers' council accepted the board's offer of sick leave at the same level as this year and dropped its request for income protection insurance. Sick leave is 12 days per year, accumulative to 130 days for 185 day contract, ranging up to 15 days per year, accumulative to 160 days, for 240-day-contract.

The council also tentatively accepted the offer of one day of personal leave per year upon gaining tenure in the local district.

Rejected was the board's offer of credit of up to $30 per month toward full hospitalization, existing pay schedule for extra-curricular activities and $150 annual increment above the 1970-71 annual contract for all teachers except those at the maximum step of the BA and BA plus 15 lanes. Teachers on extended contracts would have the increment prorated.

The board's salary offer differed from its previous offer in that teachers on the maximum step of the BA plus 30 and BA plus 45 lanes would receive the increment. Under the previous offer, no BA teachers on the maximum step would have been granted the increase.

Board chairman Mervin Prestebak read the board's prepared statement which included the following:

"....your fourth proposal has been analyzed by the central office staff whose findings indicate that the basic salary schedule is some 11.0 per cent over this year's salaries. The dollar cost amounted to $206,935 over the present year's expenditure.

"Since the extra-curricular pay schedule is more or less a matter of salary, it too was costed and found to be some $24,711 in excess of the existing schedule. (This was later corrected to state that the $24,711 was a total figure rather than an increase.) This amounted to a percentage increase of 12.3 per cent. The average teacher's salary, computed from your proposal, amounted to $10,982. The average salary for the 1970-71 schedule is $9,507.

"The board of education accepts the fact that they must provide the best education for the amount of public funds available to the school district. They are of the opinion that your request exceeds the [illegible] resources of the community. Therefore, they hereby reject your proposal...."

In discussion at the meeting, the teachers' council rejected the hospitalization offer since it placed a dollar limit per month on full coverage. The board

Almost 2,000 more people than in 1969 boarded North Central Airlines flights at Thief River Falls in 1970 to give the company a record boarding rate here of 7,667 passengers.

In addition to the 1,926 more passengers, air freight carried on-board at Thief River Falls in 1970 nearly doubled, going from 29,368 in 1969 to 52,090 pounds in 1970. Air freight off-loaded here by the air carrier increased in the two years from 120,125 to 201,589 pounds.

An average of 638 passengers per month left Thief River Falls by air in 1970. (The average number of passengers per month in 1969 was 478.) Passengers arriving in 1970 totaled 7,521, an average of [illegible] per month, an increase from the 5,693 passengers who arrived during 1969.

Unofficial statistics available for January and February of 1971 show a record high number of 774 passengers boarding here in January, while 681 passengers arrived here. Figures for February show 625 passengers boarding and 678 arriving.

In January 19,494 pounds of air freight were boarded here and 25,690 pounds were unloaded. February totals were 22,120 pounds loaded and 13,580 pounds unloaded.

February Record Shows Warm, Dry Weather

On February 17, Thief River Falls recorded the highest temperature for the year's second month during the past eight years when the mercury climbed to a balmy 41 degrees above zero. In fact, the average high temperature of 17.9 for February 1971 was exactly one degree above the five-year average.

The lowest temperature recorded in Thief River Falls during February was a minus 20 on the eighth and ninth, which was the warmest monthly low temperature recorded for February in the past five years. Lowest high reading was -10 on February 7 while the highest low was 25 on the 26th.

The biggest change in the temperature reading during February came on February 8 and 9, when the mercury dipped to 20 below on the evening of the eighth and rose to 17 above during the day only to drop back to a minus 18 degrees the night of February 9. That was a change of 37 degrees between the night and daytime readings.

The average temperature of 9.3 was higher than the five year average of 8.72 for February, while the average low during last month was .01, which is warmer than the .48 average low over the past five years.

Nine of the 12 days with readings below zero during the month came in the first nine days of the month when five of those nine had temperatures of 16 below or worse.

February was also an almost snowless month here as only a trace of precipitation on February 9 marred the final 24 of the month's 28 days.

The following is a summary of the temperatures and precipitation during the month, as supplied the Times courtesy of the weather observation station at the North Central airline terminal at Thief River Falls.

Lowell Swenson

Arctic President Aids Experiment In Education

Lowell T. Swenson, president of Arctic Enterprises, Inc., was one of 23 major Minnesota company executives who spent three and one-half days recently in Buffalo, Minn., in an experiment in continuing education.

Their attendance marked the launching of a major new top executive course sponsored by the University of Minnesota's department of continuing education, part of the U's general extension division.

The seminar dealt with corporate strategic planning, and was phase one of a unique program to be offered over the next several years, designed to have impact on top-level corporate thinking and decision making. The next phase, known as the Minnesota executive program, involves a six-week course to be offered to next-level managers.

According to Dr. John Mauriel, director of the department of continuing business education, the learning objectives of the course are "to help business firms increase their awareness of environmental trends and to improve their policy making skills."

"We are undergoing a managerial revolution", Mauriel emphasized, "and this program was designed to keep managers abreast of the explosive change around them as well as knowledgeable in the latest techniques and methods for effectively mobilizing and directing their corporate resources toward the achievement of socially desirable and economically profitable ends".

Announce Meeting On Red Lake River

Meeting on considered water management alternatives for the Red Lake river sub-basin has been set for Wednesday, March 31, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium in Red Lake Falls.

Information from Col. Charles I. McGinnis, district engineer for the U.S. Corps of engineers, states the following:

The flood and related water problems of the Red Lake river subbasin are being studied by the corps of engineers as an interim survey under an overall Red River of the North survey program which the Congress of the United States directed the Corps of Engineers to make in Congressional public works committee resolutions adopted in 1950.

In order that the study may be responsive to the desires and needs of affected or interested parties, a public meeting will be held as indicated above. The purpose of this meeting is to exchange information concerning flooding and related questions, including ecological and environmental problems in the study area, and their possible solutions. A map of the study area is attached.

Recurrent flooding of urban developments in the city of Crookston and downstream agricultural areas along the lower Red Lake river valley comprise the most critical problems in the Red Lake river subbasin. In addition, the Red Lake river contributes greater flood flow volumes to the Red River of the North than any other tributary.

One objective of this interim survey is to reduce flood damages sustained by downstream urban and agricultural areas along both the Red Lake river and Red River of the North. Another objective is to provide the additional water-oriented recreation opportunities desired by residents of the Red Lake river basin. Augmentation of low flows during critical periods to meet future municipal and industrial water supply needs as well improved water quality is another important objective.

To achieve these objectives, several alternative reservoir storage sites on the Red Lake river and its tributaries have been considered both singly and in combination. As partial alternatives, several possible means of reducing flood damages at Crookston alone, have been thoroughly investigated. These

J. Iverson and D. Grovum Marriage Vows Exchanged

Miss Judy Anita Iverson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Iverson of Goodridge, and David L. Grovum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Obert Grovum, also of Goodridge, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, January 23, at 2 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church in this city.

Rev. Bruce E. Anderson, pastor of the Goodridge Lutheran parish, officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by approximately 300 relatives and friends. Presiding at the organ was Mrs. James Dalager. For the processional, she played Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze" and Lohengrin's "The Bridal March." The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Mrs. Dalager also accompanied Mrs. Arnold Hammer as she sang, "Song of Ruth," "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a white, bridal satin, floor-length gown featuring an empire waistline and full bishop sleeves with wide cuffs. Venice lace marked the high-rise waistline, edged the rounded neckline and flowed down the center front of the bodice and skirt. Matching lace edged the bottom of the skirt and encircled the full peacock train attached at the waistline. Scattered across the sleeves, bodice, skirt and train were white lace, miniature daisies. Her bouffant veil of white bridal illusion fell from a hand-made petaled headpiece enhanced with pearls, crystals, sequins and touches of lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, white stocks and lilies of the valley, accented with greens.

The bride's personal attendant was Miss Linda Moritz of St. Hilaire, a friend.

Mrs. Harold Skreland of Chisholm, the bride's sister, Elaine, was matron of honor. She was attired in a princess styled, floor-length gown of violet bonded crepe, fashioned with short cap sleeves and an empire waistline trimmed with coordinating sequined braid. Matching velvet ribbon formed the triple bow that held her brief headpiece of violet tulle. She carried a nosegay of pink baby roses, stocks, and gladioli complemented by babies' breath and green fern.

Miss Karen Bendickson of Thief River Falls was maid of honor and Miss Gloria Skreland of Grand Forks, N.D., was bridesmaid. Both are friends of the bride. They were attired identical to the matron of honor as was Miss Rosalee Iverson of Goodridge, niece of the bride, who served as junior bridesmaid.

All of the attendants' gowns and headpieces were made by the bride and her mother.

Attending the groom as best man was Bruce Hanson of Thief River Falls, a friend. Groomsmen were Tom Lewis of Goodridge, Owen Hagen of Grand Forks, N.D., friends of the groom, and Howard Vigen of Grygla, a cousin. All were attired in black tuxedos, white formal shirts and black bow ties. The groom's boutonniere was a white rose. Deep pink carnation boutonnieres were worn by the attendants and the ushers: Leon Iverson of Goodridge, Allen Iverson of Chisholm, brothers of the bride, Danny Haack of Grygla, cousin of the groom, and Wayne Holle of Bemidji, a friend of the groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a navy blue, double-knit dress with black and white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a navy-blue, two piece ensemble complemented by pink and black accessories. Both wore identical corsages composed of pink roses, white stocks and greens. A similar corsage was presented to Mrs. Lena Iverson of Goodridge, grandmother of the bride, who attended the wedding as special guest.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Serving as reception host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Iverson of Thief River Falls, brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Henry Waale of Goodridge. The cake, iced in white and trimmed with pink roses, was topped by a white triple wedding bell ornament. Mrs. Allen Iverson of Chisholm, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Ervin Vigen of Grygla, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake as Mrs. Leon Iverson of Goodridge, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Frances Haack of Grygla, aunt of the groom, poured.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Neva Overton of Goodridge, a friend of the bride. At the punch table were Miss Julie Hagen, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Gene Paulson, cousin of the groom. Both reside at Bemidji. Roxanne Iverson of Goodridge, a niece of the bride, distributed the groom's cake and rice bags.

Miss Patty Vigen of Alexandria, a cousin of the groom, was in charge of the gift table, assisted by the gift carriers Nancy Iverson of Chisholm and Rhonda Iverson of Goodridge, nieces of the bride.

Waitresses were Peggy Haack of Grand Forks, N.D., cousin of the groom, and Miss Marilyn Vezina of Roseau, a friend of the bride. Presiding in the kitchen were Mrs. Odwin Blackstad, Mrs. Justin Dahlen, Mrs. Harry Paulson and Mrs. Alice Skreland, all of Goodridge.

For traveling on the wedding trip, the bride wore a light blue pant suit which she had made. Black accessories completed her attire.

The bride is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and prior to her marriage, was employed as insurance clerk at the Thief River Falls Clinic, P.A. The groom is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. He was employed at the Thief River Falls post office until entering the United States Army in August of 1970. He is currently stationed with the 16th base post office at Presidio, San Francisco, Calif.

Following a two week visit with families and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Grovum are at home at 15 Hermann Street, Apartment 206, San Francisco, Calif. Photo, Rev. Wesley Mathre, Viking.

James Aune Will Compete In State Oratory Contest

James Aune, senior at Lincoln high school, won the District Nine American Legion oratorical competition at Ada recently and was awarded the District Nine championship. He will be one of ten students in the state to contest in Minneapolis on Friday.

Aune's winning speech is entitled "No Need For Revolution" and his extemporaneous address at the district level dealt with the right of congress to raise revenue.

Each year, the American Legion sponsors a high school oratorical contest for students across the nation. Contestants write an eight to 10-minute memorized oration on some phase of the United States Constitution and also present a three to five-minute extemporaneous speech on a topic drawn from an article or amendment to the Constitution. Each school is allowed to send one contestant to the district finals and district winners advance to the state contest.

James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnt Aune of this city, has been an active participant in speech activities at Lincoln. His accomplishments in contest speech include winning the 1970 Region Minnesota State High School League speech contest in the field of original oratory, the 1971 UND original oratory competition, and sixth place in the 1970 State High School oratory competition.

In addition, James has been a member of two Region 9 contest-winning plays, "Impromptu," and "Three Actors And Their Drama." He earned the right to enter the state debate tournament in 1969 and in 1971. He has performed in several high school plays including "Romeo and Juliet," "Under Milk Wood," "A Thurber Carnival," "The Night Is My Enemy," "Caesar and Cleopatra," "Glory Man," and "Spoon River Anthology." He acted as student director for "The Heiress."

His other activities include membership in the concert orchestra, editorship of the "Lincoln Log," and membership in the National Forensic league. This year he was named finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

For winning the district contest, James was awarded a $70 scholarship. Prizes at the state level include a $750 college scholarship and region entry rights, leading toward the national finals. James is coached by Michael Tillmann of the Lincoln high school language arts department.

features from the kitchen of
Mrs. Orville Dahl
918 Horace Avenue North

Kitchen Karnival wishes to extend congratulations to the Girl Scout organization of Thief River Falls celebrating its 50th anniversary this week.

We especially wish to pay tribute to the many homemakers in this community who have assisted the organization by serving, without monetary remuneration, as officers, leaders, advisors and chairman. Sacrifices of personal time and comfort have been made. (No doubt many of the leaders have had the experience of breaking-up camp during a pouring rain.) Today's leaders are still giving of their time to train young girls how to work and play together and to accept responsibilities, not only to God and their country, but also to mankind. These women, like the girls who have and still are conscientiously participating in the scouting program, are among the "unsung" leaders of the community.

Today's recipe comes from Mrs. Orville Dahl, a local woman who has actively participated in the Girl Scout program for the past nine years. We are grateful to her for sharing her versatile cake or bar recipe with us.

Flat cake

1 cup raisins
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda to hot water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups regular flour
½ cup nuts (optional)

Method: Combine raisins and water and simmer for a few minutes, until raisins are tender. Cool. Cream sugar and shortening, add eggs and mix well. Combine spices and flour and add alternately with the cooled raisin and water mixture. Bake in a greased and floured jelly roll pan in a 350 degree oven for 15 minutes or until done.

Mrs. Dahl stated that for a regular cake, she omits the nuts and bakes the batter in a 8 x 12 inch pan.

Carmel frosting

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup cream
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Method: Combine the sugar, cream and salt. Cook until soft ball stage. Add vanilla and beat until spreading consistancy.

Mrs. Dahl became actively interested in scouting when her oldest daughter, Linda participated in the program from Brownies through the 12th grade. Realizing the need for leaders, Mrs. Dahl served as leader of a troop for six years. For the past three years, she has been treasurer of the local council. In addition she has also been in charge of the cooky and calendar sales. The Dahls have four children: Linda (Mrs. Randolph Strain) who is residing in this city with her son, Randolph, while her husband is serving with the United States Army in Okinawa; Alison, who also participated in the scouting program and is now employed in Moorhead; Gloria, a Cadet, who is in ninth grade, and Stuart, an eleventh grader at Lincoln.

Mr. Dahl has been employed by Brodin Sheet Metal, Inc., for the past 24 years.

Mrs. Dahl stated that her work in scouting, her church (St. Bernard's) and her family, keeps her fairly occupied. She concluded by saying that she was content with her role in life. (How many can make that statement?)

The official population of the state was 3,805,069 up 11.5 per cent from the 1960 population count which was 3,413,864.

The 1970 census counted 5,353 white persons in Red Lake county, 99.4 per cent of the total and 35 persons of other races.

The census showed 498 children under 5 years; 1,690 in ages 5 through 17; 2,494 people 18 through 64; and 706 who were 65 and older. The population 14 years and over included 2,298 married people, 313 who were widowed, 33 divorced, and 1,081 never married. Red Lake county's 1970 population was classified as 100 per cent rural.

There were 1,529 households, with 5,312 persons, including 256 one person households. In addition 76 persons were living in group quarters.

The 1970 census counted 1,675 housing units in Red Lake county, 1,254 of them occupied by owners, 275 occupied by tenants and 146 vacant. These included vacant units for seasonal use. The proportion occupied by owners in 1970 was 74.9 per cent, compared with 72.4 per cent in 1960.

Among year round dwelling units there were 1,484 single family house, 115 housing units in multi unit buildings, and 62 mobile homes or trailers. The percentage of occupied units with more than one person per room was 11.8 compared with 17.5 in 1960. Of all the occupied housing units, 1,259 had piped water, toilet, and bath, while 270 lacked some or all plumbing.

The median value of owner occupied houses in Red Lake county was $7,700, compared with $6,500 in 1960. The median rent paid by tenants in 1970 was $57 per month. Half were over and half below the median figures.

These results are from two 1970 census advance reports for the state: PC (V2), General population characteristics, and HC (V1), General housing characteristics. The reports, which contain additional 1970 census data for the state and various areas within it may be purchased at nominal prices from the superintendent of documents, U.S. government printing office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from offices of the U.S. department of commerce in major cities.

Few Districts Near Tolerance In Apportionment

Only four of Minnesota's 202 state Senate and House districts presently come close to meeting the "one man-one vote" criteria of the U.S. Supreme court, according to 1970 census data supplied by the Minnesota analysis and planning system (MAPS). Senate District 67 has 44,746 people, including 19,799 in House District 67-A and 24,949 in House District 67-B.

Populations totaled by MAPS at the University of Minnesota for each district show that only four are within one per cent of the ideal populations, which are 56,792 for each of the 67 Senate district, 29,185 for each of the 105 House districts and 56,270 for each of the 30 at large House districts. The latter include Senate districts 4, 6, 34 through 42, 60, 62 and 63 with each at large district electing two representatives.

No precise judicial rulings on deviations allowable from the ideal figures are available, Professor John S. Hoyt Jr., MAPS director, said. But only 10 of the present districts would deviate three per cent or less from the ideal populations and 29 would deviate five per cent or less.

Districts deviating one per cent from the criteria include:

Senate—25.
House—26B, 41A, 41B.

Districts deviating three per cent from the criteria include:

Senate—2, 30, 41, 44, 54, 56
House—3B, 0A, 17B, 28A, 53B, 54B.

Districts deviating five per cent from the criteria include:

Senate—3, 9, 20, 43, 53.
House—2A, 2B, 3A, 7A, 9B, 45A, 47A, 53A.

Three professors have been named by the university to serve as a coordinating committee to make 1970 census data, computer programs and computer facilities available to the 1971 legislature. The committee includes Hoyt, who is also program director for systems development for the agricultural extension service; John Borchert, director of the center for urban and regional affairs; and Frank Verbrugge, director of university computer services.

"The committee will help insure that access to data and related computer usage will be at a minimum cost to the legislature, will eliminate unnecessary duplication of effort and will be available on a prompt and timely basis," said Verbrugge, committee chairman.

MAPS provides sociological and economic data to state and local government agencies, the University of Minnesota and state colleges to enable policy planning, research and aid in solving administrative problems.

MAPS is administered by the university's agricultural extension service and has been designated as a summary tape processing center for 1970 population census data by the bureau of the census. Census data is available to individuals and organizations at low costs because of the efficiency of computer processing of special requests for information, Hoyt said.

ANSWERING QUESTIONS about city government was the task of Robert Carlson, president of the Thief River Falls city council, at the ninth grade social studies class of Franklin junior high school. A wall-mounted United States flag made appropriate framing for the speaker.

Oklee Elevator Begins $60,000 Improvements

The roof of the No. 2 plant of the Oklee Farmers Cooperative Elevator Company was raised 14 feet last week in preparation for upgrading of facilities to speed up service to farmers.

The roof job was one of several improvements now under way in a $60,000 project involving grain and fertilizer handling.

Raising of the roof was done to allow space for new equipment including a scale, elevator legs and loading spouts which will operate at a sharper angle from the greater height to speed the loading of box cars.

The driveway at the No. 2 plant will be remodeled also. Meanwhile, feed grinding and other activity in the plant is continuing without interruption.

Other improvements to be made are the installation of a 20-ton bulk fertilizer holding bin where mixed fertilizer may be held for quick delivery, a hydraulic side dump twin loader capable of loading four tons in two minutes into the company's fertilizer spreader, and a spray coupe for custom spraying.

Manager Gary Mitchell said that if crops warrant the cooperative is considering the construction of an annex to the elevator, probably within the next five years, as well as increasing grain drying facilities by about three times.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, the cooperative had total grain and merchandising sales of $1,152,948.56 and net returns for the period of $36,637.76.

ASCS Measuring Service Offered To All Farmers

Farmers who want measurement service are encouraged to request this at the same time they sign up for the wheat and feed grain program, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county ASC committee.

When a farmer obtains measurement service from his county ASCS office, he is guaranteed he will be in compliance with the acreage requirements of the farm programs he has signed up for, if he stays within the measured and staked acreage.

Producers may request acreage measurement for any farm program purpose but almost all requests come from farmers who want to be certain of compliance in the feed grain and wheat programs.

This year, participants will want to be sure their set-aside and conserving acreage is correct. Feed grain and wheat program participants may want the acreage of these crops measured if they are not certain they have planted enough acreage to maintain their base or allotment history.

When a farmer participates in the 1971 set-aside programs for wheat and feed grain, he certifies to the required set-aside and conserving base acreage on his farm and lists the acreage planted to the other crops. Errors in certification can result in reduction or loss of payments.

Training Course For Appraisers Set In Warren

Assessing and appraising is the subject of a basic training course to be held at Warren March 16-17 and March 23-24 to train new assessors, appraisers, assessors who feel they need a refresher course and for interested taxpayers.

The course, to be held at the American Legion hall, 424 First Street, will cover property tax law, assessment procedures, classification of real property, the new Minnesota Building Cost Manual, and property record cards.

John M. Krueger, appraisal supervisor for the Department of Taxation and a member of the University of Minnesota Extension Division faculty, will be the course instructor. During the class sessions, lasting from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., he will also cover map reading and property description, ages of homes, market data approaches and will conduct an appraisal demonstration.

Because the course is limited to only 40 students, advance registration is a must, according to Norman Hagen, Marshall county assessor. Those interested in the course should write Hagen at the Marshall County Court House, Warren, Minnesota 56762.

The $20 fee, payable on registration, covers tuition and lunches. Two textbooks are also required for the course.

Minor Points Are Accepted In Negotiations

stated a $30 per month limit in its proposal, permitting all married teachers to receive family coverage, whether or not heads of household.

The existing pay schedule for extra curricular activities was rejected since the teachers' group prefers the salaries to be set at a percentage of the minimum BA base salary. The board proposed that any increases be negotiated on an individual basis.

Clarification was sought on the summer school salary payment which has been at the rate of two-thirds the monthly salary of instructors involved. Question was as to which salary schedule would apply. The board explained that the 1970-71 contract would be in effect until July 1, at which time the 1971-72 contract would become effective.

The fifth proposal presented by the teachers' council calls for a BA minimum of $7,300 advancing to $11,100 after 12 years. BA plus 15 would start at $7,600 and rise to $11,700 while a BA plus 30 would start at $7,900 and increase to $12,250 after 12 years.

"All other lanes would have 13-year service maximums and salary ranges would be from $8,200 to $13,200 for BA plus 45, $8,600 to $13,600 for MA, $8,900 to $14,000 for MA plus 15 and $9,200 to $14,500 for MA plus 30.

According to the council's estimate, the total salaries under this proposal—exclusive of extra-curricular pay or fringe benefits—would be $1,970,700.

Lions Eye Bank Has Helped 450 Eye Operations

March is the 18th anniversary of the Minnesota Lions eye bank and has been proclaimed in a proclamation signed by Governor Wendell Anderson.

Since the inception of the eye bank, 2,448 eyes have been received from donors in Minnesota; 450 have been used in cornea transplants and other eye operations, the balance being used in various teaching and research programs.

The Lions eye bank is located at the University of Minnesota and with the team work and cooperation of the department of ophthalmology under the direction of Dr. John Harris, has been able to perform many successful transplant operations. One is the case of a young man of 19 who had a history of blurring vision since the age of 13 which became increasingly worse, diagnosis was Keratoconus. He started wearing contact lenses at the age of 17 but these proved unsatisfactory and he was unable to continue his college studies.

Six months after his first examination, he received a corneal graft in his left eye, followed in six months with a corneal graft to his right eye when he was 20 years old. His corrected vision came back to 20-20 in both eyes. He was able to resume college, graduate and enter the teaching profession. He has married, has a family and is continuing his academic pursuits. This would not have been possible had he not had the opportunity to have corneal transplants.

This successful transplant is only one of many which have been made possible since the inception of the eye bank and the eye donor program.

Over 20,906 Minnesotans have become eye donor card carriers indicating their wishes that upon their death their eyes be used so others may see.

Donor cards are available from local Lions club members. James Parkins of Thief River Falls is a director of the eye bank from Lions District 5M3.

Red Lake River Meeting Set At Red Lake Falls measures include improvement of the existing city levee system at Crookston, development of a flood bypass channel, and evacuation of the entire flood-plain area of the city.

Preliminary studies indicate that levee improvement could provide adequate flood protection for Crookston, while a multiple-purpose reservoir impoundment created by a dam located downstream from Huot (see attached map) would meet a broader range of water management problems. Reservoir development would have some adverse social and environmental consequences. Lands would have to be acquired from those now residing in the reservoir area, some dislocations would be involved, and wildlife habitat and other environmental losses would result from reservoir clearing operations.

Discussion with representatives of all concerned interests, will provide a sound basis for selection of the best water management alternative and for minimizing the potential adverse social and environmental consequences of that choice. All of the above questions will be discussed at the meeting and the views of all concerned agencies, organizations and individuals will be welcomed.

All interested parties are invited and urged to be present or represented at this meeting, including representatives of federal and non-federal public agencies, agricultural, commercial, industrial, business, transportation and utilities interests, civic, ecological and environmental, boating, recreation and fish and wildlife organizations, and interested or concerned citizens, property owners and other interests.

All parties will be afforded full opportunity to express their views and furnish specific data on matters pertinent to the study, including technical, economic, ecological and environmental material. Where appropriate, statements should be supported by factual information.

For accuracy of record, all important facts and statements should be submitted in writing, as well as orally. Written statements may be handed to the presiding officer at the meeting or may be mailed beforehand to Col. McGinnis.

Mailed statements should indicate that they are in response to this announcement. All statements, both oral and written, will become part of the official written record on this study and will be made available for public examination. Address is: Col. Charles I. McGinnis, Department of the Army, St. Paul District, Corps of Engineers, 1210 U.S. Post Office and Custom House, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

This public meeting can be supplemented later by other meetings with smaller groups if there is a desire for such meetings. We hope that through discussions of the water problems and alternatives a plan can eventually be evolved which will best meet the needs of the people of this area and which will gain the approval of the State and all other concerned interests.

TRF Man Heads MEA Group In Appleton Investigation

A stubborn school board and an autocratic superintendent have combined to create a hopeless attitude by Appleton residents toward their schools and have left teachers with scant alternative, reports the Minnesota Education association (MEA).

With this as the gist of an investigating committee's report, the directors of the MEA have levied sanctions against the Appleton school district.

The investigating committee chairman is Robert Reeve of Thief River Falls, high school vocational counselor and the chairman of the MEA's professional rights and responsibilities (PR-R) committee.

Other members are: Joe Eikmeier of Willmar, high school teacher and a representative to the MEA board of directors from the MEA's central division; Conrad Stai of Montevideo, high school teacher and president of the Montevideo Education association (one of MEA's nearly 500 affiliated locals); Lowell Tornquist of Marshall, education department, Southwestern Minnesota state college, and Dr. James P. Connerton, director of the National Education association's north central regional office in St. Paul.

This is the first time the MEA has invoked a sanction against a school district following a full and formal investigation, according to its president, Robert F. Arnold, Richfield sixth grade teacher.

Included in the MEA board action are:

. An alert to teachers throughout the area that unsatisfactory professional conditions exist in the Appleton public schools and that anyone considering employment there carefully consider the decision,

. Provision for assistance to members presently employed in seeking employment elsewhere, and

. Authorization for withholding of services "in accordance with proper procedures under Minnesota law."

The action by the governing body of the state's dominant teacher organization supplanted one in January "to apply sanctions pending a full formal investigation" of the Appleton school district—which is in Swift county near the South Dakota border.

The five-member investigation team found "the educational climate of the Appleton schools and community unacceptable" for five reasons:

(1) The school board "has lost sight of its purpose - providing quality education for children."

(2) The school administration "does not have the confidence of board members, teachers, or citizens."

(3) The teacher-board bargaining law (the Meet and Confer law) "is not adequate to resolve the impasse that results from one party's refusal to comply with the intent of the law."

(4) The school board and community "misunderstand or have been misinformed concerning some significant issues, such as salary schedule structuring and school budgeting."

(5) "The community hopelessly accepts its plight."

Before making five recommendations, the investigators group their detailed findings under several headings: The School Board, The Administration, The Law, Misunderstanding, The Community, Present Status. Highlights from each:

The School Board

A school board must recognize that being concerned only with costs "can destroy a fine school as it can destroy a business."

"The Appleton board of education did not appear before this investigating committee. This fact alone casts great doubt on its concern for education or even its interest in solving the current impasse."

The investigators point out that the board rebuffed efforts of a 25-member "Blue Ribbon" citizens' committee to help bring about agreement, adding, "The committee's recommendation should have been entirely favorable to the board because the recommendation was for the teachers to accept the board's last salary proposal.

"The faculty did accept the recommendation, but the board chose instead to ignore this 'compromise' and hold teachers on last year's salaries, thereby proving to all parties that the board was in total authority and the public should mind its own business.

"The board clearly indicated by this action that it is not working for the welfare of the school. Rather, the Appleton board of education seems bent on destroying what was once a very adequate school system."

This section concludes: "To further establish the unbending and arbitrary position of the board, it should be noted that the funds necessary to effect a settlement with the teachers had been budgeted.

"The taxpayers of Appleton, whom the board claims to be protecting, are paying for a satisfied faculty but aren't getting one."

The Administration

The superintendent, who also did not meet with the investigators, "is viewed as autocratic both by faculty members and citizens. Consequently, he has not been able to play a mediating role in current negotiations."

The superintendent lacks ability in personnel management and frets away time on insignificant details, the investigators report, while "New teachers complain that they were not given the complete story on the existing strife in Appleton before signing contracts, nor were they given proper orientation to school procedures in the fall."

The investigators also comment concerning the superintendent that "Although many of the citizens and teachers interviewed believed that the superintendent had contributed to the school board's difficult position in negotiations, it is obvious that he has little influence at this point."

The Law

"The Appleton board of education has never accepted the intent of the 'Meet and Confer' law and. The board's only concern is to maintain its authority at all costs."

Misunderstanding

"In spite of the vast publicity, citizens of Appleton claim they still do not know what the disagreement is about. Some citizens claim they do not know how much their taxes will go up if the teachers' demands were to be met.

"One misunderstanding centers around salary schedule structure. The community cannot grasp the reason that the Appleton board's proposed schedule is completely unacceptable to teachers."

As a result of such misunderstanding, the investigators say, "The board is openly discouraging the veteran, experienced teacher, the teachers that schools are built around.

"Some persons interviewed actually believe that the board wants the school to function yearly with only new, inexperienced and inexpensive teachers."

The misunderstanding revolving around the tax issue, the investigators claim, "is almost irrelevant (because) the money already has been assessed."

The Community

Residents are "more interested in low taxes than in the continuation of good education" while many are unaware of the seriousness of the situation and believe "it will blow over." Some who could exert leadership are reluctant to do so for fear of splitting the community or for fear of endangering "person, job or social standing" although a few "have worked hard and have taken some risks to promote an agreement."

Others are even more hopeless, with some believing the problem "will have to get worse before it can get better."

"The concerned citizens and teachers who can move," the investigators found, "are considering moving to new locations to raise their families."

Present Status

Most of the teachers are working on last year's salaries, which means "beginning teachers are being paid more than those with two and three years of experience."

"If this happens again next year," the section continues, "there will be mass confusion and total demoralization of the teaching staff.

"Up to one half of the faculty may leave Appleton after this school year."

Saying that they unanimously conclude the MEA should impose sanctions against the Appleton public schools, that the educational climate is unacceptable and that there's no apparent local solution to the dilemma, the investigators recommend that such sanction should not be removed "until the following conditions are met":

I. Board members must indicate by their actions that they realize the importance of shared decision making and the intent of the "Meet and Confer" law and that they will assume a leadership role in bringing quality education to Appleton.

II. The administrative pattern of the system must be modified to reflect a more democratic and more effective school management.

III. A salary schedule must be developed that is competitive with schools of comparable size and resources.

IV. The community must demonstrate it is ready to work for and support good education.

V. All parties must develop realistic means of communicating their needs to others.

March 15 Is Tree Order Deadline

March 15 is the deadline for ordering tree seedlings for spring planting from nurseries operated by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

William Aultfather, director of lands and forestry, said limited quantities of white spruce, black spruce, jack pine, balsam fir, black walnut, caragana and soft maple are still available.

Tree order forms are available at division field stations, county extension agents and ASCS offices. They can also be obtained by writing the Director, Division of Lands and Forestry, Department of Natural Resources, Centennial Building, St. Paul.

Prices on all tree seedlings are $15.00 per thousand and no orders are accepted for fewer than 500 trees. A 3 per cent sales tax is also added to the price of the trees.

Trees are either shipped by express from one of three state nurseries at the expense of the purchaser or may be picked up at the nursery.

Trees are to be planted for such conservation purposes as wind breaks, shelter belts, Christmas tree plantations, wildlife cover, reforestation or to control soil and wind erosion.

They may not be planted for ornamental purposes.

Corporation Tax Deadline Noted As March 15th

March 15 is the deadline for filing returns of corporations with a tax year ending Dec. 31, 1970, according to George Lethert, IRS district director.

Corporations must file a 1971 income tax return on Form 1120 or an application for an automatic three-month filing extension on Form 7004 by that date.

If a return is filed, or an extension of time is requested, at least 50 per cent of the balance of tax due must be deposited in an approved commercial bank or a federal reserve bank.

Form 7004 must be signed by a person authorized by the corporation to do so, generally an officer, Lethert indicated.

WINNING AWARDS for his salesmanship and service at the recent annual convention was Don Thompson, pest control operator for Lystad's Chemicals and Pest Control in Thief River Falls. Competition was among 117 service salesmen of Lystad's in a 16-state area.

Thompson Earns Company Trophy

Don Thompson, Thief River Falls, claimed the top award recently at the annual convention of Lystad's, Inc., in Omaha, Neb., and earned another trophy as well.

Thompson was named pest control operator of the year in competition with 117 Lystad pest control service salesmen from 16 states, covering 84 cities from the Canadian border to Dallas, Tex., and Chicago, Ill., to Salt Lake City, Utah.

The award was based on Thompson's performance in commercial pest control, chemical sales, pest product sales, household pest control, most new contracts, fewest contract cancellations and fumigation.

Along with the trophy goes an expense-paid trip for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson to the national pest control conference in Boston, Mass., this fall.

Thompson was also awarded the quota toppers' trophy for excellence in five departments and the Purdue university extension course diploma for pest control and entomology. He is the first pest control operator in the state of Minnesota to successfully pass the examination for the master pest control operator's license.

The service area in which Thompson won his awards covers the area from Hallock to Halstad and Mahnomen to Baudette. He emphasizes that his company is concerned with safe and effective use of pesticides and rodenticides, using only USDA approved products. Thompson and other Lystad's employees attend an annual training program to receive current information on regulations governing use of these products. The company has its own entomologist, microbacteriologist and engineering department.

Headquarters of the company is in Grand Forks, N.D., with C. W. Bohlman as president of the firm which has been in operation for 60 years. Regional offices are located in principal cities in the 16-state area.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their daughter Kathy live at 121 North Pine avenue in Thief River Falls and are life-long residents of northern Minnesota.

Bergland Gives First Speech On Floor Of House

In his maiden speech on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives today, 7th District Congressman Bob Bergland described the nation's depressed economy as "farm led and farm fed" and said there can be no hope for an improved general economy "as long as the agricultural economy remains at depression levels."

To support his statements, Bergland told his colleagues that each year farmers normally: "Spend $5 billion on equipment, buy more fuel and lubricants than any other single industry, purchase rubber products equal to tires on 7.5 million cars, and consume more electricity than the cities of Chicago, Detroit, Washington, Baltimore and Boston." He also noted that farm prices, at 68 per cent of parity, "are the lowest since the depths of the 1930's depression."

Bergland added: "The resulting loss of purchasing power has had a severe impact on the total national economy." As specific examples, he cited high unemployment in farm related industries and a 15.4 per cent decrease in earnings of the farm equipment industry.

Bergland also told fellow House members that low farm income is "the major factor in forcing people to leave farms and small towns and stream into the already overcrowded and financially troubled cities. The same cities," he added, "that came to us last week pleading for help to prevent their total collapse.

"If farmers were to receive a fair income, an additional $20 billion would flow into the nation's economy; there would be a substantial increase in nonfarm employment, and it would certainly slow the exodus of people out of the countryside."

IRS Will Figure Tax For Elderly

If your 1970 income is from salaries and wages, dividends, interest and pension and annuities, is under $20,000 and you can claim the retirement income credit, you can ask the IRS to compute your tax.

This could help elderly persons who have difficulty with retirement income credit and tax computations—the largest single type of error made by taxpayers last year.

If you want IRS to figure your tax, file Schedule R with your return, filling out lines 2a or 2b and-or lines 5a or 5b, and write "RIC" on line 22 of the form 1040.

When the tax is computed a refund or bill for tax due will be sent to you.

Bergland Speaks On Farm Problem At Winter Shows

Speaking at the Red River Valley winter shows in Crookston this week, U.S. Representative Bob Bergland said: "It's time to take a good hard look at what the countryside will be like during the next decade." Bergland added that "time is running out and we had better act now."

Bergland asked his audience to "look around you and see how old the average farmer is getting. The young people are gone," he added, "and if we don't start encouraging the young to start farming—there won't be any farmers left."

Bergland, while chiding those who say "there isn't any hope," said "under present farm programs and credit policies, we can't blame the young for leaving the farm. If a young man can get credit to start farming these days, it usually means he's so rich he doesn't need any help. But there aren't many, if any, people like that around," he added. To encourage new farmers to get into the business, Bergland said "there must be a complete revision of farm credit policies."

"We must be willing to gamble that, when properly financed, a young man can make it in farming. We must underwrite the initial costs, defer his payments until he is on his feet, and make those payments reasonable," he said.

"Of course," Bergland continued, "we also have to get to the root of the farm problem. Sixty-eight per cent of parity is disastrous, the present farm program is unacceptable. The farmer must receive a fair return on his investment and specialized crops like sugar beets must be expanded," Bergland said. "Congress is gradually awakening to the problem and, if we pool our power, action will be taken."

New Stamp Will Be Issued Soon

A six-cent stamp commemorating blood donors and to urge increased participation in the program will be issued March 12 at New York, N.Y., on the opening day of the INTERPEX international stamp and coin show.

A poster-type stamp, the design has "Giving" in red, "Blood" in blue and "saves lives" in blue, against a lighter blue background. Initial printing is 130 million.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may submit orders to the Postmaster, New York 10001, plainly indicating the full name and address, including zip code, with remittance to cover the cost which is six cents each. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed, "First Day Covers 0 cent Blood Donors Postage Stamp." Orders must be postmarked no later than March 12.

Leaders' Council Meets Last Week

Pennington county 4-H leaders' council met on March 1 at the courthouse meeting room with President Don Bruggeman presiding.

Adult leader training meetings are to be held at 7:45 p.m. on March 10 and 18. Topic of the March 10 meeting is "Work With Youth and Learn What Your Job Is". Jorgenson Solos In BSC Oratorio Bemidji Civic Oratorio society and Bemidji state college music department will present Johannes Brahms' "Ein Deutsches Requiem" (The German Requiem) March 14 at 4 p.m. in Memorial Hall on the BSC campus. Katherine Kenfield is solo soprano, with Phil Jorgenson of Thief River Falls as solo baritone.

With over 150 voices and 50 musicians from the college and community involved in the production of the famous requiem, Dr. Paul Brandvik notes that the English translation of the work is a particularly melodious and singable score.

Death Is Topic Of Program For People Of Area

A unique program called, "Let's Talk About Death" will be offered to the general public free of charge, at 8 p.m., Monday, March 22, in Kiehle hall auditorium of the University of Minnesota technical college in Crookston.

The program is intended to give the audience an insight into the emotional and practical considerations faced by people who have experienced a death in the family.

Dr. John Brantner, U of M clinical psychologist, who has studied and lectured extensively on this subject, will be the principal speaker. His talk will cover such subjects as understanding grief and acquainting people toward preparing themselves in facing the crisis of losing someone close to them.

The program format is designed to give the audience ample time to raise questions related to death and dying.

Dr. Brantner states that "the subject of death is often avoided by most people and yet touches everyone sooner or later. Many times people are unprepared to cope with the problems and anxieties created by a death in the family finding themselves at a loss to meet the crisis."

It was this concern shared by Dr. Brantner and other leading professionals that prompted this program to be offered to the public free of charge. Sponsoring agencies offering the program are the Northwest Mental Health center; agricultural extension division; the U of M department of mortuary science, and the Minnesota Funeral Directors association.

Today's farmer, using an automatic bale wagon can pick up, stack and haul as many as 3,100 hay bales in an eight hour day, according to engineers at New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand.

Girl Scout Week

Where a number of organized activities are available to boys of most age groups, girls often find themselves on the outside looking in. Girl scout programs help provide a direction and purpose for young girls as well as giving them that "something to do" which is so necessary for active young people.

This is the 50th anniversary of the Girl Scout program in Thief River Falls. Depending upon its leadership and other factors over the years, Girl Scouting has had its periods of high performance and low interest. At the present time the number of girls enrolled seems to be at a high point and programs are being carried out in good fashion.

Many communities do not have the great good fortune of having a facility such as Camp MOE, provided by Mr. and Mrs. Mons Engelstad. This area and its improvements over a period of several years have provided camping experiences for a number of people. Not only do the Girl Scouts use it, but handicapped youngsters have used Camp MOE for a day camp to the delight of many.

Many of us would do well to abide by the Girl Scout Promise and the Girl Scout laws which follow:

The Promise:
On my honor, I will try:
To do my duty to God and my country,
To help other people at all times,
To obey the Girl Scout Laws.

The Laws:
A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted.
A Girl Scout is loyal.
A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others.
A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout.
A Girl Scout is courteous.
A Girl Scout is a friend to animals.
A Girl Scout obeys orders.
A Girl Scout is cheerful.
A Girl Scout is thrifty.
A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word and deed.

Taxes To Double?

Persons convinced that the spending of government has already caused them to ride the road to ruin will be really dismayed by this prediction by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Your family's income will jump 60 per cent during the 1970's, but don't plan on spending that amount until you hear from your tax collector. Taxes during this same period will rise 100 per cent, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce reports.

Robert S. Statham, the national chamber's taxation and finance manager, says that a family of four with a $10,000 income last year will be earning $16,000 in 1980. But federal, state and local taxes will double during this same period, partly as a result of the phenomenal rise in state and local government spending.

To show how state tax receipts are growing, Statham points out that the $48 billion collected by states this past fiscal year is 14 per cent more than the previous year. Income taxes imposed by states showed an even higher jump—22 per cent from 1969 to 1970.

Proposed federal revenue sharing won't meet taxpayers' problems, Statham continues. Forecasts several years ago of a "national dividend" to finance revenue sharing have not materialized, and any additional money for states and municipalities from Uncle Sam must be either at the expense of existing programs or from higher federal taxes, he warns.

Outdated Rights?

The Committee for Effective Crime Control is circulating the following statement and we agree with its thoughts:

The Bill of Rights was adopted to insure that the rights of the people would be preserved.

The First Amendment, guaranteeing freedom of religion, speech, the press, and peaceful assembly, does not stand alone. There are other amendments, but we think the Second ranks in importance only to the First.

The Second Amendment guarantees that the right of the people to keep and bear arms, so necessary to the security of a free state, shall not be infringed. Though organized militia duty currently falls only upon draftable males, the militia remains vital to supplementing the regular armed forces and the National Guard in time of war, such as the present.

By guaranteeing the right to keep and bear arms, the founding fathers insured that the country would be able to rely upon its citizens to defend their rights against external and internal danger. Subject to regulation of degree of force, it has always been lawful to defend one's life, one's home, one's family, and one's country. The founding fathers knew that the armed citizen was a deterrent to possible tyranny of individuals, of cliques, and of governments. We cannot assume that tyranny is a thing of the past.

Yet this American birthright is threatened. There are those in our society who wish to erode and nullify this part of the Bill of Rights by outright elimination or by choking it with red tape. Not only the sportsman or the man who believes his home should be defendable, but you have a stake in this right.

If one part of the Bill of Rights is cast aside, how long will the other rights last?

Honeymoon Is Over

The following editorial appeared a short time ago in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Nobody knows it better than Gov. Wendell Anderson, but for him the honeymoon is really over. And it didn't take long.

Regardless of his efforts to inspire support throughout the state, the feelings of the populace must be glaringly clear. He has already been labelled as "Spendy" Anderson and the people he is supposed to govern are in no mood to go along with a budgetary increase that approaches a billion dollars.

Already the governor has been challenged to a debate by the majority leader of the house of representatives—the man who is influential in the legislative body that controls taxation in our state. But, as of the time of this writing, "Spendy" had not responded. Frankly, the Herald does not blame him because his present position is practically indefensible.

The long and the short of it is that the people of Minnesota, particularly those in the rural areas, are not about to accept a 30 per cent increase in state spending. They are paying for increased costs on every political level, most notably in the area of local education. Costs of municipal, township and county government are also going up. A major increase on the state level will not be greeted with much enthusiasm.

For Gov. Anderson the honeymoon is really over. Suddenly realism is the big thing for him, in all areas. Promises of reduced taxes during the campaign now appear to be a myth. Disguised and concealed juggling of the state's tax structure are not fooling the people. Elimination of some deductions, as recommended by the governor, fail to confuse an enlightened electorate.

It is time for the governor and the members of the legislature to realize that the people of this state are prepared for a decrease in state services and a reduction in the expansion of state institutions in preference to continual increases in taxes on every level.

Reasons For Failure

A noted psychologist was asked to give the reasons why so many people failed in their efforts to make life successful. The great mind scientist penned ten frank and valid reasons. Try them, and see if they fit into your life:

1—Finding fault with the other fellow but never seeing our own faults.
2—Doing as little as possible, and trying to get as much as possible for it.
3—Spending much time showing up the other fellow's weak points, and too little time correcting our own.
4—Slandering those we do not like.
5—Procrastination—putting off until tomorrow something that we should have done day before yesterday.
6—Deceit—talking friendly to the other fellow's face and stabbing him in the back as soon as he turns around.
7—False belief that we are smart enough to reap a harvest of pay before a crop of honest service.
8—Disloyalty to those who have trusted us.
9—Egotism—the belief that we know it all, and no one can tell us anything.
10—Last, but not least, lack of necessary training and education to enable us to stand at the head in our line of work.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I have read numerous editorials on taxes and the school. But most not worthy, I would like to refer to "Not Only Here", Times issue February 24, 1971.

First, if "Make Do" were to work, it should have started in Washington, D.C., with the increase in 1954 of the president's salary from $75,000 to $100,000 per year. But with a touch of inflation at that time, it seemed justifyable. With the arrival of Mr. Nixon as President, the salary raised from $100,000 to $200,000. As a conservative, I ponder, justifyable?

Second, if "Make Do" were pressed too hard, it could lead to unemployment and a trend of migration from our community, such as we've had in our rural areas; thus, less taxpayers to support the tax problem.

But most notable of "Make Do": it's the first article I've read suggests a solution, and is not mostly prejudice. It has inspired me, and I hope others, to write suggestions.

As a wage earner for 25 years, with a gross income of $6,500 in 1970, I would suggest a per cent school district income tax, based on federal adjusted net income. Because wages within a district could be very easily kept in order by a withholding slip. Also, farmers and businessmen could use a carbon copy of their federal tax times the per cent equals the school tax.

I feel income tax is the most fair tax I have ever paid. When you consider the elderly on meager retirements. The plight of the farmer last season, and other disaster struck homes; also the migratory who lives in a tent or trailer never paying any real tax, but whose children are being educated at the cost of the real estate tax payer.

Over my 25 years as a wage earner, I have invested small amounts into farm land. Other fellows I work with have invested in endowment insurance, savings bonds and bank saving accounts. I pay a school related tax on the land now, which is my only savings account. One could suggest a tax on saving account and create another unfair tax; how about some other suggestions, fellers?

Now for the villian of high taxes, "inflation". Inflation is caused by big profits on businesses, farm production and other business, high wages and mismanaged government spending. Thus school income tax would take from the villian inflation. The proceeds used to roll back the school mill rate on real estate, and take the pressure off the elderly and other disaster-struck homes. This would stop shoving the people that have supported our schools, so far, out in the cold.

As an able-bodied worker I have no complaint about my present tax. But I see in the future this amount, if the present trend continues, will not "Make Do".

Then I also suggest a small, "Make Do" by the school board, administrators, and school personel of our education system, which I believe is the best ever in this world.

My big regret is that I am not 30 years younger, so I could take advantage of this great educational opportunity today.

Sincerely,
Archie Ptacek.

Editor, The Times

From a geographical distance I observe with interest the concern that the people of Thief River Falls have shown regarding skyrocketing local taxes and specifically teachers salaries. May I respectfully suggest to those concerned citizens not to vent their spleen on the teachers but turn instead to the real culprits, the outrageous seizure of tax funds by the welfare operation in Pennington County.

I have always been in favor of weeding out the unfit teacher from our teaching staffs. I have always decried the total absence of incentive to quality teaching which has been so prevalent in the past. Elimination of these unfit teachers can be accomplished by abolishing the system which blankets in the incompetent teacher with the competent and gives them both the same remuneration. The demoralizing effect is to rob the competent teacher of the vital satisfaction of knowing that he or she is doing a good job. Nothing can be more self-defeating. When this system has been abolished however, I don't think any tax-paying citizen will begrudge the remaining competent teacher a salary which is commensurate with the tremendous service which that teacher is contributing to your children and mine.

On the other side of the coin we have the inroads that the welfare load has made upon our public costs. Needless to say, welfare serves a vital need in protecting the needy from want. What I refer to is the increasing segment of the welfare load which we all realize is totally unjustified because the people receiving such aid are not in the category of need. I need not go into details on this but if 500 concerned taxpayers would converge upon a welfare meeting and extract some of the horrifying details of unwarranted expenditures, they might temper their feelings about what they consider "Exorbitant teachers salaries".

Teachers are a vital influence on your children and I for one would hesitate to put a price tag on that commodity. On the other hand, welfare abuses only lead to more welfare abuses with its destructive effect on human morals.

The dedicated teacher has a value to the community beyond all calculation and I for one regret this attack upon the instructors of our children.

Very truly yours,
Grundy Aakhus

To The Editor:

A doctor stated in a popular farm magazine recently, with reference to abortion, that, "everything is relative." So is she! or could have been!!

If a woman does not have an abortion the result could be irreversible psychological problems. The fact that you kill a fetus denotes that you are well educated and possess sound psychological balance. It also relieves an unwanted child of growing up unloved.

After all if a responsible woman cares at all for the rest of her family and the state of the population explosion she has no choice. Instantaneous death is better than adoption.

The pill misses or your other method slips and you can't take the burdens of another child. What choices are there.

Let's consider a relative case of rape. It's much easier to educate a woman that has been raped that killing the fetus is much better for all concerned than completion of pregnancy and possible adoption because, again, people will remember you with that way-out front physique or that long trip to your Aunts and the social stigma attached, but will quickly forget the long weekend at your sisters.

So many of the fetuses in penal institutions are there because they were unwanted and unloved youngsters and had to make compensation by reacting illegally. How much better this country would be if these fetuses could have been aborted and saved us all the costs of trials and imprisonment.

A mental institution, we could cut down on the cost of their administration tremendously if their occupants would have been aborted when their mother got sick. After all we know who should live and who should die. What is this world going to come to if we don't terminate some lives?

Let's point out that the great advantage of fetus killing is—that we have not seen it and we, the American people have a hard time identifying with that which we cannot see. We are intellectual, educated and realistic people. What ever makes us most comfortable—do it!

Why don't we expand this line of logic and also eliminate the people now in penal and mental institutions—few of us see them. Many of them are unwanted and unloved, as stated earlier, and look at the psychological problems they cause their families, friends and society; not only with their actions, but with the social stigma attached.

What a blessing if the dope addicts could have been aborted.

If we can just come up with an educated process by which we can foretell which fetuses will be loved and wanted and be good and the ones that will be unwanted and unloved and turn out bad, so we can eliminate the latter. We will have reached our ultimate goal.

We shall promise never to seek the solution to reasons why the woman will have psychological problems if the fetus is not liquidated nor why the person really commits a crime, nor why a person really needs dope.

How comforting to think back over pleasant memories and then wonder how many times your mother thought of killing YOU.

As for me I'll just abort the question and then the problem will cease.

Sincerely,
Gary Pederson

To The Editor

As a very concerned taxpayer and the parent of a first and third grader, I would like to express an opinion on the overcrowded classroom situation at Mark Twain Elementary School. Many are wondering why suddenly in one month's notice there is no room for 200 students. Has the possibility been explored to move the ninth graders to Lincoln High School? It would seem to be less of an adjustment for older children to accept such a major change.

I am definitely against busing small children across town to school after they have walked 4 blocks to Mark Twain. It seems unfair to build and move into a neighborhood close to a new school just to have them sent across town for three years.

Remodeling and renting an old building for three years use seems wasteful of money, and it is questionable how HOT the hot lunches would be if delivered to another building.

What I am in favor of is an addition to the present school to accomodate all the children. It is my understanding this would not involve a Bond Issue.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robert (Janet) Henry

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would like to share with you and the readers of the TIMES, a very insightful poem about schools.

ABOUT SCHOOL

He always wanted to say things, but no one understood.
He always wanted to explain things, but no one cared.
So he drew.

Sometimes he would just draw and it wasn't anything.
He wanted to carve it in stone or write it in the sky.
He would lie out on the grass and look up in the sky and it would be only him and the sky and the things inside that needed saying.

And it was after that, that he drew the picture. It was a beautiful picture. He kept it under the pillow and would let no one see it.
And he would look at it every night and think about it and when it was dark, and his eyes were closed, he could still see it.
And it was all of him, and he loved it.

When he started school he brought it with him. Not to show anyone, but just to have it with him, like a friend.

It was funny about school.
He sat in a square, brown desk
like all the other square, brown desks and he thought it should be red.
And his room was a square, brown room. Like all the other rooms. And it was close and stiff.

He hated to hold the pencil and the chalk, with his arm stiff and his feet flat on the floor stiff, with the teacher watching.
And he had to write numbers,
and they weren't anything.
They were worse than the letters that could be something if you put them together.
And the numbers were tight and square and he hated the whole thing.

The teacher came and spoke to him. She told him to wear a tie like all the other boys. He said he didn't like them and she said it didn't matter.
After that they drew. And he drew all yellow and it was the way he felt about morning.
And it was beautiful.

The teacher came and smiled at him. "What's that?" she said, "Why don't you draw something like Ken's drawing?
Isn't that beautiful?"
It was all questions.

After that his mother bought him a tie and he always drew airplanes and rocketships like everyone else.
And he threw the old picture away.

And when he lay out alone looking at the sky, it was big and blue and all of everything, but he wasn't anymore.

He was square inside and brown, and his hands were stiff and he was like anyone else, and the thing inside him that needed saying didn't need saying anymore.

It had stopped pushing. It was crushed. Stiff. Like everything else.

This poem was turned in to a teacher in Regina, Saskatchewan, by a senior in high school. Although it is not known if he actually wrote it himself, it is known that he committed suicide a few weeks later. I don't know whether to hope this poem means as much to you as it does to me, or to hope that it doesn't. I guess I hope it doesn't.

Sincerely yours,
Robert W. Fleegel

notes from the governor

In the last few weeks, Minnesotans all over the state have been receiving their 1971 property tax statements. In almost every community, property taxes have skyrocketed. In Minneapolis, in St. Paul, in the rural communities and in the outstate towns and cities the story is the same—tremendous property tax increases.

Those taxes were levied in 1970—before this administration took office.

Unfortunately, there is virtually nothing that I, as Governor, or the Legislature can do about 1971 property taxes. But we can and must do something about next year's property taxes.

My budget will reduce your property taxes next year and for the years to come.

In the past we failed to recognize the relationship between state and local taxes.

If the state budget does not properly fund needed local services such as education from a broadly based state tax, then local officials must turn to the only tax available to them—the property tax.

This means an automatic property tax increase. This is what happened this year and in years past. It must not be allowed to happen again.

My budget will not let it happen again. By funding education at the state level in the manner I propose we can reduce property taxes.

It has been said that a vote against my budget is a vote for higher property taxes. A vote for my budget will reduce property taxes. That is the choice.

Much has been written and said in recent weeks concerning the budget I presented to the Minnesota Legislature on January 27.

Some of the comment has been in praise of my recommendations; some has been critical. Most of it has been fair and in keeping with our adversary system of politics.

I do not feel, however, that enough attention has been focused on several features of my budget which vitally affect rural Minnesota.

First, while I have called for revision of the 1967 sales tax law to eliminate excessive personal property tax breaks for certain corporations, I also recommended continuance of the exemption of either agricultural livestock or tools and machinery from personal property tax rolls.

Secondly, I also recommended that the present 25-mill differential between agricultural land and other real property be continued.

Legislative approval of those recommendations, along with other features of my tax program, will go far toward assuring Minnesota farmers and farm-related businesses of an equitable and far less burdensome system of taxation.

I would also point out that under the fair school financing plan I have advanced, the average reduction in real estate taxes in outstate Minnesota will be well in excess of that in the Twin Cities and other high-valuation areas.

I feel confident my school financing proposal will result in an average statewide reduction of at least 50 mills.

In outstate Minnesota the average will be substantially higher, in some cases exceeding 120 mills.

We are developing precise projections for each school district in the state. These will be distributed to all daily and weekly newspapers and other media shortly.

Little Oak . . .

NEWS OF NUTRITION by Thomson
SAYING A MOUTHFUL! Physicians, dieticians and nutritionists generally agree that proper nutrition is achieved by eating a balanced diet. The nutritional value of any one food is only important as it represents one item in the diet.
THE SPICE OF LIFE! By eating a variety of foods, balanced nutrition can easily be obtained, and it doesn't matter whether the foods are fresh, canned, or frozen—all are good sources of nutrition.
CAN DO! "The modern canner," says George P. Larrick, former Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, "packs a product that is of high nutritional quality, by using the most modern procedures and growing special varieties of crops that are harvested at just the right time."

Loris tells it like it sometimes (unfortunately) is.

Mrs. Loris Gaif is a popular speaker on an unpleasant subject. She discusses the nuisance or crank phone call, and how to go about handling it.

During the day, Loris is a customer service group supervisor for Northwestern Bell. But on her own time, she's one of the phone company's Town Talkers. Right now there are 51 of them all over Minnesota. And they speak (at no charge) to civic and social groups, large and small, on topics ranging from the laser to safe driving.

(For more information, or to schedule a Town Talker for your group, just call your nearest Northwestern Bell business office.)

Her speaking takes a lot of Loris' free time. But she thinks that what she does is pretty important. So do all the Town Talkers.

Sickness In Camp . . .

Stoltman Party Has Serious Experience

Part VI

(Sickness is serious at any time, but it is even more so when far from medical help. The Stoltman canoe party experiences this problem in today's segment of the Stoltman diary.)

July 26—East wind again, the temperature has been a high 70, and a low 40. It gets warm in the morning by 7 a.m. as the sun has been out a long time by that time. By 7 p.m., it gets very cool as the sun seems to lose its heating capacity and with all the ice around, it comes very fast.

Went for a field trip of three miles today with Wayne. Found an arctic tern's nest with one egg and one chick. The adults were very aggressive and hit my head a number of times trying to drive me away. Also spotted a snow bunting nest, and black bellied plover nest with two eggs and one chic.

Duane and I went fishing for 30 minutes. I ate in the afternoon and caught five nice trout which the seven of us had for supper. Wayne had some 100 proof liquor and we mixed it with orange mix at 10 p.m. for a night cap. Everybody's spirits went up 100 per cent after that one.

The Eskimo with the C.W.S. crew had a Bible printed in Eskimo. All of their sounds are in symbols and it looked like Chinese to me. Had him read some to me.

July 27—The same wind again today. Had a small rationed noon meal to stretch the food supply. Wayne, Brian and I took a four mile field trip south to a large bay. I took my pack along and we found enough drift wood to cook supper with.

Bob was just ready to cook an instant supper when the Eskimo in our party spied a large band of Caribou coming our way. He and Duane took off in that direction with a rifle and one-third of a mile from our camp shot a young bull. So within one and one-half hours, we were eating Caribou steaks. The seven of us ate a hind quarter for supper, as everyone had as much as they wanted. That's all we ate with some tea.

The mosquitoes were very bad today as it had rained all night and the day was hot and muggy. On some spots the tent was just black and you couldn't tell the color under as they were that close together.

July 28—This morning the wind switched to the west and by 11 a.m. the C.W.S. men were on their way to Baker, as if the wind blew from the west long enough, they thought the ice might have them blocked at the east end of this lake.

The last two days, Einer hasn't felt well and this morning the C.W.S. men offered to take him along in their freighter canoe. But there wasn't any guarantee that they would make it to Baker without being blocked again. His voice was so weak we could hardly hear him speak. He said he didn't think he could make the trip, so we told the C.W.S. crew to let the R.C.M.P. know that we had a sick man on our hands and they should make arrangements to send a plane out to get him.

If they send a small plane, Einer and Duane will go out with it and Bob and I will paddle my canoe to Baker, a three-day trip from here. If they send a big one out, then we'll leave the canoes here and all go out. Bob said he'd come out with an Eskimo later and pick up the canoes. I hope the C.W.S. crew make it without any difficulties as we'll have to sit here until they do.

Had Caribou for supper as they left us a hind quarter and the Eskimo took the rest. Went trout fishing and caught 19 nice trout. The temperature was 65 high, and 40 low. Today was the day we had told the R.C.M.P. that we expected to arrive in Baker, and if we didn't show up they were to send a plane out looking for us.

July 29—A very heavy frost this morning. Everything was white. There was one-eighth of ice along the shore of the lake. The wind was from the southeast. The rescue plane came in at 1:15 p.m. with Wayne as a guide. Einer and Duane and their personal packs is all that they could take out.

Bob and I made a bridle for his canoe and the rest in mine. We were paddling by 2 p.m. and planned on doing so til we got off lake Aberdine. Made three M.P.H. with two canoes.

After 10 miles, we hit pack ice and for 45 minutes, had to maneuver through it to get to shore. After supper, I took a small walk and had a Caribou doe and her calf walk within 30 yards of me. The wind came up slightly from the northwest. If we get the right breaks, we should make Baker lake in a week.

July 30—Started out paddling at 8 a.m. as the wind started lightly from the north at 4 a.m. and it took four hours to blow the ice pack from the north shore so that we could canoe. The wind kept getting stronger and finally we couldn't make any headway so had to quit after making five miles.

We walked to a high cliff overlooking the lake and took some scenic pictures. It was very windy, with gusts of up to 40 m.p.h. Without any trees along the shores, the wind seems to be just about as bad along the shore as out on the lake.

It started raining so we put up our tent to keep dry and cooked some dry pea soup in the tent. Also made up one Whiskey drink. Rolled out our bed rolls and bedded down early and with luck, will make an attempt to strike out whenever the wind dies down as it's light out 24 hours per day.

LYNN OLSON has a wide open net to shoot at during Wednesday night's region eight championship game in the Thief River Falls city arena as Roseau goalie Tim Delmore was caught out of position and lost his balance. Olson scored the Green Wave's only goal of the night with 10:09 remaining in the second period as Roseau handed "East Side" an 8-1 defeat. The Roms will play the region one winner in the opening game of the state tournament next Thursday in Bloomington.

Roseau Tops Green Wave 8-1 For Region Title

Roseau blasted East Grand Forks 8-1 Wednesday night in the city arena to claim its 17th region eight hockey title and earn a trip to the state tournament at Metropolitan Sports Center beginning Thursday afternoon.

The Rams have won 17 of the 27 region eight titles, including ten of the last 11 championships. Roseau will be seeking its fifth state crown, but its first since a 1-0 win over South St. Paul in the 1961 championship game. Terry Abram's number one rated sextet will take on the region one winner in the first game of the state tourney at 1 p.m. Thursday, March 11.

Roseau took a 1-0 lead in the region title game when swift Robbie Harris flipped in a backhand shot from the right side on an assist from Mike Broten with 13:42 remaining in the first period.

The two seniors reversed positions for the Rams' second goal as Broten scored on a backhand from in front with Harris getting an assist with 8:48 remaining in the opening period.

Roseau hiked its lead to 3-0 with 7:21 remaining when Jeff Tengen's shot from a bad angle slid past Goedy Hangsleben in the Green Wave net. Junior wing Mike Hallie was credited with an assist on the play for the Rams.

Merlin Nelson pushed in a rebound shot on an assist from Mitch Brandt with 13:30 remaining in the second period to give the Rams a 4-1 lead before junior Lynn Olson scored an unassisted goal on a breakaway while the Wave was a man short with 10:09 remaining in the second period.

Roseau got the goal back 1:31 later when Harris scored from the right side with the Rams skating a man short with 9:11 remaining in the second period.

"East Side" was caught in a line change with 7:10 remaining in the second period as two Ram skaters broke in on goal with no defenders back to help Hangsleben in the Green Wave nets. The senior goalie came out almost to the blue line to force the play but Tim Favold managed to maintain his balance after going over the top of Hangsleben to put the puck in the open net for a 6-1 lead.

Senior defenseman Mitch Brandt scored the Rams' seventh goal with his backhand shot from the left side with 3:12 remaining in the second period. Gary Ross and Mike Broten were credited with assists on the score.

Roseau added one more goal in the final 15 minutes when Bill Lundbohm scored from the right side on assists from Kent Langlie and Dana Byfuglien with 9:16 remaining in the game.

Hangsleben kicked out 32 shots for the game while the Rams' Tim Delmore came up with 19 saves.

Four TRF Bowling Teams Qualify In Hamm's Challenge

Jesme Brothers has won out over three other bowling teams from Thief River Falls to qualify for a $5,000 bowling prize in the "Bowling Challenge" sponsored by the Theodore Hamm Company, St. Paul.

Jesme Brothers (Service League), Hofles Standard (American League), Consumer's Co-op (City League) and Bridgemen's (Commercial League), at Family Bowl, qualified for a chance to meet the Hamm's Deer team of the Minneapolis Traveling league during league play in January. The teams qualified by beating (with handicaps) the score of 3,243 rolled by the Hamm's team last spring to win the national ABC regular division championship.

Jesme Brothers, whose captain is Mylan Abrahamson, bowled 3,422 in the February house roll-offs that determined the one high team from each establishment from the more than 10,000 teams in the country. In February, Hofles standard, whose captain is Bernard Columbus, bowled 3,273; Bridgeman's, captained by George Hanestad, bowled 3,248, and Consumer's Co-op, whose captain is Tom Greelis, bowled 3,248.

In the January qualifying rounds, Jesme Brothers bowled 3,300, Hofles Standard bowled 3,370, Consumer's Co-op bowled 3,419 and Bridgeman's rolled a 3,248.

From the 10,000 teams across the country, Hamm's will determine the single team that will bowl directly against the Hamm's team for the $5,000 prize.

In March, the challenge team will be brought to the Twin Cities for the head-to-head roll-off with the Hamm's team. A win by the challenge team would earn $5,000, and a tie or loss, $2,500, with another $2,500 going to the Bowlers Victory Legion. The BVL is a group offering assistance to war veteran and handicapped bowlers.

Indians Win Sub District 31 Title

Defending district 31 champion Alvarado toppled Fisher 71-53 to claim the sub district 31 basketball title before a capacity crowd in the Lincoln high school gym Thursday night.

Oslo also advanced into today's opening round of district tournament action as the Bobcats stopped Goodridge 77-60 in the consolation contest Thursday night.

Alvarado never trailed Fisher in the championship game as Charles Pribula put the Indians on top 2-0 with 7:09 remaining to take the lead for good. The Flyers stayed close to the Indians in the early part of the first quarter until Pribula sank two free throws with 3:01 remaining for a 10-4 Indian lead as they led 17-10 after one quarter.

Alvarado increased their lead to 15 points at the half, 39-20, before Fisher came back to trim the Indians' lead to 50-42 going into the final quarter. The Flyers fell behind at the outset of the stanza but battled back to within six, 54-48, on Reed Tinkham's short jump shot with 5:02 remaining. The Indians shot back to a 59-48 lead just 11 seconds later on two fast break lay-ups.

Rykk Nicholls paced the winners with 16 points with teammates Randy Doman adding 16, Charles Pribula 13 and John Honck 10 points.

Glen Petara' Goodridge Huskies stormed to an 11-2 lead over Oslo with 5:05 remaining in the first quarter of the consolation game before an Oslo press forced the Huskies to turn the ball over and enable the Bobcats to climb to within 14-10 at the first quarter break.
